The Trunk Lines Meeting.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7. The joint committee of the trunk lines and the Central Traffic Association, which was convened yesterday, met again to-day and after a session of several hours adjourned to meet in Chicago Aug. 14, when representatives of lake and rail lines are expected to be present. The subject of east bound freights from Chicago to the seaboard was further discussed and it was determined to retain for the present the new uniform bill of lading.

THE TORONTO BUDGET.

STANDING OF THE HIGH SCHOOLS IN THE UNIVERSITY LISTS.

An Owen Sound Boy Heads the Honor Lists and Takes a Double Scholarship —A Queen's Park Sunday Orator Fined —A Cannibal Punished

TORONTO, Aug. 7. The Queen's Park orator, familiarly known as "Dumb-bell," was fined $5 and costs at the Police Court yesterday on a charge of indecent and insulting language. Campbell was in the habit of holding forth in the park on Sunday afternoons against the Roman Catholics and the charge was preferred by the police. He will enter an appeal and was admitted to bail.

The defeat of the bylaw to grant the aid of $300,000 to help in rebuilding Toronto University is the subject of considerable discussion here. The vote was a defeating one generally, and it is the subject of comment here that while many other countries contributed aid to rebuilding of the university, Toronto city, that should naturally be most interested in the institution, refused to contribute a cent.

Jake Ryan, a deck hand on the steamer John Hanlan, is earning considerable notoriety as a life saver. On Aug. 3 he was instrumental, with two other members of the crew, in rescuing two men and a woman from drowning opposite the Brock-street elevator, and yesterday saved another life. While playing around the Northern elevator with a companion, a 12-year-old lad named Richard Bond fell off the wharf. Ryan observed the accident and dived from the steamer's deck to the rescue. The boy had been in the water several minutes before Ryan could locate him and he was unconscious when taken out, but was resuscitated.

The Senate of the University of Toronto met yesterday afternoon and adopted the report of the examiners in the June matriculation. About 350 candidates were examined. Of these 225 matriculated completely; 37 have to take a supplemental examination in September; 19 others will pass on the presentation of II. class certificates from the education department; in all 281 were successful in obtaining a university standing in arts. Thirty-four failed outright, but have an opportunity of presenting themselves again in September.

The man of the year is John Herbert Brown from Owen Sound Collegiate Institute, who stands first in honor classics, mathematics, English, history 250, geography and German and sixth in French. This is an extraordinarily good placing. He wins the Mary Mulock classical scholarship and the Prince of Wales scholarship.

Crediting each student who comes from two schools to each school it will be found that the 285 who succeeded or partially succeeded in passing either in arts or medicine were distributed among the schools about thus: Toronto Collegiate Institute, 26; Upper Canada College, 22; Hamilton, 14; St. Thomas, 13; Parkdale, 12; Private Tuition, 10; Ridgetown and London, 9 each; Woodstock and Lindsay, 8 each; Ottawa, 7; Owen Sound, St. Catharines, Aylmer, Port Perry, 6 each; Newmarket, Oshawa, Guelph, Barrie, St. Mary's, 5 each; Mount Forest, Strathroy, Stratford, Clinton, Dunnville, Walkerton, Welland, 4 each; Berlin, Brockville, Brampton, Brantford, Elora, Galt, Georgetown, Harriston, Ingersoll, Markham, Simcoe, Wardsville, 3 each; Arnprior, Dutton, Fergus, Glencoe, Goderich, Mitchell, Norwood, Orangeville, Peckhill, Sarnia, Uxbridge, Morrin House, Toronto, two each; Athens, Bowmanville, Cobourg, Collingwood, Campbellford, Chatham, Cayuga, Dundas, Campbellville, Kincardine, Morrisburg, Perth, Picton, Port Elgin, Pembroke, Preston, Richmond Hill, Smithville, Seaforth, Sterling, Streetsville, Trenton, Weston, Whitby, Miss Dupont's, Trinity College, Port Hope, Ladies' College, Whitby, Bishop Bailey, St. Catharines-St. Michael's, Toronto, Bishop Strachan each.

John O'Connor is a tough and a dangerous fellow generally, who has occasionally appeared before the magistrate. Yesterday the officers stated a case against him was brutally assaulting Peter Lennon and chewing off part of his thumb. He was sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment with hard labor.

BLEW UP THE STORE.

A Clerk's Carelessness Causes a Powder Explosion at Liverpool, N.S.

LIVERPOOL, N.S., Aug. 7. A terrible explosion occurred here at 5 o'clock this morning. James Warmington, a clerk in Colin Campbell's hardware store, set fire to some powder which was spilled on the floor and it ran quickly to the keg, which was close by, and caught at once and in a second the building was a complete wreck, blowing the front and side into the street. Fire at once started, but was soon out. Forbes' and McNutt's stores just opposite the building had their fronts blown out and every pane of glass shattered to atoms. The boy lies in a very serious condition, but the doctors think he will recover. Another lad, who was in the store at the time, was badly burned. Loss about $1000.

REJOICING AT BUENOS AYRES.

Pellegrini's Election to the Presidency Meets with Popular Approval.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—A despatch from Buenos Ayres says the election of Pellegrini to the presidency has caused popular rejoicing. The city is decorated and illuminated.

A decree just promulgated raises the state of siege and declares the liberty of the press.

PARIS, Aug. 7.—A despatch from Buenos Ayres says that Vicente Fidel Lopez has been appointed Minister of Finance.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 7. —President Pellegrini has formed a cabinet. Confidence is reviving. Gold is at 51.25. There is universal rejoicing over the change in the presidency.

A Guelph Barn Burnt.

GUELPH, Aug. 7.—Shortly after 12 o'clock to-day the fire alarm was sounded for a fire in No. 5 Ward. On reaching there it was found that a stable, belonging to Mr. Levan was in flames. The building, with about one ton of hay, was a total loss. It was insured for $400. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

AN ODD CRAFT'S CRUISE.

QUARTER OF A MILE IN LENGTH WITH SIXTEEN JOINTS.

Particulars of the Exciting Voyage of the Latest Leary Lumber Raft From St. John, N.B. to New York -A Profitable Venture.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—As the big black monster, which has journeyed all the way from St. John, N.B., came to a halt in Flushing Bay at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, there was an animated tooting of whistles from every steamboat within eyeshot. Excursion boats and pleasure yachts veered from their courses to get a closer look at the strange object, and many people in rowboats made fast to its long body and playfully ran backward and forward upon its broad tough slippery spine. It was the only opportunity anybody will have for amusement of that sort, for to-day this 1400 foot traveler of the deep was cut into three sections and towed in pieces down through Hell Gate, and thence up Newtown and Whale Creeks to the shipyard of Mr. Leary, the famous raft-builder of modern times.

Of course the thing which has been creeping along through the waters of the Atlantic Ocean and Long Island Sound ever since July 23 in tow of two powerful ocean tugboats is not really as it has all the time been said to be, a sea serpent, but is as a matter of fact a vast collection of seventy-foot New Brunswick timbers commercially known as "Leary's raft, No. 4." The idea of collecting an enormous quantity of logs and so welding them together as to constitute one seaworthy craft appears to have originated in the active brain of Mr. Leary. A former effort of his to transport logs in this manner to the New York market was, as will be remembered, a failure. The raft went to pieces in mid-ocean and the truant timbers, waifs on the broad ocean, were for some time a menace and danger to navigators. But Mr Leary was not daunted and afterwards succeeded in safely bringing into this port a couple of stupendous rafts.

The curious ocean traveler, which was this morning lying in Flushing Bay, is his latest successful attempt at this form of timber transportation.

It was as long ago as June 10 that the two tugs B. T. Haviland and E. Heppenhausen, belonging to Capt. Joseph Laughlin's well-known towing line, steamed out of this city, bound for St. John, N.B., to bring the latest and biggest Leary raft to this port. A crew of nine men manned each of the tugs and the captains of the Heipenhausen and Haviland were Walter P. Crosby and W. Daly. St. John was reached on June 15, and on June 17 the westward journey was begun. The raft as it left St. John consisted of seventeen sections or separate rafts of timber, the average length of the timbers being 70 feet. In Mr. Leary's first raft the unhewed tree-trunks had been solidly welded together by chains into a single enormous cigar-shaped craft. The present raft, or rather rafts, were differently constructed. A certain number of logs for tree trunks they really should be called) were bound together by iron chains, making a raft just the natural length of the timbers and drawing between nine and ten feet of water. Through the core or centre of this raft ran an immense iron cable, upon which sixteen other rafts, also the natural length of the timbers, were constructed.

Great tripods were erected upon the raft at regular intervals, from which were suspended lanterns that were kept brightly burning each night.

The start from St. John was made in good weather, but on the second day out a heavy fog set in and for two days and nights the people in the tug-boats didn't obtain even so much as a glimpse of the elongated thing behind them. When on June 19 the fog lifted it was perceived that the last two sections were missing. They were never found. The tug commanders, fearing a further curtailment of their tow, concluded to make the first harbor and as once headed for Frenchman's Bay, but as the weather continued good they decided to continue to Rockland, Me. They reached Rockland June 21 and remained there 11 days strengthening the lashings of the rafts. They left Rockland July 2, and on the following day saw, to their consternation, that another section of the tow was breaking up and going to pieces in the high seas that prevailed. They at once made for Portland, Me., where they arrived on July 4.

It was estimated that two weeks, at least, would be required to make the shaky timber mass secure for a further sea journey, and both tugs at once returned to New York.

On July 22 the tugs left this port for Portland again to attempt the risky feat of bringing the raft to the New York market. Capt. Daly of the B. F. Haviland was succeeded by Cuff old Capt. Reuben Ireland, who confessed yesterday that he was homesick throughout the trip.

The second start of the raft was made from Portland, Me. on Monday, July 28. When off Cape Cod the sea began to rise and assert itself. Breaker after breaker, mountain high, arose and jumped violently down upon this elongated and unfamiliar object in the sea. The man whose arduous duty it was to light the lamps swinging from the tripods on the raft could not perform his task. The raft became an almost submerged reef in midocean. Fortunately the gale and high seas did not continue, and on July 30 Handkerchief Lightship was passed. The next day, nevertheless, had plenty of threatening weather in store, and it was thought wise to anchor at Holmes's Hole. At 4 o'clock, around at Holmes's Hole all day Friday the big lumber snake resumed its journey on Saturday, Aug. 2. At 4 o'clock that afternoon Cuttrhunk was passed and the next, Sunday, morning the strange sea traveler was off Newport. Fortunately the sea around Point Judith was light. The run along the Rhode Island coast was uneventful. Watch Hill was passed before supper time and early in the evening Fisher's Island Sound, and consequent security was reached. The raft was off Cornfield Light at 9.50 on Monday morning and passed New Haven at 8.10 that evening. Stratford Shoal Lightship was reached at an early hour Tuesday morning, and the remarkable procession came to anchor, as before announced, at 7½ o'clock Tuesday evening, in Hempstead Bay and proceeded yesterday to its present anchorage in Flushing Bay.

IN TROUBLE WITH THE K. OF L.

The New York Central Railroad Discharges a Number of Men.

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—In regard to the discharge of certain workmen by the New York Central Railway which is likely to lead to trouble with the Knights of Labor, Third Vice-President Walt. H. Webb of the company said to-day that the discharge of the men was only the result of the curtailing of their force made necessary by the slacking up of traffic which occurs every summer. They were running the road on strictly business principles and did not propose to be dictated to by the men. They knew nothing whatever of a probable strike and did not anticipate any trouble.

Master Workman E. T. Lee of the Knights of Labor was seen later and said the road had utterly disregarded the agreement made with the men, no reason being given for the discharge of old and trusted employes. The executive board of the Knights met here this afternoon and some decided course of action will be agreed upon.

THE SAULT CANAL.

Congress Will Spend Over $5,000,000 in Needed Improvements.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—An understanding has been reached regarding the appropriations for the Sault Ste. Marie Canal, and all danger to the great waterway from that source has been removed. Speaker Reed remains firm in his intention not to permit the passage of any separate measures for this purpose, but he will offer no objection to the passage of the item inserted by the Senate in the River and Harbor Bill appropriating $1,300,000 for the building of a new lock and the improvement of Long Lake Channel, the appropriation to continue from year to year until $5,400,000 in all has been expended. Of the $1,300,000 provided for the bill $900,000 will be immediately applied to the work on the new lock and the rest to the improvement of the channel.

A CONVICT EMEUTE.

Prisoners at the Charlestown (Mass.) State Prison Riot—A Revolt.

BOSTON, Aug. 7.—For some time trouble has been brewing at the Charlestown State Prison, owing to the objection of the inmates to the Bertillon system of measurements. This afternoon the convicts in the harness shop, numbering over 100, refused to obey orders, and all at once set up a terrific yell and missiles of every description were sent flying in all directions, the windows on the north and west sides being demolished. Then they dashed forth into the yard and rushed for the walls. The sentries began firing, other prison officials were quickly at hand and with drawn revolvers soon massed the men in groups after a hard fight in which clubs were freely used and many convicts' heads badly crushed. About fifty city police arrived and the convicts were finally locked up in their cells. It is feared several convicts escaped. The rising is said to have been instigated by "Chicken" Walsh, one of the most desperate members of the old Albany-street gang.

Killed Quicker than Hemmler.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Aug. 7.—The killing by lightning of Ambrose Albee of Whitneyville was one of the most shocking affairs which ever occurred in Maine. During the short but terrific shower at his house Mr. Albee was struck by a bolt on top of the head, which passed through his body and entered the ground. He was instantly killed, a gash three or four inches in length having been made in the top of the head and the flesh burned from the body. His clothing was torn into fragments and his shoes into shreds. There was a hole in the ball of the right foot the size of an ounce bullet, which bled freely; and bruises on his limbs, which resembled those made by small fragments of exploded shell. He had been raking hay in the field, and when the shower struck started on the run for the house, and when within about 200 yards was seen to fall by his wife, who a few moments before had preceded him from the field. He leaves a widow and five small children in destitute circumstances.

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, Aug. 7. Fred J. Goff, an engineer on the Grand Trunk Railway, met with a serious accident yesterday morning. While attending to his engine the glass steam gauge burst, pieces of the glass entering and severing the cornea of his left eye. Although suffering intense agony he pluckily stuck to his engine and brought the freight train into the station here on time. The accident happened near Annandale. It is just possible the eye may be saved.

Mrs. Quirk, who resides in Bartou-street west, near Locke, was run over in James-street opposite the market square this afternoon. She was not dangerously injured.

Henry Horton, aged 43, while at work yesterday fell against a scaffold and broke a rib.

Flower thieves are at work in the cemetery. Almost as fast as flowers and plants are put out they are stolen.

To Expedite the U. S. Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—At the request of the managers of the Tariff Bill the Republican members of the Senate Committee on Commerce have agreed that consideration of the River and Harbor Bill, which was to have displaced the Tariff Bill to-morrow, will be postponed probably till Friday of next week. It is believed that this change of program will tend to hasten the progress of debate on the Tariff Bill, the Republicans arguing that the Democrats desire action on the River and Harbor Bill earnestly enough to hurry the Tariff Bill out of the way to reach it.

A Canadian Pacific Brakeman Killed.

PARKDALE, Aug. 7.—A young brakeman named George Yule was killed on the Canadian Pacific [illegible] about one mile south from town at the Grand Trunk Railway crossing. The deceased was on top of the cars walking from the engine, and was struck on the back of the neck by the iron stringer of the bridge. He was carried about (2) yards north of the bridge before he fell off. Death was instantaneous. Yule, whose home was at Gananoque, was about 25 years old and was unmarried.

A Genuine Puritan School.

WINSTED, Conn., Aug. 7.—It is learned that the $500,000 Gilbert Educational Institute, to be established in Winsted under the will of the late William L. Gilbert, is to be of an exclusive character. The will provides that no Roman Catholic shall be educated or employed in the institution and that all persons using liquors, beer or tobacco shall be excluded from its advantages.

The Color Line in Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, Aug. 7.—Rev. A. W. Jordan, pastor of the Cornwallis-street (colored) Baptist Church in this city, intends to bring a lawsuit against the proprietor of the Intercolonial Railway restaurant at Amherst for refusing to sell him meals. The waiters asked him to sit at a table isolated from other patrons and he declined, whereupon they ordered him out.

A Fatal Draught.

CARLETON PLACE, Aug. 7.—Katie, the 4-year-old daughter of Robert Moodie of the Revere House, got possession of a bottle of corrosive sublimate, and before she was noticed swallowed a draught of the poisonous stuff. Medical aid was immediately obtained and everything possible was done to counteract the poison and relieve the sufferer, but without success, and she died after suffering intensely for 36 hours.

Galt Votes $125,000 for Waterworks.

GALT, Aug. 7.—Two bylaws, one to raise $125,000 for the construction of waterworks in the town and the other a local improvement bylaw, were voted on here to-day and both carried, the former by a majority of 300 and the latter by 7.

THE McKINLEY BILL AND THE BARLEY DUTY.

One of the knotty points to settle in the McKinley tariff bill is the duty on Canadian barley. According to reports from Washington, opinion in the United States Senate on this subject seems to fluctuate as outside pressure bears more or less heavy on Senators. The agitation of the brewers, malsters and owners of elevators seems to have considerable effect in influencing that body to lower the duty from the 25 cents a bushel as originally proposed. Throughout New York State, especially, there is practical unanimity of opposition to this heavy duty, and the demand for lowering it comes not only from the parties mentioned above, who are most vitally interested in the trade, but also from nearly the entire press, irrespective of party. How important the interests are that the proposed tariff would cripple, if not destroy, is set forth by the Boston Commercial Bulletin, which is the best authority that can be quoted on special lines of business in the east. It says:—"The fact that Canda barley makes better malt than New York State or Western barley is a simple commercial fact. The attempt to force malsters to use exclusively the inferior American barley is sheer nonsense, which cannot be justified on protective or any other grounds. No tariffs in the world can change the conditions of soil and atmosphere. This is not a case where the cheapness of a foreign product interferes with the sale of ours. Of the annual United States barley crop, 65,000,000 bushels, but 50,000,000 bushels go into the malthouse. The rest is used for feed. We imported in 1889 11,000,000 bushels of Canadian barley, not because the American barley is not plentiful or because it is not cheap, but because for malting purposes it is inferior to Canadian barley, and and for certain ales and beers the use of the latter is needed.

In a protest against the proposed duty by the malsters they say:—The tariff of 1883 reduced the duty on barley and increased it on malt, to encourage the malting interest The result has been the establishment of a line of malting houses along the south shore of Lake Ontario. The new tariff will close these. The Canada barley is now imported because it makes better malt, just as certain mills import Australian wool because they cannot get the finish they desire with the product of the soil and climate of the United States. Canadian barley has a virtue in brewing that is absent from the grain raised on the American side of the border. The American farmers understand this so well that they do not look for benefits from an excessively high tariff on the Canadian product."

THE Algoma Pioneer makes this bull's eye:—"The squabble about the Separate School law has about petered out with the elections, and is now generally known that no one is rated as a supporter of such schools except at his own request. But it took a terrible amount of election talk to get some common-sense people to believe that the law is so written." The Mail clings to the pre-election roorback like a drowning sailor to a hen-coop, but as a rule the newspapers on that side are content to fall back on the truth.

The Resources of Canada.

In an article in the North American Review for August, Mr. Erastus Wiman points out some of the benefits which would accrue to Canada and the United States from unrestricted reciprocity. The subject is a well-worn one, but Mr. Wiman manages to say much that is new and interesting. He thinks that the Hitt resolution stands a good chance of being adopted by congress either at this session or at the session beginning in December. That resolution, which as he observes, is simply an epitome of the Butterworth Bill, read as follows:—"That whenever it shall be duly certified to the President of the United States that the Government of the Dominion of Canada has declared a desire to enter into such commercial arrangements with the United States as will result in the complete removal of all duties upon trade between Canada and the United States, and to ascertain on what terms greater freedom of intercourse between the two countries can best be secured; and said commissioners shall report to the President, who shall lay the report before Congress." The Tory papers jeer and say that unrestricted trade is making slow progress at Washington. They forget that large bodies move slowly. It took six years to bring about the Treaty of 1854, the first bill having been introduced into Congress on the subject by Mr. Grinell, of Massachusetts, in 1848. Should the result of the State elections this fall prove unfavourable in any degree to to the Republicans, they will undoubtedly hasten to embrace the policy of reciprocity with other countries which Mr. Blaine is advocating. It will then be perfectly plain that American industries are tired of being cooped up within their own home market and desire room for expansion.

Another Canadian, Mr. Charles H. Lugrin, of Fredericton, is doing good work in making known the resources of Canada. Mr. Lugrin has lately written a series of papers on the subject in the Century magazine and in the New York Independent, which have attracted a good deal of attention in the United States. The North-West is an empire in itself. Starting at the intersection of the international boundary with the Rocky Mountains he draws a line north-west to old Fort Selkirk and another eastward to Fort Arthur, and completes the triangle by joining these termini. The area enclosed, which may be regarded as the arable and pastoral zone of central Canada, contains, not counting the lakes, over a million square miles of land surface, which is equal to the combined area of the two Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Wisconsin, Kansas, Mississippi, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and Michigan. He places the approximate arable and pastoral area of all Canada at 893,000,000 acres, that of the United States being usually stated at 960,000,000. Mr. Lugrin calls attention to the fact that grains yield more largely as they approach the northern limit of their production, but it might have been well to add, what experience has demonstrated in the North-West, that this advantage is offset to some extent by the risks to which crops are exposed in the far North. It may be doubted whether wheat can be profitably grown beyond Prince Albert and Battleford; but, after allowing for this shave off the wheat-producing area, we have still a belt capable of growing an enormous quantity, though, once more, we must take into account the tendency of cheaper wheat-fields like those of India, Burmah, and the new ones in Northern Africa to depress prices and impede the development of our territory. Mr. Lugrin then refers to the vast timber wealth of Canada and to the value of the fisheries. He says, and probably with truth, that the fisheries of Hudson Bay are more prolific than any yet open up. At the mouth of a river in Bothnia Felix Sir John Rose, the explorer, took out with a small seine 3 8000 fish weighing in the aggregate over nine tons; while Sir John Richardson, on an arm of Great Bear Lake, caught in the course of a single winter 50 000 whitefish and 3,800 trout, ranging in weight from five to thirty pounds. Our mineral resources are on the same grand scale. On both sea boards we possess vast deposits of bituminous coal. In the prairie region and in the valley of the Mackenzie coal seams occur at points widely separated and under such conditions as to warrant the belief that they are parts of one great field, and if this proves to be the case the deposit is the largest in the world. We have an abundance of iron, together with copper, nickel, magnanese and some gold and silver. Petroleum is found in Gaspe, and an immense area in the Mackenzie region is underlaid with it.

At present, as every one knows, the development of all these potential riches is proceeding but slowly. If there were no other argument against it, the policy of protection would stand condemned by the single fact that amidst a lavish abundance of natural wealth we find it impossible to retain our native-born population. They go away to another flag to find employment although we could furnish work without stint, if instead of endeavoring to naturalize a few exotic industries which refuse to take root, the Government would only secure us a free market among the sixty millions of people to the south, who, witness the agitation in New England, are looking hard at our stores of raw material. The Tory contention that it is better to devote our energies to manufacturing articles like sugar and cotton, which could be obtained much more cheaply by free exchange, than to producing ores, lumber, fish, oil, hides, coal and similar wares, is equivalent to saying that it is more advantageous to engage in less profitable than in more profitable pursuits. Allow the indigenous industries to flourish and nothing can hinder the creation of an extensive diversity of employment and the appearance through the operation of natural causes, wholly outside of legislation, of such higher branches of manufacture as we can carry on with the maximum of gain to ourselves. The barbed wire fence, as Mr. Wiman calls it, between the two countries, inflicts incalculable injury upon both. Cobden used to employ an illustration which fits our case exactly. "Suppose," he said in substance, "that there were two countries, one capable of consuming a vast supply of raw material and the other capable of producing it, and that a river divided them; and fancy a demon rising from the water—for I cannot imagine anything human performing such an office—fancy a demon rising from the river, bolding in his hand an act of Parliament, and saying, 'You shall not fill each other's wants'; adding with an afflicted smile, 'This is for your benefit, I do it entirely for your protection' —what should we say of that evil genius and of his work?"—Globe.

Crushed by a Severed Hand.

BRAZIL, Aug. 7.—Friday, June 29, Frederick Miller and David Heller, two employes at the furnace at the rolling mills, were killed by a premature explosion of Hercules powder while blasting out salamander from the bottom of the furnace. Miller was standing directly over the drilled hole at the time of the explosion and was terribly torn and disfigured. Both arms were blown off. But one was found. Every effort to find the other arm proved fruitless until yesterday.

The workmen saw an object clinging to one of the stay rods that help to support and keep in position the stacks on the top of the furnace. Through curiosity they climbed up to the top and they saw a sight that not only filled them with horror, but with wonder. There in full sight of all was a man's hand, with only the stub of an arm attached, tightly clasping the rod above mentioned.

There can be no doubt but that the hand is that of the unfortunate Miller. The only theory known for the strange freak of the bodyless hand is that the hand was blown out of the top of the highest stack, and in coming down, the muscles, still active, contracted when the hand struck the rod and fastened to it with a deadly grip. From the position in which Miller was standing the hand could not have reached the position it occupied other than in the above manner. The muscles could not have relaxed much after the first contracting, else the hand would have fallen.

A CYCLONE DOWN EAST.

Thirty-one Buildings Blown Down in Madawaska County, N.B.

ST. LEONARD, N.B., Aug. 7.—A heavy thunder and hail storm, accompanied by a cyclone, did considerable damage in the parish of St. Ann's, Madawaska County, yesterday. The cyclone covered a territory about two miles wide. Thirty-one buildings were blown down as far as heard from. Considerable damage was done to crops.

An Alleged Robbery.

KINGSTON, Aug. 7.—People from Portsmouth reported this morning that a highway robbery had been committed on Sunday evening. A young man and woman, while driving on the road leading past the penitentiary farm, were attacked by masked men. They sprang from the side of the road and stopped the rig. "Seize the horse, Jack, and I will take care of the occupants of the buggy," said one of the men. A man caught the horse by the bridle and his companions jumped into the buggy. They seized the couple and used them roughly while trying to relieve them of their jewelry.

In the struggle to get the girl's watch the robbers broke the chain and the watch slipped down between her clothing. They could not find it. They were more successful with the man and got his watch. The choking which the men gave the girl made her very ill.

When the robbers left the rig they headed for the city. It is said that suspicious looking characters have been seen loitering about the locality.

ART OF LETTER WRITING

THE EPISTOLARY SALUTATION AND ADIEU.

The Commencement of a Letter May be Easy but It's Hard to Finish—Style of the Olden Times More Fanciful than Now.

Nobody ever yet found very great difficulty in starting a letter. Young lovers may have hesitated from time to time between such modes of address as "Dear," "Dearest," "Sweetest," "Darling," and the like; but only for a moment. Usually the overburdened heart hits at once upon the exact word or phrase which best expresses its ecstatic feeling. And so with less impassioned matters. There is a well-recognized gradation in the methods of epistolary salutation. The stranger is addressed as "Sir," the person of whom something is known as "Dear Sir," "My Dear Sir" accompanies a rather better acquaintance; "Dear Mr. Brown" marks an approach to intimacy; while "Dear Brown" signifies the acme of friendship and of camaraderie. Here, again, there may be a temporary pause before passing from "Sir" to "Dear Sir," and so forth, but in general the transitions are sufficiently well emphasized to be obvious to the average intelligence.

Very different it is with the other end of the letter. There we find opportunity for the widest divergences, Royal or official, pompous or irate, people have been known to finish an epistle abruptly with the Simple appendix of their name; but these are the exception which prove the rule. And the rule is certainly to preface the "name by some expression of feeling, however brief and perfunctory. The least you can do is to prescribe yourself as "Yours." We find Sterne thus describing himself to Garrick, while, by way of slight variety, Cowper, writing to Joseph Hill, ends with a "Yours dear Joe." Still further variety is secured when, as in the case of Lord Eglinton, addressing his countess in 1649, the hackneyed "I remain yours" takes the form of "I rest, yours"—a phrase which is not however, likely to be often used. And let it not be supposed that plenty of meaning cannot be thrown into the "yours" alone. Take for instance, the reply made by Macdonald, when Glengarry claimed the chieftainship of the clan. "As soon," said the former, "as you can prove yourself no chief. I shall be ready to acknowledge you as such but in the meantime I am yours, Macdonald." There, for once in a way, the "yours" meant something.

When we go further than the mere "yours" the possible variations are, of course, endless. There is "yours truly"—perhaps the most widely used of all combinations; but there are persons who rebel against its formality and who with daring originality substitute the heartier and less conventional "very truly," "most truly" or "right truly." Second only to "yours truly" comes "yours faithfully" and "yours sincerely," with their comparative "very faithfully" and superlative "most sincerely," and many people are well content to keep within the safe borders of these wholly innocent and uncompromising forms. On the other hand, less indifferent minds will go further afield for their qualifying adverbs and say, with Sterne, "very cordially yours," or, with Father Mathew, "yours devotedly and so on. Whewell asked once for his autograph, signed himself "yours autographically," and of such deviations there are abundant examples, mostly with a tendency to the flippant. "Yours ever," Byron declared it was ill to join Murray; "yours ever and evermore," wrote Cowper to a friend while Steele, in a letter to his wife, protested that he was "with his whole heart, hers forever," which may be pronounced the best of the three.

But there is no reason in the world, to be sure, why we should cling to the "yours" in any shape or modification. There are multitudinous other ways of losing valedictory "adieu." "And so my dear madam, adieu," writes Pepys to a lady. "With all my love, and those sort of pretty things, adieu" wrote the future Mrs. Scott to her sweetheart, the great magician. And then there is the English equivalent of the word—surely not less available. "I wish you were at the devil," wrote Sir Philip Francis to Burke, "for giving me all this trouble, and so farewell. In the old days, as we read in the "Paston Letters," they had a sufficiently formal fashion of concluding epistles. "By your cousin Dame Elizabeth Drewes"—"By your man Thomas Kela," such are two examples of the custom. "Written at Norwich, on St. Thomas even, in great haste, by your mother, Agnes Paston"—there is another. "From your Russel," is the end of a letter from the famous Lady Russell to her husband; and it does not read or sound unbecomingly. Junius signed himself to Wesshall, "your friend." Less cold was Mrs. Macclesse to Burns: "I may sign for I am already sealed, your friend, Clarinda."

The elaborate style of description has in many cases only obtained, as being obviously suitable for so many occasions. This affix is not surprised to find the future Charles II. professing to be his father's most humble and most obedient son and servant, or to note how that very complete letter-writer, James Howell, claimed to be the Countess of Sutherland's "most dutiful servant." Dr. Johnson did well to announce himself haughtily as Chesterfield's "most humble, most obedient servant," while what could Sir Walter Scott be to his Duke of Buccleuch other than "your Grace's truly obliged and grateful"? A similar sentence properly indicated Hood, in a certain memorable epistle, to tell Sir Robert Peel that he had the honor to be sir his most grateful and humble servant. One cannot expect either to the "Your most obliged and faithful friend" or even when addressed to Popes, to be "Your very faithful, humble servant" of Bishop Percy, when penned to Boswell. It is however a little difficult to endorse that "Servants of Execution" addressing by lady-love as "Your humble servant" and that the Father of his time in ending all a lady-like letter to his "dear" says: "I am, madam, your most obedient husband, and most obedient, humble servant, Richard Steele."

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

Over and over again have letter-writers made their final description of themselves to wholly a part of their last sentence that the former cannot be dissociated from the latter. "I have not room to tell you any more," wrote Stephen Duck to Joseph Spence in 1751, "than that I am, dear sir, your most affectionate." "These," said her royal mistress to Mrs Delany in 1875, "are the true sentiments of my dear Mrs. Delany's very affectionate queen, Charlotte." Hood once finished a charming epistle to a child in this way! "Give my love to everybody, from yourself down to Willy with which and a kiss I remain, up hill and down dale, your affectionata lover, Thomas Hood.

Most people remember the pithy correspondence between Foote and his mother: "Dear Sam—I am in prison for debt: come and assist your loving mother, E. Foote." "Dear mother—So am I; which prevents his duty being paid to his loving mother by her affectionate son, Sam Foote." Not everybody, however, can wind up a letter so neatly as that. A certain commercial house abroad, was perhaps, over-ingenious in its turn of phrase when writing to an English correspondent, and desiring to be very civil to him, it said: "sugars are falling more and more every day; not so the respect and esteem with which we are." etc., etc.—W. Davenport Adams in Jester.

Eight Words and All the Letters.

Half a dozen members of the Press Club were discussing the peculiarities of the English language the other evening when Dr. F. E. Rice took the Argus to task for printing a paragraph when read about as follows: "The following is said to be the shortest sentence in the English language containing all the letters of the alphabet: 'John P. Brady gave me a black walnut box of quite small size.' The entire sentence contains less than twice the number of letters in the alphabet." "That's a good sentence of its kind," said the Doctor, "but I think if you will carefully study the sentence 'Pack my box with five dozen liquor jugs,' you will find that it contains less letters than the sentence you published, and yet omits no letter in the alphabet."

Life Insurance Policy Holders SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase as $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $313,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,084,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,823	15.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,630	10.66
Temperance and General	2,084,972	17.54
Citizens	2,027,956	29.16
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20.12
London Life	1,644,235	20.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 20 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Shipment of Fine Horses.

Thursday night Mr. W. H. Greer shipped per C.P.R. to Brandon, Manitoba, 16 splendid horses. Mr. Greer has been at the C.P.R. Hotel for four days, and purchased these horses chiefly from Cavan and North Monaghan farmers. Fifteen of the lot were mares for farm purposes. Two or three veterinary surgeons and horse fanciers pronounce this lot the finest they ever saw together.

Nassau Orangemen

The members of Wellington L.O.L., No. 467, Nassau, by order of the W.M., are requested to meet in the Orange Hall, Peterborough, on Sunday next, the 10th inst., at 6.30 p.m., to attend divine service in the George Street Methodist Church. Also to meet on Tuesday, the 12th of August, at 8.30 a.m., in the Orange Hall. They will then proceed to the C.P.R. station, where a train will be in waiting to take them to Norwood.

Hitching Facilities.

As is well known, numerous runaway accidents and escapades are caused by horses being left unfastened. And the latter is very often caused by there being no facilities for hitching. For instance, at the post office there is nothing to tie to. Every day, scores of vehicles stop at the post office, and they have to either leave their horses unhitched or take them to a distance to tether them, and then return to the post office and perhaps get only a patent medicine card or a dun. Hitching rings should be placed in the curb stone round the post office.

"Good Samaritan Ward."

Mr. John Watson has completed the painting of a beautiful shield, to be placed over the entrance to the Oddfellows' "Good Samaritan Ward" at the Nicholls Hospital. The face of the shield shows a graphic representation of the parable of the good Samaritan. The coloring and drawing of the picture are a credit to the young artist, and worthy of the noble benefaction it is designed to indicate. Mr. H. Lorg who is custodian of the shield, will place it in position in the hospital this afternoon.

Willow and Wicket.

A cricket match was played between a composite Campbellford eleven and a home eleven to-day. The home team went first to bat and compiled the fine score of 118, to which Goldsmith, the colt, contributed the tidy lot of 43 runs. Campbellford made 39 runs in its first innings, and following on, were all retired for 48, leaving them defeated by an innings and 31 runs.

A match will be played between the Colts and Veterans on the grounds to-morrow afternoon, beginning at 2-30. The youngsters will make it lively for the old timers.

Dr. Davies' Organ Recital.

The third in the series of organ recitals given in St. John's Church by Dr. Davies was the best attended of the number, and was, of course, up to the high standard of excellence of performance and interpretation characteristic of Dr. Davies' playing. The following is the programme presented:—

Allegretto	Military Symphony ..... Haydn
Brautzeesang	Opus 45 ..... Adolf Jensen
Aria	Sonata in F ..... Domenico Paradies
Fantasie	Chœur Seraphique ..... Alexandre Guilmant
Gavotte in F	..... Leopold Kocdisch
Marcia Funebre	..... Frederic Chopin
The Organ Song	"St. Cecilia" ..... Handel
Overture	"La Gazza Ladra" ..... Rossini
Marche Militaire	..... Lefebvre Wely

Orange Mutual Benefit Society.

Mr. Ed. Floody, Toronto, special agent of the "Orange Mutual Benefit Society of Ontario West," has been in town in the interests of the Society. An application fee of $3 is charged and a registration fee of $1.00 are charged and any member of an Orange lodge in good standing is eligible for membership. The assessments ranged according to age from 65 cents at eighteen years, to $1.45 at 50 years of age. It is contemplated making a change at the next meeting of the Grand Lodge to bring the society under the sole jurisdiction of that body, and to substitute the payment of a fixed sum, for assessments, and to provide for the establishment of a reserve fund. Mr. Floody secured about a dozen applications during his visit to town.

No Debate Necessary, for They all Agree

It is not necessary to have any debate or hold any argument whatever, for the public have decided that the best and cheapest trip on our Civic Holiday is going to the city of Belleville under the auspices of the C.M.B.A. and E.B.A. Branches. Therefore let nobody be deceived, for the great majority go with those who give them the best value for their money. Hence the crowd takes the special train at seven o'clock on Aug. 14th, for above city, because they all know that their tickets are good for two days if they feel disposed to stop over; and further, they all say that one dollar is a very small sum for such a fine trip. Why, by all means let everybody secure their tickets and have one good day's sport this season. Barrels of fun—good sports. Ball match, dancing, sailing, fishing, or any kind of amusement you desire. The committee has left nothing undone that will add to the comfort of those attending. You can procure your tickets from the following members of the committee:—Dr. Brennan, Ed. O'Neil, W. J. Devlin, Dr. Moher, John Crann, G. H. Giroux, Dr. McGrath P. McHugh, M. C. Collins, John McGrath, Jas. Drain, J. J. Lynch. Make up your mind to take this excursion in, for it is pre-eminent to anything on the list on above date. You will be sorry if you don't. 2d32

A Rejoinder from Mr. McWilliams.

The following letter was published in the Review of Thursday, in reply to a letter in that journal from Mr. J. Graham Weir:—

To the Editor of the Review:

SIR,—By the Review of the 5th inst., I see Mr. J. Graham Weir has been drinking Stony Lake water again, and it has had the usual effect, viz., of making him rush into print.

It has taken Mr. J. Graham Weir several weeks to recover from the last dressing he received, and which he so richly deserved. Had he not the hide of a rhinoceros he would never want to see J. Graham Weir in print again. Never was there an untruthful man so thoroughly exposed. Mr. Weir insinuates that Mr. Moore or I was the writer of a letter signed "Orangeman." I can inform Mr. J. Graham Weir that neither of us ever wrote, nor had anything whatever to do with that letter, and have no doubt the writer will give his name if required. I can inform Mr. J. Graham Weir, if he does not already know it, that J. B. McWilliams is not made of the kind of material that is necessary for him to hide his name when either attacking or replying to J. Graham Weir.

My horse whipping of Mr. Colbeck appears to trouble Mr. Weir. Is it on the principle that a burnt child dreads the fire? He appears to have a very vivid recollection, not only of the many horse-whippings he received before coming to maturity, but also of one he received after his marriage by a friend who still thought he should keep a fatherly eye over him.

Had Mr. J. Graham Weir been blessed with one or two children he would understand a father's feelings when he saw a coward take revenge on a delicate child for ill will against the father. If necessary, I could prove that Mr. J. Graham Weir has been as inconsistent and untruthful in his statements regarding my horse-whipping Mr. Colbeck, as he was in the course taken by him in Mr. Blezard's election.

Mr. J. Graham Weir is so inconsistent that the Orangemen should appoint a committee to take charge of him or he will be celebrating the 17th of March, and then attempt to prove it is the 12th of July.

I understand Mr. J. Graham Weir has a summer cottage at Stony Lake, near the Dummer shore, and I can inform him that the Dummer boys are good-hearted, and on account of the position he holds at present in the Orange Society, would make arrangements to furnish him regularly every day with pure, spring water, rather than have him making a fool of himself every few weeks.

Yours, etc.,
J. B. McWILLIAMS.

SABBATH DESECRATION.—Your correspondent is grieved to be compelled to write you on the subject above. The country-folk, as a rule, take pleasure in regarding the sanctity of the Sabbath, but the people of this section are being continually disturbed every Lord's Day by the intrusion of many of the Peterboroughites who make it a weekly practice to escape from town restraint to the freedom of Buckhorn rocks. I am sure the people of that village do not relish such practices. But patience lost its bounds last Sunday when three or four busses loaded with interlocked persons, presumably townspeople, passed through our quiet settlement. We have confidence in the proprietor of the Buckhorn House, that he is not the furnisher of the fiery stimulant; therefore, if the people of Peterborough persist in desecrating the Sabbath by howling and hooting through our settlement, we shall see that the law regarding the sacred day is carried out to the letter.

THE NORTHERN STARS.—At last our boys have fledged as baseball amateurs under the name of the "Northern Star" club. Our uniform is ordered, and soon you will hear of the victories achieved by the North Smith boys in the baseball line. We have not the full confidence in ourselves to meet your home team, but we are not afraid of anything else.

OBITUARY.—It is with deep sympathy for the afflicted family that we record the death of our beloved pastor, the Rev. W. M. Pattyson. Mr. Pattyson came here by order of last conference, with every prospect of meeting with continued success, but the hand of death severed the heartstrings of this old, but energetic, servant of God, when, in the midst of his brightest hopes. He has gone to a sure reward of bliss, with his works to follow him. We beg leave to offer our sympathy with the bereft wife and children, feeling assured they trust in the guidance of One who is a friend to the widow and the fatherless.

Reflex of the "Register" Repertoire.

The Morrow estate, on the Dummer road, was sold on Saturday afternoon. Mr. Robt. Morrow, of Marquette, Mich., was the purchaser.

Mr. R. J. Stewart will, in the course of a few days, commence the manufacture of chairs here. The old pump factory works will be utilized for the purpose.

Rev. Father Conway is at the sea side enjoying a well earned vacation.

"Dog days" and everybody at Stony Lake. "Hard luck"—is the news line—for the editor.

The Orange Hall on Belmont street has been renovated throughout and now ranks among the best in town.

A beautiful and costly pane of sand-cut glass in Mr. W. C. Harrison's new residence was broken during the storm on Sunday.

"Jim" Calder, the new town clerk, fills the bill to a nicety. The Register is not surprised.

Last Saturday morning a dastardly attempt at train wrecking was perpetrated on the C. P. R., about three miles west of this station. A large piece of timber was laid across the rails evidently with the intention of wrecking either of the early morning west-bound expresses. Very fortunately, however, a freight train encountered the obstacle first and succeeded, without damage, in throwing it from the track. The size of the obstruction just brought it within reach of the cow-catcher, hence the train's escape from derailment. The fiend, if caught, should be hung to the first tree—in fact "hanging would be too good for him."

A party of canoeists from the village purpose making a cruise from Stony Lake through the back lakes to Lake Scugog and after a short stay at Port Perry, return by way of Rice Lake to Hastings. The route lies through Mud, Pigeon and Sturgeon Lakes, down the river Scugog to Lake Scugog. The party, composed of Albert Raddon, John Kirk, Walt. Fowlds, Will Eaton, Will Cameron and Frank Roxburgh, look forward to a pleasant trip, and weather, etc., permitting will no doubt have a new and interesting experience. They leave Stony Lake on the 11th of August and expect to be home inside of two or three weeks.

Greystock.

From a Correspondent.

As it seems that no report has yet been published of a farewell presentation to Rev. Mr. Bradshaw on the occasion of his removal from this country, I beg to send you a short account of it. An address signed by Mr. Greystock, churchwarden, of St Mark's congregation on its behalf was presented to Rev. Mr. Bradshaw by Mr. G. L. Allen, superintendent of the Sunday school. The address was accompanied with a few gifts contributed by the congregation. These consisted of a pulpit Bible, a hymn book and prayer book in a case and a copy of Byron's poems. The address voiced the sentiments of the congregation expressive of respect and regard for Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, and regret at the severance of a tie which has united him and his flock for so many years. Mr. Bradshaw replied to the address by letter in very feeling and affecting terms.

Football.

TORONTO, July 15th, 1890.

DEAR SIR:—The executive of the Ontario Rugby Football Union wishes to call your attention to the fact that the Union has this year instituted a Junior series open to all Clubs not competing for the Senior Cup and to the Second Fifteens of Clubs which are competing. A handsome Cup has been ordered which is to be competed for under the same rules as the Senior Cup.

In order to arrange the ties properly the Executive would like to have all the entries for the Junior series sent to the secretary on or before the 20th August, 1890.

Your attention is also called to the fact that there are at present only nine Clubs in good standing in the Senior series and it is advisable that a much larger number be entered before the ties are finally settled. The Executive therefore wish all Clubs desiring to compete to send in their entries before the 20th of August, 1890.

The entrance fee in each series is $1, and the the annual subscription $2. This fee must be paid before the club entering is entitled to compete for the championship.

Yours truly,
EDWARD BAYLEY,
Hon.-Secty O.R.F.U.,
676 Spadina Ave.

The Outlawed Cigarette.

The cigarette smoking boy will have a hard time of it in New York after the 1st of September next. On that day a law passed by the Legislature will come into force, making it unlawful for any "child actually or apparently under sixteen years of age" to "smoke or in any way use any cigar, cigarette or tobacco in any form whatever in any public street, place or resort." Discretion is given to the enforcers of the law in that they are to determine whether a child is or not "apparently" under sixteen years of age. This will be rather difficult to prove in some cases and a youthful looking lad of seventeen or eighteen may easily find himself under the ban. However the moral effect of the law cannot but be good, for cigarette-smoking is without doubt, a most harmful practice, more especially among the young; and the action of the New York Legislature is recommended to the law-makers of the Dominion.

The Entrance Examinations.

A Norwood correspondent of the Hastings Star writes:—

In the Register last week we notice some complaints concerning the Inspector's work. From what we can hear, it seems as though the carrying out of the examinations in this county was a bungling affair all through. The Register requests that the total number of marks taken by each pupil should be published. We would go further and suggest that the number taken by each pupil in each subject, should be published. Examiners are well paid for their work, and the least the candidate is entitled to, is full information and not only should inspectors, but examiners be men of principle. A teacher and his pupils work diligently for a whole session preparing for the examinations, and when the time comes they should not be thrown to the mercy of some person who examines after the principle of "heads I win, tails you lose." When the full information regarding the result of these exams. is made known, it gives the teacher and pupils a better chance to judge the fairness of the result, and to a great extent removes doubt, as to partiality, which certainly exists in some cases. Newspapers are only too glad to publish elaborate results in such cases.

To which the Star adds by way of comment:—

"The 'lar de dahs' who conducted the recent entrance examinations in Norwood are being righteously castigated by the local paper and the Peterborough EXAMINER for their method, or, rather, want of method, in making known the returns. A correspondent from Norwood, in another column in this issue, likewise refers to the matter. As our correspondent says, these gentry are well paid for their services, and the public should receive full value, in the way of complete returns, for the money expended. The EXAMINER concludes an article in the following words:—'Complaints are not heard, however, as frequently as they would be, did not teachers have the reasonable fear that the Inspector would use the power vested in his position to make it 'hot' for them. Numbers of teachers in the county dare not utter a word of protest for fear of an unjust report being made against their schools. It is time that this state of affairs was rectified. The Register has struck the right key. It is to be hoped the note of warning will have a good effect.'"

Good Form in Dress

Social usage imposes certain rules as to dress which are carefully observed by men of good breeding and good sense.

Dress is not the most important object in life, but due observance of the rules of dress adds much to the comfort and refinement of life, and to a considerable extent, marks the difference between gentlemen and those who are not gentlemen.

Good form of dress is of course a matter of fashion and fashions vary. Should you ever be in doubt as to what is suitable call on us and we will give you safe advice on many controverted points, and on new fashions in attire that usually call for a good deal of consideration and caution. Therefore—

DON'T go to extremes in your dress. Dress quietly. Overdressed men are always despised as frivolous.

DON'T be slovenly in your dress. Neatness is a duty you owe to society.

DON'T disregard that "good form" in dress which custom has fixed. Conformity to social usage in dress as well as in more essential matters is part of good manners.

DON'T wear a silk hat with a sack coat. It is a social crime.

NOT A WHEEL TURNED.

A BIG STRIKE ON THE NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD.

Trains Stopped at Divisional Termini After 7 o'Clock Friday Night. The West Shore and New York & New Haven Involved. Left in a Tunnel.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—There is a strike on the New York Central Railway. No trains have left the Grand Central depot at 42nd-street. The depot is crowded with people. It is reported an incoming train was deserted in the tunnel at 36th street and the passengers were left to make their way to 42nd street as best they could.

ALBANY, Aug. 9. The Central Hudson road is tied up from Buffalo to New York. All switchmen have deserted their posts, trains are allowed to proceed to the termini of their divisions and then switch service is refused. The strike began at 7 o'clock last night.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9. The trouble threatened among the thousands of employes of the New York Central and other Vanderbilt lines owing to the discharge of Knights of Labor and Brotherhood men broke out suddenly shortly after 7 o'clock last night. All the length of the Central was tied up and trains were left by their crews where they stood when the order came. Two passenger trains were left at 56th street in the tunnel, one going in each direction. The latest report at 9 o'clock last night was that the West Shore Railway was tied up throughout its length, as well as the New York & New Haven Railway. Great throngs of people crowded into the Grand Central depot trying to have tickets changed and asking all manner of questions. No one seems to know who ordered the strike.

J. J. Holland, the labor leader, denies that he knew who ordered it or even that it was ordered when seen by a reporter at 8 o'clock. The officers of the Central are said to be closeted in the depot, but nothing definite can be learned.

At 11 o'clock the Grand Central Station was closed. A notice was posted announcing that the sale of tickets had been temporarily discontinued. The general opinion among the men was that the trouble would not have arisen had Mr. Depew been in this country. Their grievances seem to be personally directed against Vice-President Webb and General Manager Tenney.

The Brooklyn Brotherhood Baseball team were unable to get to Boston last night. The indications are that the road will be tied up to-day from New York to Buffalo.

At a late hour C. W. Webb said the men on strike were watchmen. There was no trouble with the engineers and firemen. He intended to put on new men and would surely have trains running this morning. At 11 o'clock J. J. Holland of the Executive Board of the Knights of Labor stated that he had not ordered the strike, but thought that the head of the local division of the Knights of Labor might have done so. Several others said last night this would prove to be the biggest strike the people in the east had seen for some time.

Vice President Webb was finally found and interviewed. He said the strike extended only to West Albany. About 800 men were out. All men who went out from the employ of the road last evening would be promptly discharged this morning. Those who remained true to the company would be well taken care of and amply protected. He said all men who came to work for the rest of the roads would be taken in all good cases who applied for work in the morning, so far as they were needed. With great emphasis Mr. Webb announced that he would fight the strikers to the bitter end. He said the new set of demands published yesterday he had not seen and knew nothing about. He announced that the last mail had pulled out of the depot at 7 o'clock last night with four mail cars, but no passenger cars were attached to the train. He stated that no attempt would be made to run trains until morning. Everything would be left at a standstill just as the men left off. There were no means to get to Albany or New England last night, but the opening up of the avenues of trade would be begun to-day. The railway company called upon Wm. Superintendent of Police Byrnes and asked for protection. The police are now guarding the company's tracks and property all along the line in this city. The inspector remained at headquarters all night. There has been no violence thus far.

ALBANY, Aug. 9. The strike in this section extends to the switchmen, yardmen and some brakesmen. The North Shore express, carrying the United States mail arrived here at 8 o'clock last night from New York. An attempt was made to run it out of here at 10 o'clock, but it was stalled by strikers, who put on the air brake. The train got away, however, after midnight. No attempt was made to run another train from here last night.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 8.—The local assembly held a meeting last night. Orders were received from New York at 8 p.m. ordering a complete strike of the Knights of Labor on the Central Hudson system. Train three was the first to be affected in this city. The train reached the city on its regular time at 9 p.m. and was abandoned by its crew of trainmen. One trainman was put on the train here and it proceeded on its way west on time.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9. There is no trouble reported on the Lake Shore and Nickel Plate, which are Vanderbilt roads. It is thought there will be no strike on these roads.

A GREAT SUCCESS

That's What Warden Durston Calls the Kemmler Electrocute.

ALBANY, Aug. 9. Warden Durston passed here yesterday afternoon on his way to New York. "The execution was a great success," he said, "as the official reports will show. The public can be sober, second thought will feel that there is the better mode of carrying out legal executions. Read the statements of all the doctors carefully and you will see that the execution was successful. Much of the matter telegraphed from Auburn was for effect. Strip this of the verbage and a different impression will be formed."

Waterworks for Lindsay

LINDSAY, Aug. 9. Mr. Dale of Toronto, representing a New York company, has made a proposal to the town, containing all the advantages of former offers with additional in the form of extra drinking fountains, water-privileges for flushing sewers, higher stand pipe and consequently greater pressure; but above all the supply to be drawn from artesian wells and not from the muddy Scugog. That one year hence Lindsay should have a surplus of watermains is likely to be an accomplished fact.

VALIANT JUSTICE LILLY.

GUARDED BY SOLDIERS HE DARES ADMINISTER JUSTICE.

A Novel Scene in the Mountains of Old Kentucky For the First Time in Two Years Court is Held in Perry County—The Judge Encircled by Bayonets

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 9. The first session of court held in over two years in Hazard, Perry county, Ky., opened last Saturday. The famous vendetta and Perry county war cases are being tried there. The scene is one of the strangest ever witnessed in the United States. Hundreds of backwoodsmen and mountaineers are crowded into the little village. State troops with drawn bayonets encircle the judge and jury, while heavy detachments of the same are keeping a sharp outlook among those who have crowded into Hazard to listen to the trial of the murderers of Eversole. The town is isolated and a correspondent has just arrived in Cincinnati after traveling over one hundred miles before reaching a railroad. Several months ago the Court House was burned down at midnight by a masked band, whose cry was that Perry County had no need for law or lawyers. Judge J. T. Lilly had engendered the wrath of the mountain outlaws, who have sworn that once threatened his life. On account of the burning of the courthouse he was compelled to have a tent built in which to hold court. It is loosely constructed of light canvas and he sits behind a large store box, with the soldiers about him. On boards laid across small boxes the public is seated, the lawyers occupying chairs in front of the Judge. Among the latter is Judge William Hurst, who has not been back there since he was shot a few months ago until this term of court. He has been employed by Mrs. Eversole to assist in bringing to justice the murderers of her husband. The next day after he was shot Judge Hurst received a letter from Fulton French, the leader of the French faction, saying: "You got, and that quick."

Capt. Hurst was a brave soldier in the civil war and lost an eye at Mission Ridge, but he knew what French's warning meant and he left Hazard at once.

The proceedings on the first day were of the strangest character. Judge Lilly called court to order at 9 o'clock a.m. and Sheriff Fields walked to the edge of the tent and announced in a loud voice, "Hear ye, hear ye, the court in session and all men within the hearing of the court are notified that the honorable judge of the Circuit Court is on the bench. God save the Commonwealth."

At this announcement an immense number of people crowded about the Judge. Sixteen men were found who could act as members of the Grand Jury, according to the law. Judge Lilly then began his instructions to the Grand Jury. He has become somewhat brave with the militia back of him, and was very severe in his instructions. "As you all witness," said he, "I am again here to hold court. I have missed several terms in your county, and for reasons best known to myself I was satisfied that a court could not be held, and having had my life threatened, had every reason to believe I would be assassinated if I came to Perry. Now, it all lies with you. Do you want a court, that you may bring offenders to justice? I know the reputation of Perry too well, and when the people learn that a man's life is more valuable than that of a hog, no one will be punished more severely for murder than for horse stealing."

People seemed amazed at the Judge's stern remarks, for he had never before talked so plainly, but he was now backed by the militia. Several tough looking characters walked hurriedly out of the tents as if anxious to inform some faction that Judge Lilly was getting too severe. Continuing, Judge Lilly said, "I now turn to a page in the statutes of Kentucky which defines the word murder and the law upon that subject. It seems that the people of Perry do not know that there is such a word. Why, gentlemen, this city is over seventy years old and but one man in all that time has been convicted for murder, and he for a short term of years in the penitentiary, though several men have been tried for it in this county. This is appalling, and I can ask you only a word instead. The records show these things. I have called this extra term of court to give you one more opportunity to show that you want it. Now, do your duty. I will say that if this court amounts to nothing there will be no use of ever again trying to hold court in Perry. My life is in danger. I want you to diligently search and inquire into all crime in Perry County and bring criminals to justice. Render true verdicts. If it is murder say so. Don't say manslaughter. Yes and amen. There stand the ruins of your court-house. They speak for themselves. I want you to find out who burned it. It is a matter which comes home to you and reaches your pocket-books. Set an example."

Nearly two hours was taken up with instructing the Grand Jury, and after some few preliminaries the Court adjourned over until Tuesday.

The sellers of liquor and "moonshiners" are hiding in the mountains almost within a stone's throw of where Court is being held. Judge Lilly will order Capt. Gaither, who is in charge of the State troops, to seize all the whisky in Hazard and destroy it. A building used by a saloon keeper was taken charge of to-day by the troops, to be used for storing away goods belonging to the Commissary Department. A citizen walked into the door shortly after it had been broken open and made some remarks about the brandy left there by the fleeing saloonist and a lieutenant ordered him hustled out at the point of the bayonet, which was done. The sound situation in Perry among men is not exaggerated. Many honest citizens are afraid to make a move towards indicting outlaws for fear of consequences after the troops are away. Of the great number of people killed within the past few years not one has ever been punished. Few, if any, have ever been arrested. Social lines have been so drawn through political means and otherwise that outlawry reigns unmanageable.

JUBILANT BUENOS AYREANS.

The City Illuminated in President Pellegrini's Honor.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 9.—The citizens here are jubilant over the elevation of Dr. Pellegrini to the presidency. Crowds paraded the streets bearing banners and joyful devices. The city was illuminated last night. The governors of all the provinces have sent telegrams to Pellegrini congratulating him upon his accession to the presidency.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

A GLADSTONIAN RETURNED WITHOUT OPPOSITION.

Mutiny at the Garrison at Chatham—Socialist Fight Near Zurich—Cholera's Ravages at Jeddah—Twenty Persons Drowned in the Pilsen Accident.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The election to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons for the east division of Carmarthenshire caused by the death of David Pugh, Home Ruler, took place Thursday. Thomas, Gladstonian, was returned without opposition.

A portion of the army service corps attached to the garrison at Chatham have mutinied. They alleged their sergeants were imposing vexatious and needless duties upon them without authority from superior officers. The men refused to parade and barricaded themselves in a storehouse. Twenty were arrested and imprisoned.

A fight occurred yesterday between a number of Socialists near Zurich. Several were killed and a number wounded.

There are 170 cases of the worst type of cholera at Jeddah. The authorities have forbidden pilgrims who have been to Mecca to embark at Jeddah.

Twenty of the passengers who were on the train that was thrown down an embankment near Pilsen Wednesday are missing. It is feared they were drowned.

The French and Swiss Anarchists have held a conference at Les Buches in Savoy.

Of late there has been an appalling number of suicides among children in Germany. A large percentage of these self-murders have taken place among school children as the result of over-study, failure to pass examinations and similar causes, and it is suggested that school discipline be relaxed as a means of lessening the suicidal tendency.

Mr. Rowell, editor of The Midland Tribune, has been sentenced to six months' imprisonment for publishing a boycott resolution.

Emperor William bade the Queen farewell last evening and left for Heligoland amid cheers and a salute.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK.

Unfavorable Crop Reports—Rise in Breadstuffs—Business Failures.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's corroborate late favorable crop reports from the south and southwest, and the rather unfavorable grain reports from the west and northwest. Southern merchants at interior distributing points are ordering with considerable freedom owing to the size of the yields of cotton, rice and other products. On the firmer tone of the money market with some manipulation of rates and with the aid of reports of damage to the corn crop, the New York stock market was depressed and unsettled, prices recovered slightly at the close of the week, though stock speculation continues dull and uninteresting. Reserved stocks peculation has decreased the volume of July bank clearings at New York and Boston below the totals for recent months, but the grand total of clearings at 52 cities during July aggregates $4,868,305,777, a gain over July last year of 20.7 per cent.

The wheat markets have been more bullish on crop damage reports, and prices are up 2½c. Indian corn has been likewise affected and gains 3½c per bushel, and oats out of sympathy are 5½c higher. Cable despatches, exclusively to Bradstreet's, show that the world's wheat stocks decreased 383,000 bushels during July, 1890, while in 1889 they increased 2,835,000 bushels. European afloat and American wheat stocks decreased during the seven months ended Aug. 1, 1890, 46,250,000 bushels as compared with a decrease of 61 627,000 bushels in a like portion of 1889.

A feature of the week has been the buoyancy of leather. Boot and shoe manufacturers have not thus far been able to secure a corresponding advance, though it is unlikely that additional orders will be taken at former prices. Hides, too, are strong.

Cattle and hogs continue to come forward at the west, the former being $5 per cwt. higher than last week. In hog products there has been an active demand and firm prices.

Pig iron is unchanged in price, although a few makers report a better demand. Steel rail makers after consultation announce that prices will soon be advanced $1 to $1.50 per ton.

Drygoods are in increased demand, cotton goods prices were affected by the high cost of raw material and are very firm. Print cloths and brown and bleached goods tend upward. Some improvement is noted in the demand for men's wear woolens. Raw wool continues weak, although rather more business has been done in leading seaboard markets. Sugar is 1-16c lower.

Dun-Wiman's Report

New York, Aug. 9.—Dun, Wiman & Co. in their Weekly Review of Trade say: Less favorable crop prospects, closer money markets and further delay in action on the Tariff Bill in the Senate have increased the uncertainty which retards business. In spite of a sharp advance in wheat, corn, oats, oil and coffee, the general average of prices for commodities is a shade lower than a week ago and the stock market has been dull and depressed.

The present state of trade throughout the country appears satisfactory for the season and reports are almost uniformly confident.

The crop outlook is, on the whole, less promising. Chicago reports that hot and dry weather is cutting down the yield, though complaint is not general in other respects. There is evidence of irregularity of conditions. St. Paul and Detroit note excellent prospects. St. Louis reports corn suffering in the southwest, and Milwaukee great need of rain. Wheat has risen 4c, with sales of 25,000,000 bushels, corn 3¾c., with sales of 18,000,000 bushels and oats 5c, while pork, hogs and cotton are unchanged. Iron ore and pig are inactive and weak. The outlook depends largely upon the extent of injury to crops, the action of Congress regarding duties and the foreign complications which affect the demand for gold.

Domestic exports of products continue small and imports very large, and it is still uncertain how far foreign selling of American securities will go. Better prices came in the stock exchange on Friday, but the trouble between shippers and trunk lines as to eastbound bills of lading is not yet settled.

The business failures during the last seven days as reported are: For the United States 180, Canada 29, total 209 as compared with 189 last week. For the corresponding week last year the figures were 201, representing 164 in the United States and 37 in Canada.

WAS IT A MURDER?

The Body of a Man Found in the River Near Fort Niagara.

YOUNGSTOWN, N.Y., Aug. 9.—The body of a man found in the river near Fort Niagara suggests foul play. It appears to be that of a man about 40 years of age, 5 feet 7 inches in height, dark brown hair, sandy chin whiskers mixed with grey, grey eyes and weighing about 160 pounds. It did not appear to have been in the water more than three or four days. The wearing apparel consisted of a pair of calfskin boots, patched on the inside, dark cotton socks darned at the toe with blue yarn. The top of the head was fractured as if a blow had been dealt with a club, and the closed mouth betokened that the man had died before getting into the water. The finger nails were loose, the left arm fractured below the shoulder, the right leg out of joint at the hip and the left leg fractured above the knee.

The Grenville Canal Defalcation.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—A. F. Wood, M.L.A. of Madoc, commissioner to investigate the alleged mismanagement in connection with the Grenville canal, arrived from Carillon to-night, having adjourned the investigation sine die for the purpose of obtaining further evidence from outside parties. He is reticent as to the nature of the evidence, but from other sources your correspondent learned that the defalcations of the late superintendent, Forbes, would amount to at least between $25,000 and $30,000, and that they will cover, probably, a period of ten years.

CUT OUT BY A DAUGHTER.

Charlie Thorne's Child Supplants Her Own Mother.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—Everybody remembers Charlie Thorne, the actor—robust, handsome Charlie, with his fine physique, laughing eyes and taking ways—and everybody remembers his escapade with a woman—a wife—and its usual result—the condonation of the man's offense, the dissociation of the woman's.

Now comes a story from over [illegible] that Charlie Thorne's daughter Sharra, a slip of a girl not quite 15 years old, has been married to the lover and companion of her own mother, a man with whom the woman had cast her fortunes after leaving her third, or what the world might complacently regard as her third husband. This trio are said to be living peacefully and happily in Geneva, Switzerland. The axiom of "like father like son" finds an illustration here, but with a change of sex, in "like daughter like mother," for the inclination of the child-wife towards the bizarre is wonderfully reflective of the madcap ventures of her mother in her younger days.

While yet in their teens, the mother was one of the belles of Philadelphia and moved in the best Quaker City society. She was the daughter of ex-Mayor Swift of Philadelphia, famous for the stand he took in the Abolition riots a few years before the war of the rebellion. Miss Swift was beautiful both in face and form. Of superb carriage, vivacious, intelligent, a student in belles-lettres, she attracted very many admirers in that particular set in which the Binneys, the Cadwaladers, the Sergeants and the Prices moved. Her marriage to Henri Brown of Philadelphia was a social event, and their prospects for a happy wedded life were excellent until the husband with strange persistency wrecked his life and lost his wife.

Mrs. Brown had an antipathy for actors and actresses and would not, under any circumstances, permit any member of the theatrical profession to be presented to her. It so happened that her husband was the intimate of several actors, among them Charlie Thorne, who was as much a favorite among men as he was among women. Mr. Brown announced one night that he intended to bring Thorne to dinner the next evening. To this Mrs. Brown strenuously objected. The husband insisted, the wife protested, until at last the quarrel became so bitter that Mrs. Brown exclaimed: "When you bring your actor friend in the front door I go out of the back." Determined to have his own way Brown took his wife at her word and said that she could go where it suited her, but once out of his house she should never return. Only then did Mrs. Brown give tearful obedience to her husband's wishes, and Charlie Thorne came to dinner.

The result was disastrous. The actor's personal magnetism, his wit, his cleverness as a reparte and his adroitness in the art of delicate compliment soon changed the young wife's notion of actors. In a week Thorne was making love, in a fortnight his love was returned, and in a month he had eloped with the wife of his friend. She took her two children with her. Then came a remarkable circumstance. Mrs. Brown's magnificent head of chestnut hair became snowy white within a year, although her face retained its youthful contour and complexion and her figure was as graceful as of old.

The liaison continued until Thorne's death. Mrs. Brown was devotedly attached to the man who had stolen her from her husband, and watched over him until he died. Then she put on mourning, and for two years displayed all the outward tokens of grief-stricken widowhood. Brown, the betrayed husband, had meantime died.

About that time artistic and feminine New York was worshipping at the shrine of an olive-skinned Italian artist, Francesco Marra, who had a studio on Fourteenth-street. He was fond of painting actresses and young society women. Mrs. Browne-Thorne visited him out of curiosity, fell in love with him and married him. She then had a comfortable income of her own, Marra closed up his atelier, and with his companion and her three children—one of them a daughter of Thorne—sailed for Paris, where they engaged luxurious quarters on the Rue Francois Premier. Theodore Tilton was said to have been a frequent visitor there. But Mrs. Brown-Thorne did not live happily with her new husband. He abused her cruelly, and one day she ran off with a Signor Fanelli, a quondam friend of Marra.

It is this man who, after professing love for the mother and eloping with her, has made love to and married the 14-year-old daughter.

CANADIAN OARSMEN.

The Amateurs' Annual Meeting—Several Scullers Disqualified.

MONTREAL, Aug. 9.—The annual general meeting of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen was held here last night at the Windsor Hotel, Mr. A. R. Boswell, the president, in the chair. The treasurer's report showed an unexpended balance of $8.53. It was decided to hold the next annual regatta in Ottawa if the club of that city accepted the responsibility. It was explained that the Hop Bitters Cup was the property of the Association to be held as a perpetual challenge cup. Mr. Grant of the Bayside defended Gray's standing, but he was not heard. The subcommittee sent in their well-known report on the standing of several oarsmen, which was adopted, thus making professionals of the two Donohues, Lizell, Gray, Curran, Robertson and Delaney.

The following officers were elected: A. R. Boswell, Toronto, president; Col. Sweney, Toronto, first vice-president; J. J. Stewart, Hamilton, second vice-president; W. A. Littlejohn, Toronto, honorary secretary; James W. Clegg, Toronto, treasurer. Executive committee: E. W. Howard, Jr., James Pearson and R. Hobson. It will thus be seen that the only change in the board is the substitution of Col. Sweney for Mr. Sydney Smith.

Losses Caused by Flames.

VALUABLE JEWELS STOLEN.

Burglars Make Another Rich Haul at Newport.

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 9.—Two robberies, two attempts at robbery and an attempt to blow out a safe are the principal items on the police record to-day. The police know nothing about the robbery of W. H. Osgood's cottage, where jewelry, valued at $5000 was stolen. Among the jewels were diamonds and pearls. The thieves left behind them what would have been a monster haul of solid silverware and toilet articles. This robbery has [illegible] reports a couple of New York detectives. [illegible] hope to be able to make something out of it.

Found Dead in His Cabin.

KINGSTON, Aug. 9.—Yesterday afternoon James Allen, second engineer on the steamer Corsican, died on board from peritonitis. When the steamer was lying at Charlotte Allen went ashore and consulted a physician. He purchased a bottle of medicine. After [illegible] cleared from Charlotte Allen [illegible] a short time afterwards was [illegible] in the cabin.

CATTLE TRADE HORRORS.

Mr. Plimsoll "the Sailors' Friend," who formerly represented Liverpool in the Imperial House of Commons and who visited Canada a few years ago, has published an illustrated pamphlet on the horrors of Atlantic cattle ships, with the object of securing the adoption by parliament of a measure which he is promoting for the purpose of protecting the lives of sailors employed on cattle steamers. His bill prohibits altogether the carrying of timber deckloads in winter, makes the use of bulkheads in iron vessels compulsory, and forbids the lading of live cattle from any ship starting from any port west of the twelth parallel of west longitude. If passed it will seriously affect the business of those steamship companies whose vessels ply between Canada and ports in Great Britain. In his pamphlet Mr. Plimsol dwells especially on the loss of the Erin, of the National line, which sailed from New York last December with 527 live cattle on board and 74 men, and also refers to the later loss of the Egypt, of the same line. The Erin has never been heard of, and the National Company has behaved with peculiar parsimony toward the women and families who were dependent upon the men who went down with her. In midwinter the Erin used to carry 275 beasts on her main deck and 252 on her upper deck. This cargo made her top heavy, and the insurance inspectors placed her limit at 475, whereupon the owners agreed to take the insurance risks on the other fifty-two. They had to pay for the dead cattle, of course, but not a sixpence for the seventy-four men. The horrors of the cattle ships, according to Mr. Plimsoll, equal those of the former slave ships, when slaves were packed in the hold like herrings. The beasts are packed so close that they hold each other up. If one falls from weakness it is trampled upon, and in rough weather it is impossible to feed or water them properly. When the ship rolls heavily the horns of the animals are driven into one another's sides and not unfrequently their legs are broken; yet they are not put out of their misery, for that would invalidate the claim for insurance; so they must lie in agony until they die. The men are little better cared for than the cattle, and the whole system is maintained in order to get a little better prices for their animals, which, being killed and dressed after their arrival in the old country, are sold for English beef. The latter brings a penny a pound more than American beef, making each animal more valuable if killed in England than if killed in America.

TWENTY-EIGHT protests against the return of Ontario members have been entered. The costs in each case, if the cases come to trial, will be at least $2,000. So that a total expenditure of $56,000 will be made. So far as the Liberal respondents are concerned, the Empire's government bribery fund of $66 66, will be partly well absorbed.

THERE will be an immense gathering of people at Wick, in Scotland, on the 27th and 28th inst. The Highland Land League has issued a call for a conference and meeting there on these dates for the purpose of discussing how best to obtain the following ends:—(1) To restore to the Highland people their inherent rights in their native soil; (2) to abolish the game laws; (3) to amend the laws relating to sea, lake and river fishing; (4) to restore to the people their foreshore rights; (5) to abolish the imposition by landlords of royalties upon mines and quarries; (6) to reform the administration of the law; and generally to promote the welfare of the people throughout the Highlands and islands of Scotland. This is a large programme. The first plank seems to be impracticable under the existing conditions of society if it means that the Highlanders should be restored to possession of the land once held by the clans. The others are probably feasible enough, and every Canadian of Highland origin will be glad to see them realized.

A LEGAL decision has been rendered in Scotland which will tend to affect tea-party operantons and gossiping junkettings. The cause of womans' rights also receives a sad blow. Recently, in Glasgow, Scotland, George Sharp, builder, applied to have a Jane Hannah, a friend of his wife, interdicted from entering his house in his absence. Jane defended the case, stating that she had Mrs. Sharp's permission to come to the house. This was denied by Mr. Sharp, but he stood on his rights, that Mrs. Sharp could not receive any visitor not even a near relative—against his wishes. This contention, the court holds, is sound law. The interdict asked for has been granted. This is very severe on Mrs. Sharp and married ladies generally. Here we have the law asserting the right of the husband to bring any "brute" he chooses to his home, and compelling the wife to entertain him, while her own particular crony, laden to the gunwale with luscious gossip, is prevented from delivering her cargo to the delectation of the much-abused wife. The date of the millenium has evidently been postponed.

THE Winnipeg Free Press of the 4th gives an account of the effects throughout Manitoba of the great hailstorm which occurred last week. In the Deloraine country the crops in many places were destroyed. Those left standing were injured. At Manitou and immediately west and north of it much damage was done. At Pilot Mound a thousand acres were destroyed almost in one block near the woods. At Killarney the hail is said to have "mown down large grain field in all directions." And so on. A leading Winnipeg miller estimates that 100,000 acres of wheat have been wiped out and more seriously injured; but this says the Globe is surely a mistake. There is always a tendency to exaggerate the losses caused by a general storm, and it will probably be found when the crop is threshed that the destruction was not nearly so great as it appeared to be. It is to be hoped at any rate that this may be the case. The Manitobans have had extremely hard luck with their wheat ever since 1882, and a big yield with good prices is much needed.

Statistical George.

Mr. George Johnson, Dominion statistician publishes a letter denying an alleged statement that he "will cook the census returns so as to make them Tory Campaign sheets." He says regarding his past record, "I have invariably taken the conclusions the statistics point to, no matter how much they have been at variance with preconceived notions Well done, George! But what about some of the statements in the Statistical Abstract? Let us look for instance at the volume for 1886. On page 193, paragraph 183 says:—"The decline in the price of wheat during the past five years has been very marked. In 1881, in Montreal, it was $1.33 per bushel and in 1886 only 85 cts. per bushel, being a reduction of 48 cents. According to United States official reports, the export price of wheat in 1881 was $1.11, and in 1886, 87 cents, a difference of 24 cents a bushel." Here we have the fact that notwithstanding the mighty and potent N.P., and right under the eye of the Dominion Statistician, wheat tumbled in price 48 cents per bushel "What a fall was there, my countrymen!" It is true it fell in the United States as well as in Canada, but the plunge downward was just twice as great in the Dominion. If Mr. Johnson had "invariably taken the conclusion the statistics point to, no matter how much they have been at variance with preconceived notions," he would have shown how utterly fallacious the arguments of his political leaders were when they asserted that the N.P. would increase the price of grain and bring wealth to the farmer. Did he do this? Not much On the contrary he sat down and wrote a different story. On the very next page of the Statistical Abstract he said: "Yet the advantage cannot fail to be seen of having a fiscal policy, that by creating a home market for almost the whole amount of Canadian grown wheat has given the farmer better prices for his grain, and prevented him from being the large sufferer he otherwise would have been through the fall in prices." Possibly Mr. Johnson considers this a piece of sublime truth telling. It is patent, however, to the most oblique visioned Tory that George and the truth were very divergent on that occasion. Many other instances could be given of how Mr. Johnson makes his "preconceived notions" tally with his statistics. We forbear, however. George Washington said, "I cannot tell a lie." Our George is cleverer than he. He can if he likes, and when he starts out to do it, he crowds all the fish stories of the season into the waste basket.—Perth Courier.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Trouble in the Council of the Ontario Pharmacy College.

TORONTO, Aug. 9.—There is trouble in the Council of the Ontario Pharmacy College. Chairman Jeffrey of the Education Committee and D. Avignon have resigned, in consequence there being no quorum yesterday an adjournment was made until February, 1891, no action being taken to provide successors for these gentlemen. The difficulty grows out of a demand for Principal Sutherland's resignation in consequence of an article published by him in The Canadian Pharmaceutical Journal. The principal says that the charges against him of being too despotic, appropriating the lion's share of the institution and renting out the balance to inferior talent are false, and that he will enter a libel suit and ventilate the case in the courts.

James Lynch was charged at the Police Court yesterday with selling liquor without a license at Dufferin Park. Two witnesses named William Kent and John Bolley explained the modus operandi. On applying to defendant for a glass of beer he told them he didn't sell beer, but he thereupon gave them two or three matches, saying: "I'll sell you the matches and give you what you want to drink." They both accepted these terms and had two glasses of beer. The police seized the express wagon Lynch had in charge and found three dozen bottles of beer, two quarts of whisky and glasses for drinking purposes. The case was remanded till Tuesday.

About four weeks ago Joseph McCullough, 40 years of age and a painter by trade, left his home, 134 Centre-street, early in the morning and has not returned since. Mrs. McCullough has two small children to support and is naturally very anxious to know what has become of her husband.

The C. P. R. and G. T. R. have proved themselves as good as their word. Yesterday men were placed on guard on the crossings at Brock-avenue, Avenue-road, Bathurst street and Dufferin-street, and the work of constructing gates will be proceeded with forthwith.

P. C. Dewhurst, who was stabbed by Frank Hooke while attempting to arrest Hooke and his companion, Philip Gates, at McMurrich street and Dovercourt-road early Friday morning, is resting easily, but his wounds are of a very serious character. In addition to the wound in the neck, which is seven inches in length, Dewhurst received a stab on the arm. Gates was arraigned at the Police Court yesterday morning and remanded for a week. Hooke is still at large. At an early hour yesterday morning he was seen in Dovercourt-road and obtained 10 cents from the engineer at William Forbes' planing mill. The police description of Hooke is as follows: Age 46, height 6 feet, lame, mustache auburn, trade engineer, birth Canadian, descent German.

At the Trinity College examinations the Bishop Strachan Scholarship of $300 went to T. S. Locke, St. Catharines Collegiate Institute. First Dickson Scholarship of $140, A. W. Myer, Niagara Falls South High School. Second Dickson Scholarship of $100, V. L. Fessenden Niagara Falls South High school.

Only a Sister.

My sister and I each tried a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters with great success for bilious headache. We recommend it to all as a specific for headache. MISS CARRIE SCHERER, Baden, Ont. 2w32d

History of 15 Years.

For fifteen years we have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as a family medicine for summer complaints and diarrhœa, and we never had anything to equal it. We highly recommend it. SAMUEL WEBB, Corbett, Ont. 2w32d

The Root of Evil.

Dyspepsia and constipation are the sources of various diseases, but root and branch may be removed by using Burdock Blood Bitters according to directions. It is endorsed by the press, the public and the profession, and cannot be excelled for the cure of constipation, dyspepsia and all diseases arising therefrom. 3w32d

Trouble at Melita.

Mrs. W. H. Brown, of Melita, Man., states that two of her children and two others belonging to a neighbor, were cured of the worst form of summer complaint by one bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry nature's specific for all summer complaints. 2w32d

How to Catch a Lion.

A fierce lion, the terror of the Sahara Desert, was recently captured by the following simple method. The sands of the desert were passed through a sieve. The Lion of course remained in the sieve. His majesty had in his vest pocket a can of Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder, which he was taking home to his Queen. 8 th s-w

There was a cook in our town,

TENNYSON'S SCHOOLMASTER.

He is William Clark, 83 Years of Age Now Living.

In view of the fast vanishing vistas of the early days of the Poet Laureate, it is important that such facts can be laid hold of should be secured and recorded. To this end we have endeavored to clear up the various conflicting statements as to Carney School at Somersby, and to fix with some degree of certainty upon the boy schoolmaster who still survives in the person of Mr. William Clark of Telford.

The village school at Somersby appears to have been first opened about 1815, by Charles Clark, born at Hoghington in 1778. The schoolroom was a portion of the granary over the big stable belonging to the old Elizabethan house next to the Manor House vicarage and the schoolmaster lived with the tenant farmer Mr. William Kent, who then occupied this house and the farm afterwards tenanted by the Saunders. Charles Clark leaving Somersby about 1820 to fill the post of private tutor in a family at Gumby. William Cadney a relative Hugo Tennyson, born in 1778, became schoolmaster, and the school was removed to a picturesque old sandstone building in the heart of the Holywell Glen. The building and the adjacent cottage had been used by persons who in former days visited the spring which to this day trickles from out the sandstone rock, and which then collected in a basin or reservoir for their bathing. At the present time the water of the spring is received into a mass of earth and rotten leaves, through which it percolates into the stream below. It was over the entrance to the glen leading to the school that Cadney placed the inscription, partly from Horace and partly from Virgil, and translated to and now lost, for ever and ever, unless it was noted and recorded by one of the Tennysons.

Alfred Tennyson, the future Laureate, left Louth Grammar School at Christmas 1820, and his brother Charles at midsummer 1821. Cadney was then engaged by Dr. Tennyson to teach the boys at home at the Rectory House, but after a time they disagreed about something, and then the doctor sought out the most likely scholar in the school to come to his house and look over the arithmetical exercises of the boys. He had fixed upon his choice in William Clark and consequently Charles, born at Big Enderby, May 16 1817. He was about one of those boys, as often met with in all schools, who have a special aptitude for figures, and "doing sums," and this faculty has remained to him through life. He is now living at Telford, hale and well, having been struck with paralysis, he lost the use of his right arm at the very early age of six months, through this circumstance he received a rather fuller education than some boys of his time, and developed into a schoolmaster and land surveyor, acting all his life with the Lincoln family. He passed nineteen years of his early manhood at South Ormsby, and nearby, and then settled down to the work of land surveying for the district around Telford, which is still continued. It is stated that the boy and their pocket money carried the game on the farm, so they were turned out and the old building, were destroyed very much to the regret of the surviving scholars of the place, William Clark.

Cadney then removed his school to an old house on the site of the cottage now standing west of the Manor House. The boys of Tennyson have been the original pottery house of Somersby, and was burnt down Nov. 5, 1875 during that time in the occupation of Jonathan Clark, brother to William, who is now living at Big Enderby, is in holding the office of parish clerk to the two places. Long before this fire Cadney had removed his school to Bracknell, and the school operations seem to have closed in Somersby parish, the children going to Telford and other places. Cadney closed his own course of instruction in this world in the Spilsby Union house at Hundleby, April 2, 1847, aged 84 years. Charles Clark died at Horncastle, Dec. 29, 1885, aged 77 years, and was buried at Gautby. In his life time he also claimed the distinction of having taught the young Tennysons some part of the rudiments of their education, but from the above dates, which we have taken pains to verify as far as the lapse of time and the absence of written records will allow, it could seem to have been between Charles and Alfred went to Louth Grammar School—Charles in 1815 and Alfred in 1816.

William Clark, the survivor of this interesting group of the Laureate's early contemporaries, is quite clear as to the above circumstances, but of course he cannot fix all the dates, some of these are deduced from the date of his birth. For instance, he says he was 11 years of age when he went to Charles Clark's school, and he remained under him two years, this would give 1820 as the time when Charles went to Gautby, where it is certain that he lived many years, being employed in the old hall when it was kept up in good style by the Vyner family. This old mansion was regarded by many as the original "Bleak House." It was pulled down about eighteen years ago.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A DISCRIMINATING SHOT.

He Meant to Miss the Animal if it Was a Calf.

The following story is told of a couple of sportsmen, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Their names were Hoffman and Cowan and both were excellent shots and not a little given to boasting of their skill. One day they went on a deer-hunting expedition, and after getting into the woods, where they expected to find deer, they separated. Shortly after Hoffman heard Cowan's gun fired off, when he immediately went over to the spot expecting to be obliged to help Cowan to hang up a deer. He found Cowan very busy loading his gun and shouted out:

"Hallo, Cowan! What did you shoot at just now?"

"None of your business. Go along over the hill."

Surprised at this short and crusty answer Hoffman looked around and discovered a calf among the bushes. Again he cried out:

"I say Cowan did you shoot at that calf?"

"Yes, I did; but it's none of your business."

"Why, what made you shoot at it?"

"I took it for a deer."

"Well, did you hit it?"

"No; I missed it."

"How did you miss it?"

"I wasn't quite sure that it wasn't a calf."

"You are a pretty sportsman," rejoined Hoffman, "to shoot at a calf for a deer, and miss that."

"Don't make a fool of yourself," replied Cowan. "I shot at it just as to hit it if it was a deer and miss it if it was a calf."

A ROMANCE OF MILLIONS.

The Heir to the Tichborne Millions Found on a Demented Australian.

Sir Henniker Heaton, who goes to Carlsbad on account of ill health, brought on by overwork, has given further details concerning the letter received from Australia about the new Tichborne claimant. He says it is his belief that the Tichborne family—that is, the present holders of the titles and estate—almost prefer not going more deeply into the subject, as of course, the trial would cost a large sum of money, and the last trial well nigh ruined them.

He also says that even supposing the new Australian claimant should return to England he would have absolutely no claim to the title and estates, because the present holders, Sir Henry and his family, are protected by an act of Parliament which was passed in order to enable the administrators of the estate to pay off the many debts resulting from the great litigation.

There is very little doubt that the Australian is the real Sir Roger. A curious fact is that the man named as "the claimant" was well acquainted with the Australian and had been many years in his society, and Mr. Heaton does not doubt that it was from him that "the claimant" obtained his marvelous knowledge of the Tichbornes. He had even gone so far as to study and be able to produce the real man's handwriting. It is also probable, Heaton says, that, "the claimant" reproduced on his own person the birth and other marks which appear on the real man's body.

Heaton vouches for the respectability of the people who have communicated to him the remarkable information contained in the telegram and letter from Australia, and while he himself desires to keep out of the matter personally, he has little doubt of the truth of the story as told by the present Australian claimant, who for many years had been treated as the lunatic brother of his jailer. It now transpires that the effect of the long confinement has been in reality to deprive him of his sanity. Whether he has recovered his mental balance or no is not known.

At any rate it was known that he was left fairly well off by the deceased jailer, and even supposing he should come to England to claim the property and lose the case, he would not be in a condition of poverty by any means. However, it is beyond question that the Tichbornes would rather experience no further interference in the matter, but favor hushing it up altogether.

The Tichborne solicitors are not willing to give any information. They said they had no authority from Sir Henry to talk, and pretended not to believe the story, though it is known that they have sent a special messenger to Australia to sift the matter. They say that if the Australian proves his title Sir Henry will not oppose him, but they are naturally not anxious that proof should be forthcoming.—London Standard.

FORTUNE IN A CAT'S-EYE.

It Does not Get on the Back Fence Either. Costly Gems.

The largest perfect diamond in the world is now the Imperial, that was exhibited at the Paris Exposition last year, and which is valued at one million of dollars. Once the most valuable stone in the world, and is owned by a syndicate.

The largest and most beautiful cat-eye in the world was in one hundred and seventy carats, is owned in London, and is insured for 30,000 rupees. The finest private collection of pearls in the world is owned by Mme. Desse, sister-in-law of M. Tales.

The largest emerald in the world weighs 2 ounces, and is in the Imperial jewel office in Vienna. The largest and costliest cat's-eye in the world is owned by Moorman, of Ceylon, who dug up himself from the mines, says the London Home Journal. He has been offered $50,000 for it, but declines to part with it at that figure, saying that if he had realized it up in London he would have received pretty nearly double that amount.

There is more fun in a sheet of sticky fly paper than in the average negro minstrel. Watch the kitten playing with it on the new carpet; the latter is ruined for ever; the kitten goes into a fit and all the women and children rush out of the house in terror. Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase as $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $216,204, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,064,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,460	10.29
Federal	10,066,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	6,470,620	10.66
Temperance and General	2,994,972	17.84
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,286	70.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 18.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their hambler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Market Mems.

There was a fairly attended market this morning. There was little change in the prices of household commodities. There was a sparse supply of berries, the crop being pretty well exhausted. Oats took a little jump in price, selling at from 43 to 45 cents.

Football.

On Wednesday, August 6th, a football match was played at Blackstock between the Port Perry and Hampton teams. This match resulted from a challenge issued by Hampton to Port Perry to play for a stake of $25 a side. The result was a victory for Port Perry by a score of one goal to none. Referee, Mr. Jno. Bennett.

Madoc's Herding System.

Madoc village council has passed a resolution, by which every boy in the village is a self-appointed cow inspector. By the terms of the resolution a premium of 25 cents is placed upon every cow that the boys find at large in the streets, and the lad who places it in pound gets the money, the owner of the animal paying the cost.

Nassau Orangmen

The members of Wellington L.O.L., No. 457, Nassau, by order of the W.M., are requested to meet in the Orange Hall, Peterborough, on Sunday next, the 10th inst., at 6:30 p.m., to attend divine service in the George Street Methodist Church. Also to meet on Tuesday, the 12th of August, at 8:30 a.m., in the Orange Hall They will then proceed to the C.P.R. station, where a train will be in waiting to take them to Norwood.

Ambitious Tweed.

F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, on behalf of interested parties in Tweed to-day (August) filed a notice of application for mandamus ordering the County Council to incorporate the village. This will necessitate a special meeting of the council in order that the by-law may come into force this year. A meeting will be held within three months of January next. Shakespeare speaks of some men having "greatness thrust upon them" and Tweed seems to be in for receiving the same treatment at the hands of some of its citizens.

Business Announcement.

The business hitherto carried on by the Dominion Illustrated Publishing Company (limited) has been purchased and will be conducted by the Sabiston Lithographic and Publishing Company, of which Mr. Richard White is President and Mr. Alex. Sabiston is Managing Director. It is hoped to add to the interest and value of the paper, both from a pictoral and literary standpoint, and to extend and improve the business in its various departments The business will be carried on in the meantime at the old premises, 73 St. James street, Montreal, under the management of Mr. J. P. Edwards, to whom all communications in connection with accounts due the old company and new business, should be addressed.

Insectivorous Birds.

The Canadian Horticulturist says:—The following birds are to be classed among the helpful kinds in the general warfare against insects:—Robins—out and other worms; swallows, nighthawks and purple martins—moth catchers; pewees striped cucumber bugs; wood thrushes and wrens cut worms; cat birds tent caterpillars; meadow larks, woodpeckers and crows wire-worms; blue-throated buntings canker worms; black, red-winged birds, jays, doves, pigeons and chippies—strawberry pests; quail—chinch bugs, locusts; whip-poor-wills—moths; hawks, all night birds, owls, etc., tanagers, and black-winged summer red-birds—cerculios. There may also be mentioned the following insect destroyers:—Nut crackers, fly catchers, chimney swifts, indigo birds, chipping and song sparrows, black birds, mocking birds, orchard orioles.

Election Expenses.

Statements of the election expenses (including printing, stationery, postage, horse hire, rent of halls, etc.,) of the several candidates in East and West Peterborough at the recent Provincial elections, have been filed with the returning officers as below:—J. R. Stratton, $1,067.45; A. R. Kidd, $741.50; Thos. Blezard $349.14. Mr. Carnegie's statement of expenses was not filed at noon to-day.

Annexation of Ashburnham.

It appears that the long pending matter of the annexation of Ashburnham to Peterborough is about to be accomplished. "Barkis is willin'" that is, Ashburnham, it is understood, is willing to anticipate the inevitable and join her fortunes with Peterborough. At the meeting of the town council on Monday night a resolution will be dealt with, making a formal proposition to Ashburnham to become a part of the town of Peterborough. The terms of union will be of the most liberal character to the village, and it is anticipated that little or no opposition will be made to the proposed annexation. Peterborough will be glad to welcome our beautiful village to the east to a closer relationship, and, no doubt, the union of the two municipalities will be of substantial benefit to both There are important industrial reasons why this union should be speedily consummated.

Westward ho! Westward ho!

That is the cry. Go west, young man, go west! Don't go west to stay permanently, but just for a spell, say from two to three days. Now there is the question of getting back and the answer is ready. Go west on the Civic Holiday with Court Little John Forester's excursion, and visit Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. In fact you can visit all these places and many more. And so cheaply! And so quickly! And so completely! Bless us, why hesitate? The fare is a mere song, and you go by C.P.R. and the biggest and finest steamers that cross the lake from Toronto to Niagara. Remember you can go from Peterborough and return at the following rates:—To Toronto, $1 75; to Niagara Falls, $2.25; to Buffalo, $2 50, Two trains leave Peterborough morning of the holiday (Aug. 14) Quick time and close connections. Look up the posters and folders and learn all particulars. 1d34

Why is it?

Reasons why the Sons of Canada picnic to Jubilee Point is the one to take in.

Because it is the cheapest. Tickets 50c., Children under 12 years, 25c.

Because it is a delightful trip. No smoke or cinders, lots of fresh air and sunshine.

Because there is good fishing and canoes will be carried free.

Because we furnish tea and hot water free and will check your baskets.

Because meals on boat and hotel are only 25 cents.

Because Doucet's orchestra will furnish music.

Because there is a Ladies' Solid Silver Watch and Chain to be drawn for.

Because you are all the Sons and Daughters of Canada.

Because there will be lots of fun and and enjoyment.

Because we do as we advertise.

Don't forget last boat leaves wharf at 7.30 a.m. 3334

An Immense Catch of Fish.

A few of our local sports as fishermen had considerable good luck the other day in securing a good sized barrel of the finny tribe, together with having a great day's sport. But you may rest assured that this is nothing to the barrels of fun and sport you can procure by investing just one dollar for a return ticket to Belleville on August 14 h, and also good for two days. Just think of this for a snap. Therefore, this is the reason that the C. M. B. A. and E. B. A. societies always carry the great crowd, because we give you extra value for what you invest. Then, by all means, secure your ticket and go with the people and the route you can enjoy yourself. Tickets to be had from the following members of the committee:—Dr. Brennan, Ed. O'Neil, W. J. Devlin, Dr. Moher, John Cronin, G. H. Giroux, Dr. McGrath P. McHugh, M. C. Collins, John McGrath, Jas. Drain, J. J. Lynch. Why, everybody will tell you that Belleville is by far the best trip on our civic holiday, and there is always loads of amusement. Grand ball game, sports, dancing. You can make up your mind that everybody attending will have the best day this season. Fishing or sailing, if you desire the same, on the Bay of Quinte If you require rest, take the boat to Massassaga Point and enjoy the fresh breezes there for the day. Remember that this excursion goes by special train at seven o'clock a.m., and leaves Belleville at seven p.m. Don't miss this, or you will regret the same for the balance of your natural lifetime. All a ticket will cost you is just one dollar bill. d

Equal Rights.

The topic of the day and that which we all want is not only Equal Rights in a political sense of the word, but in many others. Here are people throwing away their hard earned money, with unprincipled houses who do not as much as thank them for it. Why should they do it? Why not call on W. J. Morrow, where you are received courteously, your money placed to a good advantage and you are placed on a solid basis in future for buying cheap groceries. dw

Peterborough Defeats Campbellford—A Cost's Creditable Break.

The return match played on the home grounds on Friday between Campbellford and the home team, resulted, as stated in yesterday's issue, in the defeat of the visitors by an innings and 31 runs.

Peterborough went first to the bat and put together 118 runs. Some of the crack bats were dismissed for moderate figures, but others made a good showing. The double figure men were Rutherford, 14; Hamilton, W. F., 15; and Goldsmith the cost, 42. The latter deserves great credit for the tidy score he put together by good scientific cricket He also distinguished himself at the wicket. For a youngster, a record including five overs with one maiden, six wickets and only ten runs, is something to be proud of. Mr. Goldsmith, as the honest Hibernian would say, has his future before him as a cricketer, and a brilliant future it will be, if his maturer years keep faith with the promise of his youth.

Following is the score:—

The Final in the Military League Competition—Some Good Shooting Done—Capt. Dennistoun Wins the Badge—The Monthly Match—Scores of the Shooting.

The final in the Military League Matches was shot at the ranges on Friday. The following is the score in

THE LEAGUE MATCH.

	200	500	600	Tt
Capt. Dennistoun	30	30	29	89
Lt-Sergt. Mason	29	30	26	85
Pte Fitzgerald	30	25	25	80
Pte. W. A. Bell	28	26	19	73
Pte. D. Cameron	20	25	26	71
Pte. J. B. Pentland	27	26	18	71
Pte. C. Curtis	27	24	17	68
Capt. W. H. Hill	19	21	11	51
Col. Sergt. Blade	25	5	21	51
Pte. John Campbell	28	16	6	50
Grand Total				699

In this competition the standing of this Association will not be known till the provincial returns are tabulated; the result will not be known till some time next week. Capt Dennistoun, however, wins the champion badge and no doubt the association will take a good stand.

MONTHLY MATCH.

The regular monthly match was shot yesterday afternoon with the following results:—

	200	400	500	600	Tt
F. Hall	21	23	21	18	85
Capt. Dennistoun	21	18	19	20	78
W. A. Mason	20	18	24	16	78
G. Fitzgerald	22	16	16	20	74
D. Cameron	18	19	18	18	73

J. B Pentland	20	20	16	14	70
Cap. Hill	21	24	15	8	68
R. N. Smith	11	22	17	14	67
D. Belleghem	21	21	8	14	64
C. Curtis	19	16	15	12	62
A. Blade	16	18	5	14	53
H. Robinson	13	23	9	2	47
J. Campbell	20	7	9	6	42

There is one more monthly match to be shot, but is pretty certain that Capt. Dennistoun has secured the Dominion medal for the highest aggregate score. He has the highest now, and if he keeps up the record of the previous matches, cannot be displaced from first position. Several members are bunched for the second place for the Ontario medal, but the next may decide the tie and resolve the bracketting.

The Cobourg Railway.

A Movement to Connect With the Canada Pacific.

The first general meeting of the Cobourg, Northumberland and Pacific Railway Company was held, says the Belleville Ontario at Cobourg on Thursday. Mr. Mulholland has been elected president of the Company, and Mr. Jas Crossen, vice-president.

The next meeting will be held at Campbellford on the first Monday in September and all municipalities that are interested in the success of the scheme are requested to pay over the sums allotted to them for preliminary work on or before that date.

The following municipal representatives were invited to associate with the provisional directors as an advisory committee, viz.:—Messrs. W. W. Armstrong and E. G. Berk, Campbellford; John Morrison and F. Sills, Seymour; John Stewart, Brighton; Geo. Cryderman, Cramahe, and Dr. Richards, Percy. The secretary was instructed to write to Mr. Van Horne for an expression of opinion on several points that had come up.

It was thought the rural ratepayers would be better satisfied, and would vote for the bonus more readily, if the C. P. R. could be induced to build the road and it was decided, that Mr. Mulholland, (president), Mr. Kerr, and in the absence of Mr. Kerr, Mr. Guillet, be a depatation to wait upon Mr. Van Horne and interview him in regard to making the survey, building the road and carrying out the running arrangements.

River and Rice Lake Notes.

The Harwood Mills have been cutting 100,000 feet per day till recently. An accident to one of the gate shafts slightly interfered with operations. The railway is now ready for operation and the only delay in running both passengers and freight trains arises from the waiting for its formal inspection, which will probably take place next week.

The steamer "Beaver" was tied up several hours at the dock here on last Saturday because she had not a certificated engineer. Upon securing a properly qualified engineer she was allowed to resume her voyage.

Gilmours drives of logs have now reached Healy's Falls.

At Idyl Wild there is a good gathering of guests. Among them are Messrs. Cornell and Negus, of New York, and Mr. Aldridge, of Utica, N.Y. There are jolly days and nights spent at Idyl Wild. During the day they have fishing, sailing, bathing and dolce far niente enjoyment. In the evening progressive euchre and a little dance rounds off the enjoyments of the day.

At Gore's Landing Mr. Braithwaite's hotel is filled with guests. These include several families from Toronto and New York.

There are a great number of campers on the islands in the vicinity. Lone Point is pretty well given over to Port Hope campers.

Mr. Arnott of Bewdley has sold the steamer Firefly to Mr. Sadolen jr., of Lindsay. The was taken overland to Pigeon Creek, thence to Lindsay.

Mr. Metcalfe of Jubilee Point Hotel, has a houseful of guests, among them Mrs. (Rev.) P. C. Parker and family; fishing is good.

Navigation is now free from the impediment of saw-logs—but the sawdust at the mouth of the river is an ever present nuisance. Why doesn't the government redeem its promise of removing this nuisance as it promised to do after the sawmills were stopped from turning their sawdust into the river? Why is it that the government totally ignores the interests of river and lake navigation south of the town?

Good Form in Dress

Social usage imposes certain rules as to dress which are carefully observed by men of good breeding and good sense.

Dress is not the most important object in life, but due observance of the rules of dress adds much to the comfort and refinement of life, and to a considerable extent, marks the difference between gentlemen and those who are not gentlemen.

Good form of dress is of course a matter of fashion and fashions vary; Should you ever be in doubt as to what is suitable call on us and we will give you safe advice on many controverted points, and on new fashions in attire that usually call for a good deal of consideration and caution. Therefore.—

DON'T go to extremes in your dress. Dress quietly. Overdressed men are always despised as frivolous.

DON'T be slovenly in your dress. Neatness is a duty you owe to society.

DON'T disregard that "good form" in dress which custom has fixed. Conformity to social usage in dress as well as in more essential matters is part of good manners.

DON'T wear a silk hat with a sack coat. It is a social crime.

DON'T above all things order your clothing until you have seen our stock. We show every desirable Fabric, Broadcloths, Cheviots, Doeskins, Tweeds, Fine, Plain and Fancy Worsteds, and as to Patterns—well, we can give you what you want, no matter what it is.

A DAMNABLE CRIME.

A BIGAMIST COMMITS MURDER TO SHIELD HIMSELF.

A Rochester Lather Dreigles His Wife to the Falls and Throws Her Into the River to Prevent Prosecution for the Lesser Crime.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug 10 An atrocious murder has come to light to-day, the principals being Rochester people. This morning Chief Detective J. C. Hayden and Detective Furtherer of Rochester, having in charge a Mrs. Quigley, wife of Charles H. Quigley, a Rochester lather, arrived here and notified Ontario Policeman McMicking that they were in search of the body of a woman who had been murdered here two weeks ago to-day. The victim was the wife of Arthur Day of Rochester and Mrs Quigley was his sister.

The detectives started on their search, piloted by Mrs. Quigley, down along the top of the river bank on the Canadian side below the railway suspension bridge towards the whirlpool. When about 100 yards below the whirlpool rapids [illegible] elevator photograph gallery Mrs. Quigley drew back and refused to advance, saying:

"There is the spot under that precipice lies the body of Arthur Day's wife."

Officers Hayden and McMicking then made a detour and after an hour's hard climbing reached the place where the body of the unfortunate woman was found lying frightfully mangled on the rugged rocks. The face was badly sunken, and the whole body was very much decomposed. The hands were over the head. It being late in the evening no attempt was made to bring the body to the top of the bank. Coroner McLarry was notified and ordered the body guarded to-night and brought to the police station at daybreak. The party then returned to Police Magistrate Hill's office, where Mrs. Quigley related this story to the Police Magistrate in the presence of detectives Hayden, Furtherer, McMicking and your correspondent.

I live at Rochester, N.Y. I came to the Falls Sunday, July 27. While me was my brother, Arthur Day, and his wife. We came by the West Shore via Buffalo, arriving here about 11 o'clock in the morning. The trip was prosecuted by my brother Arthur on the previous Saturday. He called at my house and said it was time to go to the Falls. I told him I was penniless and could not afford it. He told me he would pay my fare. I told him I would go. Upon our arrival at the Falls we took the street cars to the bridge. We crossed the lower bridge to this side and walked down towards the whirlpool.

Below the whirlpool rapids elevator, being tired, I sat down upon a stone looking towards the Falls. My brother and his wife went on down and stopped at the place where we did to-day. I saw my brother once standing near the precipice, his wife immediately in front of him.

The next time I looked he was waving a black handkerchief for me to come to him, which I did, and met seeing he did. I asked him where Dorothy was. He admitted that she had pushed her over the bank and said she had never moved, and did not know what struck her. He said he went to get rid of her.

Afterwards he gave me a ticket and said we must part. I went up on a street car to the falls and took the train from there. I saw my brother on his arrival at Buffalo, but did not speak to him. I saw him the next afternoon in Rochester. Thereafter I read and heard of the murder. I was then undecided how to act, but on hearing that Mrs. Day would awaken her talking in his sleep by expressions of, "He, she goes over," and like remarks

Mrs. Quigley being questioned by the detectives about that visit admitted to them her brother had told her at the falls he had pushed her over the bank.

Arthur Day married one Dorcas Chatterton of Saratoga eight years ago and had been living with her at 70 Hills street, Rochester, up to the day of the murder July 27, and at the same time had married Lizzie Breen and was living with her at the rear of 30½ Mortimer street.

Mrs. Quigley is a very hard looking woman and gives her age as 38 years and had been married four times and said that to her mother. Mrs. Chatterton Day, who has rooms in the Sibley block, she has confessed the whole thing. Her mother told her she was glad she was gone. She said her mother did not like Dorcas, in fact she did not like any of her sons' wives and mother-like she likes any of my husbands, having married myself and one of my husbands. Upon being asked Mrs. Quigley said the reason for denying any knowledge of Mrs. Day No. 2's whereabouts was that she did not wish to betray her brother in his crime.

The police magistrate had Mrs Quigley arrested as an accessory to the murder. Upon being told that she could not go she pleaded to Detective Hayden to see that her birds were taken good care of and tears began to flow down her wrinkled cheeks.

The dead woman was tall and slender, with dark hair, fair complexion, dark eyes, rather good looking. Mrs. Quigley said she was peevish, would take fits of anger. She had two children, one of them dying last winter. She was about 28 years of age. She and her husband had fights when they were living in Monroe street and parted for a few weeks. The children were put in the industrial school at the time. She was the daughter of Daniel Chatterton of Saratoga. Wife No. 2 was the daughter of Mr. Breen of Plymouth street, Rochester. The Breens had come to Rochester from Canada.

Application will be made to extradite Day, and he will be tried for murder here.

BULGARIA'S THRONE.

THE CANDIDATURE OF PRINCE WALDERNMAR WITHDRAWN.

One of the Results of King William's Visit to England. The Kaiser Going to Russia as the Apostle of Peace.

BERLIN, Aug. 9. One of the results of the interviews at Osborne between Queen Victoria, Emperor William, the Prince of Wales and Lord Salisbury is the withdrawal of the candidature of Prince Waldemar for the throne of Bulgaria. Family reasons, notably the protest of the King of Greece, influenced this decision. Under the proceedings of Emperor William both the Queen and the Prince of Wales are beginning to take a more active part in foreign politics in England.

To-night's Post gives suggestive prominence to a special London despatch saying that just as the Emperor's visit to Osborne in 1889 afforded the starting point leading to an Anglo-German agreement, and as the visit of the Prince of Wales to Berlin was not without bearing upon the treaty, so Foreign Office circles now believe that there was a political significance in the present visit of the Kaiser, the outcome of which may astonish the world. The Post's allusion, as read here under the light of the reports circulating in the official world, point to a project of the Kaiser's to obtain the Czar's assent to another Berlin Congress, aiming at a general European peace compact, implying a limitation of armaments. Lord Salisbury's declaration at the Mansion House that Europe was never more pacific and that the nations were growing inclined to compromise indicated the strain of his communication with the powers. The Kaiser is going to Russia as the apostle of peace, and now desires the Kaiserin to accompany him. The Czarina ignored the approaches of Gen. Von Schweinitz, the German Ambassador, regarding the reception of the Kaiserin, so the Grand Duke of Hesse, on the solicitation of Emperor William, has started for St. Petersburg to arrange for the Kaiserin's visit.

The belief in official circles here is that the Czar will treat the League of Peace as a futility unless associated with the restoration of Russian dominance in the Balkans and the permanent satisfying of France. Whatever the Kaiser's peace ideas may be, his movements tend to strengthen Germany in the event of war. His visit to Norway was immediately successful in inducing the Government to consent to the recruitment of Norwegians and Swedes for the German navy, an ample supply of fine seamen being thus afforded. King Oscar also accepted an invitation to be present at the grand land and sea manoeuvres which will take place in September. King Leopold similarly marks the entente achieved at Osborne by promising his presence at the manoeuvres. The screeches of the French press over the extension of German alliances are not unprovoked.

The Kaiser Takes Heligoland

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—The German Imperial yacht Hohenzollern and the accompanying squadron anchored off Heligoland at 10 o'clock this morning. Emperor William and Prince Henry landed at noon and were met by Herr von Boetticher. The inhabitants gave the Emperor and his brother a hearty reception. The Imperial party proceeded at once to the overland, where an open air service was held. The Emperor delivered a short address and the German flag was then hoisted, battery at the same time firing a salute. Two thousand marines were reviewed by the Emperor, who afterwards received an address presented by the inhabitants of the island. After taking luncheon in the casino the Emperor departed at 3 o'clock amid the cheers of the populace.

HAMILTON'S BLOWOUT.

The Band Tournament Mother and Daughter The L. H. & B.'s Tunnel.

HAMILTON, Aug. 9. Monday will be the citizens' holiday and will, if the weather is favorable, be a big day. The band tournament will be the great attraction in the city. Conductor Innes of the Brooklyn 13th Regiment Band will be the judge at the band competition.

A remarkable case came before the police magistrate this morning. Mrs. Mary Burrows, the widow of the late John C. Burrows (who was well known and highly esteemed [illegible] was charged by her daughter, a girl of 16, with non-support. The girl said that she had reason to believe that her mother was going to run away with a butcher of the north end of the city, having sold her furniture and made other preparations that denoted a hasty flight. The girl is eminently her betrayer being a well-known sport and tough of the north end. Mrs Burrows says the whole trouble is that her daughter wants her to take her paramour along with her when she goes away. "I am willing to support my daughter and take her with me," said she to-day. "But I'm not going to support that loafer. The girl can come with me or she can stay with her man, just as she pleases, but I won't pay his way." The evidence shows that the sport in question has been on exceedingly intimate terms with the family, including Mrs. Burrows herself, and has been accustomed to treat the females as if they were his private property, condescending so far as to take their money and give them black eyes occasionally. Mrs. Burrows is still in custody.

Capt. Hendrie, who sprained his ankle at the Niagara camp, was out for a drive to-day. It will be some time before he can walk

The Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo engineers are preparing plans for the tunnel under the cemetery, and it is likely that before long permission to build it will be asked from the City Council. The tunnel will be 1000 feet long.

THE BELT SLIPPED.

An Accident in the Dynamo Room at Kemmler's Execution.

ROCHESTER, Aug 10—In an interview with a Post-Express reporter Superintendent Barnes revealed some secrets of the dynamo room in Auburn prison. When Kemmler was killed, he said, the belt used was a new one and had not been stretched. The lacing of the belt caused the dynamo to revolve irregularly, and when the current was turned on to kill the resistance of Kemmler and the chair was such that it caused the belt to slip and it came near running off the pulley. It was three-quarters off the pulley and only that a man held a board against the belt would have come off and there would have been an awful scene. There should have been a resistance board to run the current through until they were ready to turn it on to Kemmler and changed from the resistance box by the same move that turned it to him.

THE CENTRAL TIE-UP.

ALL THE VANDERBILT ROADS INVOLVED.

No Freight Trains Moved Saturday or Sunday—Passenger Trains Combined and Sent Through Under Difficulties—All the Vanderbilt Lines Affected.

ALBANY, Aug. 10.—Master Workman Lee, in an interview yesterday afternoon concerning the status of the New York Central strike, said: "The present policy of the Central road is to inaugurate the policy which has been pursued by Austin Corbin on the Reading Railroad and is so viewed by every man employed by the company who is a member of any labor organization. The main question at issue is our contention for the reinstatement of the men whom the company have been discharging for the past three weeks. These men have been faithful in the discharge of their duties, and that has been conceded by the officers of the company in the past. No question has ever been raised as to their fitness for their respective positions, nor have these wholesale discharges been made because the business of the road demanded it. It was purely and simply because these men were members of the Knights of Labor."

When asked to what branches of the service the strike extended he said to all branches but the engineers and firemen, but that the freight engineers and all the firemen would go out Saturday night. This will leave only the passenger engineers in the service of the road. He said the West Shore Railway would also be tied up at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Pledged Against Acts of Violence

Mr. Lee then read this letter which he has sent to Gov. Hill:

"ALBANY, Aug. 9, 1890.

"To Hon. David B. Hill, Governor:

"YOUR EXCELLENCY,—D. A. 246, K. of L. railway employes, are to-day engaged in a struggle for American liberty and manhood. The press of the state intimate the calling out of the militia. We beg to assure you that no act shall be committed or any attempt made to violate the law of our state. We are citizens of New York and pledge our honor to depend on the justice of our cause and not on acts of violence or lawlessness. The police departments of our different cities are, in our judgment, amply qualified and sufficient to maintain the public peace, and D. A. 246, K. of L., assure Your Excellency that they and those whom they represent will do all in their power to maintain and preserve law and order. We will thereby gain not only the sympathy of American citizens who love fair play but effectually checkmate the efforts of Pinkerton thugs who are endeavoring to promote disorder.

"Yours very respectfully,

"EXECUTIVE BOARD D. A. 246."

Arbitration Commissioner Donovan went to New York last night, where the head quarters of the Board of Arbitration will be during the strike. Mr. Donovan refused to divulge the nature of the questions discussed at the board's consultation with the officials last night. From the tone of the leaders who attended the conference, however, it was learned that Mr. Donovan would be telegraphed at his home in Brooklyn Sunday noon asking him, on behalf of the striking employes, to make overtures to Third Vice-President Webb and Superintendent Toucey on Monday morning for an arbitration of the questions in dispute. The leaders will telegraph Mr. Donovan on what terms they will resume work.

Superintendent Bissell, when informed of this action of the employes, said the road would not become a party to any arbitration. They propose to fight it out and will not give way on any question in dispute.

Forty Pinkerton detectives arrived here last night and after having dinner in the depot restaurant marched out and scattered on picket duty in and about the station and in the vicinity of the switches.

Mayor Manning, shortly before midnight last night, was served with a notice signed by C. C. Clark, First Vice-President of the New York Central Road, saying that the company thought their property was in danger and calling upon him to take proper action tending to protect the company's property.

A SERIOUS COMPLICATION.

Several Strikes Threatened—West Shore Switchmen Go Out.

NEW YORK, Aug 10.—When spoken to about the rumor that the locomotive engineers would join the K. of L. in the strike, Vice-President Webb admitted that if this occurred it would complicate matters very greatly.

Secretary Shays of the K. of L. arrived in this city at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He at once sought out Mr. Holland and Mr. Valentine and the three had a prolonged conference. The Brotherhood of Engineers and the members of the local assembly of the K. of L. arranged for a conference and everything looks as if the engineers would go out.

At 6 p.m. it was given out at the strikers' headquarters that there would be a strike on the West Shore road at once. It was also said that a strike would be ordered Sunday on the Michigan Central, Canada Southern and Chicago and Northwestern.

From 11 o'clock yesterday morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon all trains over the New York, New Haven and Hartford road left and arrived on schedule time. There was a slight delay, however, in the turning of the switches in the yard. The men in the yard who have taken the places of the strikers are working the switches with crow bars, lever men being on strike. It is reported that over 100 men who were laid off on account of the strike have joined the K. of L. along the New York Central tracks, thereby increasing their number.

The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company yesterday issued this notice: "The passenger department of the New York Central pronounces the complete resumption of through and local service both on the main line and the Harlem division."

Fifty of the 54 night force of freight switchmen on the West Shore Railway at Weehawken struck at 7.40 last night. This left the yard almost deserted. Preparations to meet the emergency were immediately made by Chief Dispatcher Williams and men were sent out to get the track in readiness for the dispatching of the 8¾ Buffalo express. As none of the passenger car brakemen had abandoned their posts this train was put off at 9 o'clock, having suffered only half an hour's delay. At 10 o'clock everything in the yard at Weehawken was quiet and the work of making up trains was going on. All the incoming trains were arriving at the depot on time. The station officials said that no other men were out on the road, but the strikers deny. Third Vice-President Webb said he had cabled Mr. Depew about the strike but had not heard from him.

At 8 last night Vice-President Webb made out a schedule of the incoming and outgoing trains on the New York Central road. It showed that nine trains left during the day and that seven arrived. Six Croton locals also ran at irregular intervals.

Train No. 30 of the New York Central, due at 4 o'clock, came into Weehawken on the West Shore road about 4:[illegible]. This was the only New York Central train that came over the West Shore road yesterday, and upon the news of its arrival the strikers declared the West Shore too would be tied up. Not a single freight train left the yards yesterday and none arrived. Mr. Webb said he would make a strenuous effort to run freight trains on Monday, both on the West Shore and New York Central. Many statements are made regarding the number of men on strike. The men themselves said there were three or four hundred out.

The indications now are that the strike on the Vanderbilt lines will not be a success. To-day the regular schedule passenger service of the Hudson River and New York Central and the Harlem roads was resumed, the only change being the consolidating of certain outgoing western trains. The Southwestern limited and the Chicago limited were consolidated and left on the Southwestern's time at 10.30 a.m. The West Shore vestibule limited, which was to have left at 4.30 p.m., was consolidated with the fast western express and left at 6 p.m. The tie-up on the West Shore road, inaugurated last night, did not affect passenger traffic, although the freight business was brought to a standstill. The through Boston trains on the New Haven road left as usual.

The Grand Central depot was thronged with people going out of town. They were detained but a few moments. During the afternoon General Manager Toucey, Assistant Manager Voorhees, John H. Fite, B. A. Loomis, J. J. Loftus, Henry Douglass and John S. Green, the latter five of whom are prominent freight officials of the road, held a conference in the office of Third Vice-President Webb. At its conclusion it was announced that it had been decided to despatch to-morrow all freight trains to their various destinations. A notice posted in the vicinity of the depot directing persons seeking employment of the New York Central & Hudson River Railway to apply at the office of the Wagner Palace Car Company caused applications to be made by the score. By one of the officials it was said 150 men had been taken on, all of whom were experienced railway men.

Mr. Voorhees said he had received a number of applications from railway men living around New York, among whom were some employed on the elevated roads, others from Pittsburg and some from men employed in the Erie yards. Some even came from Chicago. The company had found they could obtain all the men required in this city.

Late this afternoon the following circular was issued by Vice-President Webb, as the result of the long conference held by the railway officials:

"The position of the company is this: We shall select our own men, and we do not propose that they be designated by the Knights of Labor or its committees. When men are dismissed we get rid of the inefficient, the most vicious and those least in accord with our interests. When promotions are to be made we will not be bound by the seniority rules promulgated by the Knights of Labor. A due consideration will always be given to length of service, but the first and most important rule will be the qualification of the men for the place. If our men have grievances the proper officer will be willing to grant hearings and see that consideration is given, but we will not allow outsiders to interfere, or to interfere between the employer and employe."

J. J. Holland and Secretary Hayes of the Executive Board of the Knights of Labor left to-night for Detroit. Before their departure they ordered all the firemen on the Vanderbilt lines here to quit work. At this hour the engines are deserted at the Grand Central depot.

LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS.

The Brotherhood Not Involved and Not Likely to be.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 10.—An effort was made last night by a reporter for the Associated Press to find P. M. Arthur, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, but that gentleman had gone out of town. Mr. Delos Everett, an officer of the grand division, was seen and said that the officials of the order here knew nothing whatever of the situation in New York. They had no idea there was going to be a strike of any sort. "Our men are not involved, and as far as I know are not likely to be," said Mr. Everett. "We know nothing about the strike except what the newspapers have told us. The engineers have made no complaint and there is not the least likelihood of them joining the strikers. You can say that authoritatively. There is no trouble anywhere in the order. Mr. Arthur went out of town yesterday afternoon to visit his daughter. His absence has nothing whatever to do with business matters. He will be back on Monday. The present strike does not in any way affect our men. Of course, there may be one or two individual instances of the engineers leaving their engines, but they act upon their own responsibility in so doing, and most certainly their action will not be countenanced by the brotherhood. You know, a strike is always the last resort with us, and not until every hope of adjustment was exhausted would there be any danger of a strike.

Got Beyond His Depth.

HANOVER, Aug. 9.—Albert, the 11-year-old son of August Jucksch, got beyond his depth while bathing in the Saugeen River and was drowned. The body was recovered an hour later.

Notes from the Capital.

OTTAWA, Aug. 9.—The Minister of Marine has received a despatch from British Columbia stating that the salmon run is now on, and is fully equal to last year. Three canneries on Thursday captured the extraordinary number of 20,000 salmon.

The Ottawa Trades and Labor Council have passed a resolution endorsing the action of the Inland Revenue department in compelling cigar vendors to break up their old cigar boxes after using the cigars.

Stewart Henderson, solicitor for Bremner, the Battleford half-breed, saw Sir Adolphe Caron, Minister of Militia, to-day regarding the claim for losses on account of the looting of Bremner's furs during the rebellion. Sir Adolphe said he would officially acknowledge the receipt of the letter, but would delay consideration until the Cabinet reassembles after the holidays.

The United States Crops.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—There is a reduction in condition of all cereals as reported by the statistician of the Department of Agriculture. The decline from July 1 to Aug. 1 is from 98.1 to 75.8 in corn, from 94.4 to 83.2 in spring wheat, from 81.6 to 70.1 in oats, from 88.3 to 82.8 in barley. The condition of buckwheat is 90.1 and of spring rye 86.8. The condition of Irish potatoes is reduced from 91.7 to 75.2.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—The hot, dry weather has had serious effect on the potato crop as well as on grains. Inquiry elicits the information that prices ordinarily ruling for potatoes during the last month have advanced from $2.50 to $2.75 per barrel to $3.25.

Justly Punished.

WALKERTON, Aug. 9.—The other day two young men invited a young woman to get into their buggy near Maple Hill. When she declined one of them jumped out and tried to force her to get in. Her brother appearing on the scene the scoundrels decamped but were chased to Walkerton, taken before the magistrate and summarily mulcted in fine and costs to the tune of $20.

MONDAY AUGUST 11, 1890.

La Minerve, Mr. Joseph Tasse's paper, characterizes the Manitoba Act abolishing Separate schools as "Mr. Martin's infamous school law." But if the law is an infamous one, why, asks the Ottawa Free Press, is it not disallowed by the Federal Government? Sir John Macdonald claims the right to veto any provincial law which he does not approve.

THE public accounts show that the Tupper family—father, son, brother, and son-in-law—received over $29,000 from the Dominion treasury last year. This does not include interest upon the money spent in purchasing and furnishing a palace for the high commissioner in London or the cost of providing a $12,000 house for Major-General Cameron in Kingston. It costs the taxpayers of Canada about as much per head to keep up the Tupper dynasty as the taxpayers of the United Kingdom have to contribute for the maintenance of the Royal family.

UNREVISED census returns show that Chicago is, after New York, the most populous city in the United States. It has 53,682 more inhabitants than Philadelphia, the figures for the two cities being respectively 1,008,578 and 1,044,994. It will be observed that the growth of Chicago has not been retarded or its industries crushed out because that city has unrestricted reciprocity of commerce with the rest of the United States. The "old establishments" of New York, Philadelphia and Boston have not kept Chicago from going ahead and getting its full share of the trade. The population of the city has increased by nearly 600,000 during the past ten years. Yet Chicago's natural advantages are not so great as those of Montreal and other Canadian cities.

The Progress of the Jersey.

An Interesting Chapter on Jersey Breeding.

Jersey breeders will read with interest the recent article contributed to the Country Gentlemen by the veteran auctioneer P. C. Kellogg, under the nom de plume of "Hark Comstock." He embraces the opportunity afforded by the late marvellous test of Eurotisama, 29668, in which she yielded 945 lbs. 9 oz. of butter in one year, to give a general review of the past tests, and comment on the breeding of the famous performers. The first test, we learn, for a year was made in '53, when the imported cow, Flora 113, yielded 511 lbs. 2 oz. of butter. The next to be recorded was that of Pansy 1019, she testing when six years old for the year, 574 lbs. 8 oz. of butter. In about 1877-8 Jersey Belle of Scituate 7828, broke the record with a yield of 705 lbs. of butter for the year, and it was then that breeders began to look into pedigree, for before this no attention had been given to it beyond the requirement of purity of breed. A couple of years after this, Eurotas 2454, was tested for a year and she gave 778 lbs. 1 oz. in less than that period. Her owner, Mr A. B. Darling, being a believer in specific breeding, purchased a son of Jersey Belle of Scituate to cross upon the heifers descended from Eurotas. As in the case of Jersey Belle of Scituate, investigators began to look more deeply into the pedigree of Eurotas, and the first feature that struck them was that she was descended from Alphea 171, a cow that had already gained a wide notoriety for remarkable butter tests. Eurotas, merits were thought by many to be chiefly attributable to Alphea, and the subject of breeding butter cows by aid of special pedigree took a strong and general hold upon Jersey breeders. Prior to that time they had, with few exceptions, pursued a course of color and point breeding much as fancy fowl and birds are bred.

The movement created by Eurotas, Mr. Kellogg goes on to say, took a score of different forms. Every theory ever applied to the subject of breeding was brought forward and put in practice upon the Jersey with the object of producing the phenomenon-butter cow. Horsemen proposed to breed them as trotters and race horses are bred; poultry dealers proposed to breed by a scale of points; another class proposed to reach the object by a proper balancing of skin color and escutcheon; old cattle men proposed to take Alphea as the creative source and breed her blood in-and-in, with no outcrosses as the Dutchess Shorthorn strain had been bred. Col. Hoe had paved the way to this step by adopting that plan himself, and had produced the dam of Eurotas by breeding Alphea to her full brother, Jupiter 93. In imitation of the Duchess formula he had continued this course to a considerable extent, and quite a number of animals were in existence that had been bred for three or four generations exclusively of the blood of Alphea and her full brother Jupiter. Eurotas, however, was got by a sire that was a complete outcross from Alphea—a bull called Rioter 2nd 469, imported from the herd of Phillip Dauncey of England. This bull's blood had been in a moderate number of cases mixed with that of Alphea, and the results of the cross, in other instances than Eurotas, were such as to cause some observers to give to him, quite as much as to Alphea, the credit of Eurotas' superiority. So it happened that while one set of theorists were declaring for "pure Alphea," another were equally positive that "Rioter-Alphea" was the better formula.

The next cow to beat the yearly record was Jersey Queen of Barnet, with 851 lbs., 1 oz. to her credit, but she, being ineligible to the herd book, no attention was given to her. Then came Mary Anne of St. Lambert 9770, bred by Mr. R. H. Stephens, of St Lambert, Que., and tested by Mr. Wallancey E. Fuller, formerly of Hamilton, in which she gave 867 lbs., 14¾ oz. in less than a year. Her sire was of imported English Jersey stock and an inbred descendant of Dauncey's Rioter, the grand sire of Eurotas. The wonderful achievement of Mary Anne of St. Lambert was thus thought to confirm the belief that Eurotas owed a large share of her merit to the Rioter blood. For some years Mary Anne's yield was not beaten, and the popularity of her strain, to indicate which the term "pure St. Lambert" was coined, fairly surpassed that of any other cow that has ever appeared. The cross of Stoke Pogis 3rd 2238 on cows of Victor Hugo blood, of which she was the leading instance, produced other great butter cows and proved a remarkable nick. The St. Lambert herd was originally founded on English bred Jersey cows, and as the bull Victor Hugo first was used, his blood was crossed into nearly all of their descendants. When Stoke Pogis 3rd came into the herd, therefore he hit a Victor Hugo cross in nearly all of his couplings, though there is nothing to show that the foundation sources of the pedigrees back of Victor Hugo had anything in common. The result was a mixture of the various foundation sources with the blood of one or both of these bulls. Where the term "pure St. Lambert" was applied to animals exclusively descended from this herd, it, of course, had no individual significance, as in the case of "pure Alphea." It was simply the blood of a specific variety of elements instead of one element kept without outside mixture, varying abundantly within its own limits, yet admitting nothing new. As a phrase applicable to any breeding principle, it therefore signified nothing; but as a catch word it proved the most admirable business resource of all that have ever been put forward in the Jersey interest.

Landseer's Fancy 2876 was the next cow to succeed to the honours of the foremost yearly test, which she did by making for Mr. W. J. Webster, of Columbia, Tenn., 936 lbs., 14½ oz. of butter in a year. She was about 14 years old when the test was completed. Here has stood as the best until the recent achievement of Eurotisama.

The above is taken from the Canadian Live Stock Journal, and goes to show the advantages of Jersey stock, which is coming more and more into favour. In this county, it is true, the Jersey is not very largely represented, but it is a pleasure to record that it is well represented. Mr. Robert Walton, of "Willow Spring Farm," Smith township, has a fine herd of twelve or fifteen head. He has discarded all other breeds and gone exclusively into the raising of Jerseys, and his experience justifies the wisdom of his decision. He finds the Jersey much more productive, as the above article so fully shows; much easier to keep, especially through the winter. His herd at present includes seven or eight thoroughbreds, and the balance high class grades. He has two thoroughbred bulls. One is the three-year-old beauty Hallowell, No. 4815, in the American Jersey Herdbook. Persons interested in this fine and increasingly popular breed, will have an opportunity of viewing Mr. Walton's herd of Jerseys—they will be shown at the Central Exhibition in Peterborough, Sept. 24 26th.

FAVORABLE TO FEDERATION.

Justice McMahon's Judgment in the Victoria College Case.

TORONTO, Aug. 11.—Mr. Justice McMahon on Saturday delivered judgment in the suit of the corporation of Cobourg, the subscribers to the endowment, and the fund for the erection of Faraday Hall, etc., and the members of the Senate, plaintiffs, and the Board of Regents Victoria University, defendants. The case was tried at Cobourg without a jury on Nov. 8, 1889; at Toronto, Nov. 12, 1890, and Feb. 26, 1890. The plaintiffs found their claim on the breach of an agreement entered into between the plaintiffs and Victoria College, whereby, as alleged, it was stipulated that the college should be maintained in perpetuity at the town of Cobourg. The learned judge reviews the case at length and cites numerous authorities in support of his finding. He holds that, inasmuch as the subscriptions towards an endowment fund were general throughout the province, and that what the residents of Cobourg subscribed toward the fund, about $4000, would, of itself, have had very little effect in preventing the closing of the college, the plaintiffs can therefore have no cause of action by reason of any subscriptions made by them to the college endowment fund.

His Lordship further holds that under the purchase by the town of the five acres and its presentation to the college there was no stipulation equivalent to a binding covenant on the part of the defendants that the college shall remain permanently in Cobourg, and does not entitle the plaintiffs to a perpetual injunction against its removal. The gift of the money subscribed for the erection of Farraday Hall must be regarded as conditional upon the college remaining in Cobourg, however, and if removed then the amount subscribed and accepted should be refunded, so that as to this branch of the case, as in that of the acceptance of the land, he considers that adequate compensation can be awarded the plaintiff in damages. He therefore does not consider the injunction should be continued on that ground.

Justice McMahon concurs in the judgment of Chief Justice Galt, that the ratification by the Senate of the action of the Board of Regents was of no effect, since the meeting was held in Toronto instead of in Cobourg. He holds, however, the Board of Regents have power to deal with the question of removal subject to the rights of the plaintiffs, the town of Cobourg, to damages by way of compensation for the five acres of land deeded to the college, and also to the rights of the other plaintiffs and those on whose behalf they sue—subscribers to the Faraday Hall fund—to a refund of the amount subscribed and paid thereto.

The injunction restraining the Board of Regents from dealing with the question of removal must be dissolved. The injunction restraining the university from federating continues, however, until a proper meeting has been called and a resolution has been passed based upon a proper vote assenting to the scheme of federation. The plaintiffs have no rights over nor have they any interest in the fund subscribed towards the erection of new university buildings in Toronto, for which purpose alone the subscriptions were obtained by Rev. Dr. Potts.

Called His Neighbor Names.

STRATFORD, Aug. 9.—Mr. John Idington, Q.C., Crown Attorney for the County of Perth, was before the Police Magistrate yesterday on an information laid by James Fitzgibbon, a neighbor, who alleges that the defendant called him use of grossly insulting language to the complainant in a public place within the city of Stratford." It is claimed by the prosecution and there was evidence tending to show that Mr. Idington in a loud tone of voice called him a "damned scoundrel," "damned rascal," and "a thief and a robber." Mr. Idington said that he could produce law to justify his course and the case was adjourned until Monday to allow him to do so.

STONY LAKE CAMPERS WILL FIND AT JUNIPER ISLAND STORE
A full assortment of Groceries, Canned Goods and Campers' Supplies generally—a first class stock, fresh and reliable, and at Peterborough prices. The popularity of this store last year and the favor with which it was received—has induced us to enlarge the building and lay in a much larger stock this season so that campers may be saved the trouble and annoyance of bringing their supplies from town and other places, as they can be equally as well served by us. Being centrally situated, it is easy of access—the Steamer passing close to the Island both entering and leaving Stony Lake.

SULLIVAN ON BOXING.

THE CHAMPION REVEALS SECRETS OF THE ART.

A Remarkable Letter from the Greatest Living Authority on Fistic Science—The Rudiments Taught in an Hour—Practice Essential—Why Stupid People Cannot Box.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

A very broad-minded, liberal physician will tell you that there is no better exercise for a young man than boxing. By this I do not mean slugging or knocking your opponent out. But a good, active, friendly bout two or three times a week is better than all the medicine in the world. It gives a young man confidence, strength, activity, manliness, grace, a clear skin and a good digestion.

The woods are full of the so-called "professors," of the manly art of self-defense who make this innocent youth believe it wonderfully difficult to become a good boxer, when the fact is really as easy as rolling off a log. There are also a large number of pretentious books published here and in England on boxing that generally tire or confuse the ambitious reader so thoroughly at the start that he soon becomes discouraged and gives up the sport in utter disgust.

It may seem a little bold to say, but I will guarantee to teach any well put-up young fellow of ordinary intelligence the rudiments of boxing in half an hour, so that he will be able to continue on without further instruction and become a clever boxer if he devotes the proper time and attention to the art.

I don't mean by this to make him a professional or ring general in that half hour. But simply to give him sufficient knowledge to start out just as I did 15 years ago and work his way up to the top of the art. Of course I expect the young fellow to learn the remainder by close observation and hard practice.

No professor or master of sparring can ever claim me as a pupil of theirs. What I know about boxing I picked up from time to time by hard experience and intelligent observation. I belong to no school of boxers, and have copied no special master's style, and I always fight according to my own judgment. I have always considered it very necessary that a young man, in order to become an accomplished boxer should have brains as well as muscle. I never knew a thick-headed fellow yet to become skillful in the manly art. A good boxer must be clear and cool headed, quick to decide, with a keen perception, always able to size up his man at all stages of the game, and know exactly what he is doing, even when he's punched into a dazed condition.

I generally box with my body, from the waist up, extending somewhat forward. Perhaps at times my body is straight up. I seldom lean back. Of course, good deal depends upon whom I am fighting and under what rules. So with holding your hands, with some men you can adopt a high guard and others still require a lower one. If a young man finds he can do effective work by extending his left like Jack Dempsey, let him do so. If on the other hand my style suits him all right, which ever it is the most easy and natural.

Learn how to parry a blow before you attempt to deliver one. Two novices of equal size, weight and knowledge will generally find it more difficult to avoid a punch than to give one.

The first thing a "professor" will teach a pupil is to stand in position. He will show him how to turn his toes out, spread his feet so many inches apart, and will try and convince the young man that his style and position is really the only correct one in the world. Now I consider that is all simple nonsense. You must stand in whatever way is best to your purpose, whichever will enable you to meet your opponent the straight-forward, quickly, and avoid a return by the same way.

In my time a great many athletes have called about remember of ever ... same way. S... position suits you best ... for you to as...

... with his right as ... with your left. ... the same with your right. If he sends his right at your body ward it off with your left. Do likewise with your right if he sends with the left for the body. These are really the four principal and simple points in boxing, in fact the very rudiments.

Don't take any stock whatever in any system that teaches you to punch more with one hand than with the other. Try always to be a good two-handed boxer.

Learn to strike straight and clean, swinging blows nearly always leave an opening for your opponent. It is always well to do your leading with the left, reserving your right for a good opening. Wherever you hit your man with one hand, let the other fist land in the same spot if possible. It will be very much more effective.

Always watch your opponent direct in the eyes. You will soon learn to tell by this when and where he intends to smash you. Just as you see him about to lead, shoot your left into his face and the force of his coming towards you will increase your blows considerably. If you have not time to do this, throw off your opponent's blow as explained above.

Novices should be careful about ducking; it is a very dangerous game even for a skilful boxer to indulge in. In ducking you lose sight of your opponent for a few seconds, and if the latter happens to catch you with a stiff upper cut, it may be "all day" with you.

There is considerable folly and nonsense about keeping yourself in condition. Most young fellows who go into athletics imagine they are obliged to follow a certain diet, go through a severe course of training, keep their muscles hard as flint, and live, indeed, a very unnatural existence. My experience has taught me this is all wrong. Live regular, take just enough of exercise to keep your liver and muscles in active, and don't get your biceps too tough, for you will very soon find that very hard muscles will slacken your speed, and I would not give a rap for a boxer without speed.

A good thing for a young fellow to do who wants to become a boxer is to join some worthy athletic club of amateurs who hold sparring contests every once in awhile. In a short while he will learn enough to put on the gloves with some of his fellow-members. After a few bouts he will find out whether nature intended him for a champion or not. For all men are not born champions and young boxers will discover this fact sooner or later.

When I say that every healthy young fellow with a good physique and a clear head can become a clever boxer by close attention, hard practice and the use of good judgment, I don't mean by this that he can become a fighter. There are many skillful and fancy sparrers who will not stand three rounds before a man of less ability and more heart. When it comes to fighting the heart plays a most important part, indeed. However, it is not necessary for us all to be fighters.

It has been argued by some narrow-minded cranks as an objection to the study of boxing that it leads men to be pugnacious, to seek encounters in order to show their superiority with their fists. This is not true. I know personally of many instances where professional pugilists have been positively mild-mannered men and not the lover for one moment of the perfect self-possession of his person and not scorning to take advantage of his impressionable opponent.

In the first place, the professional knows that public opinion is against him because he is a member of the prize-ring, and, in the second place, he does not consider it any honor to whip a man away out of his class.

AVOIDING LEFT AND COUNTER.

Of course, there are a few professional pugilists who go about taking advantage of their fighting ability, but I always put them down as cowards. I never knew of a good man in a prize ring who was quarrelsome or quick to fight except they were under the influence of some intoxicating beverages.

If every man under 25 practiced boxing in this great big America we would have less narrow chested dudes, less quack medicines, less shooting and stabbing, less narrow minded cranks, more manly and courageous men, healthier and better formed children and a far greater nation in every respect.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase as $1,788,812 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $316,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,864,376	2.07
Confederation	17,674,828	5.21
Ontario Mutual	13,071,480	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North America	8,470,820	10.63
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,087,956	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,844,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Jubilee Lodge Special Meeting.

A special meeting of Jubilee Lodge of Prentice Boys will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock in the lodge rooms. By order of the W.M. W. J. SANDERS, sec.-sec. 1d Accident.

This morning Mr. Frank Matthews had the middle finger of his right crushed severely while helping to load a large box of hams at the C.P.R. station. Amputation is not necessary.

The Regular Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Workingmen's Building and Saving Society will be held this evening at the usual place at 7 p m. New members may join at any meeting.

Leg Broken.

The little three year old son of Mr. Andrew Johnson, in the Carlisle terrace, George street, was playing at a lumber pile which, falling on him, bruised him badly and breaking both bones of the right leg. Dr. Clarke gave the necessary surgical attention to the child's injuries.

A Relic.

The Cobourg Sentinel Star says that a young lad (they must have some old lads in Cobourg), picked up on King street west an old weigh bill of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora Railway, dated June 20th, 1856. It was for the delivery of a keg of beer from the brewery in Cobourg to a person in Keene.

A Big Head.

Not from old rye, but of new oats. The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says that on Saturday last it was shown a head of what is known as black oats, taken from the field of Mr. Wm. Cruikshank, township of Hamilton. The head contained 175 grains, and, if the rest of the field turns out as good in proportion, Mr. C. will gather a good yield.

Private Tuition.

Among the names of those who passed the Trinity Matriculation examination is that of Miss Amy Halliday, of Peterborough. Miss Halliday was prepared wholly in Latin and Mathematics by Mr. Edward Duff, Peterborough Private School. The school will re-open on Monday, Sept. 1st. 6335

Acknowledgment.

The officers and members of Jubilee Lodge of Prentice Boys sincerely tender a vote of thanks to the Rev. Mr. Locke for his able and eloquent sermon, which he delivered last night; also to the Official Board for the use of the church, and to Foresters, brother Orangemen and True Blues for their attendance. Equal Rights.

The topic of the day and that which we all want is not only Equal Rights in a political sense of the word, but in many others. Here are people throwing away their hard earned money, with unprincipled houses who do not as much as thank them for it. Why should they do it? Why not call on W. J. Morrow, where you are received courteously, your money placed to a good advantage and you are placed on a solid basis in future for buying cheap groceries. dw

To St. John by the Sea.

Tourists and pleasure-seekers will see something of interest and profit by consulting the advertisement in this issue of the EXAMINER of the C.P.R. announcing cheap rates to St. John, New Brunswick, that beautiful city on the Bay of Fundy, where the tides rise high enough to overflow the houses of an ordinary city street. To St. John and return, only $16 70; to Halifax and return, only $22 70. Choice of routes.

Good Intentions Dampened.

The Lindsay Warder says: Two young Lindsayites named J. McMillan and J. McNulty, who are camping at Sandy Point about two miles from Sturgeon Point, thought they would come to church for once, at least made that an excuse for taking a sail, and with a fresh breeze were making good headway, when in changing their course, the craft capsized and dumped the pair into the the "drink" they were seen from shore and Mr. Jos. Keele took a skiff to their rescue. They held on the canoe till Mr. Keele reached them and conveyed them to shore.

Obstructing the Line.

On three separate occasions obstructions, consisting of old ties and posts, have been placed on the railway track of the Lakefield line, all or any of these sufficient to wreck a train striking them at express speed. On one occasion the obstructions were removed by a neighboring farmer, and those placed on Saturday were observed in time by the driver to avoid collision with them. It is presumed that some insane or partially insane person has been amusing himself by preparing trouble for the trains. The matter will receive light in a few days—a detective is looking into the matter. There is not, however, much danger to trains from it is scarce for they are not run at a high rate of speed and the watchful driver can in general see them before there is any serious danger from striking obstructions.

Why is it?

Reasons why the Sons of Canada picnic to Jubilee Point is the one to take in.

Because it is the cheapest. Tickets 50c., Children under 12 years, 25c.

Because it is a delightful trip. No smoke or cinders, lots of fresh air and sunshine.

Because there is good fishing and canoes will be carried free.

Because we furnish tea and hot water free and will cheek your baskets.

Because meals on boat and hotel are only 25 cents.

Because Doucet's orchestra will furnish music.

Because there is a Ladies' Solid Silver Watch and Chain to be drawn for.

Because you are all the Sons and Daughters of Canada.

Because there will be lots of fun and and enjoyment.

Because we do as we advertise.

Sheep Worried by Dogs.

Mr. Thos. Bradburn has a few sheep pasturing in the lot corner of Bethune and McDonnel streets. Last night a dog invaded the sheep fold and worried one of the flock in a frightful manner. It was, no doubt, a worthless dog or it would have been kept at home by its master and properly looked after. There are a great many worthless curs abroad in the town that are only a nuisance. In addition to their attentions to sheep and fowls, they are allowed to roam abroad at night, and their howling and barking breaks the rest and sleep of honest citizens. Light sleepers are disturbed and prevented from getting sleep and rest by those worthless curs. Some of these are so worthless that they ought to be killed outright. Those that are worth something could be easily broken of their barking habits if their masters would take the trouble to train them. A few sound thrashings would convince a loud mouthed dog that he has no right to disturb the sleep of the neighbourhood by his senseless and aimless bowling and barking.

Off for the Pacific Coast.

This morning by the mid-day C. P. R. express thirty men started for the Pacific coast to work in the mills and limits of the Columbia River Lumbering Company, (Messrs. Robinson & Mackenzie,) situated at Beavermouth, British Columbia. This party was sent by Mr. William Irwin who had the valued assistance of Mr. T. Cavanagh in selecting the most reliable, steadiest and most capable lot of men ever sent from this town for such work. Mr. Irwin procured most favourable railway rates for the party, and Mr. Harvey Thompson had charge of the tickets and cheques. The EXAMINER could not procure a list of the party, but among the party was Mr. Wm. Bletchford, and about fifteen or twenty were from this vicinity and all from this district. The men receive good wages—from $28 to $24 per month, and they are to work for a most responsible and reliable firm. Those who work in the mills will be made to feel more at home from the fact that the machinery with which the mills are equipped was furnished by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company. Though the engagement of the men lasts only till spring, they may stay longer if they choose to do so. They will reach their destination next Friday night. Though these men are leaving for good situations, it is not a very pleasant sight to see the town and vicinity deprived of so fine a body of young men.

The Orange and Green.

To the Editor of the Daily Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Can you inform me if the Canadian Order of Foresters has any connection with the Orange Association or the Association of 'Prentice Boys? I have always been under the impression that the Foresters were a purely beneficial society, without any sectarian or party sympathies, but the fact of members in this town turning out in the regalia of the Order and heading an Orange procession is not calculated to impress the public, who have formed a favourable opinion of the beneficial work of the association, with an idea of the non-sectarian and non-partizan character of the Order of Canadian Foresters. I should like you, or someone familiar with the principles of Forestry, to explain what seems at present a mystery to yours, enquiringly,

CITIZEN.

[We are not in a position to give the information desired, but, doubtless, some official of the Forester body will do so, and our columns are open for his explanation.—ED. EXAMINER.

Mr. James Gill, B.A., of Toronto University, has been appointed mathematical master of Cobourg Collegiate Institute.

Mr. Walter Paterson has been appointed a Grand Steward of the Grand Lodge of Royal Arch Masons for the current Masonic year.

Mr. Orr. Bennett, well known in town, at the recent fire at Minden was so severely burned in the hands that he has since been unable to use them to even wash his face.

News Nuggets.

—Important regular meeting of the town council to-night.

—Grand Master Bell will visit Otonabee Lodge this evening in his official capacity. A good turn-out is requested.

—An employee of a local bank was spending his Sunday at Stony Lake. He was guilty of watering the stock of the bank, that is, he encountered a severe ducking, that had a rather dampening effect on his outing.

—Butchers in the south end of the town have been served with notices by the Board of Health to stop slaughtering in their present premises. It is said the butchers will petition the council to-night to build an abattoir for their use.

Derry Day Celebrated in Right Loyal Style—the Procession—Rev. Mr. Locke's Appropriate Sermon—The Thanks of the Orange Boys.

Yesterday evening the 'Prentice Boys of Peterborough, assisted by the True Blues and Orangemen, celebrated the relief of London Derry, by attending divine worship in the George Street Methodist church, and listening to a sermon by Rev. Mr. Locke. At 7 o'clock a procession was formed headed by the Fire Brigade Band, and marched to the church in the following order: Court Little John Order of Foresters; L. O. L. No. 99; L. O. L. No. 40; King William Lodge of True Blues, and Jubilee Lodge of Prentice Boys No. 7. The procession was a large one and pretty well filled the middle range of seats in the George Street church. The music of the evening under the management of Mr. Seward was bright, cheerful and appropriate. After the introductory services followed

THE SERMON.

The speaker took for his text a part of the 22nd verse of the fourth chapter of the book of Deuteronomy:—"Ask now of the days that are past." It was pointed out that it was the duty of the preacher to scan the history of the past and to apply the lessons it taught to the conditions and needs of the present. The occasion of the evening was one that particulary suggested the propriety of such a course. The speaker went on to say that the Orange Association was derived from William Prince of Orange, who came to the rescue of Protestantism when it was threatened with the greatest danger. The offence that led to the formation of the Orange Association arose from the policy of King James—his policy of partiality to the Roman Catholics and his evident determination to restore this form of religion. The speaker sketched the course of events that led up to the flight of James II from England, and the seating of William of Orange on the throne of England, and the establishment of the principles of civil and religious liberty. The movement in Ireland in the interest of James and the Roman Catholic religion was outlined up to the siege of Londonderry, where the Protestants of the north of Ireland had gathered in large numbers for safety. Under the inspiration of loyalty to the Protestant religion, the defenders of that city, though sorely pressed by the enemy, raised the cry of "no surrender," and held the city. While in the last extremities of starvation from lack of food, a ship laden with provisions broke the boom, raised the siege and the troops of James and Tyrconnel were driven off. The following year William of Orange landed in Ireland, and, at the conflicting claims of James and William to the throne of Great Britain and the stability of Protestantism were decided. The speaker described graphically and minutely the Battle of the Boyne, and characterized it as the solution of a crises that involved the undoing of the work of the Reformation. If James had succeeded in his invasion of Ireland the world would have fallen back into the darkness of the middle ages. William of Orange saved Protestantism and the world, and the speaker went on to point out that the importance of his victory and the greatness of the man made it fitting that his memory should be revered, and that his victory and all it implied should be celebrated, and that men should march in procession to the stirring tunes that recalled the memories and recounted the deeds of those days. The friction between Protestants and Catholics in Ireland that followed the Battle of the Boyne, and the consequent danger that threatened Protestantism, led to the founding of the Orange association, which, though at first composed of humble men, soon attracted to its circles the most eminent of Irishmen. From Ireland Orangeism spread to England and at length to Canada where it existed to-day in its highest form, and its most aggressive and enthusiastic existence was the great need of the day, for the last battle for civil and religious liberty had not been fought, and the speaker foresaw that Canada would yet be the battle ground in the decisive struggle for and equal rights. Pointed reference was made to the steady, systematic and unrelenting aggressiveness of the Roman Catholics in Lower Canada; the spirit of the Jesuits—insidious, oppressive and unscrupulous—dominated the Roman Catholic church. The same spirit, the speaker asserted, was abroad in Canada, that incited the terrible persecutions of Protestants in the several European countries in the past. To repel this aggressive spirit and to save Protestantism was the work of Orangeism, and it would it do it. It would if Orangemen were true to their principles. The order would have ample scope for its work in saving the country from the dangers that threatened it from interference with our school system, and that arising from the toleration of the dual language system. The speaker said that he had no doubt that if Canada was threatened by foes from without or within 10,000 Orangemen would be found ready to fly to arms.

THE BATTLE OF THE BOYNE,

The address concluded by urging the members of the Orange order to be worthy of their ancestry, and to carry out their principles in such a manner as to preserve to Canada civil and religious liberty and equal rights.

Desperate Struggle Between the Colts and Veterans The Match not Finished.

A match game took place on the grounds on Saturday between teams representing the Colts and Veterans of the club. The result was unsatisfactory as the game was not finished, the Colts having another innings to play. However they gave the Veterans such a shaking up in the first innings and dismissed them in their second for 45, so that the chance are the Colts would have distanced the Veterans if another heat had been run. Below is the score:—

Summer Music Class.

Success of Professor Holt's Method—The Minister of Education's Remarks.

The summer session of the Departmental Music School for Teachers, under Prof. H. E. Holt, of Boston, closed on Thursday The class of teachers who attended represented various parts of the Province, and, judging from their earnestness and enthusiasm, the school will have a permanent influence in reforming the teaching of music in the Public Schools. Mr. Holt's method is unique in the fact that every step is based on the educational principles which govern the best recognized methods of teaching other subjects. The mind must be kept active and the intelligence developed from the first lesson, and the child learns to think in music and express his thoughts by singing before any representation is given just as he learns to think and talk intelligently before learning to read. Many teachers have failed in teaching children to read music because this principle has not been understood or has been imperfectly carried out. The only difficulty in the notation is in wrong teaching. The Minister of Education in his remarks congratulated Mr. Holt on his work, and stated that this missionary work would be continued until music was properly taught in all the schools of Ontario.

A resolution expressing the highest commendation of Prof. Holt's system was unanimously passed and signed on behalf of the class by G. A. Cole, Deseronto; Hattie E Whelpley, Mount Forest; Teresa McKenna, Belleville; R. W. Greenlees, Picton; J. W. Graham, Brantford; J. H. Ketchum, Peterborough.

In addition to the large number of school teachers who attended Mr. Holt's lectures many well known musicians were present, among whom were Mr. Edward Fisher, Toronto; Mr. R. T. Steele, Hamilton; J. H. Ketchum, Peterborough; R. S. Ambrose, Hamilton; Miss Maud Harris, Toronto. A vote of thanks was also tendered to Mr. S. H. Preston for his work in connection with the school.

Montreal's Corinthian Colonels

Two of them Robbed in a Maison de Jeu—their Names Were Suppressed—Trying to Purchase a Newspaper's Silence.

MONTREAL, Aug. 8.—"What were the colonels there?" is the question asked on every hand here in connection with the latest sensation that is exciting the pulse of society in military and civic circles in this city of sensations. Presiding over a chief body in the Canadian Dominion is a worthy and honorable colonel. Presiding over one of the chief departments of civic machinery is another honorable colonel, all of not so honorable, and these military heroes have been as brethren, not only in their political club in times of peace, but also brethren in arms on the tented field in the face of war's dread alarm. In society circles

THEY WERE BROTHERS STILL.

Then is it wonderful that they should be still brothers even on pleasure bent? And both were fond of pleasure in a gentlemanly and quiet way. So much for the colonels. Now, it so happens that in this godly city there are many gilded palaces, and of these the most gorgeous, the most exclusive, and one above all a la mode was paid in the small hours of the morning by Sergeant L'gret and a posse of police. The house was kept by a Mme. Brazzier. She, with six girls and four men, were in the house when it was raided. Madame was bailed and that evening to a leading morning daily requesting a visit from a reporter. Thinking a sensation was at hand, a reporter answered the note, but instead of a sensation he was astonished to be coolly offered by madame $25 to have the story kept from the public. He refused and the bid was raised to an even hundred, and as madame counted out the money she said: "You know, I don't care for myself, but were here at the time, and it would never do to have them the subjects of a scandal." Money could not buy that reporter and that story is now sold. Of course the colonels may not have been present. It might have been a rose de guerre of Madame's. Still the sergeant, even at the risk of trouble, says there were eleven in the house, though only nine arrests are recorded at police headquarters. The affair has caused a big scandal, however, as both are society leaders. Again, it is serious, for should it be true a department might lose its head, for there is one "watch-dog" at least in the council.

SHE SENT A PERFUMED NOTE

Good Form in Dress

Social usage imposes certain rules as to dress which are carefully observed by men of good breeding and good sense.

Dress is not the most important object in life, but due observance of the rules of dress adds much to the comfort and refinement of life, and to a considerable extent, marks the difference between gentlemen and those who are not gentlemen.

Good form of dress is of course a matter of fashion and fashions vary. Should you ever be in doubt as to what is suitable call on us and we will give you safe advice on many controverted points, and on new fashions in attire that usually call for a good deal of consideration and caution. Therefore:—

DON'T go to extremes in your dress. Dress quietly. Overdressed men are always despised as frivolous.

DON'T be slovenly in your dress. Neatness is a duty you owe to society.

DON'T disregard that "good form" in dress which custom has fixed. Conformity to social usage in dress as well as in more essential matters is part of good manners.

DON'T wear a silk hat with a sack coat. It is a social crime.

A CALAMITY IN PRUSSIA.

THIRTEEN PERSONS KILLED AT CREFELD IN A STORM.

Over a Score of Others Injured The Mutiny at Chatham Renewed Rebel Arabs Toast a Captive's Flesh and Force Him to Eat It

BERLIN, Aug. 11. During a heavy storm at Crefeld today a house containing 50 persons fell to the ground. Thirteen were killed, 30 more or less injured were rescued and 12 are still buried in the wreck. Efforts are being made to extricate those who are in the ruins, cries for help from some of whom are audible.

Crefeld is in Rhenish Prussia 12 miles from Dusseldorf, and is the principal seat of silk and velvet manufacture in the Kingdom. Its population is about 60,000. The ancient fortifications of the city are still standing.

Thirteen Persons Drowned.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The British steamer Haleyon collided with the British steamer Rhenbina today near Vigo, Spain. The Haleyon sank. Thirteen persons were drowned.

Tortured by Arab Fiends.

DONDON, Aug. 11. An engagement has taken place between a force of rebel Arabs, and the army of the Sultan of Morocco. One hundred and twenty prisoners were captured by the rebels, and were all massacred. Among the captive was the son of the governor of the province in which the rising took place. Portions of his body were cut off while he was alive, and toasted. He was then compelled by Ahmut, the leader of the rebels, to eat his own flesh.

The Chatham Mutiny Renewed.

LONDON, Aug. 11. Further trouble has occurred among the troops at Chatham. A few days ago the harness of the horses belonging to the artillery battery there was wholly cut and damaged by some of the members of the battery that it was necessary to abandon a proposed parade of the battery. To-day it was discovered that the harnesses had again been hacked and cut in such a manner as to render them entirely useless. Three of the artillerymen who were the leaders in the mutiny have deserted.

England and the Vatican.

ROME, Aug. 11. The English Government has informed Cardinal Rampolla, Papal Secretary of State, that it is impossible for England to receive a papal envoy or to send a minister to the Vatican. It has been suggested that a secretary be attached to the British legation at Vienna, whose duty should be to conduct negotiations with the Vatican and to sometimes visit Rome.

The Ameer at Cabul.

CABUL, Aug. 11. The Ameer of Afghanistan arrived here to-day and was given an enthusiastic reception. A deputation consisting the principal chiefs, citizens and military officers presented him with 50,000 rupees to be devoted to charity. Several rebel Albianese chiefs were taken before the Ameer, who dismissed them after exhorting them to endeavor to persuade their tribes to respect their allegiance.

Duke of Heligoland.

BERLIN, Aug. 11. Emperor William arrived in Berlin to-day. He will create Prince Fitel Frederick his second son, Duke of Heligoland.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, Aug. 2. The produce market is quiet. Eggs are quoted at 16c to 16c, tub butter 14c to 15c, rolls 15c, lard $1 to $10, pork $15.50 to $2, geese 50c to 75c, turkeys 15c to 15c, ducks 50c to $1 per pair, chickens 60c to 80c, potatoes $2.25 to $2.50 per barrel, apples 50c to $1 per basket, hay $7 to $9, straw $6 to $8.

GRAIN QUOTATIONS.

Flour Still unchanged, and no demand as yet heard here. The American wheat markets are going up rapidly along, but for some inexplicable reason those do not seem to affect dealers or millers here. Straight roller is quoted at $4.50 to $4.60, and extra at $4.25 to $4.40.

Bran Fair demand and prices firm, $10 to $10 at outside, and $11.50 on the track here.

Wheat A quiet market prevails, there being little demand. Red and white are offering at 92c, and spring on the Midland at 90c.

Oats The market is dull, and no change in prices. White, outside, has been sold at 44c.

BEERBOHM'S REPORT.

Beerbohm reports: Floating cargoes—Wheat steady, corn nil. Cargoes on passage Wheat steadier, corn quiet. Mark Lane—Wheat, corn and flour a turn dearer; spot good Danube corn 18s 9d, was 18s 3d; prompt 19s 3d, was 18s 6d; ditto mixed American corn 20s 3d, was 19s 6d, straight Minn flour 28s, was 29s. French country markets firm. Weather in England showery. India shipments of wheat to United Kingdom 20,000 qrs., to Continent 40,000 qrs. Liverpool—Spot wheat moderate demand, corn moderate demand, is 2d, 3d cheaper.

LIVERPOOL MARKETS.

Liverpool reports. Wheat firm, demand poor; holders offer sparingly. Corn firm, demand improving. Spring wheat, 7s 3½d to 7s 4d; red winter, 7s 3d to 7s 3½d; No. 1 California, 7s 4 d to 7s 5d. Corn, 4s 3d. Peas, 4s 5d. Pork, 64s. Lard, 31s 3d. Bacon, long clear heavy, 30s; light, 31s; short clear, 31s. Tallow, 24s 3d. Cheese, 49s.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Utica reports: The attendance on the Board of Trade was light, and at 5 p.m. the room looked as if a cyclone had struck and scattered the salesmen, and in fact it had, in the way of the Central strike. The Central and West Shore having refused to ship cheese, buyers using those lines refused to buy and advised their patrons to hold. When these facts became known the salesmen left for home a much demoralized set of men, and at 6½ p.m. the market was closed for the day. The cheese that was bought will be shipped over the D. L. & W. or the Ontario & West route to New York. The coming week will undoubtedly show very light shipments and at the same time demonstrate to a certain what they may expect as to the future of the market. If lack of transportation and light shipments do not tend to send the prices to a higher figure the outlook for the future will not be very encouraging. Some of the best factories refused to sell at the ruling figures. The ruling price was 7c, 36c below last week. Transactions were: 5 lots, 500 boxes, 97½; 44 lots, 4462 boxes, 7c.

WEBB CLAIMS A VICTORY.

HE SAYS THE CENTRAL HAS WON THE STRIKE.

But the Despatches Make It Appear that He is Shouting a Little Too Soon—Pinkerton Men Making Up Freight Trains and Guarding the Switches.

ALBANY, Aug. 11.—Everything has been quiet here to-day. The passenger service is somewhat better than yesterday, but everything is still comparatively in a state of chaos around the Central station. Some of the trains running between Albany and New York were an hour late and others were on time, while those from the west were two to ten hours late. No attempt will be made to move freight trains out of the West Albany yards until additional Pinkerton men arrive in such numbers as will allow them to picket the yard around its miles of boundary. Carpenters employed by the Central were to-day erecting 300 bunks in the West Albany paint shop for the accommodation of these men when they arrive. The dressed beef which was stalled in this vicinity has all been drawn to the immense ice houses at Karner's. The train which blocks the upper railway bridge is still lying there and the stench which arises from decaying dressed beef in some of the cars is sickening.

Nothing to Arbitrate.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Florence Donovan of the State Board of Arbitration called upon Mr. Webb this morning and said the strikers had requested him to meet Mr. Webb and try to arrange the difficulty by arbitration. Mr. Webb received him courteously, but told him distinctly there was nothing to arbitrate. Mr. Donovan did not argue the matter but withdrew.

District Workman E. J. Lee said this morning that between here and Buffalo there were about 8000 men on strike. Reports received by him showed everything to be in good condition.

Purely a K. of L. Strike.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Representatives of the New York Central Railway are here hiring men to take the places of striking switchmen and brakemen. Fifty recruits were forwarded to Buffalo Saturday night and another lot was sent this morning. They are promised $70 per month for switchmen and $65 for brakemen, an advance of $15 and $10 over the wages ruling for these classes of men on the road.

The Pinkerton agency here has also received an order for a large number of men to act as guards along the road. Grand Master Sweeney of the Switchmen's Brotherhood says he will not call out the switchmen on the Michigan Central and Lake Shore roads to assist the strikers on the New York Central. He says it is purely a Knights of Labor strike.

But Is It True?

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The officials of the New York Central & Hudson River Railway announce that there is now no interruption to passenger traffic on the lines of the New York Central, all through passenger trains being run on tabular schedule time.

Says the Strike is Over.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—During the afternoon and evening the Grand Central depot was as quiet as though no strike had occurred. Trains were continually arriving and leaving in the usual manner and the entire business of the depot had resumed its normal condition. Vice President Webb said at 9 p.m. that the strike, so far as the New York Central was concerned, was at an end. On to-day's schedule at the Grand Central depot there were 138 Central Railway trains. Of these 120 left the depot almost on schedule time.

All Quiet at Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 11.—All is quiet in Syracuse, the railway trouble being confined to the yards at East Syracuse, which seems to be the present key to the situation. The Central authorities to-day began moving all passenger trains over the West Shore, switching at Kirkville on the east and at Geneva junction on the west, bringing trains back on to the Central here. The Central tracks through Syracuse are to-day practically abandoned.

Pinkertons as Railroaders.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 12. If Syracuse is the key to the situation it was lost to the strikers this evening when they were driven from the yards at East Syracuse by the Pinkerton men sent here Sunday. The Pinkerton men and railway men then began the work of making up and forwarding the freight cars containing perishable property which were tied up. About 20 freight trains were held in the yard and two trains were made up and started by the Pinkerton force without violence being offered. The detectives reported that the trouble was all over and that the yards at East Syracuse would be all cleared of freight in a few hours.

No Regular Freights Running.

FONDA, N.Y., Aug. 11.—Several freight trains filled with perishable property are standing near Schenectady and also a large number of carloads of lager en route for Boston. Fresh meat is scarce in Mohawk Valley towns and at Amsterdam it has advanced 4 cents a pound. No regular freights have passed over the road since the tie-up commenced.

Will Run the Milk Train

DOVER PLAINS, N.Y., Aug. 11.—The first real excitement here over the railroad strike was caused to-night by the arrival of Superintendent Worcester, accompanied by 24 armed Pinkerton men. The railway men quit work when ordered to do so, but no demonstration has been made. The Pinkerton men are quartered here and will run the milk train north to-morrow. There has been no attempt to run trains from here yet.

Benefited by the Strike

MONTREAL, Aug 11.—The Canadia Pacific is always on top. The strike on the American lines is doing it a world of good. It compels passengers to leave New York for Boston and from thence take the big Canadian line for the west. The passenger traffic in the past three days has been doubled, and American passengers have to leave the States, go back to New England and come up over the Southeastern line to Montreal, whence they can proceed to Chicago and the west. As far as the Canadian lines are concerned they would not be alarmed if the strike continued an indefinite time. The American trains are all from three to four hours late, and the bulk of the traffic is coming over the Canadian lines that have not direct connection with New York.

CARDINAL NEWMAN DEAD.

The Distinguished Prelate Passes Away at a Ripe Old Age.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Cardinal Newman is dead. He became ill Saturday, when he had a severe chill. He passed into a comatose condition Sunday and remained unconscious until he died this evening.

John Henry Newman was born in London, Feb. 21, 1801, graduated at Trinity College, Oxford, in 1820, was elected a fellow of Oriel College in 1822 and there assisted Dr. Whately in preparing for publication the "Dialogs on Logic." He was ordained as a clergyman of the Church of England in 1824, in 1825 became vice-principal of St. Alban Hall and in 1826 a tutor of Oriel. In 1829 he opposed the re-election of Sir Robert Peel as member of the University of Oxford because of that statesman's advocacy of Catholic Emancipation. In 1830 he was chosen one of the select university preachers. In 1837 appeared his "Essay on Justification," controverting the Lutheran doctrine on that subject, while his "University Sermons" discuss the relation of faith and reason and investigate the ultimate basis of religious belief. In the summer of 1838 he published a pamphlet on the "Real Presence," in which, seeking to give to the eucharistic doctrine an intellectual basis, he denied the objective reality of space. He now became editor of The British Critic, and remained so till July, 1841. The Bishop of Oxford having in 1836 animadverted publicly on The Tracts for the Times, Dr. Pusey replied by denying their Romanizing tendencies. This opposition emboldened the tractarian writers, and Dr. Newman defined more and more clearly the relative positions of Anglicanism and Romanism, till his attempt to reconcile the Anglican teaching of the thirty-nine articles with Roman Catholic dogma culminated in Tract No. 90 in February, 1841. He was called upon to withdraw the tract, but refused. When the British and Prussian Governments created a bishopric in Jerusalem (1841) he protested against the alliance about to be contracted in the East "with Nestorians, Monophysites, etc." In February, 1843, he made a formal retraction of the charges which he had uttered against the Church of Rome, and in September gave up his living and resigned his office as a clergyman. To his house at Littlemore he had invited several persons whose minds were disturbed like his own, and this was represented as an attempted revival of monasticism. He busied himself and his associates with "Translations from Athanasius," and writing a series called "Lives of the English Saints," in order to give the writers "an interest in the English soil and the English church and keep them from seeking sympathy with Rome." Some thirty writers were engaged in this work, the lives to form a periodical series, with Dr. Newman as editor. The first two numbers only, containing the "Life of St. Stephen Harding" and "The Family of St. Richard," were edited by him, the others being published independently by their respective authors. He began his "Essay on the Development of Doctrine" in the beginning of 1845, was received into the Roman Catholic Church Oct. 9 and left Oxford finally Feb. 23, 1846. Soon afterward Dr. Wiseman called him to Oscott, and thence sent him to Rome. There he took orders, and returning to England in 1848 established two houses of the Oratory of St. Philip Neri at Brompton and Birmingham, becoming superior of the latter, which in a few years was transferred to Edgbaston. There he built a large convent and a spacious church, with a school for the sons of the gentry and poor schools and other pious institutions in the neighborhood. In 1854 he was appointed by the Pope rector of the newly founded Catholic University of Dublin. At the approach of the Vatican Council a letter from Dr. Newman was published expressing dissatisfaction with the ultramontanes for urging factiously the definition of pontifical infallibility, but professing belief in the doctrine itself.

Judge Miles O'Reilly.

HAMILTON, Aug. 11.—Judge Miles O'Reilly died at his residence, Catharine-street south, at an early hour this morning, aged 84 years. The deceased judge was Ontario's oldest barrister, the oldest Queen's Counsel with the exception of Sir John A. Macdonald and the oldest judge in the Dominion. He was elevated to the bench in 1837 as judge of Gore District. He held commission as colonel of militia and has been Master-in-Chancery for 19 years. Both of Mr. O'Reilly's grandsires were United Empire Loyalists. He was born in Stamford in 1806 and was Hamilton's oldest inhabitant, having lived here for the past 60 years. He was confined to his bed three weeks ago and succumbed to old age, as he had no specific disease. His wife is the daughter of the late Mr. James Racey.

MANITOBA'S SCHOOL LAW.

Proposal that French Catholics Be Instructed to Ignore Its Provisions.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 11.—The Tribune tonight says the committee on school affairs of St. Jean Baptiste Society has taken some important steps in regard to the position of Catholics to the school law. A motion was made that instruction be given to French Catholics throughout the province to entirely ignore the school law and to continue their teaching as under the former regime.

A movement is on foot to build an electric railway in Winnipeg. Three gentlemen from St. Paul are now here in connection with the scheme.

Gray, the Wisconsin express robber, was taken this morning to Harley in charge of a Wisconsin sheriff. There are two claimants for the reward for his capture, Chief McRae of Winnipeg and Sheriff Redgrave of Donald.

The provincial synod of Rupert's Land opens here Wednesday and afterwards there will be a conference of delegates from the different dioceses in Canada to arrange for consolidation of the Church of England in the Dominion.

Mayor Pearson has returned home from a prolonged trip through eastern Canada and the States.

Despatches sent out by grain men to bull the grain market reported that frost had done serious injury to Manitoba crops. This is a pure fabrication. Despatches from all over the province state that at no point on Friday night did the mercury register lower than 34 degrees. Wheat harvesting will be general this week. The weather is now warm.

There are several cases of glanders in horses reported in various sections of Manitoba. Horses in the territories are also affected somewhat with the disease.

A young English swell, who has been loitering in the city for some time, went south this morning, and it is currently reported that he will be married at Grand Forks to a leading member of the Baker Opera Company, who were here the past few weeks.

The new Jewish synagogue recently erected here shows signs of collapsing, and the walls have been braced up.

Wheat cutting began to-day on the Brandon experimental farm. The Ladoga variety is the most promising.

Mr. Roberts, who had a foot taken off at Minnedosa on Saturday, had his leg amputated below the knee to-day.

Losses Caused by Flames.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 11.—This afternoon a farmhouse occupied by Mrs. Free and a laborer named T. Anderson, together with an Orange lodge room about 40 feet away, were burned. Nearly everything was saved both in house and lodge room. Probable loss about $1200. Insurance unknown. Supposed cause defective chimney.

Two Schooners Sunk in Lake Erie

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—Two schooners went down in Lake Erie within a few miles of Cleveland last night during the gale. The Fannie L. Jones of this city, laden with limestone, sprang a leak and sank a mile from the breakwater. Captain E. C. Cummings was drowned, but the remainder of the crew were rescued. The schooner Two Fannies of Kenosha, with iron ore from Escanaba to Cleveland, went down 12 miles off this harbor. The crew took to the yawl boat and were picked up by the steamer City of Detroit.

Wiman Visits Washington.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Erastus Wiman spent yesterday in Washington, breakfasting with Major McKinley. He dined with Mr. Hitt and had supper with Speaker Reed. The object of his visit to these eminent Republicans could not be learned, but it is supposed to have been due to Mr. Wiman's hobby in the matter of reciprocal trade relations with Canada.

MRS. QUIGLEY'S STORY.

REPEATED BEFORE CORONER AND POLICE MAGISTRATE.

She Saw a Vision and It Forced Her to Reveal the Truth—Day Pleads Not Guilty, but Is Committed for Wilful Murder.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 11.—This morning Coroner McGarry had the body of Mrs. Deseriah Day, who Mrs. Quigley claims was shoved over the precipice near Whirlpool Rapids Park Sunday, July 27, by her husband, placed in a coffin, which was lowered over the precipice by a derrick for the purpose. The body was lying across a log and in a much decomposed condition. The clothing was badly torn, and near by was a hat, which had evidently fallen from the head. When the men at the top of the cliff began to raise the coffin a young man named Rudd, who had been assisting to place the body in the coffin, got his hand caught in the rope around the coffin and was drawn to the top of the cliff, 70 feet.

The body, after being identified by Mrs. Quigley, was interred in Drummond Hill Cemetery. The coroner's jury, after hearing the evidence of Mrs. Quigley, which differed in no material respect from her statement to Police Magistrate Hill previously published, returned a verdict that deceased met her death by the hands of her husband by shoving her over the bank.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Detective Furtherer arrived in town with Arthur Hoyte Day, who had been arrested in Rochester for bigamy and did not know a charge of murder was hanging over him. The officers told him that the body of a woman had been found at Niagara Falls which was supposed to be that of his wife Deseriah, and they wanted him to come and identify her. When shown the clothing of the dead woman he said he did not know it as that of his wife. He has kept very cool and is another Burchell in nerve. He said his wife wore a black dress but not like that one. He was then arrested by the Canadian police on a charge of murder. The prisoner was brought before Police Magistrate Hill for a preliminary hearing. The accused pleaded not guilty.

Mrs. Quigley was the first witness. She repeated the story which she had told twice before. She said that she first disclosed the fact that Day pushed his wife over the bank yesterday and that she did it then because as she neared the scene of the crime she saw a vision. "A black mist rose from the place," said the witness, "and I told."

The prisoner was asked if he had any questions to ask Mrs. Quigley. He hesitated and then said:

Q. How many feet did you say you were away? A.—I don't know how many.

Q. Didn't you tell the jury the three or four hundred feet?—A. I don't know.

Q. Was it three or four hundred feet or five steps?—A. I can't say but it was quite a piece.

Q. Ten steps or twenty rods?—A. Just as I have stated, it is just so.

Q. Did you go up a hill with us?—A. Up as far as a sand bank, and she wanted to go to the whirlpool. If I had known your intention I would have never come.

Q. How long were we away from you?—A. Maybe 25 or 30 minutes.

Q. Do you positively swear I waved my handkerchief to you?—A. I do. You needn't try to criminate me. You are like the rest of my brothers; you have got us all in trouble and now you try to mix me up in this affair.

The witness at this stage burst into tears. Her brother, continuing, said:

Q. What conversation did you say passed between us?—A. Didn't you say you pushed her over?

Q. No. I did not. Would you swear I pushed her over?—A. No, I will not swear whether she slipped over or was pushed over, but I will swear you said you pushed her over.

Q. Were we good natured that day or not?—A. As far as I saw, you were good natured.

Q. Where you took dinner did anyone know her?—A. Yes.

Q. How did they get acquainted?—A. I don't know. She was trying to get her dinner for less than 50 cents.

Q. Did she say anything about them giving her $?—A. She did not.

Q. Did she try to pick berries off the bank at the time?—A. I could not tell. She was pretty close to the bank. We picked both red and black berries along the bank.

Q. Did you ever hear anyone say she was going to commit suicide?—A. Yes, I have.

Q. How long ago?—A. Last Saturday.

Q. Who were the parties that told you?—A. Mrs. Jennings. She told it several times.

Q. Did you ever hear it said that she said if she killed herself she would leave a note behind to bring me in for it?—A. I think I have.

Q. You never heard me say I had such a thing in my mind, did you?—A. I never did.

Q. Will you say whether she slipped over or was pushed over?—A. I will not, for I did not see it.

Q. She always seemed to have a good time, did she not?—A. She did.

To Magistrate Hill: He did not claim at the time that she slipped over. He said he shoved her over.

That concluded Mrs. Quigley's evidence. Detective Furtherer and Chief of Police Young gave their evidence as to investigating the case, finding the body and the identification of the clothing by Mrs. Quigley. After hearing the evidence the magistrate committed Day to Welland jail to stand his trial there at the assizes to be held in October.

Mrs. Quigley was remanded for eight days while her case as an accessory before and after the crime is being looked into.

HAMILTON'S TOURNAMENT.

A Big Crowd in Attendance—Winners in the Band Competition.

HAMILTON, Aug. 11.—To-day was Civic Holiday in Hamilton and excursion trains carrying large crowds were run to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Orillia. The attraction in the city, however, kept most of the people at home and also induced a large number of visitors to come from all parts. The band tournament under the auspices of the 13th Battalion, which was opened here to-day, and will be concluded to-morrow evening, was the attraction of the day, and the affair was a success in every particular. The number of bands entered was not as large as was at first expected, but the quality of the music was good. Immense crowds gathered at Dundurn Park to hear the competing bands and watch the games and other sports which were going on at the same time.

In the second-class band competition Bowmanville Band of Bowmanville obtained first prize, Taylor's Safe Works Band of Toronto second, and "C" Company Band of Toronto third prize. Fourth and fifth prizes were divided equally between Baden Band, Peterboro Band and Thorold Band.

In the fife and drum band competition the Pioneer Fife and Drum Band of Hamilton took first prize and I.O.F. 779 of Hamilton second.

For best appearance on march "C" Company Band of Toronto got first prize and Pioneer Fife and Drum Band of Hamilton second.

The first-class band competition takes place to-morrow afternoon and the winners will be announced to-morrow night.

The Templars' Encampment

MONTREAL, Aug. 11.—Preparations on a large scale are in progress for the inauguration of the Encampment of the Royal Templars, which will commence here on Thursday. The camp will be pitched from Aug. 14 to 21, both days inclusive, and promises to be the largest temperance demonstration held here in many years.

Rejoicing Over Celman's Downfall

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 11.—Sixty thousand persons attended the mass meetings held here to-day to rejoice over the fall of President Celman. General Mitre was cheered as the future candidate for the presidency.

The Round Trip.

A Girls' Account of the Lakes.

A day's outing—that's the latest, and so I call my trip "Island Peregrinations", which smatters of Smollet and Sterne and that ilk of English classic writers we all love to read, but their phrases are too highfalutin merely to tell of one day's delights on six lakes.

If any of my friends in the States read of my trip of a day on six lakes, they would, pleasantly enough, skeptically remark, "Rebekah is stretching while out sketching." There are no such lakes in the United States at all comparable to Chemong, Buckhorn, Deer, Lovesick, Stony, Clear or Katchewancooka lakes. No, indeed, there are not six lakes, in the States, aside from the great lakes within a radius of a thousand miles. Why, in the seventy thousand years, or seven times seventy—for geologists differ as to the age of the globe—why is, I wonder, such magnificence of fresh water sees confined to this country, on this continent at any rate? And where in the wide world will the tourist find such an interlocking of vast waters, such wonderful, solid, argile and double locks, too, that in three years have made navigable the horse-shoe bend from Chemong to Lakefield? And the grand panorama of nature, artificially joined for use, ever varying as we sail, even the colors of the water, and interspersed with islands each differing and all attractive? No, there is nothing like it beauty and grandeur in the world. A sail along St. John's, in Florida, presents its unique attractions, the banks of the rivers and inlets in that land of flowers show dull life when Canada is covered with ice and snow; there alligators and darkies lazily sun themselves on moss or mud-covered beds. But to write up would take three columns of the EXAMINER or eight pages of Harper's Monthly, with the illustrations I have partly prepared with the aid of my P.D.Q. camera.

Starting from Peterborough after breakfast by the Grand Trunk. O! that horrid smoking car. Missing Bob—that's my brother and a very attentive one he is when he is with me and that's not often—I went forward to find him, for he loves to smoke and I don't object, and there he was puffing away: I hailed him, "Ah there!" and he said, "You stay there." He joined me at once almost saying a cuss word about the smoking car. He said "it must be a cattle car converted." Bob has been for years a commercial traveller in the States, and says he don't wonder the U.S. intend to discriminate against Canadian railways if their smoking cars are included. I don's exactly know what Bob meant by that, he wouldn't discriminate against Canada, I am sure. However, when we took the boat at Chemong and smoked aft and forward, that is, back and forth to his heart's content, in company, when he could get him with Captain Eden of the "Dawn." I lost his company, I mean Bob's, for at sight of Captain Eden he said to me, "I think I know the Captain." He meant that he was a brother Mason for he had never laid eyes on him before, but that was enough. But I did not miss Bob's company, not being of a gushing style to pile up adjectives. I was satisfied as the beauty and grandeur of the panorama was being unfolded to my vision. In the presence of so much that was wonderful, I was dumb, and, quietly viewing the beauties of the surrounding scene, and enjoying the breeze, I thought of the chaos before man's creation; of the might and mercy of our Creator, and of His loving kindness in the glories spread around and about us.

BOB GREW SERENE

I was sorry when we reached busy, picturesque Lakefield. Now, Stony Lake is both and I soon found out why it was named Stony. But, why is Stony sometimes spelt Stoney? There is no e in stony. By the way—of Africa, that darkest continent, and Stanley, the explorer, and Emin Pascha. We know there is an Africa and a Stanley, but there is no Emin Pascha. See?

NATURALLY AND ARTIFICIALLY BEAUTIFUL,

As to meals on this trip, dinner, a first-class one, is served at that romantic hotel on the bluff at Buckhorn; and the boat waits till you are ready to sail again, so no cause for indigestion from hasty feeding, and certainly none from the food—it was of a variety, freshness and cooking to please all.

When this is in print I will recall many more things I intended to write about. I'll reserve myself for another trip soon and another account of it.

REBEKAH.

Gore's Landing.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The weather is very unsettled.

Barley harvest is about over. Light crop. The heavy rain on Tuesday darkened it very much. Wheat and oats are very fair.

If the young man who took the oar from the boat on Sunday, July 20th, isn't very careful he will get into trouble. Tricks of this kind are called larceny when brought before the magistrats.

Mr. F. J. Bell, Division Court Clerk, Peterborough, has been here for the past few days.

Miss Lilly Day is visiting at Mr. Harris' jr.

Mr. A. Latter is visiting at Mr. C. Neill's. Cobourg is well represented at the Landing on Sundays.

WEATHER NOTES—Another peculiar month has gone, in truth since the opening of spring every month however, may come under the same category, but for thunder storms, heavy rains and sudden changes of weather July of 1890 has eclipsed its former record. It came in sultry and hot with an even temperature up to the 12th, on which day we had it 88° in the shade, at 2 p.m. on the 13th at 90°, the 14th at 92°, the 15th at 88° down to 82° on the 16th, but on the 29th it again rattled up to 90° on the 30th to 88° and on the 31st at 90°, leaving the mean temperature of the month at 84 19/31°. We had thunder on 11 days or a little over a third of the month. The most severe being on the 1st, the 7th and 24th; the first falling 1 inch and 5/100 of an inch of water, the second 1 inch and 1/10 of an inch and the third 9/10 of an inch. Rain fell on 16 day a little over the half of the month to the depth of 4 inches and 8/10 of an inch, being high for July We had frost on four mornings, namely the 19th, the 20th the 21st and 22nd, and auroral lights on the nights of the 17th and 18th. The first barley was cut here on the 18th and fall wheat on the 22nd. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at Sunrise during the month respectively, namely: South east 2 days, north-west 15 days, south-west 2 days, north 4 days, west 3 days, north-east 3 days and south 2 days.

Why is it?

Reasons why the Sons of Canada picnic to Jubilee Point is the one to take in.

Because it is the cheapest. Tickets 50c., Children under 12 years, 25c.

Because it is a delightful trip. No smoke or cinders, lots of fresh air and sunshine.

Because there is good fishing and canoes will be carried free.

Because we furnish tea and hot water free and will check your baskets.

Because meals on boat and hotel are only 25 cents.

Because Doucet's orchestra will furnish music.

Because there is a Ladies' Solid Silver Watch and Chain to be drawn for.

Because you are all the Sons and Daughters of Canada.

Because there will be lots of fun and and enjoyment.

Because we do as we advertise.

FAMILY LIKENESS.

Curious Investigation by a Photographic Society in Geneva.

Some curious investigations have recently been undertaken by a photographic society in Geneva. The purpose was to show that the longer a married couple lived together, we apprehend harmoniously, the more and more marked became the resemblance which the two persons bore to each other. Photographs of seventy-eight old couples were taken, as well as of an equal number of adult brothers and sisters. On careful inspection it was found that the married couples were more like each other than the brothers and sisters of the same blood. Apparently, therefore, there seems to be a stronger force available for the production of "family likeness" even after that of hereditary transmission.

In accepting the statement of the society in question as true as to fact, and not regarding it as the outcome of an attempt to make practice and theory meet, it is not difficult in a certain measure to account for the phenomenon referred to. Human beings, for example, have a faculty for copying each other in their ways, movements and temperaments. Witness the attempts which are commonly made to imitate the mode of utterance and the "catchy" mannerisms which happen to be affected by this or that public man. Almost every man and woman has a "model" in ordinary life from whom certain features are taken and adopted.—London Medical Press.

Captured a Monster Skate.

Lawrence Bommer, a hinge manufacturer, of Bromley, captured a monster skate weighing 150 pounds in the surf at Coney Island, and it is now on exhibition in one of the West End resorts there. Mr. Bommer is upward of 70 years old, but with the assistance of his dog he captured the big fish without much trouble. His attention was first attracted to it by the barking of the dog, and when he saw it in the surf he seized a heavy piece of wood and waded out almost to his waist in the water before he reached the fish. He stunned it with the wood, and the dog seized it and tore at it wickedly. It was finally secured with a rope and towed ashore. —New York World.

SUICIDE AT ST. THOMAS.

Jailer Robert Pearson Takes a Fatal Dose of Arsenic.

ST. THOMAS, Aug. 9.—Robert Pearson died at 10 o'clock last night from a dose of arsenic taken Wednesday while in a despondent condition, while recovering from the effects of drinking. The deceased was a native of Wales, a tailor by trade and 45 years old. He leaves a wife and three children, two boys and a girl, the eldest 13 and the youngest 9 years of age. His wife is in delicate health, and the shock may have a serious effect on her. His father and a brother reside in Toronto. Pearson was a member of the Sons of England, the A.O.U.W., the Select Knights, the I.O.O.F. and the Masonic Order. He had insurances in several of the societies to which he belonged.

RUN DOWN BY A FERRY.

A Lakeview (Mich.) Young Lady Drowned in the River at Sarnia.

SARNIA, Aug. 9.—The ferry Hiawatha the other night ran into a rowboat containing Frank Dennison and Miss Florence Leanzean of Port Huron and Miss Myrtle Reed of Lakeview, Mich. The occupants were thrown into the water and Miss Reed was drowned.

Good for Seven Years.

MORRISBURG, Aug. 9.—Some years ago William Isaac Daguerre of Shelburne, Ont., who he had resided with his wife, went to Dakota and was employed on the work of building the double track on the Grand Trunk Railway. In November, 1888, he married a daughter of Mr. Michael Casselman, who resides in the vicinity of Aultsville, since which time he has visited both wives unknown to the other. However, wife No. 1 discovered his infamy, came here and had him arrested at the residence of Walter Redmond on Thursday evening. He was taken to Aultsville, where he was brought before the proper authorities and committed to Cornwall to stand his trial. Wife No. 2 appeared against him with a child about three months old. He will probably get about seven years in the penitentiary.

AS PRETTY HANDS

"SMOOTH AS CURD, WHITE AS BISQUE, SOFT AS CHAMOIS."

Gloving Oneself with Beauty—The Best Thing to Do with Neglected Hands—How to Get Rid Nails in Good Shape—Toilet Aids.

A neglected hand, which is solely a convenience to its owner, may be surprisingly improved by continuous care. The first point is to make and keep it clean. You may think your hands well washed, yet after submitting them to a manicure they come out so much whiter that one feels they never were clean before. To put a careless hand in good condition may require half an hour's work three times a week for a fortnight, in which time the new skin should grow whiter and finer than before.

True, I can quote the example of one of the Four Hundred, a gentleman who counts his descent from Eric the Dane, whose wife is proud of the fact that he spends an hour daily in caring for his hands, which are unfailingly aristocratic and faultless in condition. But with most of us life is too short and full of pressing duties to allow more than the minimum of time for cares which must be repeated daily, and fifteen minutes a day for the hands is wanton waste. Five minutes spent once a week trimming the nails of fingers and toes is all that most of us can afford, time being scarcer than money. But the daily toilet should be made with military dispatch and military neatness.

Soak ill-kept hands in hot, bathing soap-suds with half a teaspoonful of borax in the water, which acts wonderfully in removing grime. The hotter the water the sooner it will remove grime and old particles. Think the use of a stiff brush on the back of the hands, as well as the use of vaseline at night, fosters the growth of hair. Those who have used the rubber hand brushes will never want anything else. Rubber clings to the surface with a sort of suction and carries away every trace of grime with it. The common washing powders of different names quickly bleach the hands but leave them harsh and dry unless rubbed with lemon juice or vinegar and water. A strong solution of oxalic acid should be kept to remove deep stains which result from cutting fruit or vegetables, though there are few which resist washing soda. There are some which defy cyanide of potassium, which will take out stains of iodine, aniline or any trace of silver nitrate. Being a most powerful poison, its use should be confined to such stains as nothing else will remove.

As to Softening Hands

Having whitened the hands and dried them well, let us proceed to soften them. Half the harshness of the skin comes of half drying hands after washing them, and the best use of almond meal comes in. It is nice to rub on the hands while rinsing them; rubbing the back with it as if it were soap. But while the hands still feel moist from the towel, rub the dry almond meal over them, giving the backs a little friction, and they are left in a delightful state from the soapcon of oil powder, worked into the pores. The callous growth round the nails is to be rubbed down with pumice-stone or still better a fine sandstone. Or start the emery wheel of the sewing machine and rub the fingers down with it. In time the little sandstone, worked by foot power will become of the manicure's indispensable aids. The small grindstone for kitchen use is very good purposes in rubbing down rough or horny hands to smoothness. Not only do they wear away roughness but the friction stimulates the skin, and supples the hands. The Romans knew most that was worth knowing, about the toilet and they used pumice and sandstone all over their bodies to secure the marble smoothness of flesh we hear of but seldom see.

Bad Nails.

The best way to treat agnails is to cut them close with fine sharp scissors, soak the first joint of the finger in very hot soapsuds for five or ten minutes, keeping it hot as can be borne, and touching, when dry, with cold cream. So far from being injurious to cut or pare the "selvage," as the French call the rim of skin next the nail, when one's are imperfect the best way is to trim them close with sharp slender pointed scissors, first cutting the skin free of the nail without bleeding. The nails can be trimmed to a fine oval on almost any fingers, by pressing the flesh away at the corners, and paring these closer day by day till they lose unsightly breadth. Then the fingers, by frequent pressure at the sides of the upper joint, will take a taper instead of a spreading tip. It is useless to develop a taper finger till the nail is in oval shape.

To keep the nails thin, polished and firm, keep them trimmed never allowing them to project beyond the finger ends, a rim of white two lines beyond the flesh being the most beautiful way of wearing them. The pointed long nails, however, fashionable with the few, are cruel looking, and suggest usefulness, accidents and breakages anyhow. Imagine an artist or a statue with long pointed nails. When we grow three corner finger ends the pointed nail will be in keeping, not till then. You will not see the "talon cut" of nails on the hand of any court beauties photographed to-day. The files used by ordinary manicures are much too coarse for finger nails. Scraping the nail or filing their surface thickens them; they should only be rubbed down with the fine emery and cinnabar powder, which is used for polishing shell and ivory. The nails are an index to the health. When they thicken, grow ridged or brittle, the system is out of order, to which careful diet and few Turkish baths will usually restore it. The effect of bad health is seen at once on the finger nails, which seem thinner, more delicate and ailing for a week after. The Sultana of Turkey forbids the use of acid or sharp nail points about the finger nails, which are trimmed with pointed orange wood sticks, also used for pressing back the selvage of skin at the base of the nails.

An English Recipe.

I conclude with an English recipe for keeping hands smooth, which is two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one of glycerine and the same of almond oil—colorless oil by the way, for experience lends reason to the idea that most oils and vaseline, discolor and darken the hands. En passant, hot foot baths nightly, and purgatives with coarse bread are the best regime to secure white hands.

Honey balsam is a nice preparation English lady's maids compound to whiten and soften hands. It is made of eight tablespoonfuls of pale strained honey heated gently, and two tablespoonfuls of vegetable glycerine melted into it: when cold, two tablespoonfuls of rectified spirit and three drams of pure citric acid are added, with a few drops of any rich essence to perfume. Dissolve the acid crystals in the spirit before pouring into the other mixture and bottle at once.

These toilet arts afford new avenues of employment to women, but it is indispensable that the best methods be learned and practised with the utmost refinement. A hairdresser or manicure in dress over so slightly soiled, whose presence betrays by scent, if not by sight, the need of personal attentions, repels at once, and if to this she adds indifferent, mechanical treatment, carelessly kept implements and ill-smelling applications, she may be certain customers will not willingly seek her service a second time. A good manicure, who has also knowledge of a facial massage, can command $5 a day at moderate estimate by private practice in cities, going from house to house: and few callings require so little effort, only that effort must be given with delicate skill and exacting care.—Shirley Dare.

DUEL WITH LARIATS.

Exciting Battle to the Death Between Infuriated Mexican Cowboys.

A novel duel was fought near Moor's Station, between two Mexican cowboys named Jose Carrasco and Manuel Bosco. Carrasco was in possession of a fine netted cow which Bosco claimed belonged to him, and had been stolen some time previous. They were both on horseback and their lariats hung from the pommels of their saddles. Bosco hailed Carrasco and demanded the return of his cow. The latter became furious at the suggestion that he had come into possession of a stolen cow, and his Mexican blood began to boil. Words of a sulphurous nature began to pass between the cowboys, when Bosco called Carrasco a liar.

Scarcely had the words been spoken when quick as a flash, the irate Carrasco grasped his lariat from his saddle, and hurling it with a quick movement over his head, sent it with a swish toward Bosco's neck. The latter ducked his head and grabbed his lariat as he did so.

Then began one of the fiercest bloodless battles that has ever been recorded. Up and down the roadway the two horsemen dashed, the lassoes of the duellists flying and circling in the air. Not a word was spoken. As fast as the lassoes fell short of their mark they were jerked quickly together, and with a twirl over the head each cowboy endeavored to encircle the other's neck.

The horses were flecked with foam, and both of them dashed away in the same direction, seeming to realize the fight to the death was going on between the riders. On sped the horses, but not a word spoke the fighters. Bosco finally turned his eyes from the other cowboy for an instant, and, quick as a flash, Carrasco dropped the noose of his lariat over his adversary's neck, swung his pony around with a jerk, and putting spurs to the animal, started off in the opposite direction.

Bosco was jerked from his horse's back so suddenly that his neck was broken, and he was dragged over the ground at full speed for more than a mile. The victor disengaged his lariat from his victim's neck and coolly rode into town.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase as $1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $818,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly perused to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$43,664,376	3.67
Confederation	17,974,838	15.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,600	10.29
Federal	10,053,527	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,517	10.36
North American	8,470,820	10.68
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17.34
Citizens	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20.12
London Life	1,644,295	20.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole nine companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 20 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

'Derry Day.

The Loyal Orangemen of Peterborough Celebrate it—The 'Prentice Boys go to Belleville—The Rising Sons, True Blues, Orangemen and Black Knights go to Norwood.

There was bustle and stir amongst every branch of Orangemen in town this morning, in preparation for the celebration of 'Derry Day. The first to make a start was the 'Prentice Boys. At 8 o'clock a procession was formed at the lodge rooms. Jubilee Lodge of 'Prentice Boys No. 7, Wm. Sloan master, with banners flying and led by the Millbrook brass band marched up Simcoe street to Water street then to Hunter street and down to George and then to the G.T.R. station where the members of the lodge and a large number of their sympathisers and friends took train for Belleville where the day is to be celebrated in good style.

An hour later there was another at headquarters, Simcoe street, where the True Blues and Orangemen assembled to march to the station of the C.P.R. At nine o'clock a procession was formed, headed by the brass band of the Fourth Line of Smith, preceded by a flag. Then followed the Orange representatives and Lodges, the representatives of Black Knights, Mr. Robt. Weir, Grand Master for Eastern Ontario, and Mr. G. W. Hall, Past Grand Master of Peterborough Preceptory; Mr. Alex. Hamilton, County Master, and Mr. John Green, Royal Black Knights; representatives of L. O. L. No. 49 and L. O. L. No. 80, and a strong contingent of Wellington L. O. L. No. 457 (Nassau); the Rising Sons' Lodge of Junior True Blues, and King William Lodge of True Blues, No. 43, J. Jamesor, Master. Nassau, Rising Sons and True Blues carried handsome banners, and the fife and drum band of the latter filled in the middle of the procession, and furnished very good music. The music of the Smith band was exceedingly creditable. The procession took in Water and Hunter streets and down George to the C.P.R. station, where they boarded a special train, accompanied by a good company of excursionists. A great demonstration is being held in Norwood to-day, for which the weather is delightful.

"GATHERING OF THE CLANS"

Peterborough's Prime Cheese.

Sluggish Bidding and Slow Sales—Lindsay Section to Sell Off the Board.

Total, 810.

The buyers present were Messrs. Fitzgerald, Caxton, Wrighton, Spence, Cook.

The bidding started slowly. Mr. Fitzgerald opened with 7¾ for selections, Mr. Wrighton followed with 8c. Mr. Fitzgerald "saw" him and went ¼ better, and Mr. Fitzgerald selected Warminster and Cherry Grove which accepted. Mr. Cook bid 8c. for further selections, Mr. Fitzgerald advanced to 8 1/16; he named Peterborough which declined. Mr. Wrighton bid 8c. for further selections, Mr. Fitzgerald advanced to 8 1/16 and took Missing Link which accepted. Mr. Cook bid 8c. for further selections naming Keene, Shearer, North Smith, Central Smith, Warsaw, Pine Grove Otonabee, Union, Maple Leaf, Myrtle, which accepted.

For the Victoria section Mr. Wrighton bid 7¾ for selections, naming Mariposa and Cambray. These declined, and leave was asked for the Victoria section to sell off the board. Leave was given to Victoria section and to South Dummer to sell off the Board.

Personal.

The many friends of Mr. John Walton will be pleased to learn that he is somewhat better to-day.

Mr. Thomas Thompson and son, Mr. W. T. Thomson leave to-day for the North West. Mr. Thomson sr. is on a visit to friends and his son will likely make his home in the West.

Miss Delaney and mother left this morning to make the popular Mackinaw holiday trip.

Mr. A. H. Stratton, Miss Mary and Miss Ella Stratton sail from Owen Sound this evening to take the Mackinaw excursion holiday outing.

The Globe of Aug. 12th says:—Mr. Jas. A. Paterson, of the firm of Paterson & Son, leather merchants, Peterborough, spent yesterday in the city. He is returning home from a business trip in the west.

Mr. James Menzies, foreman of the Ottawa Free Press, was in the city yesterday on his way from Chicago, whither he went with the rest of the Canadian contingent to attend the great cantonment of Oddfellows.

Mr. J. S. Creuse ex-M.P.P., East Victoria was in town attending the meeting of the cheese board, Mr. Blezard, M.P.P., West Peterborough was also. Though the cable was only 40 shillings for cheese in Liverpool the presence of two M.P.P.'s boomed the price up to 8¼ cents.

With reference to application for increase of salaries, your committee would recommend in view of the large expenditure and low scale of wages, that no increase be granted on salaries for this year.

Your committee would recommend that the clerk write the G.T.R. and C.P.R. with reference to the gates across certain streets, some of which have already been promised to the council.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. S. DAVIDSON,

Aug. 8th, 1890.

Report was adopted.

STREET AND BRIDGES.

Mr. Langford, chairman, presented the report of the Street and Bridge Committee as below:—

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN—Your Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report as follows:

We recommend a sidewalk on Stewart street near Murray—about 50 feet.

We recommend a sidewalk on Bethune street north of Dublin street—about 75 feet.

We recommend a sidewalk on King street west to boundary.

We recommend a sidewalk on Bethune street, between Perry and Lake—about 80 feet.

Tenders for laying sidewalks were asked for and awarded to Mr. T. C. Irwin.

Tenders for sidewalks were also asked for and Mr. M. Bolton's tender was the lowest.

A drinking fountain has been placed on Water street, near the town buildings, and the fountain at the Central Park put in running order.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. LANGFORD,
Chairman.

CHARITY.

Mr. Hall (A.) presented the report of the Charity Committee, as follows:—

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Charity Committee beg leave to report that the amount of relief given in the months of May, June and July amounts to $231.05—for No. 1 Ward, $78; for No. 2, $73.05; for No. 3, 868, for No. 4 $12. Your committee recommend that merchants who supply goods on charity orders give details of articles supplied. Below is a detailed statement of relief given and the names of each person receiving charity and the amount received by them.

All of which is respectfully submitted

ADAM HALL,
Chairman.

August 11th, 1890.
Report adopted.

SEWERAGE.

Mr. Langford, chairman, presented the report of the special committee on sewerage, as follows:—

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Sewerage Committee beg leave to report as follows:—

In accordance with a resolution of the Sewerage Committee, your special committee advertised for tenders for taking the levels of the town. That of Mr. J. E. Belcher, being the lowest, was accepted, and a resolution having been passed that a committee visit Brockville, Montreal and other places to inspect the systems of sewerage in the different places, Messrs. Cahill, Davidson, the town engineer and myself, visited Brockville, Montreal and Kingston. The Brockville system we regard as the best suited to our requirements.

The system employed in this sewerage is what is technically termed the Separate System, one much used in cities in the United States, and so explained by Engineer Chapman, differing from the other, or Combined system, in that the latter system has the sewers constructed to carry off not alone the domestic house sewerage, but also the heaviest rainfall, this being the system used in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and other large cities; whereas the Separate system provides for the sewerage in itself and the rain and surface drainage in a distinct and separate system. With adoption of this latter system, Brockville employs Scotch vitrified clay sewer pipes, ranging from 18-inch mains to 6-inch laterals to carry off the liquid house-waste, excreta and sometimes a limited quantity of roof water. At either side of those sewer pipes are laid field drain tiles, which not only keep the substratum dry, but into which water drainage from cellars is conducted. Of course the system is not intended to carry street water, garbage, etc. To carry off the street water and rainfall separate drain pipes are provided, into which the field drain tiles from the cellars, before mentioned, empty at certain points. The advantages of the Separate system were explained by Mr. Chapman to be as follows:

The quantity of sewerage to be dealt with is a comparatively fixed one, and not varying, as in the combined system from rainfall, etc., the quantity being small. Sewer pipes can be used, which, as in Brockville, can be flushed thoroughly by automatic flush tanks with pure water; whilst in the combined system the flushing depends much on the rainfall which is irregular and imperfect in its operations, and the sewers have no connexion with the cellars of buildings, the cellar and ground water being removed by separate conduits. The rainfall in Brockville is in the St. Lawrence about 900 feet from the shore through an iron pipe in 45 feet depth of water. The system, from what I learn, so far works well, and is yet in course of construction having been commenced some three years ago. In places the excavations are heavy, particularly where rock is met with.

The flush tanks are filled from the waterworks, and the flushing can be regulated by the inflow of the water. When the tanks are filled the valves open the flush thoroughly cleansing the smooth surface of the sewer pipes. The time required to discharge the sewerage from the entire system occupies but 90 minutes.

The cost of the sewers is partly done by a frontage tax and the entire cost is expected not to exceed $100,000 which amount has been provided for by the town.

Before concluding this report permit me to bring before your notice the handsome manner in which your deputation was received and entertained by the Mayor, the corporation and officials of the town of Brockville, who not alone aided and accompanied us in the inspection of their works and sewers, but provided conveyances for the purpose. I must also express my thanks to our town Engineer for his professional assistance in drawing our attention to the special point in the object of our mission.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

W. LANGFORD.

The report was received.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

Mr. Hall chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, presented again the report (presented by him at the last meeting and referred back by the council) with a few changes in the placing of the lamps

The report gave rise to some discussion. Messrs. Rutherford, Hartly, Dawson objected to the adoption of the report and Messrs. Langford and Hall (E. H. D.) suggested that the report be referred back again to the committee, on general principles, which was on motion of Mr. Rutherford seconded by Mr. Moore, done.

FIXING THE FIRE LIMITS.

Mr. Hall (A) introduced a by-law to consolidate the several fire limit by-laws, introduced at the last meeting of the council.

The by-law received its second reading with slight amendments and was finally passed.

MOTIONS.

On motion of Messrs. Moore and Dawson the poll tax of Joseph McClelland and James Smith were remitted.

A motion by Mr. Langford to close the wooden sewer on Hunter street, was allowed to stand as notice of motion.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that no person be permitted to connect with the George street sewer without permission of the Street Inspector, and then under such conditions as the Street Inspector may sanction.—Carried.

Mr. Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. Dawson, that the council request the Board of Health to allow the butchers to occupy their premises now occupied till the first of May provided the premises be kept in a condition to meet the approval of the Medical Health Officer.

Council adjourned for one week.

The Belleville Cheese District.

A large quantity of cheese is being shipped from this district this year. It is largely in excess of last year. In speaking to a prominent member of the board to-day a reporter was told that this year was the most favourable for cheesemaking in several years. All the local buyers have done a large business as compared with former years. The general output from Canada to July 1st was 150,000 boxes in excess of last year.

Good Form in Dress

Social usage imposes certain rules as to dress which are carefully observed by men of good breeding and good sense.

Dress is not the most important object in life, but due observance of the rules of dress adds much to the comfort and refinement of life, and to a considerable extent, marks the difference between gentlemen and those who are not gentlemen.

Good form of dress is of course a matter of fashion and fashions vary. Should you ever be in doubt as to what is suitable call on us and we will give you safe advice on many controverted points, and on new fashions in attire that usually call for a good deal of consideration and caution. Therefore.—

DON'T go to extremes in your dress. Dress quietly. Overdressed men are always despised as frivolous.

DON'T be slovenly in your dress. Neatness is a duty you owe to society.

DON'T disregard that "good form" in dress which custom has fixed. Conformity to social usage in dress as well as in more essential matters is part of good manners.

DON'T wear a silk hat with a sack coat. It is a social crime.

DON'T above all things order your clothing until you have seen our stock. We show every desirable Fabric, Broadcloths, Cheviots, Doeskins, Tweeds, Fine, Plain and Fancy Worsteds, and as to Patterns—well, we can give you what you want, no matter what it is.

THE WORLD OF LABOR.

NEW YORK CENTRAL TRAINS AGAIN RUNNING.

The Road Claims To Have Won a Complete Victory—The Big Tie-up In Wales—Westinghouse Machinists at Pittsburg Strike for a 9-Hour Day.

NEW YORK, Aug 12. Affairs at the Central's freight depot here are assuming their normal condition. Freight, it is expected, will be received by the road in the morning. The men still talk confidently of victory.

ROCHESTER, Aug 12.—All trains on the Central Hudson passed through this city nearly on time to-day. Freight trains are moving east and west

Returned to Work.

ELMIRA, N.Y., Aug. 12. The New York Central switchmen and baggage masters here who went on strike have with one exception returned to work.

Powderly Will not Talk

BUFFALO, Aug 12.—T. V. Powderly passed through Buffalo to-night to attend a meeting of the General Executive Committee of the K. of L. He refused to discuss the strike.

UP GO EGGS, FRUIT AND MILK.

Delay in Transportation Raises the Price of Provisions

NEW YORK, Aug 12. Prices of some kinds of provisions have already been affected by the strike. At the Mercantile Exchange yesterday the price of eggs advanced to 18 and 19 cents. They were 17 cents on Saturday. The price of fancy butter also went up half a cent. Cheese is also likely to be higher if the strike continues. As trade in cheese is mostly for export and the quantity used in home consumption is small that is not an important item to the general public. The effect, though, will be to send cheese for shipment to Montreal which otherwise would have come here.

Pears sold for the highest prices they ever brought in this market. Two cardoads of surfaces sold for an average of $4.50 apiece. The highest figure was $5 a box for 100 boxes. Peaches and plums also advanced and the price of milk went up a cent a quart

THE STRIKE IN WALES.

Trade Completely Paralyzed—John Burns Goes to Help the Strikers.

LONDON, Aug 12. John Burns, the labor agitator, has gone to Wales to assist in carrying out the great strike. No words can exaggerate the state of the complete paralysis of trade of all sorts in Wales. Huge collier sailing vessels and steamers and great ocean liners are lying at the docks in absolute idleness, for there is not a ton of coal in sight to put into them. Meanwhile, from the adjoining districts, such as those accustomed to come by the now idle railways, come complaints of shortness in the supply of provisions, diminished and dwindling trade, as well as grave personal inconvenience to the inhabitants. The markets are deserted and the district is filled with police, while the military is held in readiness for any emergencies all along different points of the line

Australia's Shipping Trade Threatened

MELBOURNE, Aug 12. A complete cessation of the shipping trade of Australia is threatened in consequence of the demands of the Marine Officers Association for an increase of pay. The seamen's union, the dock men's union and other trade societies support the marine officers, and the situation is made worse by the action of the shearers' union, which declares that shippers shall refuse to handle non-union wool.

Machinists Demand 9 Hours.

PITTSBURG, Aug 12. The strike of machinists for a 9 hour day is spreading and about 3000 men are now idle. The principal fight seems to be against the Westinghouse interests and by to-morrow it is said all the employees of Westinghouse, numbering 1000, will be out. This will cause a suspension of work at the Westinghouse Electric Company's works, Westinghouse Machine Company, Westinghouse Air Brake Company and Union Switch and Signal Company. The demands of the men have been conceded at a number of shops and work has been resumed.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Lord Stanley and Prince George to Be Invited to the Exposition

TORONTO, Aug 12. The Toronto Industrial Exhibition Association has decided to invite Lord Stanley and Prince George to visit the show during the week after it opens in September.

Last evening, while J. J. Withrow, a prominent manufacturer, was out driving his horse ran away. He held it so firmly that it stopped running and began to kick. It kicked through the dashboard and broke his right knee cap in three places.

Jumbo Campbell, the park orator, went to the police headquarters yesterday morning and complained that the plate glass window in his store in Queen street had been broken by some one who threw a stone at it about 2 o'clock in the morning. This is the second time the window has been broken. Campbell is the man who was arrested on a charge of using obscene and insulting language in the Queen's Park after his repeated abuse of Roman Catholics the Sunday afternoon addresses. There is a good deal of feeling against him.

The strike of employees on the New York Central has not materially affected the local trade, merchants say. As neither the Grand Trunk nor Canadian Pacific are directly affected arrangements were perfected early in the trouble to transfer all cars laden with Canadian freight to branches of these lines, and the only inconvenience merchants will be put to is a delay of a few hours in the receipt of their goods, or in the arrival of shipments at points in the Eastern States.

Shortly before noon yesterday an accident occurred which may result in a charge of manslaughter against Adrian Elliott, who drives for Fred Deane, the Yonge-street livery man. The injured man, William Brown, was working on the new pavement at Yonge and Breadalbane streets and was carried by two other men backing up a wagon. He was hurt the tongue against his abdomen, when Elliott, who was driving a Victoria, crossed to the wrong side of the street and endeavored to get past but collided against Elliott, pushing the tongue of the wagon into the man's stomach. He was conveyed to his brother-in-law's residence, John Gibson, at 312 Yonge street, where he lies in a critical condition.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Aug. 12 The freeholders of the town voted by a majority of 26 in favor of a system of waterworks.

EDMUND YATES' GOSSIP.

THE KAISER'S AMIABILITY AND ENERGY.

His Grandmother Delighted—The Archduchess Valerie's Dowry—Another American Princess The Cowardly Persecution of Mrs. Mackay.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Edmund Yates cables The Tribune from London: Nothing could exceed the Emperor's amiability while on his visit to the Queen, and his evident desire to be very gracious and pleasing has delighted his grandmother. The Prince of Wales surpassed himself in his attempts to make everything go off well, and succeeded marvelously. The visit of the German Emperor to East Ney barracks was no more royal parade such as is usual in this country. He has evidently made up his mind to see all that was to be seen, and his indefatigable energy poking into all parts of soldiers' quarters was too much even for the Prince of Wales. It cannot be denied that the Kaiser showed rare determination to mark, learn and inwardly digest. One of his official attendants, acting under imperial orders, tested the pork pie. Another member of the staff was selected to sample the quality of the beer served at the English canteen, and the Emperor himself purchased a screw of tobacco. There was ample food for reflection in the thoroughness of the imperial democratic inspection. Such interest in the details of the everyday life of common people can hardly fail to be repaid by the affection of common people.

A great deal of nonsense has been printed about the Emperor William's alleged reluctance to visit London. The real fact is that as the Emperor's engagements prevented him from coming to England until the beginning of August, when the season is over, there never was any idea of his visiting London. I understand, however, that next year the Emperor proposes to visit England in June, when he is to stay a week at Buckingham Palace, and is also to be the Queen's guest at Windsor Castle. It is exceedingly probable that His Majesty will arrange his visit so as to be here for Ascot.

The Archduchess Valerie received a dowry of 3,000,000 florins from her parents on her marriage. She is entitled to an income from the estate of about 80,000 florins a year as a daughter of the Emperor.

There is to be one more American princess, Miss Hollingsworth. The prince she is to marry is Prince Dardack, a grandson of the Prince of Hesse.

Major Colville will, it is understood, retain the appointment of Military Secretary to Lord Stanley of Preston at Ottawa

Gladstone, accompanied by Mrs. Gladstone and Mrs. Henry Gladstone, has gone to Hawarden. He will remain there till he goes to Scotland for the autumn campaign.

The cowardly persecution of Mrs. Mackay by anonymous assailants continues, and only a few days ago a fresh batch of type written libels were sent broadcast to nearly the whole of her friends and acquaintances. It almost looks as if her existing list had been used for this systematic diffusion of slanders. Detectives and experts employed by her solicitor have been unremitting in their efforts to trace the offenders, and I hear that a clue at last has been obtained. If the suspicions are confirmed a criminal libel case of extraordinary interest on both sides of the Atlantic may be confidently expected.

Sir George Campbell has succeeded in giving himself an appropriate nickname. He was describing himself the other night as a devoted guerilla hanging on the rear of the Government. He pronounced the word, however, "gorilla," and he is now known under that name. Sir George Campbell will be known as "the devoted gorilla" as long as he sits in Parliament.

There is a growing impression on the Conservative side of the House that should Mr. Smith be unable to retain the position, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach will lead the House during the remainder of this Parliament.

DR. TANNER'S TONGUE.

HE CALLS THE SECRETARY A SKUNK.

A Lively Passage at Arms in the House of Commons The Member for Cork Compelled to Apologize Cholera's Victims.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—One hundred and seventeen persons died from cholera in Mecca yesterday. In Jeddah 79 died.

There was an exciting scene in the House of Commons this evening. Home Secretary Matthews was replying to speakers who had censured his dealings in capital sentences, when Dr. Tanner, member for Cork, broke in with "How about Dungarvan?"

Mr. Matthews retorted: "I don't know who that vulgar interrupter is."

Mr. Tanner appealed to the chairman, who guardedly justified Mr. Matthews' language.

Mr. Tanner thereupon shouted at the top of his voice: "Mr. Matthews is the meanest and lowest skunk that ever sat on the treasury bench!"

The chairman called upon Mr. Tanner to withdraw the expression and to apologize.

Mr. Tanner at first refused to do so unless Mr. Matthews also apologized, but finally on the advice of Mr. Sexton he made an apology.

A Fight in the Carolines.

MADRID, Aug. 12.—Natives of Yap on one of the Caroline Islands recently attacked an unarmed detachment of the Spanish garrison which was at work cutting wood in a forest. Of the Spaniards one lieutenant and 27 soldiers were killed and the rest escaped. The Governor of the Carolines sent a steamer to Yap to punish the natives. The steamer grounded en route to the Island and two boats of troops sent to attack the natives met with such resistance that they were compelled to retire. The Home Government has now telegraphed to the Governor of the Philippine Islands to send men-of-war to the scene.

A Parade at Berlin

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—The autumn parade of guards was held to-day. The Emperor and Empress and the princes of the imperial family were present. The Emperor rode back to the schloss at the head of the color company. He received an ovation from the thousands of spectators.

SHE CLAIMS SIX MILLIONS.

A Notorious Woman says She is the Widow of Millionaire Davis.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., Aug. 12.—Mrs. A. J. Davis, who is a claimant for the $6,000,000 estate left by A. J. Davis, the Helena (Mont.) capitalist, is a notorious character of this city. She is a well preserved woman of 55, and has for 30 years been the proprietress of a resort here. She has a son, Eugene, who has served a term in the penitentiary for embezzlement.

She tells a straightforward story to the effect that in 1850 she was married to Andrew J. Davis, by the Rev. Mr. Bruce, at Hudson, Mo. In 1852 Davis deserted her. She traced him to Port Huron, Mich., where he was engaged as a bridge contractor, and afterwards to Cedar Rapids, Ia., where she joined him only to be again deserted. She found that he went to Pike's Peak, but could get no definite knowledge of him and never saw him again. She married once since her residence here, but lived with her husband only a short time, resuming the name of Davis. She will make a hard fight for her share of the big estate.

CUT HER THROAT.

Suicide of An Old Lady at London, Ont. —Crazed by La Grippe.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Jane Wheeler, aged 65 years, and mother of Frank C. Wheeler, hardware merchant of this city, was found dead in bed this morning by her son Charles Wheeler, with her throat cut from ear to ear. The wound was self-inflicted with a razor. The old lady was a sufferer from la grippe last winter and to the mental effects of that disease may be attributed her death.

Ned Crane in the Toils.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Big Ed Crane, the pitcher of the New York (P. L.) Club, was a prisoner in the Harlem Police Court yesterday morning, charged with threatening to shoot Policeman Kane of the Twenty-ninth Precinct when the latter attempted to arrest the bartender of McKeon's saloon, situated in Third avenue, near One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. Matthew Kiernan aged 28 years, formerly in the employ of the McKeons, became involved in a dispute at 3 o'clock yesterday morning in the saloon with a bystander. A fight followed during which Kiernan was cut with a knife. He called in Policeman Kane to arrest his assailant, likewise the bartender, and as the officer was making the arrest Crane protested, and when Kane threatened to take him along Crane said he would shoot him if he did. Justice Murray fined Crane $10 and Kiernan $10. Crane gave the name of James Hennessy

A Swimming Record Broken.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12. W. C. Johnson of the Manhattan Athletic Club, amateur champion 100-yard swimmer of the United States, broke the 100-yard swimming record yesterday afternoon at Locust Point, near Bensonhurst, L. I. Johnson was started by S. D. See, Pastime A. C. Robert Stall, New York A. C., and Mortimer Bishop, Staten Island A. C., held the watches, and William B. Curtis, New York A. C., acted as referee. Johnson was followed by a four and an eight-oared crew from the Varuna Boat Club, and they noticed that the swimmer was making great headway. He covered the course in 1.15 1-5, which is 1-5 slower than the record established by H. Braun, at Travers Island, N.Y., Aug. 25, 1888.

The Buenos Ayres Rag Baby.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 12.—A great procession took place yesterday in honor of President Alem of the Union Civica, who took a prominent part in the overthrow of the Celman Government.

It is proposed to distribute the issue of 100,000,000 paper dollars as follows: National Bank $20,000,000, Government $30,000,000, municipality $30,000,000, Mortgage Bank $20,000,000. Gold is quoted at 151. The money market is improving.

Celman will start for Europe shortly.

A mob attacked the residence of ex-President Celman and threatened to burn it. The Government has placed a cordon of troops around the house for its protection.

Shot By a Wronged Husband.

CHICAGO, Aug 12.—Dr. O Sawyer was shot and probably killed to-day by J. Barton Sanchez, who claims to be a correspondent of The Chicago Horseman. The trouble was brought about by the alleged intimacy between the doctor and Sanchez's wife. Sanchez, who is locked up, claims to have secured confessions of the intimacy from both his wife and the doctor. The shooting was done in a light growing out of the doctor's refusal to put his confession in writing.

The Erie Buys a Chicago Entrance.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 12.—The Chicago and Atlantic Railway was to-day sold to Drexel, Morgan & Co. of New York for $5,000,000. The purchase was made in the interest of the Erie Railroad, and will give that road an entrance into Chicago.

Charged With Forgery.

WYNDSOR, Aug. 12.—John C. Mullins alias John C. Brost was arrested in Windsor last evening on a charge of forgery, alleged to have been committed in Pittsburg. Mullins has been in Windsor over six months. He refuses to say anything except that he has retained a local legal firm as his attorneys and will fight against extradition.

HE WILL NOT ACCEPT.

Mr. Wiman Declines Four Nominations for the Commons.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Mr. Erastus Wiman had much to say yesterday concerning the report that he would try to become a Canadian member of Parliament at the coming elections. Four Liberal constituencies, he said, had offered him their nominations, but his business interests as well as his preference to live in New York had prevented him from accepting any one of them. The coming election, he said, will have most far-reaching consequences and its significance has been intensified by the probable passage of the McKinley Tariff Bill, which would shut from the near-by markets of the United States half of the Canadian export of natural products.

Three cents duty per head on cabbage is the extremest form of exaction that has been enforced by one country against another for an article of which pauper labor formed no part, and so for five cents per dozen on eggs, $4 per ton on hay and every other article the farmer produced. There is only one hope for the Canadian producer and that is a reciprocity that would admit American manufactures free in exchange for Canada's natural products. To achieve this result is the aim of the Liberal party, and although I cannot occupy the position of leader I hope by voice and pen to contribute to its triumph.

Mr. Wiman then took up the subject of the conflict of interests between the American and Canadian railroads and the significance of the coming elections for settlement of the problem. Unrestricted reciprocity, he said, is the only way in which the international transportation question can be settled.

UNDER SENTENCE OF DEATH.

The Prisoners Awaiting the Fatal Wire and Their Crimes

ALBANY, N.Y., Aug. 12.—There are now five prisoners under sentence of death in the various prisons of this State, the majority of them being in Sing Sing. Tchibiok Jugigo, James J. Slocum, Joseph Woods and Nicola Trezza occupy "Murderers' Row" in that prison under the charge of special keepers. In all the cases which have not already been to the court of last resort appeals are to be taken immediately. "Among the officers at Sing Sing," said an officer of that prison, "much sympathy exists for Tchibiok Jugigo, the Japanese sailor. He is a quiet and inoffensive prisoner, and the belief has gained ground that the whole truth has not been told by the witnesses on his trial. He, however, acknowledges the killing of his comrade, Comini, but claims that it was done in self-defence. Woods is a negro, aged 25. He murdered a fellow laborer in a quarrel June 30, 1889. Slocum is an ex-baseball player and murdered his wife last New Year's Eve.

Horace A. Smiler, the only one of the doomed men not in Sing Sing, is now in the New York Tombs. He murdered Maggie Blaney, his third wife, April 3, 1890. He had been living alternately with his victim and his second wife, neither of whom knew of the other's existence.

There are about 25 other murderers awaiting trial under the electrical execution law.

SALVATOR WINS AGAIN.

The Pulsifer Colt Four Lengths Behind Huggins' Horse.

MONMOUTH PARK, Aug. 12. About 20,000 people witnessed the races here to-day. Every horseman of any prominence in the country was present, attracted by the Junior Champion and Champion Stakes. The weather was magnificent and the track, while not absolutely fast, was in good shape. Results.

First race, ⅝ mile—Meriden 1, My Fellow 2, Bellwood 3. Time 1.30.

Second race, Junior Championship Stakes, for 2-year-olds, $10,000 added, ¾ mile—Strathmeath 1, Sallie McClelland 2, Potomac 3. Time 1.16¾. This was one of the prettiest races ever seen. The flag fell at the second attempt with Sallie McClelland, Strathmeath and Ambulance in front. Ambulance led by a neck for a quarter and then gave way to Potomac, who came up from fifth place Ambulance again showed in front at the ¾ mile post, while Potomac was second, a length and a half before Sallie McClelland. The last named had the command within a furlong from home only by a head from Potomac, who led Strathmeath half a length. Murphy rode desperately in the last few jumps and just had the victory from Sallie McClelland by the shortest of noses. Potomac was third, only a nose behind. Then came Rey del Rey half a length away, followed by Russell, Ambulance, Kildeer, Long Fortune, Sorcerer, Bermuda, Homer, Surplus, Balgowan, Fairview, Bolero, High Tariff, Sirocco, Fireworks and Kingsman.

Third race, The Champion Stakes, $2500 added, 1⅝ miles—Only Salvator and Tenny started. At the start Salvator's nose showed in front on the outside and he was under a double pull. For 5 furlongs they ran in this order. Then as they struck the turn for home Garrison let out a link on Tenny and he shot to the front, getting a lead of half a length. Murphy at once sent Salvator after him and when they rounded into the stretch he was at the little swayback's neck. From that point to within 3 furlongs of home it was a pretty race. All of a sudden Murphy commenced to ride Salvator and the shout went up, "Tenny is beaten." It was true. When Murphy found he had Tenny beaten he eased Salvator, and Garrison did the same thing. It was a tame finish, Salvator winning by four good lengths. Time 2.35¼.

Fourth race, ⅞ mile—Aella colt 1, Vanity 2, Miletus 3. Time 1.19

Fifth race, 1¼ miles—Eurus 1, Eric 2, Sluggard 3. Time 1.55

Sixth race, 1 mile—Grey Dawn 1, Arab 2, Sam Wood 3. Time 1.42¼.

Receiving by Whitcomb.

WASHINGTON, Aug. —The Secretary of the Interior to-day received a telegram from Governor Prince of New Mexico saying Railroad officials ask protection for mail trains. Section men and others have been warned to quit work and some have done so. There are no acts of violence but the effect is to cripple the railroad service. The Governor suggests that all United States troops camp or march between La Vegas and Lamy, as this would probably stop the whole white cap business. No action has yet been taken in the matter.

THE GRENS BAND FIRST.

Close of the Hamilton Tournament The First-class Competition.

HAMILTON, Aug. 12. To-day was the second and closing day of the band tournament. A good sized audience again assembled at Dundurn Park this afternoon to hear the competing first-class bands, the competitors being the Royal Grenadiers band of Toronto, 25th Battalion band of Berlin and Waterloo Musical Society band of Waterloo. Mr. F. N. Innes of the 13th Regiment band of New York announced his decision as sole judge this evening, giving first place to the Grenadiers of Toronto, Waterloo second, and Berlin third.

The Ottawa Electric Street Railway

OTTAWA, Aug 12.—The Street Railway Committee met the Howland syndicate solicitor this evening and by mutual concession agreed to almost all details. The questions between the two parties are smoothed down and it is probable the Howland offer to build the electric street railway will be accepted to-morrow.

A young country student from Harvard, who is passing a portion of his vacation in West Guilford, occupied the pulpit of the quaint little chapel there on a recent Sabbath morning. Waxing eloquent with his theme, he sought to embellish his discourse with numerous flights of poetic fancy and allegorical illustrations. Pausing a moment after one of these supreme efforts, he continued, "And now, my friends, let us listen to the low, sweet prelude." At this juncture a cow beneath one of the windows launched forth into a series of such vigorous, discordant bellowing as would have made the trombone player of a German band green with envy. The crimson flush of the young man's face rivaled the hue on the statue of the venerable John Harvard.—Lewiston Journal.

United States Crops.

Conditions of Cereals as Reported by the Agricultural Department.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—There is reduction in condition of all cereals as reported by the statistician of the Department of Agriculture. The decline from the 1st of July to the 1st of August is from 93.1 to 73.3 in corn; from 94.2 to 83.2 in spring wheat; from 81.6 to 70.1 in oats; from 88.2 to 82.8 in barley. The condition of buckwheat is 90.1 and of spring rye 86.8. The condition of Irish potatoes is reduced from 91.7 to 77.2.

A fall of twenty points indicates the disaster which has be fallen the corn crop within thirty days. The cause is the abnormally high temperature of the central maize districts, with insufficiency of rainfall. The returns of drought, which cover a broad area, and the severity of effects produced are more general and depressing than the signal service record of temperature appears to indicate. One factor in the blighting of vegetation is evidently the hot winds that have scorched the lower basin of the Missouri Valley and the Ohio Valley. The change from drought to daily saturation by repeated and heavy showers has been too sudden and extreme in those regions where drought has been relieved by seasons of moisture.

The crop is late in the New England States and will require a long warm season to mature it. In the middle States the high temperature has advanced growth in the northern districts, and in the more southern there has been some injury from drought. The South Atlantic States report local droughts with subsequent rains and comparatively good though somewhat reduced condition of corn.

Some counties in Mississippi have suffered materially from absence of seasonable moisture. In Louisiana the crop is in high condition, though somewhat late in the overflowed districts. In Texas the crop is now matured and it is good except in the area that has suffered most from draught. Late planted corn in Arkansas has been seriously injured by drought of the last three weeks in July. In the western and southwestern parts of Kentucky the crop has been severely scorched but the rains since the 23rd of July have materially relieved the fields of the central and eastern districts. In Ohio there is a great difference between the northern and southern parts of the State.

The southern division of the counties of Indiana and Illinois have likewise received greater damage than in the northern. Condition is slightly higher in Missouri. In Kansas the severity of the drought has culminated. Iowa and Nebraska are nearly in the status of the Ohio Valley, while Minnesota makes the highest average of all the States. Wisconsin suffers slightly and Michigan still more from drought.

There has been a considerable reduction in the condition of spring wheat amounting to fully eleven points. It is less in the Dakotas than in all the other spring wheat districts. The average of condition is 80 in Wisconsin, 80 in Minnesota, 87 in Iowa, 71 in Nebraska, 90 in Dakota. The latter is a decline of seven points, owing to hot northern winds which affected the late sown more than the early.

The oat crop is certain to be one of very low yield and probably poor quality.

Another crop of great importance is potatoes, which has also been damaged by drought. A low rate of yield is assured.

Canada's Great Fair.

A Great List of Entries and Many Attractions for the Coming Show at Toronto, from Sept. 8th to 20th.

The success that has attended the great Industrial Fair, which is held annually at Toronto, has been remarkable, and it is evident that the exhibition for the present year, which is to be held from the 8th to the 20th of next month, will again surpass its predecessors. The entries which have already been received from all parts of the Dominion, the United States and Great Britain, are sufficient to fill all the buildings on the grounds, and they are reported to be of a much finer quality than any heretofore exhibited. A large entry list is generally a good indication that it will be followed by a large attendance of visitors, and as very cheap fares and excursions have been announced by all the railway and steamboat lines from all parts of Canada and the adjoining states, this indication will, doubtless, be fully verified on the present occasion. The Governor-General and Prince George of Wales will probably visit the Exhibition. Several more new buildings have been erected this year and still there is no space to spare. Special exhibits have been entered from Spain, British Columbia, Manitoba and other sections of Canada; and large displays will be made by the Dominion and Ontario Experimental Farms. A long list of special features have been provided including a Wild West Show, grand display of fireworks, concluding with the magnificent spectacle, the "Last Days of Pompeii," Edison's wonderful talking dolls, a great dog show, and a multitude of other features that cannot fail to entertain the many thousands that will doubtless visit the great Fair. Full particulars of all that is to be seen will be contained in the Official Programme which will be issued in a day or two. Over two hundred and fifty thousand people visited the Toronto Fair last year, and, as the attendance has been gradually increasing each year, it is probable that this number will be exceeded this year. A large number of conventions and meetings are to be held at Toronto during the Fair, among which are those of the Stock Breeders, Manufacturers, Ontario Creameries Association, Central Farmers' Institute, Inventors, the Canadian Medical Association, Dog Fanciers, &c., and visitors to the Fair will have an opportunity of attending meetings. All entries close on the 10th inst., and intending exhibitors should govern themselves accordingly.

A Freak og Nature.

The Chatsworth, (Grey County) News is authority for the following:—A curious freak of agriculture happened this season on lot 15, con. 3, Sullivan Township, about five miles west of this place, which completely eclipses anything we have ever seen during our agricultural experience. A year ago last spring Mr. William Cram sowed a field with bald wheat and seeded it down, from which he reaped an excellent crop of fine grain last summer. The grass seed made a good catch and the grass looked well last spring, but what surprised him was the manner in which it appeared to sprout from the roots of last year's wheat stocks. While the blade did not look like timothy that was accounted for by the supposition that the grass seed had not been pure timothy, and it was not until it began to shoot out with heads that it was seen the crop was fall wheat grown from the roots of last year's spring wheat crop. It turned out a splendid crop of fall wheat of the bearded variety—although the crop that grew from the same roots the summer before was of the bald variety. The hay was also good, and the combined crops were so heavy that they had to be cut with a mower, and are now safely housed.

Struck by Lightning.

CAMPBELLFORD, Aug. 10.—Yesterday morning at 9 o'clock a severe thunder storm passed over a section of country northwest of here, accompanied by heavy rain and hail, which did considerable damage to crops. Quite a number of barns were struck by lightning. The only casualty reported is that of Albert Rowe, a young man, who with a little girl drove under a shed near a barn. The latter was struck and shattered just in front of the horses. Neither the girl nor the horses were affected, but Rowe was knocked down by the shock, and blood ran from his mouth, nose and ears. He was carried into a house and medical aid procured, and at last reports was doing fairly well.

HE HAD THREE WIVES.

Another of Arthur Day's Matrimonial Exploits. The Prisoner in Welland Jail.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 12.—Arthur H. Day of Rochester, who was yesterday committed for trial on the charge of murdering his wife Deseriah by pushing her over the precipice, was to-day taken to Welland Jail. The detectives took with suspicion upon the story told by Mrs. Quigley and express their opinion that the whole truth has not yet been fully revealed.

It was learned this morning that Day had a third wife, having married a girl 19 years of age named Nina Woodams five years ago at the village of Pittsford, N.Y. On account of the man's habits she left him one year after they were married. Before this marriage he had been married to Deseriah. After Nina had left him she lived with her people for some time and afterwards at Suspension Bridge, and finally married again.

THE R. T. OF T.

Sixth Annual session of the Council Begun at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 12.—The advance guard of the Royal Templars of Temperance has arrived and this morning the sixth annual session of the Dominion Council of Canada and Newfoundland was opened. The reports of the Dominion councillor, Dominion secretary and managing director to this session show good progress. The net gain of membership for the year reaches nearly 3000. The present membership in Canada is 20,000.

In the beneficiary department 577 certificates of insurance were added, bringing the total amount of insurance carried up to $5,377,400. The average age of the members of the insurance department is 39.02. During the year $240,000 was paid out to widows and orphans of deceased members, but the surplus in this department was increased from $19,500 last year to $26,130, of which $25,000 is bearing 5 per cent. interest. The cadet department has arranged for a training institute for cadet teachers and officers.

The Templars will go into camp Thursday and remain a week, and preparations are being made on a large scale.

WENT WITHOUT BREAKFAST.

Guests at a Hamilton Hotel Suffer From a Domestic Conspiracy.

HAMILTON, Aug. 12. At the Police Court this morning two kitchen maids from the Arlington Hotel at the Beach charged Proprietor McNeal with non-payment of wages. It was shown that by pre-arrangement five girls and the cook left the hotel just before breakfast yesterday and the guests were unable to get anything to eat. The magistrate turned the tables on the damsels by dismissing the claims for wages and taxing them with the costs, which amounted to $4.80 in each case. He also expressed his regret that he could not order their arrest for conspiracy.

When the adjourned case of Mrs. Burrows was called at the Police Court this morning a surprise was in store for the Magistrate. Maude Burrows, the 16 year old daughter who on Saturday had her mother arrested, because she feared it was her intention to skip out and leave her and several small children behind, appeared in the role of a blushing bride. Richard Roach, the young man referred to as having caused so much of the trouble, being the happy groom. The case was dismissed.

There is more fun in a sheet of sticky fly paper than in the average negro minstrel. Watch the kitten playing with it on the new carpet: the latter is ruined for ever; the kitten goes into a fit and all the women and children rush out of the house in terror. If you want to rid your house of flies, buy Wilson's Fly Poison Pads, and use as directed. Nothing else will clear them out thoroughly. Sold at 10c. by all druggists. dw

NORTH MONAGHAN.

PURSUANT to the order of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, for sale made in HOOEY vs CAMPBELL et al, and bearing date the 14th day of February, A.D. 1890, there will be sold with the approbation of C. A. Weller Esquire, Local Master of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, at Peterborough, by John Haggart, Auctioneer, at KENNEALLY'S HOTEL, in the Town of Peterborough, at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m.,

ON SATURDAY
The 16th day of August, 1890
the following lands and premises in one parcel, being composed of

The East half of the West half of lot number five in tenth concession of the Township of North Monaghan

save and except that part thereof heretofore conveyed to the Ontario and Quebec Railway for a right of way through the said land, known as the "Frank Campbell Farm."

There are erected on said lot, a one and one-half storey frame house about 30x30 feet; one barn about 30x50 feet, and one frame stable about 18x24 feet. There is a good orchard on said lot and the soil is clay loam.

The said lot will be sold subject to the rights or interest of Mary Campbell therein or thereto during her lifetime.

The property will be offered for sale subject to a reserved bid which has been fixed by the said Master.

Terms of payment, ten per cent. of the purchase money at the time of sale and the balance thereof within thirty days thereafter without interest.

In all other respects, the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice

Further particulars can be had from Messrs. Stratton & Hall, plaintiff's solicitors and Messrs Sawers & Stone, Solicitors, Peterborough.

Dated at Peterborough this 28th day of July, 1890.

CUPID'S NET.

The Hammock a Delightful Adjunct of the silly season.

The hammock has much to answer for.

It has developed from nothing into a potent factor in mid-summer social joys and sorrows.

A decade ago the hammock was specific. It is now universal. Certain tourists from the heretofore unhammocked land of the free journeying in Mexico and in Cuba noted the meshed crescent with interest first and with admiration afterwards, inasmuch that they brought one of the swaying couches with them.

The result has been remarkable. Yankee brains have taken the hammock to their very hearts, and American ingenuity has devised machinery capable of turning out hammocks almost as fast as the finished article will turn out its occupant.

A summer bereft of a hammock would be to the American lad and lass a dreary and unromantic period.

Given a good article of moonlight and a hammock big enough for two, and the force in combination which will more rapidly and thoroughly advance the cause of Cupid and bring about the lighting of Hymen's torch.

The hammock is an institution which could not have its origin in so busy and practical a land as America. It is a daughter of the south, of lands where languor and idleness reign beneath an almost vertical sun. Its motives savor of leisure and its mission is one of romance.

As an aid to flirtation it is twin sister to a fan.

If a young couple ever trust themselves to the support of the same hammock at the same time, Cupid has his own way thereafter. The pair must of necessity be brought into such sweet proximity that every particle of bodily and reserves is melted away.

One may withdraw from his fair one on a bench, may hold aloof while seated on the same grassy bank and may bitch his chair away, or sheer as his feelings dictate. But in the same hammock one can do none of these things. He can only submit to fate and propinquity and be led delightfully to the moment-ous question.

The hammock is fashioned much like a spider's web. But who would not willingly be a fly when the web holds a charming maiden? And what man is there with soul so dead who is not glad that the hammock has come to stay?—Pittsburg Bulletin.

Not "Sweet" Girl Graduate

The other day I found myself in a railway train, in front of two students who had just graduated the day before from a great school for girls. Such parties are common enough at this season of the year, and usually attract attention by their entire obliviousness to the fact that there are people in the world who are apathetic, at least to the way in which things are managed at Q—— Hall; but these girls won my interest through some sentences of sound, common sense, which came over the back of the seat in sweet, though rather petulant, feminine tones.

"Did you have a good time with it all?" asked one.

"No, I didn't; and all for the simple reason that I felt that I was needlessly ridiculous. There has been so much fun made in the newspapers about 'sweet girl graduates' and their general silliness and uselessness, that I was so ashamed of my lovely white Paris gown as if it had been a fool's cap. You know what happened about my valedictory. Well, I had read so much about 'embarking on the sea of life,' and all the rest of the rose-colored twaddle which is usually put into valedictories, that I made up my mind that I would do something different. I fixed up what I thought a bright, but slightly cynical view of the situation, and handed it to the president. 'You should have heard the lecture I got!' You would have supposed I was the most abandoned wretch in the universe. I was sorry I had developed such a spirit under the gracious influence of Q—— Hall. Now I protest against giving girls a certain sort of education and then making fun of them when it is finished. In the effort to escape being namby pamby I got myself called a young Voltaire, and was forced to read against my will a lot of pink and white stuff about 'making the world a brighter place.' If I ever have a chance to teach the world anything, I will teach it not to sneer at its young women for their lack of worldly experience which they are promptly punished for showing the slightest scrap of."—Kate Field's Washington Letter.

DID YOU KNOW IT.

We too, Have an Empire on Which the Sun Never Sets

A more eloquent description of the British Empire is very readable, but we doubt whether it is generally realized that we, too, have a dominion on which the sun never sets. It will hardly be believed, perhaps, without an examination of the maps, that San Francisco, instead of being the west line of this dominion, is one about midway between our eastern and western limits, and yet it is a fact that the furthest Aleutian isle according to our purchase of Russian American is as far to the west of that city as Eastport, Maine, is to the east of it. Between the north west limit of Washington Territory and the southern limit of Alaska there is a break of a few degrees but with the slightest reduction our territory extends through 126 degrees of longitude, or 47 degrees more than half way around the globe.

Even when the sun is giving its good-night kiss to our westward isle, on the shores of the Behring Sea, it is already touching the fields and forests of Maine with its morning light, and in the east corner of the state is more than an hour high. At the very moment when the American fisherman, warned by the lengthening shades of night is pulling his boat to the shore, the woodsmen of Maine is beginning to wake the echoes with his stirring music of the American Paper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

SUICIDE AT VERDUN.

A Female Inmate of the Asylum Takes a Fatal Dose.

MONTREAL, Aug. 11.—One of the female patients of the new Protestant insane asylum at Verdun committed suicide by swallowing a quantity of carbolic acid. Coroner Jones has decided to hold an inquest, and has delegated High Constable Bissonnette to summon a jury. The name of the woman was Jessie Campbell. She was about 34 years of age, married, and the mother of three children. She was a pay patient and one of the first to enter the hospital, having come from Howick. She had been suffering from melancholia, with an inclination to commit suicide, and every possible preventive measure was taken in her case. She was not even allowed to sleep alone. She occupied one of the rooms on the second floor in the part set apart for female pay patients, and a couple of doors from hers was the room of Miss Dance, the nurse who had charge of the department. Among the contents of the latter's room was a bottle partially filled with carbolic acid, which she had used for disinfecting purposes. A little before 8 o'clock she left her room to get some clean towels, not being absent more than two or three minutes, but she forgot to lock her door. When she returned she found Mrs. Campbell lying on the floor moaning and partially unconscious. Dr. Burgess, the medical superintendent, was immediately called upstairs, and thinking the woman in a fit hurried to his office to procure some medicine, when Miss Dance came running after him and told him that she had found out the real cause of the woman's illness. She had noticed that the bottle of acid was missing from the place where she had put it, and found it almost empty. A hurried examination of the patient's mouth and throat showed she had swallowed the poison, and though everything possible was done to save and revive her, she died in about twenty minutes, the effect of an internal application of carbolic acid being an almost immediate collapse of the heart. Judging from the quantity that was in the bottle when last used and the little that remained, she could not have taken more than two tablespoonfuls, which would constitute about an ounce of the deadly stuff.

A Fatal Stolen Ride.

STRATFORD, Aug. 11. William Jacoby, a 14-year-old boy of the city, who has been in the employ of Dr. Nicol of Tavistock for some time, was struck by a freight train last Saturday evening and died from the effects of his injuries this morning. He with some other boys had been in the habit of jumping on freight trains as they entered and left the station. Last Saturday evening he boarded a freight train and rode on the cow catcher as far as the Ætna flour mills. He attempted to get on again upon its return, but failed, and was crushed between the train and the platform. Mr. T. Flynn, of the mills, found him a few minutes later lying on the track with his face bathed in blood. He was carried to Dr. Sneyd's and carefully attended, but died this morning.

Blinded by Firecrackers.

CHATHAM, Aug. 11. A few days ago a youth named Harry Mahler, who was fooling with firecrackers, injured the eye of a little boy named Chants so that the sight was destroyed and the other eye has since gone blind through sympathy. Mahler was arrested on a charge of malicious assault, but as there was no evidence of malice he was allowed to go.

The 2-year-old son of Joseph Walker, 4th con. Harwich, was found in a field with a bad cut 2½ inches long and half an inch deep in his neck. He was nearly dead from loss of blood. A child a little older was with him at the time. The wound was caused by a hoe, but whether the little fellow fell on it or was struck accidentally is not known.

Another Steamer Ashore.

MONTREAL, Aug. 11. The steamship Mondego is aground 20 miles down the river at Isle des Laurers, opposite Varennes. She ran aground early yesterday morning, and Messrs. Reford & Co., her agents, state that the accident was caused by her steering gear getting out of order. Two steam tugs and two lighters are at work alongside her, and the company hope that she will be got off all right. She was outward bound and is loaded with cattle and other freight. People who have seen her that her bow is nearly clear out of water, and her chances of safety are small. The river is acquiring a bad notoriety this season through steamships running aground.

Party Politics.

When party politics run high bad feeling and bad blood are often caused, but all parties agree that when bad blood arises from ordinary causes, the only satisfactory cure is Burdock Blood bitters, nature's blood purifier. Recommended by the medical authorities. 2w32d

A Child Saved.

My little boy was taken very bad with diarrhœa, he was very delicate and got so low we had no hope of his life, but a lady friend recommended Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and although he could only bear a few drops at a time, he got well. It saved my child. Mrs. Wm. Stewart, Campbellville, Ont. 2w32d

How to Catch a Lion.

A fierce lion, the terror of the Sahara Desert, was recently captured by the following simple method. The sands of the desert were passed through a sieve. The Lion of course remained in the sieve. His majesty had in his vest pocket a can of Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder, which he was taking home to his Queen. 4 th a-w will be soon on hand, I wish to inform the public that I have imported from England and Belgium, a fine lot of double-barrelled breech loading guns, from $10 to $60. Also a lot of single barrel breech loaders equally cheap, all of the best makers, such as James W. Richards, R. Richards, Clarborough, Bonshill and Greener.

As the Gun Season

I am selling single and double muzzle loaders at cost. Rifles of different makers on hand at the lowest figures.

In the Revolver line, I have nearly 50 different makers, all of the best quality

I continue to do all kinds of new work and repairing in the best style of workmanship, also altering old gun locks into rebounders, and choke-boring barrels. All these works are done in the best possible manner and warranted.

Gun Stocking also done in style to suit customers.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase as $1,703,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $315,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$43,984,376	2.07
Confederation	17,674,826	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,517	10.36
North American	6,470,630	10.66
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17.84
Ottawa	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30.13
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

The Band's Return.

The Fifty-seventh band has returned to town, and though they are not overburdened with laurels, they are fairly satisfied with their trip. They did as well in the competition as could be expected, when it is considered that bands who have heretofore ranked as first-class, cut down their numbers so as to enter the second-class where their chance would be better. There is no fault found with the judgment or with the committee, but the boys tell that the bands mentioned played a little sharp practice to get into the second-class competition. Speaking of the bands that ranked with the Fifty-seventh the judge said:—"I want to say, without any intention to flatter, that the performance of the bands engaged in this contest have surprised me. I am free to say that I consider them able to hold their own in competition with any similar class of bands under the sun."

Why is it?

Reasons why the Sons of Canada picnic to Jubilee Point is the one to take in.

Because it is the cheapest. Tickets 50c., Children under 12 years, 25c.

Because it is a delightful trip. No smoke or cinders, lots of fresh air and sunshine.

Because there is good fishing and canoes will be carried free.

Because we furnish tea and hot water free and will check your baskets.

Because meals on boat and hotel are only 25 cents.

Because Lamont's orchestra will furnish music.

Because there is a Ladies' Solid Silver Watch and Chain to be drawn for.

Because you are all the Sons and Daughters of Canada.

Because there will be lots of fun and and enjoyment.

Because we do as we advertise.

Obstructing the Railway Track

A Young Man Arrested—He Admits the Offence to the Police Magistrate—The Obstructions Apparently Placed Without Malice To See the Rails Fly.

This morning William Northcote, a young man living near Lakefield, was arraigned at the police court this morning before Police Magistrate Edmison, charged with placing rails and ties on the G.T.R. track, Lakefield branch, on Friday, August 8th. The young man had been arrested on Tuesday by Constable Campbell, of Lakefield, at the residence of the boy, on a warrant taken out by Detective Spence. When asked to plead in court he hung his head and nervously fingered his fingers and clothing and it was with the utmost difficulty that he was induced to speak. He admitted that he had put the obstruction on the track because he had seen two other young men placing fence rails on the track, and, not to be outdone, he added his quota. But it came out the next moment that this was before harvest and that on this last occasion he was alone and placed the obstructions on the track for the fun of the thing—that he sat on the fence and waited for the train to see the success of his experiment. The lad's story told to the police magistrate this morning tallies exactly with that told the constable and detective subsequent to his arrest. Young Northcote pointed out the spot where he had placed the obstruction,—about four miles above Nassau,—between that place and Lakefield. The young man was so evidently not legally responsible for his actions that the magistrate remanded him to jail for a week, in order that proper inquiry might be made into his mental condition and that he might have the benefit of counsel.

Relief of 'Derry.

Highly Successful Celebrations.

The Peterborough 'Prentice Boys had a highly successful trip to Belleville, where the day was celebrated with great eclat. Referring to the celebration, the Belleville Ontario says: Fully ten thousand people were in the city and the 'Prentice Boys have every reason to feel gratified with their demonstration. The day was most favorable and nothing occurred to mar the success of the anniversary. There was an absence of rowdyism and the processionists conducted themselves in a manner which reflected credit on them and will elevate them in the good estimation of the public.

AT NORWOOD.

The True Blues had a delightful day's celebration at Norwood, where the Peterborough contingent found a large gathering of True Tines and Orangemen from Pontypool, Myrtle, Belmont and the surrounding country. The True Blues were entertained at dinner in the Methodist Church and in the Town Hall by the lady friends of the Orange Order. A procession of monster dimensions and imposing and respectable appearance marched to Grovers's grove, where the assembled people listened to addresses on loyal Orange subjects. Among the speakers from Peterborough were Grand Master Robt. Weir, County Master Hamilton, G. W. Hall and Master George Sloan. The demonstration was a success in every way, the weather was delightful and the best of order was preserved, and both the Order and their friends enjoyed the day immensely.

A Frightfully Fatal Fire.

A House Burned and one of the Occupants Meets a horrible Death—His Thoughtfulness for his Mother Costs Him his Life—Delay in Ringing the Alarm.

Last night about eleven o'clock a fire broke out in the rear of a tenement house, corner of Reid and Dalhousie streets. The house was occupied by Mr. John McDonagh and his son-in-law Martin O'Malley with wife and child. About eleven o'clock Mrs. McDonagh was aroused from sleep by the flames, and it is fortunate that she awoke at that moment, for had she slept a few minutes longer all the occupants of the house would have lost their lives. As it was the occupants escaped as by a miracle, wearing only the garments in which they slept. They would have doubtless have met the fate that afterwards befell Martin O'Malley one of the occupants of the burnt dwelling, if their sleep had lasted much longer. After a tedious delay the alarm was rung and when the brigade arrived on the spot the, the building was pretty well in flames. The firemen were at the scene before the general alarm rang. The rear part of the house where the fire apparently broke out, was at that time nearly destroyed, the back door, which had not been opened, just falling from its hinges, from the effects of the fire. The hose was turned on this point and some of the firemen entered the place, and, in so doing, stumbled over a dark, shapeless object, which, in the smoke and steam, they could not clearly make out. One of the brigade made a motion to pick up what appeared to be a man's hat, but to find that it was the liver of a human being, for, at that moment, another fireman, under the light of his lantern, discovered the skull, the hair burnt away and the scalp a mass of seared and roasted flesh. Further investigation showed that the unfortunate person had been terribly roasted. Both legs were burnt away and the thighs also, nearly to the body; the hands and arms were burnt off, and the head and face, charred into an indistinguishable mass, was burnd nearly off the body, only a portion of the neck remaining. The force of the stream from the hose, before the firemen discovered what the object was, had ruptured the abdominal walls, and the viscæ protruding from the opening is what one of fire brigade, mistook for a hat. The firemenhad a horrible experience and the ghastly sight that confronted then in smoking ruins of that little back kitchen will alway be vivid in their memories. To show that the chances of escape were of the smallest, besides the body of the man was found the scorched remains of a cat which had been unable to make its escape and had been compelled to share the fate of, perhaps, its late master, for there is hardly any room to doubt that the human body found was that of Martin O'Malley. Shortly after the inmates of the house had been aroused, Mr. McDonagh inquired of his son-in-law, Martin O'Malley if

HE HAD SAVED HIS WIFE AND CHILD.

He replied that he had, and in the confusion of the occasion the two became separated and O'Malley was seen no more in life. Mr. McDongh thinks his son-in-law had a month's wages in money in the house and it is stated that he was seen to enter the burning building and was not observed coming out again. It is supposed that in the confusion and smoke he attempted to find an escape from the back door; for the body, assumed to be his, was found within a foot of the door. Another statement gives the glory of martyrdom to young O'Malley's death. It is said that he had a letter written containing three pounds in money to be posted this morning to his mother in Ireland, whose sole support he was, and no doubt, tempted by love for his poor old mother, he laid down his life for her when he entered the burning building for the letter to come out no more. The remains—and a sadly small burden they made for the bearers—were taken in charge by undertaker McFadden, coffined, and the funeral took place from his warerooms this afternoon. The deceased who was 27 years old, leaves a wife and one child. He was a steady hard-working young man, and was employed in their excavation operations by the Waterworks Company. The building, which belonged to Mrs. Whelan, was burned so as to be virtually worthless. There was an insurance on it of $400, loss about $700.

Considerable public indigestion exists in reference to the long delay after the breaking out of the fire till the sounding of the alarm. As it was the alarm was given from a private residence telephone. There was something wrong of a serious nature. Many blame the custodian of the key at the alarm box, corner of Dalhousie and Stewart streets. The Fire Brigade is holding an investigation into the matter and the blame will be fixed.

Lakefield.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

NOTES.

Sunday was a stormy day in camp on Stoney lake, no attendance at service.

Will your Boschink correspondent kindly inform the "World," EXAMINER what is the latest style of bathing costume for young ladies?

Wonder how the "Port Hope Lime Juice Club" spent Sunday, did they get any dinner from Jack? What was the weight of the biggest Bass and Maskinonge caught?

Miss Annie Everett, of Uxbridge, has been engaged by our School Board as teacher for ward school. She comes highly recommended, and no doubt will receive a welcome and will give satisfaction to the parents of little ones who will be under her charge.

It is stated that a new paper will shortly be issued, and bid for the support and patronage of the village and surrounding country, to be independent in politics, non sectarian, spicy and with the old motto:—"Hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may."

Our Chief of Police Mr. J. Campbell will make his first appearance in his new uniform next Saturday evening. Look out for the Bobby!

Messrs. Smith and Trude lost five sheep last Sunday night by dogs. As our Lakefield dogs pay a license and can be identified the blame must be laid to the large number of "curs" kept in Smith under the name of "Collies."

Mr. Jos. Jackman arrived home Tuesday from a two weeks service as cook for the Northern Division of the A.C.A. His first thought, after the wife and bairns, was his garden and the result was the bringing down of a cucumber to your correspondent, of the Duke of Endinburgh type, which measured twenty-three inches long, and eight inches in circumference—grand for back Peterborough and grand for the doctors. May our friend and his cucumbers long live and flourish.

Court Lakefield, No. 43, C.O.F., will meet in their Court room next Thursday evening. A full attendance is requested.

The Grand Trunk employees on the new dock are having a hard time in clearing out the bottom of the south end, owing to the deposit of slabs etc., when the old mill was in operation. They are, however, making good progress under the supervision of Col. Poole, and when the dock is finished, Lakefield can boast of the best dockage of any town double its size in Ontario.

MISSING.

What has happened your "Stony Lake" correspondent? Did he exhaust himself in his communication of two weeks since, as we expected it would be followed up by equally interesting letters? We have left the "Lake" news, to his facile pen; and although we are only "Burleigh Campers," if he will only descend to a visit from the Aristocrat (what will I call it) Colony or "City of Boschinck" to the humbler suburbs of Burleigh, we shall try and give him and his friends a kind welcome, and show that if we have not the stars and bars or "Indians" in our quarters we can, at least, give a true Stony Lake welcome to all comers especially a correspondent of the EXAMINER.

A HINT.

The steamer Cruiser has an engagement on your Civic Holiday and although willing to take all who comes, the Captain would prefer that any camping parties with a big amount of luggage would arrange to come on some other date as he will not be able to do them justice as regards landing, and other favours which can be given on any other day.

DIANA FORGET IT.

A report is circulating in our quiet village that our worthy Reeve has given the boys and girls the slip, and that when he returns we shall have to welcome a "better half" from Dakota, one who will assist him in doing the honors of the village and county. Although we will have to break faith and let the "cat out of the bag," we bespeak a warm welcome back from for his worship and bride and risk all the consequences for so doing

THANKS.

Your correspondent wishes to kindly thank the lady (name unknown), of Mr. J.P. Strickland's stage, who found and returned the watch lost in the berry patch at "Nogan's Camp," by a guest at "Elm Nook." It was the more appreciated as it was given up for lost, and the reward offered was declined.

WIND BOUND.

Your correspondent was up in Gilchrist Bay Sunday morning and was "wind bound." We should have liked to visit J. Graham Weir's camp, but as we had a DAILY EXAMINER on board the canoe, we were afraid we would meet with a stormier reception than the elements provided, especially as we are an Orangeman. So we paddled for home and trusted to the Dummer shore in case of ship wreck.

BERRIES ARE SCARCE.

A Dummer man, with his wife and two children, complain that huckleberries are scarce, as they were up on the marsh at Jack's Creek all day and only got 16 pails.

A WARNING.

In regard to your item of Monday re the obstructions of the G. T. track, there seems to be no need of the services of a special detective. If the parents of the young man who, reports states in the village is to blame for the trouble, would send him to the proper asylum, or the G.T. or other authorities would do so, you would hear of no more such attempts at train-wrecking on our branch line, which is giving satisfaction to all, especially the morning and evening service. The sooner the matter is taken in hand the better, as there is no knowing when the freaks of a semi-insane boy may land scores of innocent persons, into eternity or result in the destruction of valuable life and property.

OUR CIVIC HOLIDAY.

A meeting of the general committee (appointed at a public meeting), was held in the Town Hall Monday evening, and it was decided to have a right royal celebration, and it is hoped that our big sister, Peterborough, and its little twin, Ashburnham, will turn out and visit their northern sister village in force and aid us to make it a gala day, and we will promise them that their visit will not be for naught, so far as a kind reception and amusements go. The following committees were appointed, which will be a guarantee that a good time may be expected:—General, Messrs. Eastland, Millner, Dr. Bell, Munro and Sherin; sports, Messrs. R. C. Strickland, McWilliams, Clarin, Dr. J. R. Fraser and F. Barlee; regatta, Messrs. G. Cochrane, J. Richardson, Postlewaithe, Moore and Capt. Reynolds; illumination, Messrs. W. M. Graham, Casement, Dr. D. Fraser, J. Hall and T. J. Bird. Committees met and organized at once, and all were determined to make the day one long to be remembered in the "back country."

The Business Tax.

An influential delegation of Toronto business men waited upon Mayor Clarke a few days ago to urge the advisability of adopting the business tax provided for at the last sitting of the Legislature. Brantford, London and other places have anticipated this action. An explanation of the "Business Tax" is afforded by clause 4 of the act respecting Exemptions from Municipal Assessments provides:

1. In the case of person carrying on a mercantile business in a municipality the municipal council of the municipality may pass bylaws substituting in respect of any class or classes of mercantile business a business tax for the taxes on so much of the personal property of the ratepayers as belongs to the business, provided that such business tax does not exceed 7½ per cent. of the annual value of the premises in which the business is carried on, and the council may in their bylaws classify different kinds of mercantile business and fix the business tax on the respective classes at such a percentage on the annual value of the premises occupied, within the limits provided by this section, as to the council may seem reasonable.

2. For the purposes of this section the annual value of the premises in which the business is carried on shall be taken to be an amount representing 7 per cent. on the assessed real value of the said premises.

Origin of the Term "Gerrymander."

The original of the familiar term "Gerrymander" is interesting. Elbridge Gerry, a conspicuous anti-Federalist, a follower of Jefferson, when Governor of Massachusetts about 80 years ago had the districts of his State changed in a way which, he imagined would increase in degree and extend in time the power held by his party. The alteration made in boundaries, however, were so grossly unfair and colored that the people became aroused and drove him and his party out of office in succeeding election. In pointing out the peculiarities and absurdities in the shapes of the districts a certain map-maker on a sheet spread before his eyes one day noted that a certain district, on which a friend put his finger, looked like a salamander. The person who made the remark said: "No, it is not a salamander but Gerrymander." The term stuck, and has been applied to all similar pieces of partisan work which have been perpetrated [illegible]

Popular Favorites.

[illegible] the local prints has been taking an election to decide who are the three most popular women in England. The result is in the favor of the Princess of Wales, the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, and Miss Ellen Terry.—London Letter.

Equal Rights.

The topic of the day and that which we all want is not only Equal Rights in a political sense of the word, but in many others. Here are people throwing away their hard earned money, with unprincipled houses who do not as much as thank them for it. Why should they do it? Why not call on W.J. Morrow, where you are received courteously, your money placed to a good advantage and you are placed on a solid basis in future for buying cheap goods. dw

Good Form in Dress

Social usage imposes certain rules as to dress which are carefully observed by men of good breeding and good sense.

Dress is not the most important object in life, but due observance of the rules of dress adds much to the comfort and refinement of life, and to a considerable extent, marks the difference between gentlemen and those who are not gentlemen.

Good form of dress is of course a matter of fashion and fashions vary. Should you ever be in doubt as to what is suitable call on us and we will give you safe advice on many controverted points, and on new fashions in attire that usually call for a good deal of consideration and caution. Therefore,—

DON'T go to extremes in your dress. Dress quietly. Overdressed men are always despised as frivolous.

DON'T be slovenly in your dress. Neatness is a duty you owe to society.

DON'T disregard that "good form" in dress which custom has fixed. Conformity to social usage in dress as well as in more essential matters is part of good manners.

DON'T wear a silk hat with a sack coat. It is a social crime.

DON'T above all things order your clothing until you have seen our stock. We show every desirable Fabric, Broadcloths, Cheviots, Doeskins, Tweeds, Fine, Plain and Fancy Worsteds and as to Patterns—well, we can give you what you want, no matter what it is.

TORONTO TOPICS.

The Grand Lodge I.O.O.F. in Session at the Queen City.

TORONTO, Aug. 14. The 25th annual meeting of the Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F., of Ontario, opened here yesterday morning. There were about 300 delegates present from different parts of the province. The proceedings were opened by Deputy District Grand Master Coyell of Toronto, who welcomed the delegates to the city. The 24th annual report of Grand Secretary King said, with but very trifling exception, the march of the Order in Ontario has been one of steady and almost uninterrupted progress. From the few lodges reported in 1856 the number has reached to be a vast army numbering nearly 17,500 members, a proof beyond denial that the Order has in it the elements of success and is of a nature to meet the requirements of the day. The net increase in membership for the year was 994. The deaths were 84. 1356 brothers received 7515 weeks' sick benefits, amounting to $35,292.90; to this must be added the other items of relief and benefit, surgeons' fees, nursing, paid to widows and orphans, burying the dead, etc., bringing the total to $39,780.54, an excess of nearly $10,000 over the expenditure for the same purposes for the previous half year. Since 1856 the order in Ontario has paid out for the relief of its members and the prevention of distress $750,453.62.

Frederick W. Curzon, staff sergeant of the Grenadiers, and son of Mr. R. Curzon of the City Treasurer's department, died yesterday afternoon at his father's residence, No. 3 Washington-avenue, after an illness of three weeks. His mother is Mrs. Sarah Curzon, author of "Laura Secord."

TORONTO, Aug. 15.—Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F., of Ontario, elected these officers yesterday morning: Grand Master, John Ormiston, Gananoque; deputy grand master, P. E. Fitzpatrick, Hamilton; grand secretary, J. H. King, Toronto; grand treasurer, William Badenach, Toronto; representative, H. Robertson, Collingwood; auditor, C. Packers, Stratford.

John Sinclair, aged 62, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday morning. He was a Scotchman, well known, and had lived in Toronto for 30 years and was formerly very active in politics. He was a Reformer.

The District Assembly of the K. of L. have endorsed the business tax.

Rev John Leishman of Angus has accepted a call to Chester Presbyterian Church, in the suburbs of Toronto.

Miss Kerslake, music teacher of Bowmanville, who was visiting friends in West Toronto Junction, became suddenly ill while being driven from Toronto. She became unconscious before she could reach the house of her friend and never rallied. Death was caused by the bursting of a blood vessel.

Luther R. Willis, a printer by trade, who has been living at 147 Church street, is a prisoner at Police Headquarters charged with bigamy. He was first married Oct 5, 1886, by Rev J. Howell of Owen Sound to Sarah Walker, and by her had two children. Growing tired of her he came down to Toronto about six months ago, and while attending Agnes street Methodist Church made the acquaintance of a domestic employed at 225 Seaton street and was married to her on Aug 1 by Rev J. F. Lewis of Grace Church. Wife No. 1, becoming tired of living alone, came to Toronto yesterday to find her wayward husband, and succeeded in locating his place of residence. He was taken into custody and acknowledged having married both women, but said he was tired of the first.

John Columbo Campbell, the Queen's Park Sunday orator, has sent in a bill of $50.00 to the city for the destruction of his plate-glass windows by unknown miscreants.

HIGH COURT I.O.F

Amendment to the By-laws. The Progress of the Order.

GUELPH, Aug. 13.—The High Court of Ontario of the Independent Order of Foresters reassembled this morning, N. F. Patterson, Q.C., High Chief Ranger, in the chair. The Committee on Constitution and Laws reported that the by-laws be amended to refuse representation in High Court to one representative for every fraction having a membership of 50 or less and an additional representative for every 50 members and majority fraction of 50.

The report was carried.

The discussion on the question of making a loss of an arm to be reckoned as a permanent disability was had over.

The Committee on State of the Order presented a very flattering report on the progress of the order and the effective way in which the various officers performed their duties, especially the H.C.R., the H. secretary and the chief organizer.

The report was adopted.

The Financial Committee recommended that the H. C. R. be granted a honorarium of $300 as a slight recognition of his excellent services to the court during the year; that the salary of the High Secretary be increased to $700; that the Treasurer's salary be increased to $75, and the organizer's to $1200. It also recommended a suggestion contained in the High Chief Ranger's report to the effect that an organizer who establishes a court be entitled to $75 of the fee of $100, and that the sum of $200 be appropriated for the expenses of the delegates to the High Court.

The recommendations were adopted.

MANITOBA'S BIG CROPS.

A Yield of 20,000,000 Bushels of Wheat Predicted. Other Grains.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 13.—Joseph McDonald of the Chicago Board of Trade, who has been making an extensive tour of Manitoba to inspect the grain crop, says that the province will this year have the most magnificent crop in its history. He estimates the yield of wheat at 20,000,000 bushels. The crop in some portions, he says, will be not less than 40 to 50 bushels per acre. The barley and oat crop is also very large, and the amount of grain which should be threshed this year will be immense.

Funeral of John Boyle O'Reilly.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—John Boyle O'Reilly's funeral took place at Charlestown to-day. There was a large attendance, including many clergymen and prominent citizens. The funeral procession was one of the largest ever seen in Boston.

Against a Prohibition Party.

MONTREAL, Aug. 13.—The council of the Royal Templars of Temperance has decided against the formation of a prohibition party.

AN ANCASTER FARMER KILLED.

Fatal Accident in a Hay Field A Hamilton Moulder Drowned.

HAMILTON, Aug. 14.—John Calder, jr., living in Ancaster Township, was haying yesterday afternoon. His team in some unexplained way became startled and Mr. Calder was run over and fatally injured. He died shortly afterward. The dead man was 35 years of age and unmarried.

William Bell, a moulder who lived at 26 Cannon-street west, was drowned at the Beach about 12 o'clock last night. Bell was heading probably for the Mazeppa, which had swung to at the piers to bring the last load home, when he fell off the piers and, before assistance could reach him, was drowned. The night was dark, and exactly how the accident occurred will probably never be known. What can be learned is that there was a splash in the water near the ferry slip, and a cry went up from many bystanders on the piers that some one had fallen overboard. Captain Campbell was soon on the spot and discerned three forms struggling in the water. Two of the men were got out, one of them, J. Wright, being rescued by his companion, W. Malvorey. The other man sank before assistance could reach him. Mr. Blackstock of the Toronto yacht Oriole dived and brought the body to the surface. Dr. Cuthbertson of Toronto worked hard to restore life, but the efforts were unavailing. Bell was dead.

The prize list of the big baby show last week in the Palace Rink amounts to something like $230. The prizes are as yet unpaid, and the mothers of the successful infants are kicking themselves for having entered the competition. When the show closed Manager Fulton said that he would pay the prize money some day this week. He left town last Sunday, saying he was going to London to get money to pay the prizes. Since then he has not been heard from.

At the meeting of the Presbytery to-day the resignation of Rev. Mr. Peatchall of Wellandport was considered. Rev. Mr. Peatchall used to be a Methodist minister, and it is said that he introduces Methodist ideas and methods too much to suit the Presbyterians to whom he ministers, the most heinous crime against him being that he has allowed a Methodist class-leader to preach for him in his absence.

LAKE AND RAIL RATES.

Meeting of the Joint Committee at Chicago Questions Referred.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14. The joint committee of the General Traffic Association and the trunk lines, including the lake and rail lines, met this morning. The subject of rates was brought up first, but the attempt to raise the tariff on hogs, beef, provisions, grain, oil cake and wood from Chicago to the seaboard was unsuccessful, and the subject was laid on the table. The presence of representatives of the lake lines was a particular feature of the meeting, and to the lake committee several important matters were referred. They are to work on lake and rail differentials on all rail classified freight to the east, not including grain. They are to discuss the point at which rates take effect in Chicago and the proposition to exchange statements with the all rail lines in order to secure the better maintenance of rates. They are also to consider the adoption of the uniform bill of lading on the lake lines. To the trunk line committee were referred the questions connected with the uniform bill of lading and local rates. It was voted to restore the tariff on iron on Sept 1 to the figure in effect before the April reduction.

HIS ARM CUT OFF

A St. Thomas Liquor Dealer Run Down by a Yard Engine.

ST. THOMAS, Aug. 14.—About 9 o'clock this evening John Doyle, wholesale liquor dealer and a prominent citizen for the past ten years, was run over by a yard engine at the Michigan Central depot and had his right arm cut nearly off at the shoulder, his left hand badly crushed and was cut about the head and legs. It was found necessary to amputate the arm at once. He now lies in a critical condition but hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The Legislature Vote.

OTTAWA, Aug. 14.—The Senate committee amendments to the Fertilizers Act, which passed last session of Parliament, in consequence of which the Department of Inland Revenue has issued certain notices to those interested in the artificial manure trade, calling attention to the steps necessary for conforming to the law. It had been found that many parties were offering for sale fertilizers made by manufacturers who had neglected to send samples of them to the department, as required even by the old act. The sellers of these have been warned that in so doing they render themselves liable to prosecution, and no doubt proceedings will be taken in every such case hereafter, and it has also become necessary for all vendors of fertilizers to send in their names to the Department of Registration, annually paying a fee of $1. This is for the purpose of enabling the authorities to collect the samples at the proper time. Persons engaged in selling fertilizers should make certain that samples of the brand they offer have been sent to the department by the manufacturers and duly analyzed. A fee of $5 for the analysis of each sample is now exacted.

Nova Scotia Crops.

HALIFAX, Aug. 14.—According to the Government crop report just issued, the Nova Scotia hay crop, although scarcely reaching the average in most localities, is unsatisfactory. The weather for securing it has been all that could be desired, and this has lessened the labor and expense of haymaking and insured an unusual excellency in quality. The old hay in barns appears to be quite sufficient to make up any deficiency. Root crops are coming away well, but the potato fields require constant attention to rid them of the so-called Colorado beetle, which is more formidable now than in any former season in Nova Scotia.

He Will Fight Extradition.

WINDSOR Aug. 14.—A detective arrived from Pittsburgh yesterday and spent the greater part of the day in trying to induce the attorneys of John C. Mullins, the alleged Pittsburg forger, to advise him to go back without a requisition. Mullins, however, states that he intends to fight the case. The amount of the alleged forgeries is nearly $40,000, the German National Bank being interested the most.

Smallpox in the Guatemalan Army.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 14.—Smallpox is causing many deaths in the Guatemalan ranks on the Salvadorian frontier.

THE BLOCKADE LIFTED.

TRAINS RUNNING REGULARLY ON THE CENTRAL.

The Passenger Service Said To Be as Good as Before the Strike—The Delaware & Hudson Men Return to Work Fully Satisfied.

ALBANY, Aug. 14.—The hundred yard men who were out on strike on the Delaware & Hudson Road at this point have agreed to return to work. The night force went on at 6 o'clock to-night and the day force will go on at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning. The men have become satisfied that their suspicions of the D. & H. knowingly handling Central freight were unjustified.

The strikers continue to speak with confidence of the final results of the strike. The passenger service on the Central road was to-day beyond criticism. Six freights were sent west and seven south from the West Albany yards this afternoon. There was no freight moved there to-night. The yardmaster at West Albany said he had cleared two tracks through the blockade of cars and that through freights to-day come over those tracks where formerly passenger tracks were used. The usual daily number of east and west freight trains in and out of the West Albany yards reached 70, while 35 north and south trains represent the freight traffic on the Hudson River division.

The Welsh Strike Settled.

CARDIFF, Aug. 14.—Representatives of the railway authorities and the striking employes met to-day and arrived at a settlement. The strike is ended.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

A Chemical Combine The Panic Spreading in Armenia.

PARIS, Aug. 14.—A chemical union, the aim of which is to monopolize the trade in chemicals, has been formed. The union has a capital of $40,000,000.

Terrified Armenians.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The panic among the Christian inhabitants of Armenia is spreading. Hundreds are fleeing to Persia.

Cholera on the Euxine.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug 14.—Five persons have died at Nicolaieff from a disease supposed to be Asiatic cholera. Eleven cases of the disease have been reported there so far. The Porte has decided to quarantine all arrivals from places on the Black Sea.

SWEPT OVER THE FALLS.

Two Foolhardy Canadian Lose Their Lives in the Niagara Flood.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 14.—Two unknown men were swept over the Horseshoe Falls to-day. They had been out in a rowboat above the rapids, and the current proved too much for them. One leaped out of the boat and attempted to swim ashore but was carried down by the current, and the other made the fatal plunge clinging to the capsized boat.

Losses Caused by Flames.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 14.—The Kentucky Distillery Company's plant was entirely destroyed by fire. Loss $800,000, fully insured.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 14.—Six of Mrs Ross Thompson's houses were burned about 2 o'clock this morning. It was in one of these houses that William Arthurs and his wife were cremated last spring. It is thought $500 will cover the loss.

TROY, N.Y., Aug. 14.—At midnight fire broke out at Boutwell & Son's flouring mills here. The property will probably be totally destroyed. The loss may reach $100,000.

BELLAIRE, O., Aug. 14.—The Bellaire goblet works and two frame dwellings adjoining were burned this morning. Loss $50,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14.—Japan advices state that 1000 houses of the poorer class were recently burned in Tokyo.

The Bishop of Alexandria.

KINGSTON, Aug. 14.—Rev. Alexander Macdonell, whose appointment as Roman Catholic Bishop of Alexandria has just been announced, is about 50 years of age. He was ordained a priest 27 years ago. He was born in Lochiel, a few miles distant from the see of Alexandria. Shortly after his ordination he was appointed pastor of Lochiel, and in 1879 was transferred by Bishop O'Brien to Alexandria. He laboured there until 1886, when he was appointed vicar-general of the diocese of Kingston by Archbishop Cleary. During his appointment at Alexandria he built a most beautiful church, known as St. Finnal. He is well fitted for the position, especially as he speaks with fluency English, French and Gaelic. His diocese is composed of Highland Scotch. His see is only seven miles from the first Catholic see in Ontario, for which Bishop Alexander Macdonell was consecrated in 1821. In 1826 the see was transferred from St. Raphael's to Kingston.

A Clever Convict.

KINGSTON, Aug. 14.—Convict Depew of the Kingston penitentiary has completed a difficult piece of workmanship and presented the article to Mr. O'Donnell, steward of the institution. It is a representation of the "Cross of Calvary," placed in an ordinary pickle bottle. The cross stands in the centre surrounded by a fence. A spear and ladder lean against the cross and a star is affixed in the centre of the arms. The cross and ladder and part of the fence are made of pine. The spear and every other paling in the fence is mahogany. The article is a very quaint one and worth seeing.

The Royal Templars in Camp.

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—The Royal Templars of Temperance arrived in town by the early Canadian Pacific train from the west. They were met at the station by the members of the staff previously here. Most of the Knights proceeded at once to the camp while the band and a contingent paraded the streets and serenaded the newspaper offices. At 9 o'clock Mr. John Dougall delivered an address of welcome, to which replies were made by ex-Mayor Howland of Toronto and others.

A Tug Sunk in Georgian Bay.

LION'S HEAD, Ont., Aug. 14.—The steamer Alderson ran into and sunk the tug Annie Watt, near Barrier Island, in the Georgian Bay about 11½ last night. There was nothing saved. The Annie Watt had a small cargo of merchandise for Lion's Head and was not insured. No lives were lost.

Her 102d Descendant.

QUEBEC, Aug. 14.—The widow of Isaac Giguere of St. Roche, aged 79, was present yesterday at the christening of her 102d descendant. She counts 10 children, 86 grandchildren and 6 great grandchildren.

Held on a Serious Charge.

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 14.—George Levis, aged 15, was committed for trial yesterday by A. F. Wood, M.L.A., for a criminal assault on the 5-year-old step-daughter of Edward McQuillan, a resident of Bannockburn.

Jamaica's Trade.

OTTAWA, Aug. 14.—A pamphlet of 71 pages, prepared under the direction of George Johnson, Dominion statistician, was received yesterday at the statistical department from the printers. This book is compiled for distribution by Adam Brown, honorary commissioner from Canada to the Jamaica exhibition. It contains information in detail respecting the imports and exports of the West Indies to and from the United States in order to show to Canadian merchants the character of the exports of our neighbors, so that an effort may be made to obtain a still larger share of this trade for the Dominion. The pamphlet contains the quantities of different articles imported by Canada from the West Indies, Brazil and Mexico for the past 16 years and the exports to these countries for the same period. There are also tables of the exports and imports for 14 years with South America, the object being to give such information to the merchants and manufacturers of Canada as will enable them to judge of the extent which the proposed Jamaica exhibition is offering to them new avenues of trade.

THE LEPERS OF TRACADIE

HARROWING SIGHTS IN THE DOMINION LAZARETTO.

How the Government and Sisters of Charity Smooth the Doomed Patients' Path The Origin of the Scourge—The First Symptoms.

TRACADIE, N.B., Aug. 14.—One has not to go to far Molokai to witness that awful blight of the flesh, leprosy. Here in this out of the way spot of New Brunswick, on the shores of the great ocean, I saw yesterday sights that are calculated to make the soul sick indeed. Here are literally immured a score or more of wretches touched with a foulness which, for no fault of their own, excludes them forever from the world. It is true they are treated with more consideration than the lepers of scriptural times who dwelt in the open sepulchres about Jerusalem, subsisting on the fragments that accidental charity dropped on the ground in the wilderness. Nor is heard from them that terrible cry as of a lost soul in the Dantean hell, "Unclean! Unclean!" No, the lot of these unfortunates is made as endurable as the ghastly malady of which they are the victims will permit.

The Dominion Government has erected a commodious hospital on the banks of Tracadie River, overlooking the gulf into which the slender streamlet falls. It would be difficult to find anywhere a lovelier combination of "st gamlet and hill" than this. Would that one could forget the hopeless fate of these fellows. But alas! they are "the world forgetting, by the world forgot." All that makes life worth enduring has been withdrawn from them.

> inmates and the house itself are kept cleanly clean. Hired attendants do all manual work. The inmates have no tasks set them. Their path to death is cool and relieved of cares. They have a farm with which they may do what they choose. They have boats in which they may fish and trawl or simply idle away the summer days.

As to the origin of the disease, some find it in the deterioration caused by generations of inter-marriage. The county of Gloucester, which is the seat of the disease, is settled by Acadian French and shut out to a large extent from the outside world by their different tongue. The little community married and intermarried until nearly everybody was related to everybody else. One story is that 140 years ago a bark from the coast of Syria was wrecked in the Gulf of St. Lawrence just off the shore of Gloucester county. The rescued sailors stayed for some considerable time with the Acadians, and from them the latter contracted the first cases of leprosy. Another version has it that a stranger hailing from Quebec was afflicted with the horror and left it as a legacy to his entertainers, while still another story is that the disease was contracted through some of the people eating putrid fish.

The disease is called leprosy, although it is probable that it is in many respects different from the leprosy which whitened the skin and rotted the bones of the Hebrews of old. But this is undoubtedly a malady of the same nature. It has been called by medical men Greek elephantiasis. A recent authority thus describes its symptoms:

"The first indication of the disease is the appearance of tiny tubercles on the skin, and especially on the face. These increase from the size of a pin head to that of a hazel nut. The nose and lips become thickened and swollen, so that the mouth is distorted and the features unrecognizable. The eyes droop, and eyelashes and eyebrows and sometimes the hair drop out. After a time the tubercles break, ulcerate and discharge, the disease even attacking the cartilage and bone, and piece by piece joints and flesh fall off until death gives the sufferer freedom from his terrible lot."

The average duration of the disease from the time the first symptoms are discovered until death ensues is about ten or twelve years.

The lazaretto was taken in charge by the Dominion Government in 1880, and Dr. Smith was placed in charge, who keeps a sharp lookout for infected persons.

In a conversation I had with the doctor he said:

"I am not yet satisfied that the disease is incurable. I discharged one man from the hospital some years ago and he has had no return of the symptoms. Last year I discharged a girl who had been admitted to the lazaretto just as soon as the first symptoms of infection developed themselves. Still, though these two are apparently free from the malady, I do not regard the cases as permanently cured, and I still hold them under close surveillance. Of late the disease has been dying out in Tracadie, its original seat; but out of the five new cases taken in last year one was from Cape Breton and four from the parishes which adjoin Tracadie—namely, Shippegan and Caraquet. I have traced a new focus to the disease, situated between Shippegan and Caraquet, and from this centre I have traced it to other settlements."

The act which gives the doctor authority to segregrate patients does not apply to the new hotbeds of the disease, but he feels that as soon as he possesses that power he will be able to stamp it out entirely.

Garutin Goes Home.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Manuel Garutia, the wealthy Mexican student who was found suffering from leprosy at the boarding house No. 105 East Twenty-eighth-street, on July 28, and was removed to North Brothers' Island by order of the Board of Health, has left with his family for his home in Yucatan. He was taken over the Pennsylvania Railroad. He was heavily clothed to prevent any one coming in contact with his diseased body.

SLEPT AT HIS POST.

Capt Pouriot Dismissed from the Fishery Protection Service.

HALIFAX, Aug. 14.—Capt. Pouriot of the cruiser Connaught has been dismissed from the fishery protection service. A court of enquiry held aboard the flagship Acadia by Capt. Gordon revealed the fact that Capt. Pouriot had been deceiving his superiors as to the movements of his cruiser. The log sometimes showed that the vessel was at sea watching Yankee pirates while she was actually lying in Allerton harbor and the crew enjoying themselves at picnics and other frolics and Capt. Pouriot was a sentinel who slept at his post frequently.

A St. Lawrence Pilotess.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 14.—It is not generally known that there is a lady on the river who is capable of piloting steamboats, but such is nevertheless the case. Mrs. George G. Lewis of New York City has received pilot papers from the United States Government, which allow her to pilot steam vessels in the waters of the St. Lawrence and she has been duly installed as captain of the steam yacht Paul, of which Mr Lewis is engineer.

Trash But Not Indecent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The grand jury yesterday refused to indict Manager Patrick Farrell of the American News Company and his two assistants, who were arrested for selling obscene literature by Agent Britton of the Society for the Enforcement of Criminal Laws. The books on which the arrests were based were "Thou Shalt Not" and "Speaking of Ellen," by Ross; "The Devil's Daughter," by Balzac; "An Actor's Wife," by George Moore, and the "Clemenceau Case," by the younger Dumas. Assistant District Attorney Lindsay and Judge Bedford were before the jury, and Mr. Bedford told them that in his opinion the books were merely "trash." On his recommendation the cases were dismissed.

A Hamiltonian Hurt.

DETROIT, Aug. 14.—Percy Kerr of Hamilton, Ont., was leaning over the side of the steamer Canada at 1 o'clock this morning just as she was leaving the dock at the foot of Bates street when one of the fenders broke. Kerr was hit on the head and face and rendered unconscious. His injuries are severe.

Oddfellowship.

Grand Master Bell's Address to the Grand Lodge—The Condition and Growth of the Society.

The following summary of Dr. Bell's terse pointed and clear address is given as of general interest to the public and of particular interest to members of the Order:

BRETHREN,—After eight years of itinerancy the revolving wheel of time has once more brought us to the "Queen City of the West" to conduct our annual deliberations. A steady and satisfactory advancement, both numerically and financially (and let me hope in a more thorough comprehension of the principles and true objects of our order), has been made during the past year. The guiding hand of Him who reileth over all has been with us, and our efforts have evidently met with Divine approbation. I pray that our deliberations here may be such as to merit a continuance of that favour. To all who have met in grand lodge with us before, I extend a fraternal greeting on your return, and to those who are here for the first time I extend a hearty welcome, and trust that you may have as pleasant and profitable a meeting as your most earnest desire can possibly anticipate.

I congratulate you upon the substantial increase in our numbers and funds and the daily increasing stability of our institution. Activity prevails in most of our lodges, and a strong desire to strengthen our bonds. While no special effort is being made by ostentatious display to capture the goodwill of the community, still it is self-evident that our order is from day to day gaining the increased confidence and approval of an appreciative public, who, from a better knowledge of our principles and works, recognize the necessity for such a society. Isolated instances of stagnation amongst our lodges there are to be sure, but they are few. Peace and harmony prevail everywhere within our borders. No innate strife exists and no troubles have arisen during the year to cause more than the merest ripple on the sea of brotherly love which surrounds every lodge in our jurisdiction.

THE HOME FOR SICK MEMBERS.

Reference was made to the subscriptions now being raised in Ontario for the support of the Oddfellow's Home for sick and suffering Oddfellows, in Jacksonville, Florida, and the object commended to the order. Decisions of the grand master occupied considerable space, and reference was made in the following terms to the decoration of graves of deceased members:—The adoption of the annual Decoration Day for the purpose of visiting the graves of our deceased brethren and paying a tribute of respect to their memories is becoming more nearly universal every year. "Oddfellow's Decoration Day" is looked forward to with interest in many places where the general public desire to visit and decorate the graves of their friends at the same time.

ANNUITIES TO WIDOWS.

The matter of annuities to widows was brought up and dealt with in the following terms:—"The question of the payment of an annuity to widows is one of absorbing interest yet to many lodges. I regret to learn that there are a few lodges still setting the legislation of this grand lodge at defiance in regard to this matter and still paying annuities, and affirm their intention to continue to do so. The spirit of insubordination should be stamped out. Many lodges which made no change in their bylaws the first year after the abolition of the annuity system, thinking it would be returned to last session, have since then fallen into line, made an honorable compromise with each widow, and are now free to make such arrangements as advisable, except by an annuity. Three cases of suits threatened against lodges to compel a continuance of the annuity were reported to me. In each case I advised an effort be made to bring about a compromise, but if the widow positively declined any fair and reasonable settlement, then to stand a suit and let us have a test case rather than continue the annuity. No case has as yet actually come to trial. All these lodges seemed willing to stand suit if the grand lodge would bear the expense. This I could not guarantee, although I promised to recommend it if a test case were being tried."

The charitable work of the members of the order in

drew from the grand master these words of commendation:—"For a number of years past I believe the Oddfellows of Toronto have supported with a very liberal donation a cot in the Hospital for Sick Children, and, if I mistake not, have been very liberal towards the support of a ward in the General Hospital. I think this generosity is highly commendable and worthy of imitation wherever opportunity offers. I am pleased to report that during the past year the lodges in Brockville and Peterborough have furnished very handsomely a private ward in the local hospitals in those towns. These wards are reserved for the use of members of the order, and are most comfortable, as I can personally testify from a visit to both."

In conclusion acknowledgment was made of the services of "the diligent, faithful and courteous Grand Secretary J. B. King," and the untiring labours of Bro. W. A. Rawlings, chairman of the Committee on Laws of Subordinates, Brothers Ronan, Ottawa, and Workman, Peterborough, for valuable assistance.

NOTES.

From the report of Grand Secretary King the following facts are shown:—

The actual average cost of relief to each member of the order in Ontario for the last year was $3.69, or 7 1-10c. per week

The average cost for working expenses of lodges, as shown under the head of current expenses, was $4.37 per member, or 8 4-10c per member.

The total average cost per member for relief and current expense being $8 06 or 15 5-10c. per member.

The relief paid out during the year averaged $171.30 for every day of 1889.

During the 34 years Ontario has expended on relief over ($625,000) six hundred and twenty five thousand dollars.

A tribute was paid to the good work done for the order by the Dominion Oddfellow, which, as the official organ of the order and a valuable means of communication, deserved every encouragement.

The report of the Grand Treasurer Badenach showed the receipts of the grand lodge for the year to be $9,845 and the expenditure $8 540, while $600 has been received since the closing of the books.

A COLLINGWOOD BLAZE.

THE CIVIC HOLIDAY FESTIVITIES INTERRUPTED.

Fire Starts in the Old Market Building—The New Town Hall Totally Wrecked—Visiting Firemen Lend a Hand to Save the Town.

COLLINGWOOD, Aug. 13.—To-day was civic holiday. Great preparations were made by the Georgian Fire Company for a grand day at the town park, games and sports of all kinds being advertised. While these were taking place the fire bell rang out for No. 2 Ward. The old market building directly back of the new building was discovered to be on fire. The building being old and dry the flames spread rapidly. Unfortunately the wind was high and blowing directly towards the new building, the lock-up and other small buildings. Of these the first to take fire was Brown's repair shop. From this the fire spread to the lock-up and an adjoining dwelling house. The Grand Central Hotel stables were the next consumed.

The new Town Hall just completed caught next. The fire spread quickly until the entire handsome structure, which cost the town over $20,000, was completely gutted, the walls only standing. Druggist D. Oliphant, who occupied a store in the market, will lose heavily on account of breakages. Jeweler A. Nettleton will lose considerable by removal. Brown Bros., butchers, Ironside & Fish and H. Howe will all lose. The Grand Central Hotel had a narrow escape, all the outbuildings and sheds were completely destroyed. C. Stephens & Co. and Burdett's brick block were in immediate danger at one time, but were saved. The drill shed and other storage places were on fire several times but were fortunately saved. The Orillia and Meaford fire brigades, who were here on an excursion, worked well.

The Town Hall was insured in the Liverpool, London & Globe for $3000, Imperial & London & Lancashire $3000, Northern $3000.

FOUR PLUCKY LADS.

Save Half-a-dozen Lives at Hamilton—Killed in a Railroad Accident.

HAMILTON, Aug. 13.—James and Harry, sons of Rev. S. Lyle; Haviland, Mr. Thomas Wanzer's son, and John, a son of ex-Ald. Roaf of Toronto, four lads whose ages range from 11 to 14 years, saw a sail boat, containing half-a-dozen young men, capsize in the bay and quickly manned a boat and set out to the rescue. The waves were rolling high, but the youngsters were game, and after rowing a couple of miles reached the shipwrecked individuals, all of whom were clinging to their upturned craft. "Who of you cannot swim? Those we will save first" called out young Wanzer, and the three who lacked this necessary accomplishment were taken into the rescuers' boat and taken to shore. Then Mr. Lindsay of the Beach, who had also seen the accident, rowed out to the scene of the accident also, got another on board and safely landed him. The quartet of young heroes returned for the remaining two and placed them on terra firma.

Early this morning the family of Patrick Sullivan, 39 Tiffany-street, were shocked by the receipt of a telegram informing them of the death of Patrick Sullivan, jr., aged 19. The telegram comes from a small town in Pennsylvania, and beyond stating that the boy was killed in a railroad accident it gave no further information. The young fellow had written home to say that he was coming and the next news that came was the telegram telling of his sudden death. Mr. Sullivan left Hamilton this morning to bring home the body of his boy.

J. Eustice's grocery store was burglarized this morning. A quantity of goods, such as canned salmon, sardines, pickles, parcels of sugar, etc., are missed, but Mr. Eustice does not know the exact extent of his loss. An attempt was made a few nights ago to burglarize Mr. Eustice's liquor store.

William H. Allan of Niagara Falls came here on an excursion loaded up with beer and was arrested. A revolver was found in his hip pocket which he said was an heirloom. He pleaded ignorance of the law, but was fined $30 and the revolver was confiscated.

Bishop Dowling has received an official communication from Cardinal Simeoni, at Rome, announcing that Vicar-General Macdonald has been appointed Bishop of Alexandria, Ontario.

The funeral of the late Judge O'Reilly took place this morning at 9 o'clock from Christ Church Cathedral.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM.

How It Was Rudely Interrupted at the Capital.

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—A romantic marriage took place here Friday night. Some time ago Mr. A. Guinard solicited the hand of his betrothed, a Miss Morin, in marriage from her father, but was refused. In the meantime the young couple met and kept up their acquaintance unknown to the bride's parents. On Friday evening, says The Free Press, they were driven to the residence of Mr. Bogert and were married. After the ceremony was performed the newly-wedded couple drove to the residence of the bride's father for the purpose of asking his forgiveness. Upon being informed of what had taken place Mr. Morin took his son-in-law by the throat and after giving him a severe thrashing threw him into the street. While this was going on Mrs. Morin took her daughter in hand, and after chastising her locked her in a room, where she has been confined a prisoner ever since.

Mr. Guinard was seen this morning. He said: "Yes, I'm married and they won't give me my wife. I got a marriage license and was legally married in the eyes of the law by Rev. James J. Bogert. Some people tell me it was a mock marriage and I must be married over again. If I agree to do this I can have my wife."

"Upon what grounds do they claim you are not legally married?" asked the reporter.

"We are both Catholics," said Mr. Guinard, "and they say we can be married only by a priest. I tell you I won't be married again. I will go to Mr. Morin's house and demand my wife, and if she is refused me I will take legal proceedings."

Notes from the Capital.

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—Collectors of Customs, according to the recent order-in-council, will be given 5 per cent. of all their receipts arising from the issue of licenses under the modus vivendi.

Tenders have been asked for the proposed harbor improvements at Belleville.

The Government steamer just returned from Labrador states that the fishing has a poor winter hunt. The fishing catch is excellent. Two new lobster factories are now in operation near Blanc Sablon.

Gallant Rescue at Port Sandfield.

PORT SANDFIELD, Muskoka, Aug. 13.—A heavy gale blew around here on Saturday afternoon and all of Sunday. Four young ladies and one gentleman who were out in a boat were capsized and they had a very narrow escape. They were Samuel McKenzie and Miss Kate McKenzie of Toronto and the three Miss Willsons of Chicago. The two former are the son and daughter of Mr. W. L McKenzie of the Land Security Company. The party were rescued by a couple of gentlemen who were bathing at the time and gallantly went to the rescue.

Drowned in a Cistern.

STRATFORD, Aug. 13.—Charlie, the 3-year old son of G. T. Huber, fell into a cistern last night and was drowned. The little fellow had been playing hide-and-seek with a neighbor's little girl just before the drowning occurred. The child had stopped playing for a while and gone for a piece of something to eat and returned to play, passing through Mr. Fell's kitchen on the way. This was the last seen of him alive. When found in the cistern he still had the piece in his hand and a portion of it in his mouth. No one knows how long he was in the water and it was by mere accident that he was found.

Insulted and Beaten.

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—A farmer named Laduc, while driving into town last night on the Montreal-road, resented an insult offered him by three men, who beat him terribly. He may die.

OF VALUABLE
Farm Property
IN THE TOWNSHIP OF
NORTH MONAGHAN.

PURSUANT to the order of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice, for sale made in HICKEY vs CAMPBELL et al, and bearing date the 14th day of February, A.D. 1890, there will be sold with the approbation of C. A. Weller, Esquire, Local Master of the Supreme Court of Judicature for Ontario, at Peterborough, by John Haggart, Auctioneer, at KENNEALLY'S HOTEL, in the Town of Peterborough, at the hour of TWO o'clock p. m.

ON SATURDAY
The 16th day of August, 1890
the following lands and premises in one parcel, being composed of

The East half of the West half of lot number five in tenth concession of the Township of North Monaghan

save and except that part thereof heretofore conveyed to the Ontario and Quebec Railway for a right of way through the said land, known as the "Frank Campbell Farm."

There are erected on said lot, a one and one-half storey frame house about 20x26 feet; one barn about 30x50 feet, and one frame stable about 18x24 feet. There is a good orchard on said lot and the soil is clay loam.

The said lot will be sold subject to the rights or interest of Mary Campbell therein or thereto during her lifetime.

The property will be offered for sale subject to a reserved bid which has been fixed by the said Master.

Terms of payment, ten per cent. of the purchase money at the time of sale and the balance thereof within thirty days thereafter without interest.

In all other respects, the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Chancery Division of the High Court of Justice.

Further particulars can be had from Messrs. Stratton & Hall, plaintiff's solicitors and Messrs Sawers & Stone, Solicitors, Peterborough.

Dated at Peterborough this 28th day of July, 1890.

STRIKERS MAKING IT LIVELY ON THE N. Y. CENTRAL.

Pinkertons Stoned! Why the Delaware & Hudson Men Went Out The M. C. Not In It President Depew sustain the Management

ALBANY, Aug. 13.—General Manager Young of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad said at 3 o'clock this afternoon that the strike on his road only included freight handlers, switchmen and yardmen in the Albany yards. He does not know what precipitated this action on the part of the men.

Three loads of Pinkerton men left the depot at 5¾ to protect non union men at work at West Albany and trouble is anticipated.

Vice-President Webb was in Albany late this afternoon, and after a hurried consultation with officials in the New York Central office returned at once to New York.

Chief Reed of the Firemen's Brotherhood is authority for the following: "We are all ordered out by an order from headquarters received half an hour ago."

The conditions of the Central Hudson strike in this section are unchanged. Superintendent Bissell said to-night: "Passenger trains were to-day run according to schedule for the first time since the strike was on. We commenced moving freight at East and West Albany to-day and will commence to-morrow to clear up the yards."

Superintendent Bissell received a message from New York to night saying Knights of Labor Assembly 1205 at Dover Plains had abandoned its charter and its members had thrown themselves upon the mercy of the road, seeking reinstatement.

Twenty-one carloads of dressed beef, which have been lying at the ammense icing station at Karner's, and another train of 20 cars loaded with coal were both brought through the West Albany yards and sent on to New York. The Pinkerton men on the first freight train moved from East Albany were stoned as they passed through the lumber district and three of them received severe bruises.

About 6 o'clock to-night several hundred people were standing on the bridge spanning the freight tracks in the West Albany yards. The Pinkerton men had been massed there and were looking after the safety of railroad men who had come from Chicago and were then making preparations to begin work to-morrow. The strikers have repeatedly asserted that they would stone any men who should engage in moving the freight there and the detectives fearing they would put that resolve into execution endeavored to clear the bridge. They met with some resistance and in the melee which followed one of the spectators was severely hurt by being struck with a club in the hands of one of the Pinkerton men. One of the latter was also hurt, and was carried down to the paint shop by his colleagues. The Albany police are now in charge of the bridge and everything is quiet there.

Chief Reed, who is the leader of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen in this vicinity, emphatically denied to night the rumor that the firemen would go out on the Central road.

When a freight train from Schenectady came through the Green Island yards to night it was surrounded by strikers. There were 20 Pinkertons aboard the train and when they attempted to arrest one of the strikers the crowd surrounded them and took their prisoner away. There was no further trouble.

The committee from the D. & H. strikers came out of Superintendent Hammond's office after 10 o'clock. One of the men said the D. & H. officials claimed they were not aware they were handling Central freight. Superintendent Hammond said:

"The men asked for an explanation of certain matters and it was given them. The committee said the explanation was satisfactory to them and that they did not want to strike. I then told them if they wished to remain in the employ of the company to return to work in the morning or otherwise they would all be paid off to-morrow and the places filled with new men."

Henry Wandell of Brooklyn, conductor of an extra freight on the New York Central, was struck by a bridge near Montrose station this afternoon and killed. He was a new man on the road, having taken the place of one of the strikers.

The Firemen Not Ordered Out.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 13.—Grand Master Sargeant of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen left at noon for Cleveland to [illegible] committee, but whether or not in connection with the Central strike is not known. At the national headquarters here the positive statement was made that he had not ordered the firemen to strike.

The Strikers Jubilant.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. The strikers took heart to-day when they heard of the strike on the O. & H. Canal Company's lines and were jubilant. At St. John's Park the agent has not yet begun to receive freight from shippers. Regular freight trains are arriving. The police still guard the depots. The freight yards at 60th street are as clear as on ordinary working days. General Manager Toucey says no strike of engineers is liable to occur on either the Central or the West Shore.

The M.C. Doesn't Mix

CHICAGO, Aug 13. General Passenger Agent Ruggles of the Michigan Central denies that the Michigan Central switchmen have been sent east to take the places of New York Central strikers.

Depew Sustains the Management.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Vice-President Webb returned from Albany at 10 o'clock to-night. He reported everything clear on the road. A despatch from President Depew to Vice President Webb says: "I sustain the action of the management. Any other course would bring it into contempt and accompanying disaster."

Inciting Other Unions

BUFFALO, Aug. 13. Walking delegates are here inciting the trainmen of other unions than the Knights of Labor to sympathy with the strike. The Central still refuses to receive freight destined for points east of Syracuse.

Will Take Back the Strikers

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Superintendent Voorhees said to-night that the Central would probably take back nearly all the men who had gone out, as nearly all had repented of their hasty action.

Parnell's Quarrymen Strike.

LONDON, Aug. 13. The workmen in the Parnell quarries at Wicklow have struck. The strikers attacked the residence of Samual McAlister, Parnell's foreman. Mrs. McAlister was so shocked and frightened that she is dangerously ill. Mr. Parnell threatens to close the quarries if the disturbance continues.

An Italian Monastery Attacked by Bandits Parliament Expected to Prorogue To-day Half of a French Town Burnt The Kaiser's Russian Trip

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The remains of Cardinal Newman were viewed to-day by large crowds. A requiem service at 10 o'clock closed the state ceremony. The body was then placed in a coffin and removed to the chapel of St. Philip Neri, where it will remain until Monday. Mgr. Stonor will represent the Pope at the funeral.

Parliament's Last Day.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—It is expected Parliament will be prorogued to-day.

A French Town Burnt

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The half of the town of Monetier, France, was destroyed by fire to-day. Forty persons were injured.

A National Calamity.

VIENNA, Aug. 13.—Styria has been dreadfully ravaged by storm and flood. The losses attain the dimensions of a national calamity. The district at the foot of the Noric Alps is inundated. Many houses and bridges around Affenz have been destroyed. The iron works there are submerged. Many persons have been drowned. A house fell in at Porth to-day and nine persons were injured.

The Protest Communicated.

PARIS, Aug. 13.—The United States minister has informed M. Ribot that he has communicated to Washington the desire expressed by the consular conference for a milder application of the McKinley Bill in conformity with the wishes of the French chambers of commerce.

The Kaiser's Russian Trip.

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—Emperor William will arrive at Narova, Russia, Sunday next. A banquet will be given there in his honor and he will witness the military manœuvres, departing Thursday for St. Petersburg, where he will remain Saturday and Sunday. He will return to Germany by sea.

It is estimated the fortifying of Heligoland will cost $7,500,000.

The Cholera.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—Despatches from Jeddah and Mecca say the cholera is decreasing.

Bandits Sack a Monastery

ROME, Aug. 13.—The monastery near North was attacked yesterday by bandits. The monks made a brave resistance and three of them were killed. The bandits carried off many valuables.

To Sail on the Parisian.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Earl and Countess of Aberdeen, Sir John and Lady Thompson and Mr. Sandford Fleming sail on the Parisian to-morrow. Sir John Thompson has had frequent interviews with the Colonial Office respecting Lac Bearing Sea, fur copyright and other questions. Sir Donald Smith sails on Saturday.

MRS. QUIGLEY GOES TO JAIL.

Held as a Witness in Default of $1000 Bail in the Day Case.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 13.—This afternoon Mrs. Quigley, the witness in the Day murder case, was taken to Police Magistrate Hill's office. The magistrate committed her to Welland jail as a witness in default of $500 personal recognizance and two sureties of $250 each.

Found in the Water.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 13.—Mabel Nott of Rochester employed Chauncey Wheeler, an oarsman, Sunday afternoon to take her to Anthony's Point, below Alexandria Bay. The oarsman left her there and went away, she having told him to return in two hours. Not long afterwards her cries attracted the attention of George Dobbins, who was rowing in the vicinity, and he hurried to rescue her from the water. She was nearly exhausted when Mr. Dobbins pulled her out of the water, and had he not arrived in the nick of time she would undoubtedly have been drowned. It is believed that she attempted suicide. Two weeks ago she was discharged from the Hartman House, Alexandria Bay, where she was employed as a domestic, and since that time she has acted strangely. She is now stopping at the bay.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase as $1,709,812 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $316,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,864,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,328	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,600	10.29
Federal	10,068,837	10.26
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,639	10 66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2 097,956	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20.12
London Life	1,644,295	20.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 20 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Wool Shipment.

To-day Mr. Stevenson shipped 25,000 lbs or twelve and a half tons of wool to Laidlaw of Toronto. The consignee declined to accept the fleece of Lowdown—the old axe found in one of the fleeces purchased from a farmer—the market for mineral wool of that variety not being very brisk.

Another Fire.

A fire broke out, or, perhaps, more properly speaking, was set, in the wooden building on George street, next to Howden's butcher shop, which was partially burned not long ago. The second fire pretty well completed the work begun by the first, and to-day the building is being torn down and removed.

Barn Burned.

The fire brigade turned out to extinguish a fire in a barn belonging to James Cumming in Ashburnham. But as the fire was pretty well advanced when the alarm was rung, and there was not enough hose to reach the burning building, before an additional supply of hose could be secured the building was destroyed, along with its contents, some farm produce, a threshing mill and a seeder.

Mr. Spry's Statement.

Mr. L. Spry, late custodian of the fire alarm box key, corner Dalhousie and Stewart streets, wishes to say that the rumours of his unwillingness to give up the key on the night of the recent fire on Dalhousie street are not correct. He asserts that he was in no way to blame for the delay, and that he promptly answered the call of the messengers who came to his house for the key. He also says that a number of his neighbours are willing to state that less than a minute elapsed from the time he was called up by his own door bell and the time he handed out the key. Mr. Adam Hall, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, after diligent inquiry, entirely exonerates Mr. Spry from any blame in the matter.

OUR CIVIC "SUNDAY OUT."

Our Citizens Make a Day of It.

Six Excursion Steamers Four out of the Town—All Well Attended and all Enjoyable—Our Boys Capture the Honours on Grease and Diamond.

Yesterday was Peterborough's own annual holiday, and a holiday it was made. Business was absolutely suspended, and almost everybody was out of town intent on pleasure-finding in one way or other. The river south of the town was alive with canoes, boats, punts and every other kind of craft, and the fish of the stream cannot complain of lack of attention. Then there were driving and country strolls singly or by groups. But the chief medium of enjoyment sought and the chief medium of depopulation was Excursions.

First in the order of its going was the excursion of Court Little John, Foresters. The advance guard of the excursionists not a very large number left on the 4.51 C. P. R. express to be followed later by sufficient number at seven o'clock to swell the number to about 200.

Next an instalment of the Sons of England excursionists boarded the G. T. R. Lake Shore express, and at 8.20 on the regular train by the rear route, a large contingent went out sufficient to make the aggregate about 200.

THE COMBINATION EXCURSION.

Next in order of departure was the combined C.M.B.A. and E.B.A. excursion to Belleville. The special train carried about two hundred excursionists, including an eleven of the local cricket club. By the regular train, in charge of Conductor Morris, about a hundred more went to the City of Bay.

Here the excursionists sought the various avenues of amusement and enjoyment the city affords. Massassega Point was visited and enjoyed. But in the field of sports the excursionists went and conquered; both the visiting cricket and baseball teams carrying everything before them, so to speak.

THE CRICKET GAME

was played on the Belleville grounds which were of good size, but not in the smoothest possible condition, and the crease though not bad was not anything to boast of. The captain of the Peterborough team, W. A. Stratton won the toss and sent in the home team to bat. But the Bay boys couldn't handle the bowling of Attewell and Stratton and the side was retired for the small score of 32. Our boys fielded capitally throughout the two innings. Peterborough went to bat and though the bowling they had to face was good, they had piled up a score of 176 before the last stump fell. Of these runs, Ray put up 55, Stratton, 34 and "Billy" Hamilton, the cool, the fine tally of 57. His stand was a fine one and he got his runs by very neat cricket. Belleville's second attempt with the willow, only netted 47 leaving them in the minority by 97 runs and an innings to spare. It is reported that a return match will be arranged between Belleville and the Peterborough colts at an early date. Below is the scores:—

THE BASEBALL VICTORY.

The Belleville ball tossers were as unfortunate as their cricketing fellow citizens, the Peterborough nine defeating them by a score of nine to four. Peterborough had some hard luck, too. In the fourth innings James Graham, who was catching, so injured his finger that he had to retire. Turnbull, who took his place, caught a good game till the finish. Summers' fielding at second was admirable and Brennan's swing of the bat was exceedingly strong. Mr. W. Salisbury umpired the game with such skill, delicacy and tact that he arrived home alive and well. This is the score:—

SONS OF CANADA.

Between 300 and 400 boarded the Golden Eye for the Sons of Canada excursion to Jubilee Point. While the Sons of Canada turned out strongly, the lovely daughters of Canada were in the majority, so much so that if any young Canadian wished to dance with two partners at once, there were enough ladies, assuming that they were in the same "willin'" mood as Barkis, to have made such a terpsichorean feat possible. This was the most festive of any of the half dozen excursions of the day—a strong band for dancing explained the great predominance of the more juvenile pleasure-seekers. To show the great lack of wharf accomodation, the wharf proper was monopolized by a scow, which, though it was something less than a thousand feet in length, occupied the entire wharf frontage, and the passengers had to go over her saw-dusty deck in order to reach the steamer.

At the Ashburnham wharf as well as at the Locks many more were added to the party which had a delightful sail down the beautiful winding river to Jubilee Point. Here the majority remained, but not a few remained on board for a trip to Harwood to see the Dickson Company's mills and for a sail round the lake. At the Point, the people went in for enjoyment, and after the picnic dinner, sought such recreation, relaxation as the beautiful walks and shady retreats present opportunity for in abundance. Of course the dancing pavilion was patronized. An exciting feature of the afternoon's programme, was the drawing for the lady's silver watch. The winning ticket was 154, held by Mr. Albert Metheral. The party, after a very pleasant afternoon on the Point, embarked for home, which was reached at 10 o'clock, not only without mishap, but with a most enjoyable and successful day of pleasure to look back to. The management of the excursion was of the very best character and reflects the highest credit on those having the charge of affairs, showing that Young Canada knows how to do things in proper style, and, knowing, does its duty at a pleasure party as willingly and readily as it would be done in the field of battle, should the presence of an enemy upon our soil be the signal of a call to arms. The "Sons of Canada" are to be heartily congratulated upon the success of their excursion, and the EXAMINER wishes them "many happy returns of the day."

TRIP OF THE ROYAL TEMPLARS.

But the big drum par excellence of the excursion entente was that of the Royal Templars of Temperance, swinging round the circle of our back lakes,—the most popular excursion of the day, judging by the immense attendance. The train was made up of five coaches and the baggage van containing the baskets of pic-nic excursionists duly checked. But to prevent the excursionists from looking out through the windows, it was necessary to add another coach. Fully four hundred, if not more, excursionists, were packed in the train that steamed out of the G.T.R. station and pulled its ponderous way up the stiff grade that confronted it.

A considerable addition was made to the multitude at Chemong. The steamer Alice Ethel, with palace scow, accommodated the party, and throughout the trip the officials were most obliging, and the excursionists have every reason to be pleased with their enjoyment. In spite of the large number on board, good time was made, six hundred happy excursionists gliding over the changing waters of the several lakes at the rate of eight and a half miles an hour. The day was a delightful one, and was passed in the greatest enjoyment. A stay of one and a half hours was made at Buckhorn, where dinner in picnic style was partaken of. Again, embarking, the floating city went on its winding way, and safely reached Lakefield, where the Royal Templar party joined forces with the Y.M.C.A. excursionists and a train load of nine coaches came to town. The Royal Templars excursion was in every way a very gratifying success.

THE Y. M. C. A. OUTING.

Next the imposing strains of the Y. M. C. A. band was heard and the excursion of this Association began to materialize. Though five other large excursions had pretty well exhausted the excursion capacity of the town, there remained enough unengaged excursionists to get a party of about 150 aboard the train for the trip to Juniper Island, the summer headquarters of the Young Men's Christian Association.

Considering the hundreds of our citizens who are at different summer resorts and the thousand odd excursionists of the day, the population of Peterborough was more than decriminated and the town was dismally dull. The streets had a funeral aspect, which was very slightly relieved at midday by the few surviving citizens that meandered through the streets leading from their homes to the post office.

A Cathedral Excursion.

On Wednesday Rev. Father Rudkins entertained the altar boys and choir boys of St. Peter's Cathedral to an excursion down the river and a picnic at Jubilee Point. About sixty boys on pleasure bent, boarded the Golden Eye under Rev. Father Rudkins care. Arriving at Jubilee Point the youngsters went in for enjoyment. After a bountiful picnic repast the sports and games came on. A baseball match between altar and choir boys, resulted in a victory for the former by a score of 6 to 5, their success being doubtless due to the fact that the skill and experience of the reverend mentor of the party was thrown on the side of the altar boys. Sports and games followed for prizes, in which Master Reilly particularly distinguished himself. The day was most delightfully spent and the party returned home safely very well pleased with their very pleasant experience of the hospitality, kindness and thoughtfulness of their good pastor.

Results of Teachers Examinations.

The following is the result of the teachers' examinations in respect of the Peterborough candidates, to whom certificates have been awarded:—Primary—B. Brown, E. Boswell, M. Campbell, A. Carveth, E. McCleary, B. Morrow, E. O'Connell, C. Thompson, J. Van-Every, T. Wallace.

Junior—A. Ames, C. Cameron, J. Gratton, M. McDonald, J. Noble, J. Wilgar.

In the Norwood district the following were successful:—Primary—M. Arksey, W. Burk, M. Lawson, E McIlmoyle, F. Norris, T. O'Reilly, M. Pengally, C. Renwick, B. Roxburgh, F. Rutherford, E. Stevenson, W. Tigue, S. Truscott, R. Weir.

Junior—M. Kirkpatrick, J. Quinlan, A. Wilson.

Candidates who were examined at High Schools will receive their certificates and marks from the respective head masters; other candidates should apply to the Public School Inspectors.

Willow and Wicket.

A team composed of the Colts and Veterans will go to Lakefield to-morrow to play a friendly match with the team of that village. The Peterborough eleven will be composed of the following gentlemen: Turnbull, Budden, Parker, Stocker, Attewell, Peck, Dumble, Halliday, Myles Hamilton, W. F. Hamilton. Mr. Alex. Strickland who has just returned from the lakes will act as scorer.

Busses will be at Sam Ray's at 10 o'clock to-morrow.

On the 20th, next Wednesday, a match will be played on the home grounds with East Toronto.

On the 22nd a Toronto team will be down to play the home team.

An Upset Accident.

An accident occurred in Clear Lake yesterday which, but for the prompt action of Master Theodore McWilliams, might have had fatal results. Four lads who were camping in the vicinity had tied their canoes to the Royal Templars' excursion steamer. Two lads, Victor McWilliams and another were in one canoe and Roland McWilliams and Fred Nesbitt in another. The latter fearing, as was the case, that their canoe was being drawn into the wheel of the steamer, jumped from their canoe into the water. Roland McWilliams swam to his brother's canoe, and Victor McWilliams, whose canoe had been cut loose, bravely jumped in and rescued Master Nesbitt from drowning.

The Work of Pick Pockets.

The Norwood Register says:—While standing in the crowd on the sidewalk in front of the Brennan house on Tuesday, Mrs. Robt. Duncan, of Peterborough, had a purse containing a sum of money stolen from her pocket. It was the work, no doubt, of a professional pick-pocket, a number of that ilk having taken up their abode here that day. The lady applied to a policeman, but the crowd was so great that it would have been like "looking for a needle in a hay stack" to attempt to ferret out the culprit.

Our Piscatorial Policemen

The Norwood Register pays the following fishing tribute to Police Constable Adams:—"Constable Adams, of the Peterborough Police force, and Mrs. Adams are renewing old acquaintances here. Mr. Adams is an enthusiastic disciple of Izaak Walton and at Trent Bridge on Saturday, opened the eyes of the natives by bagging, inside of an hour, six beautiful specimens of the finny tribe In the management of a trawling line Mr. Adams has few equals and no superiors."

News Nuggets.

—The band plays in the park to-night.

—To-night there is a meeting of the school board.

—At Stony Lake yesterday, a gentleman found out, but not exactly to his comfort, that "grease wouldn't float."

—On Tuesday, in the light of noonday, sneak thieves robbed a dressing case drawer in the Brennan House, Norwood, of six dollars in money, a gold watch and chain and other articles of jewellery.

—The doors of the fire alarm boxes have been removed and replaced by a pane of glass, which is to be broken when it is desired to ring a fire alarm, and the crank briskly turned. Nothing short of six months in jail will be the fate of the boy or man who wantonly breaks any of the panes of glass in the fire alarm boxes.

Personal.

At the Salt Water canoe meet, Jersey City, among the Canadian representatives are mentioned, Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. William English; Coboconk, Mr. J. Hilliard Carnegie; Lindsay, Mr. J. D. Flavelle and son.

At the Grand Lodge of Oddfellows, in Toronto, Mr. A. McFarlane was chosen a member of the Standing Committee on the "State of the Order" and Mr. D. H. Moore a member of the Standing Committee in Districts.

Mr. Strickland, with the Bank of Montreal here, has returned to business after a two weeks outing in Stony Lake waters. Sixteen and a half was the biggest he caught—and this he says is true if not official.

Mr. W. J. Green has returned to town from a five weeks trip to Manitoba and the Northwest. His appearance indicates that his trip has had an invigorating effect. He reports good crops all along the line and that the Peterborough people he met are all doing well, and are happy and contented.

Toronto Streets.

Rebekah's Regrets.

It's a chestnut, of course. What is it that's black and white and read all over? I like to have a great many readers, and as years and years ago wrote for newspapers. On the "Dawn" I overheard Bob say to Captain Eve, "My sister is not one of the namby pamby sort; she's country bred—no city airs about her." Bob knows me!

I love those rural, rustic things, which painters paint and poets sing. And walking these crowded streets of Ontario's capital, all dug up, big and small ditches, for gas, water, sewer pipes, electric wires, steam and other improvements (?), I yearn for the fresh air and unobstructed ways and atmosphere in and around Peterborough. It is Dickens makes one of his characters say: "There is a good deal of human nature in people," and all of us are thankful for the variety given. Not in a Pharisaical spirit, thanking God we are not like other folks, but just glad for what is apparently original in each; or at least de gustibus, etc., as the Latin maxim runs, so that permits my preferring the Otonabee to Ontario; George and Water streets to Yonge and York, or King; the hills and vales about Peterborough to the dust and cinder covered suburbs of Toronto. The air of freedom and pleasure in mingling among 11,000 that one cannot feel among 180,000. In, and with, the lesser number you meet and greet friends and faces are familiar to you, while among so many care worn walkers and workers ceaselessly passing and repassing, it becomes necessary to avoid collisions and reach one's destination without so much as looking at faces as the crowd barries on.

A stroll up town on one of the narrow dirty streets—here parathetically let it be recorded the citizens have just defeated a by-law for needed improvements—I saw a little three year old who was showing his love for country life, his head, legs, feet and arms bare. He had somehow secured a dozen or more bees and had actually bottled that number in an ordinary sized "pop bottle while some half dozen, had escaped, at any rate they were crawling outside and his tiny dirty hands were catching them up to put in his bottle to get them to make honey. I stopped only long enough to look and laugh, for a moment, lost in admiration at the loving care of the ministering angels who gaurd the sweet innocency of babyhood, and I passed on. When O! what a scream pierced my ears, not thirty feet onward, and turning quickly, that three-year old was disappearing in the doorway. The bees had opened their eyes to the fact that their little captor was a city baby, and for spite, stung him.

That was not the only baby on that block, out in the dirty streets or sidewalk. One there were eleven others by actual count in mother's laps, or at the breasts for supper, within a distance, say from the EXAMINER office to the corner.

REBEKAH.

The Manitoba Crops.

Further Testimony as to the Great Yield of the Present Year.

Mr. A. J. McMillan, the Manitoba Government immigration commissioner, has just returned from a month's visit to the prairie province, and reports the crops all over that fertile land to be in a first-class condition in every respect.

The demand for farm hands, Mr. McMillan says, is exceptional this year, and in order to illustrate this, it is only necessary to point out that in more than one district the farmers have had to go to the Indian reserve in order to obtain farm hands to the number of 50 to help in harvesting the crops.

I suppose, an Empire reporter said to Mr. McMillan, the exhibits to the different local exhibitions from Manitoba will be up to the display made in former years.

Yes, indeed, was the reply, and even better. The Manitoba Government and the C.P.R. intend sending east a very big exhibit to all the principal fairs in Ontario, and it is expected that it will surpass anything yet shown to the Ontario people.

In a further conversation with the reporter Mr. McMillan stated that he had visited the Dominion experimental farm at Brandon, which he found to be in excellent running order. At this place he saw specimens of the giant sweet ensilage corn, which in 1889 yielded nine tons to the acre, and that year was not by any means a favorable season on account of the dry weather which prevailed. This year 32 varieties are on exhibiton, and are looking in excellent shape, which proves beyond all doubt that corn can be easily grown in Manitoba. The farm in question also contains 30 varieties of native grass, which is being extensively cultivated, and 24 varieties of clover. All these are doing wonderfully well.

The Russian dwarf apple trees, native elms and Russian poplars were also favorably commented upon by Mr. McMillan, who was most enthusiastic in regard to the prospects of the all-round agricultural interests of Manitoba for 1890.

Police Court.

AUGUST 15th.

At the police court this morning James Fanning was charged with selling intoxicating liquors on Sunday, Aug. 10th. The police magistrate considered the charge proven and imposed a fine of $20 and costs—$7.98.

Kcivartscammot.

This a word not very often used in private conversation, but it has a deep meaning whose least use is not to remind the public of the fact that Hawley Bros. keep the best teas in the market. Pure in quality exquisite flavour and reasonable in price. No housekeeper having once used their teas or this firm's fine coffees will use any other. dw

Equal Rights.

The topic of the day and that which we all want is not only Equal Rights in a political sense of the word, but in many others. Here are people throwing away their hard earned money, with unprincipled houses who do not as much as thank them for it. Why should they do it? Why not call on W. J. Morrow, where you are received courteously, your money placed to a good advantage and you are placed on a solid basis in future for buying cheap groceries. dw

Family Jars.

Many otherwise happy homes are made places of perpetual discord by the ill-nature of the inmates. On whom she blame must generally rest we cannot say, but when it is said that "Mrs. So and So is a chronic growler," and that "she makes her husband's life a burden," some kind friend should suggest the use of Beecham's Pills. They will cure that headache, nausea or impaired digestion from which the poor woman is suffering and which makes her so ill-natured. 1d38

Good Form in Dress

Social usage imposes certain rules as to dress which are carefully observed by men of good breeding and good sense.

Dress is not the most important object in life, but due observance of the rules of dress adds much to the comfort and refinement of life, and to a considerable extent, marks the difference between gentlemen and those who are not gentlemen.

Good form of dress is of course a matter of fashion and fashions vary. Should you ever be in doubt as to what is suitable call on us and we will give you safe advice on many controverted points, and on new fashions in attire that usually call for a good deal of consideration and caution. Therefore.—

DON'T go to extremes in your dress. Dress quietly. Overdressed men are always despised as frivolous.

DON'T be slovenly in your dress. Neatness is a duty you owe to society.

DON'T disregard that "good form" in dress which custom has fixed. Conformity to social usage in dress as well as in more essential matters is part of good manners.

DON'T wear a silk hat with a sack coat. It is a social crime.

DON'T above all things order your clothing until you have seen our stock. We show every desirable Fabric, Broadcloths, Cheviots, Doe kins, Tweeds, Fine, Plain and Fancy Worsteds, and as to Patterns—well, we can give you what you want, no matter what it is.

CHAMBERLAIN ON SEALS.

HE TELLS WHAT HE THINKS OF THE ALASKA QUESTION.

There Ought to be no Difficulty in Coming to a Settlement of the Matter. England Ready to Accord Every Necessary Protection to the Seal Fisheries

SALEM, Mass. Aug. 16.—In an interview here on the Behring Sea question Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, M.P., of England, said: "So far as I myself understand the case there seem to be two leading features. First, that the people of the United States demand some arrangement for the protection of the seals, which they allege will be destroyed to a point dangerously near extermination if unrestrained killing is allowed, and, second, that there appears to be some doubt in their minds whether or not up a claim for a mare clausum.

As to the demand that the seals should be protected Mr. Chamberlain said: "There cannot possibly be any difference between the two nations. England is not only perfectly willing to preserve the seal fisheries and ready at all times to accord every necessary protection, but she has in fact especial interest to do since more than 1,000 people in London are employed in curing and dyeing seal skins. This is an open and plain fact, and it seems strange to me that it has been left out of account by the American Government in its consideration of the case. There cannot possibly be any ground, not only for quarrel—it seems wrong to use that word—but even for any difference of opinion. If now or at any other time there occurs any misunderstanding, though it may be the slightest, England is never ready to meet the United States in a reasonable way."

As to the claim that has been set up by the United States for a mare clausum, Mr. Chamberlain declared such a position to be absolutely unparalleled. "Behring Sea is not a bay or lake, and honestly, it is an enormous open sea. I cannot by any construction of words consider a mare clausum, and it belongs and is open to every country but to all the nations of the world. The claim which has partially been set up by the United States is especially surprising, since her eminent authorities on international law have always insisted, with particular emphasis, on the complete and universal freedom of the high seas. Both countries must feel the disgrace unworthy of a serious quarrel. England has an ever constant desire to preserve her friendliness with the United States, and the present controversy is in the least of a critical nature.

Lord Salisbury's Alm.

LONDON, Aug. 16. In the House of Commons Sir James Ferguson, speaking for the Government said no adequate judgment could be formed on the negotiations or on the diplomatic correspondence in the Behring Sea matter until the House possessed Lord Salisbury's final reply, which had just been presented to Secretary Blaine. When the whole correspondence had been published he expected the House would be satisfied with the manner in which the negotiations had been conducted on the side of the British Government. Lord Salisbury had aimed to reach at once the basis for such by an international arrangement and at the same time to prevent further killing of British vessels until some complete plan for securing it could be made. The statement was received with murmurs of applause.

THINKS SHE WAS DRUGGED

A Girl Who Has No Knowledge of Her Marriage, and Wants a Divorce.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 16.—Attorney David Cohen, one of those retained to-day by Mrs. Sarah Fales of Newark, N.J., to get her out for her daughter, interests in one of the most peculiar divorce suits that has been instituted in New Haven courts in many years.

According to the story told Miss Clara Fales came to this city last month for the purpose of spending a few months with Mrs. Charles Stevens at No. 15 Silver street. While there she met Mrs. Stevens' brother-in-law, Frank E. Stevens, who is employed as a brakeman, on the New York, New H[illegible] road. The young man was most attentive to [illegible] and about a week later took out a marriage license, in which he represented Miss Fales' age as 21 years. In reality she is only 19. On the following day the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. [illegible] Meserve, pastor of the Davenport Congregational Church.

The young woman returned to her home in Newark about two weeks ago and was soon afterwards visited by her husband, who asked her to return to New Haven with him. She denied all knowledge of any marriage ceremony, and now claims that she was drugged while visiting Mrs. Stevens, as I have that she must have been under the influence of drugs when the marriage ceremony was performed. She says that the coffee served her by Mrs. Stevens every morning tasted peculiar, and believes that it was through this medium that the drugs were administered. On these grounds Miss Fales, who is the leading soprano of the First Baptist Church, Newark, brings suit for divorce.

Mrs. Stevens declares that no drugs were administered to Miss Fales and that the marriage ceremony was performed with the full knowledge of the girl. She says that the girl, anxious to have the marriage annulled, has misrepresented the facts to her mother.

Rev. I. C. Meserve, in whose house the marriage took place, says that he did not notice anything peculiar about Miss Fales' actions or her condition. If he had he would have refused to marry the couple.

The Daily Smash.

DETROIT, Aug. 16. At Augusta, Mich., at 4 p.m. yesterday the eastbound North Shore limited train on the Michigan Central Road struck a protruding car of a train which had been side tracked. The engine then jumped the track and crashed into the depot wrecking the building. It is rumored two boys, who were inside, were killed outright. After striking the building the engine exploded, blowing Fireman Gregg to atoms and instantly killing Engineer Roberts. News so far received does not mention any passengers being killed though the number injured is given at [illegible].

AN AUSTRIAN BARON

Plays a Swindling Game in Montreal—Exploits in American Cities.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—A young man of pleasing appearance and address has been victimizing a number of people in this city lately. He passes under the name of Baron Von Katscher, and is said to be the descendant of of a rich brewer of Vienna. He came from Quebec on Saturday last and put up at the Richelieu Hotel, where he managed to borrow a $5 bill of Mr. Durocher. From the Richelieu he went to the Windsor, where he stopped some time, explaining the fact of his having no baggage by saying that it had been detained on the road, but enquiries set on foot by the management revealed the fact that his trunks had been detained by the manager of the Florence Hotel at Quebec where he had stopped for some time.

During his stay here he tried to pass off worthless checks and succeeded in one or two instances. One of these was accepted by the firm of Schwob Bros., of which the vice-consul of France is a member. He won Mr. Schwob's confidence by his excellent manners and by his cleverly concocted story of knowing Mr. Schwob's family in Paris. Von Katscher has worked the same game in many American cities and was recognized here by an American detective. Chief Hughes was communicated with and as a result of the enquiries he made it was ascertained that Von Katscher victimised many persons in New York, Cincinnati, Baltimore and Middleboro, Ky., but none of these cities were prepared to extradite him.

THE DOMINION ALLIANCE.

Proceedings of the Council at Montreal—Election of Officers.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—The annual convention of the Council of the Dominion Alliance continued its session yesterday afternoon. A communication was read from the Northwest Prohibitory Alliance deploring the condition of affairs in the territories under the present system. Much discussion ensued as to whether it was advisable to call for a plebiscite on prohibition and a resolution was agreed upon subodying the principle that it would be better to devote their energies toward a prohibitory law.

These officers were elected: President, Hon. A. Vidal; corresponding secretary, F. S. Spence, recording secretary, J. H. Carson; treasurer, W. H. Orr; vice-presidents, Hon. J. C. Aikins, W. H. Howland (for Ontario), J. R. Dougall, S. A. Fisher, M.P., (for Quebec). Executive Committee—J. J. McLaren, Jacob Spence, A. M. Featherstone, Rev. Dr. Sutherland, Dr. C. V. Emory, W. W. Buchannan, Rev. Dr. Williams, B. D. Fleming, W. Tees, James Baylis, Rev. A. M. Phillips, Rev. W. A. Hunter, Joseph Jamieson, M.P., Major Bond, Rev. Dr. Thomas Reid, T. W. Campbell, I. C. Peake, A. A. Batchelier, H. O'Hara, J. B. Hay, J. Brooks.

A large committee on legislation including many senators and M.P.'s was also appointed.

HOME CIRCLERS IN SESSION.

District No. 5 Has Its First Meeting at St. Catharines.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 16. The first meeting of representatives from District No. 5 Order of Canadian Home Circles, met in Beaver Hall yesterday afternoon, Rev. R. J. Cough of Millbrook, supreme vice-leader, was in the chair. Rev. Canon W. T. Houston of Niagara offered prayer. The convention formed a permanent organization by the election of W. Smith, St. Catharines, as chairman, and M. V. Keating, St. Catharines, secretary. It was resolved to recommend to the Supreme Lodge that permanent arrangements be made for the purpose of holding annual meetings of districts.

A resolution recommending district representation to the Supreme Lodge instead of one representative from each lodge, as at present, was voted down. Bro. John G. Cumming of St. Catharines was elected district deputy supreme leader of the St. Catharines district. The convention closed with prayer by Rev. J. W. Gribble of Port Dalhousie.

Mayor Wilson of Seaforth Injured.

SEAFORTH, Aug. 16. Thursday afternoon Mayor Wilson after exercising a horse entered for the races on Aug. 28, was leaving the driving park, and just out of the ring to get through, jammed Mr. Wilson between the buggy and [illegible] post, fracturing two ribs on the left side. Medical assistance was soon obtained and yesterday His Worship was able to leave for Toronto, where he had urgent business.

Hon William Macdougall Seriously Hurt.

COBOURG, Aug. 16. Hon. William Macdougall while leaving a train which was commencing to move Thursday evening was violently thrown to the ground and sustained serious injuries. He was conscious when picked up, but was unable to move and had to be lifted in a cab and driven to the house of friends, with whom he and Mrs. Macdougall were going to stay for a few days. The doctors are as yet unable to say how serious are the injuries, which are of an internal character.

The Grey Cotton Association.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—The Dominion Grey Cotton Association held their third annual meeting in the Windsor Hotel Thursday night. They decided to continue the association and to maintain the cotton at its present price until next meeting. Mr. A. F. Gault was elected president, Mr. Parker of Halifax, vice-president, Mr. Findlay, inspector, and Mr Pimsoll secretary-treasurer.

Fatality at Alton, Ont.

ALTON, Aug. 16.—Patrick Murphy, who was working in the quarries at Credit Forks, was killed by the falling of a derrick. His head was completely smashed, and his brains scattered for yards about. Three years ago Murphy was struck by a C.P.R. express train, near Cataract, and had only recently recovered from that accident. He has no friends or relatives here.

A Hepworth Hunter Accidentally Killed.

HEPWORTH, Aug. 16.—While hunting in the woods yesterday a young man named Ernest Nesbitt, in attempting to pull his gun through a thicket, caused the piece to be discharged. The bullet passed through his thigh, severing the main artery. He bled to death, living only ten minutes after the accident.

Quebec's Little Bill.

OTTAWA, Aug. 16.—The Government have received a petition of right from the Quebec city corporation, claiming $39,000 damage done by the rock slide there.

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

TROY, Aug. 16.—The 8¼ train out of Albany collided with a freight train two miles west of Schenectady last night. Engineer Vroeman and his fireman were killed.

THE RAILWAY STRIKE.

A SECRET MEETING OF THE FIREMEN'S EXECUTIVE.

The Syracuse Delegate Says They Have Decided Not to Go Out—The Men at New York Still Hopeful—Pinkertons Stoned.

UTICA, Aug. 16.—The Executive Board of Locomotive Firemen were in session yesterday in this city. They met behind bolted doors and no one has been found who will divulge any part of the proceedings. Firemen from other roads than the Central were present. The secrets are guarded from the striking Knights. It is said that the members of the board will not talk because they do not want to apprise the officials of the Central of their action prematurely.

The Firemen Will Not Strike.

SYRACUSE, Aug. 16.—The Executive Board of Locomotive Firemen, that has been in session at Utica for the past two days, adjourned last night and the delegates have returned to their homes. The meeting of the Executive Board consisted of 14 delegates representing the 14 lodges comprising the New York Central district. These 14 delegates represent over 700 firemen in the employ of the Central. The delegate from Syracuse lodge returned here last night and talked quite freely of what was done at the meeting. He said that the meeting, although protracted, was one of harmony and that all were agreed upon matters of any importance. The meeting, he said, had been called to discuss the advisability of striking. When the matter was finally put to a vote it was decided to stand by the constitution of the order, and not strike unless a strike was ordered by a higher authority. They decided that they themselves had no grievances but what could be settled with the company without the expense of a strike.

Pinkertons Stoned.

ALBANY, Aug. 16.—Yesterday afternoon showed no different change in the situation of the strike. The strikers posted a bulletin that Superintendent Bissell and his office associates were doing the switching and that the Chicago men were a myth.

During the evening a number of the Pinkerton men stationed on the tracks in the northern section of this city were stoned by persons hidden in or about the houses in that neighborhood. Five received injuries and were taken to the Pinkerton car in the Union Station, where their wounds were dressed by physicians. Supt. Bissell said last night that the company has succeeded in sending eight freight trains west and five south from West Albany and this vicinity. He thought the outlook good.

The Strikers' Hopes.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—The Central Railway strikers here are firm and claim to be sure of ultimate success. They say there has been no intention of moving until the General Executive Board has given instructions. Master Workman Lee says that unless the troubles are settled by arbitration the strike will be extended to all the Vanderbilt lines, to Chicago and Denver and all roads handling freight sent over the Central road. The passenger system of the Central-Hudson road is again in full operation from this city. Mr. Webb has filled the places of the strikers in every part of the system. He said yesterday the freight yards here were all clear. He hopes to start out through freights by Monday, and to begin receiving freight then as usual. Until the West Albany yards are cleared, however, not much freight can be moved westward. The strikers deny that Local Assembly 1705 has gone back to work in a body.

Wants the Reporters There.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Vice-President Webb denies that the Boston & Albany road at Albany refused to handle the cars of the Central. Yesterday morning he said they took all this road had to offer. Mr. Powderly and his companions arrived from the west last night. He refused to say anything about the strike. Vice-President Webb last night said he desired the presence of the reporters this morning at his interview with Powderly.

A Strike on the Wabash.

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—The switchmen employed by the Wabash Railway Company in Chicago struck yesterday afternoon completely stopping all traffic. The trouble is due to postponement of payment of wages until Monday next. It has been customary to pay the employes of the road on the 15th of the month.

HE WAS HUNG IN EFFIGY.

The Return of an Eloping Couple Causes a Small Riot.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Aug. 16.—In December James Halstead, an insurance agent, living in Flint Village, the eastern section of this city, tired of his wife and quit town, taking with him Mrs. Swindells, the mother of six children. Mrs. Halstead continued to occupy a tenement in one of three large blocks that were Halstead's property, but mortgaged previous to his elopement. A week ago Mrs. Swindells returned and made up with her husband. Halstead re-appeared Thursday. He was travel-stained and penitent. Mrs. Halstead opened her arms to him.

"Jane," said Halstead, "I have had a vision, and the Lord said you would forgive me if I came back, and I have responded."

Mrs. Halstead's forgiveness did not suit the Flint Village people. Halstead had been a teacher in the church of the Latter Day Saints, a sect closely allied to Mormons. He had been in the habit of preaching curb stone sermons on morality, and they objected to his method. Just before midnight a thousand people surrounded Halstead's house and gave vent to their indignation. Horns and brass instruments and gongs and hisses turned the village into a pandemonium. Stones were thrown, windows broken, and the people were preparing tar and feathers for the prodigal, when an effigy was brought in. It was labelled, and after midnight Halstead's mummy swung from a telegraph pole before his bedroom windows. Police broke up the gathering. The effigy hung until noon yesterday. In the afternoon it was rumored that Mr. and Mrs. Halstead had gone out of town.

Indignation increased and mischief brewed all day at Flint Village, and at 8 o'clock the streets near Halstead's house were filled with a crowd determined to do him injury. About 9 o'clock Halstead and his wife arrived in a horse-car and attempted to reach their house by a back way. The crowd surrounded them, threatening Halstead with tar and feathers and bodily injury. The police appeared and protected the couple from the crowd. Two men were arrested. The village is in a state of excitement at present, and the people are ripe for mischief.

SAILED IN A CALM.

The Lake Yacht Racing Association Regatta on Toronto Waters.

TORONTO, Aug. 16.—The Lake Yachts Association regatta under the auspices of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club was favored yesterday with only light breezes. Oriole won in the first-class, Vreda 2, Aileen 3. White Wings was first of the 45 footers, followed by Toronto Verve, Condor, Madge and Hamilton Verve in the order named. Yams headed the 40-footers, Marie 4, Psyche 3. In the 35 foot class Vision led, then came Coquette, Cyprus, Edith, Majel and Alert. Nancy was first of the 30-footers, then Madia, Valnette, Samos, Mona, Volante and Amelia. Maudie B. won in the 25-foot class, Widgeon, Caprice and Ina following.

To Trot Against Time.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—On Sept. 4 Robert Bonner's mare Sunol (2.10¾) will trot at Belmont Park against the record of Maud S. (2.08¾), and Senator Stanford's Palo Alto will trot against the stallion record (2.12) held by Axtell.

PENETANG, Aug. 16.—The bylaw for providing water works and fire protection was carried yesterday by a good majority.

PRICES AND PROSPECTS.

BRADSTREET'S AND DUN-WIMAN ON THE STATE OF TRADE.

A General Advance—Serious Injury Done By the Drought to Cereal Crops in the Western States—Fruit Yields Short—The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's show few changes in either the agricultural, industrial or commercial situation. There have been extensive rains throughout large areas in Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska, but they came too late to repair the damage done the cereal crops, particularly that to Indian corn. Cotton crop estimates are not quite as large as a few weeks ago, while those of wheat, corn, oats and barley are as low as previously reported. Sugar and rice crops promise well. Fruit yields are short and prices higher.

Share speculation is again strong and advancing. Bank clearings at 51 cities for the week ended Aug. 14 show a gain over that week last year of 15 per cent. The feature of the week is the continued advance in hides and leather. As an outcome of this boot and shoemakers are actively employed. Nebraska merchants, fearing short crops, have countermanded orders. Iron is growing steadily stronger, but prices are no higher. Wheat has advanced 5c to 6c, corn 1½c, oats 6c per bushel. Exports of wheat this week were 1,563,180 bushels, against 1,914,000 last year. Earnings of 65 railroads for July aggregate $36,552,756, a gain of 8.99 per cent. over 1889, which gained 8.34 per cent. over 1888. Drygoods are in good demand, woolens in better request, wool steady, cotton 3-16c lower.

Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 148 in the United States this week against 135 last week and 117 this week last year. Canada had 29 this week against 35 last week. The total number of failures in the United States, Jan. 1 to date, is 6565 against 5629 in a like period of 1889.

Dun, Wiman & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade will say: The industries are doing rather less and the speculators are doing more. That is the week's history in brief, but the volume of legitimate business is still very large, exceeding last year's at this season by about 10 per cent., and the outlook for fall trade is considered excellent as almost all commercial centres. The general average of prices of commodities is rapidly rising and has advanced more than 2½ per cent. during the past week. At the first purchases of silver bullion under the new law the price paid for 500,000 ounces was a shade above the London price and the offerings are said to have been about 1,000,000 ounces.

The special crop report sustained fears of serious injury to wheat, corn and oats, but indicated that the yield of cotton likely to be rather larger than last year. The reports from other cities are generally favorable, no complaint being anywhere made as to the volume of current business. Chicago notes that drought in some localities has affected crops so that purchases will be diminished, but the injury is not yet supposed in commercial circles to be of serious magnitude. Money is easy and firm at old rates at Chicago, tighter at 7 to 8 per cent. at St. Louis and in fair demand at about usual rates elsewhere.

DOWN BY FUNDY'S BAY.

What the Winter Port is Doing. Provincial Notes of Interest.

ST. JOHN, Aug. 16.—This has been an exceedingly busy summer in St. John. The activity has been marked in all lines of industry. The city itself has been, and is, expending large sums on streets, wharves, sewers, etc., and its weekly pay roll is large. There is quite a large amount of building constantly going on in different parts of the city. The extension of the electric light business and the rivalry of three electrical companies, together with the labor just begun of changing the street car service from horse to electric motive power, causes activity in that line. The various factories are busy and all the lumber mills are in full operation. Lanoring men and owners of teams find no difficulty in getting employment. Up to the last week or so there has been great activity in shipping owing to the fact that the American market kept at a high figure much longer than usual at this season. Ship laborers have had an exceedingly busy time of it, for lumber shippers were anxious to send forward as much as possible before the inevitable drop. The drop has come. Prices are off considerably, and so are coastwise freights. As a result there is not as much anxiety to send lumber forward, but there is still considerable business doing. Atlantic business continues somewhat dull, but there appears to be some indication of a firmer feeling.

The city, besides being prosperous from the general business standpoint, has had a greater run of summer visitors than ever before. The New York steamer line have developed an unexpectedly large passenger traffic, and it announces that the company will put a second boat on the route next week. Of course, they have a heavy traffic with ports of call between here and New York, but they express themselves more than satisfied with the experiment of coming to St. John. The rush of travel by rail and steamer gives the streets and hotels and places of public resort a most animated appearance.

From the country comes word that the crops generally, with the exception of the oat crop, are quite promising. The oat crop will be a partial, and, in some districts, an almost complete failure, it is said, owing to the attacks of an insect. The farmers call the blight the "red head" for the smut on fields have a reddish appearance.

One very considerable source of revenue for country people is in the crop of native berries. Tons of strawberries, raspberries and blueberries are picked by the women and children and sold to agents, who send them forward to local or American markets. Thousands of dollars are thus scattered through country districts, where these fruits are found, and storekeepers say they can note an increasing up in the money market as soon as the berry season opens.

One great source of regret is that our farmers have not turned their attention with sufficient zeal to the dairying interest. The average butter exposed for sale in the St. John market can hardly be said to be greatly superior to the rank Quebec article sent down here betimes. Where there is a man who prides himself on his dairy produce, that man finds a ready market and good prices the year round, but he is not yet found in sufficient numbers to be a source of national pride. The Local Government and the agricultural societies are giving more attention to dairying interests than formerly, and it is possible that they may effect some measure of reform in methods and results within the next few years.

U. S. Silver Purchases.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—The amount of silver offered to the Treasury Department yesterday was 504,000 ounces, of which 417,000 were accepted. The director of the mint refuses to give the price paid, but it is known to be more than $1.14. The price of silver in London is 52 pence and the New York equivalent is $1.04. The silver purchased yesterday is for delivery at Philadelphia, San Francisco and New Orleans. It was announced at the Treasury that yesterday's offers for the sale of silver were at rates ranging from $1.14 to $1.15⅞. The department accepted all offers at prices below $1.15.

A Grateful Republic.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Acting upon a suggestion by the Acting Secretary of State the Collector of Customs at New York has been instructed to extend the usual courtesies and facilities in the passage of their personal baggage to the Comte de Paris and his son, the Duc d'Orleans, upon their arrival at that port about the end of next month. This action is based upon the gallantry of the Comte de Paris during the War of the Rebellion.

The Daily Examiner

SATURDAY, AUGUST 16, 1890.

MANY instances have been cited remarkable the Montreal Star, of the enterprise of some of the great New York journals in obtaining news; but very few of these journals ever give credit for like enterprise on the part of the newspapers of London. Yet the London journals are not one whit behind their confreres of New York when matters of any vital importance are concerned. As an instance of London enterprise it may be stated that the Times paid $30,000 the week before last for its cable news from the Argentine Republic. Even the New York Herald, which professes to be the most enterprising newspaper in the world, had to contest itself with the Times despatches for once.

THE national debt of France has increased by over one thousand millions since 1878, and it is now estimated to be between $6,400,000 000 and $7,000,000,000. The national debt of Great Britain has been reduced since 1878 by $175,000,000; French trade received an impetus last year from the Paris Exposition, and the foreign commerce of the republic showed an increase of $80,000 000; while that of Great Britain showed an increase of $285,000,000. During the last twelve years, however, there has been a net falling off in French imports of about $40,000,000. It is asserted that France is in a bad way and that she is being crushed by her vast military armaments.

THE Courrier du Canada, says the Globe declares with as straight a face as it can preserve under the circumstances that in consideration of its advocating unrestricted reciprocity the Liberal party is to receive a million dollars from the United States politicians for use in the next Dominion campaign, and that Mr. Pacaud, of L'Electeur is already making arrangements for bringing in the monster boodle. How is it coming? By a special freight or by balloon? The Tories do not appear to be able to strike out a line of their own in connection with the trade policy of the country. They can't even invent an original falsehood. The N.P. was borrowed from the States, so was the red parlor, and this yarn about American money coming in is merely a localised edition of the venerable roorbach which did duty in the States twenty years ago to the effect that the Cobden Club was in the habit of supplying the Democrats with British Gold to enable them to secure the triumph of free trade. The only American money ever used in Canadian politics was that which Sir John got through Sir Hugh from the Chicago and New York men interested in the Pacific Railway charter, unless indeed Mr. Rykert put a little of the "stuff" from Sands into Lincoln.

A Peterborough Tourist's Travels.

A Month in the Tyne Valley An Interesting Letter from Mr David Spence at present in His English Home at Cosby Newcastle.

Mr. David Spence, who is spending the summer in the Tyne Valley, revisiting the home of his childhood, has written a letter to a friend in Peterborough. It can hardly be called a letter, it is more a journal. Many of its parts are full of interest especially to those whose calling made them most intimate with Mr. Spence in Peterborough. After dealing in detail with the incidents of his voyage, which is perhaps very like most other ocean voyages, Mr. Spence refers to his arrival in Walker-on-Tyne, and he must have had a hearty welcome for he writes:—

After my friends had heard of my arrival, the warmth of the welcome I received showed that if an absence of nine years did not make the heart grow fonder, it had not destroyed the love of former days. The morning after my arrival we were up a six o'clock and the house was invaded again, and I put in one solid day's talking—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday was just the same. I was that tired and fatigued I could not keep my eyes open. Last Thursday my sisters and I went to Newcastle to see the sights. We put in two hours in the art gallery, then we went to the museum where we spent three hours very pleasantly, and after a good look through the crates we took the train for home, arriving at 5:30 p.m. After supper my brother John and I started for another town to see a swimming entertainment. After seeing some more wonderful sights we made for home, arriving at 11:00 p.m. So you will see I had not much time to do anything yet. I met with a good many Freemasons here, and I have been treated as a brother in the highest and truest sense of the word. The doors of the different places soon began to open to me, but I will tell you more about that when I see you. I was entrusted with a letter of introduction to two of the gentlemen in the office of Wigham, Richardson & Co., Iron Shipbuilders. After a wait of a few minutes one of the gentlemen, who is an M.P., came out, and I was handed over into the charge of the under manager in the yard, and I must say a more thorough gentlemen never lived. He spent the whole forenoon with me, and showed me all over the shipyard. They had some very large ships on the stocks ocean liners. The machinery in ships here

IS SOMETHING GRAND.

I cannot describe it at all. They were boring out a cylinder here in an upright position, about 100 inches in diameter. They had some splendid steam cranes—they seem to do better here than any other kind, they are so quick, they run just like a locomotive. There were three of those on the one stock each lifting about 60 tons. The boilers are huge affairs all made of steel, about an inch and three-quarters thick. All the riveting is done by machinery, the boilers weighing from 50 to 55 tons each. You have no idea of the improvements that have been going on during the last few years here. I will mail you views of the engines they were busy with the day I visited—they did not count them very big. I was through several smaller places and that finished the day.

Tuesday, July 29.—All the previous days were spent among friends, so that was really the first day's work that I put in. On Wednesday, July 30th, 90, we went to Newcastle to look at the Cathedral and the Old Castle. On Thursday, July 31st, 90, I visited Sproat, Marley & Co.'s foundry at Hebburn-on-Tyne. They manufacture crucible steel castings, iron and brass. As I wanted to get to Jarrow-on-Tyne at noon I did not stay long. I forgot to mention that Mr. Fairlamb, the manager at Richardson's, was kind enough to give me a letter of introduction to Mr. Myers, the foreman moulder at the Palmer works, Jarrow. I got there when they commenced work in the afternoon, and was well received by Mr. Myers. He was very busy, but he stayed the whole afternoon with me. He gave me some good

WHOLESOME ADVICE ABOUT PRACTICAL MOULDING.

The trade has changed here altogether. Every iron foundry has a steel foundry alongside. We had a good look through the iron foundry. The work they do here is something wonderful. Engine castings up to thirty-five tons. They had just cast a very large casting in the morning, with brass metal. It would weigh about four tons. They have some splendid steam cranes. Mr. Myers ordered the engineer to run the crane up and down the shop for about half an hour till I was thoroughly satisfied that it was better than the other cranes which are run by both cables and shafting. We then went to a steal foundry. They had about eight or ten moulders going. It is all crucible steel at present, but they are busy constructing a plant to manufacture steel castings on a very large scale. At present they appear to have about sixteen or eighteen furnaces going. There was a good many small steel castings lying about. Mr. Myers ordered one of the men to bend one double like a piece of tin, which he did—no danger of breaking them. After that I had a look through the brass shop. They do some very heavy work here in brass. There was a very large traveling crane, and two jib cranes for lifting purposes, and about sixteen furnaces to melt brass. I was then conducted through the machine shops I can't begin to describe them at all. All their heavy castings are planed up and down, with large planers fixed to the side of the shop. A sixty-ton job is handled just as easily as a ten-ton one. There are about 8 000 (eight thousand) men employed in this establishment, so you will have some idea what it is like. They are busy at present enlarging the place. I saw some steel castings here for marine engines from four to eight tons weight. Before I left Mr. Myers gave me an invitation to be present with him at the annual picnic of the Newcastle and District Association of Foremen, Engineers and Draughtsmen, held on Saturday, August 2nd, in

THE ARMSTRONG PARK.

After thanking Mr. Myers for his kind invitation I left for home.

On Friday, August 1st, I went to visit the foundry of the North-Eastern Marine Company, by kind invitation of the foreman, Mr. H. Matthewson. I arrived there at noon and was shown through the machine shop. It was very much like Palmer's in many respects. They were planing and turning large cylinders, bed-plates and condenser, from ten tons to thirty. Here I saw band saws cutting iron and steel forgings as easily as the ones in Peterborough cut wood. I was then shown through the boiler shop, where I saw a good many steel boilers in process of construction, the largest of which was 14 feet, 6 inches in diameter and 1¼ inches thick. I was then taken into the foundry, where they turn out about 120 tons of castings weekly. I remained here till about seven at night, looking at the casting furnaces, Cranes and the loam and sand mills and all the machinery that is used for the quick production of castings. Every foundry has something new here. It would take a good while to see them. The main parts are the same however.

Saturday August 2nd, I spent all forenoon looking up some old friends and the afternoon I proceeded to the Armstrong Park to join the engineers and draughtsmen in the annual outing. I was received on arriving by Mr. Myers who very kindly introduced me to the principal men there and showed all the kindness it was possible for anyone to do. I think the Armstrong Park is one of the best that I have ever seen and that opinion is shared by almost everyone here who has travelled. After spending a few hours looking around the Park in which I did it very scanty justice I where there was a splendid spread. After satisfying the wants of the inner man, we went to look through the private grounds of Sir William Armstrong, they being open for the day. It was something grand, splendid grottoes with miniature waterfalls and magnificent conservatories. Here we saw some splendid oranges growing and other fruits and plants peculiar to tropical climates. It was something to be remembered. After seeing the above we went back to the banqueting hall, where the concert was to be given, and I must say I enjoyed myself thoroughly. When I got home at night I was in a condition to appreciate a good night's sleep. On Sunday August 3rd I went to church where we had excellent sermons. Monday August 4th was bank holiday here; there was excursions innumerable to every point of interest within a radius of fifty miles of this town.

Tuesday Aug. 5th—A good many of my friends went to Tynemouth for a day's outing. It is a splendid seaside resort. I however went to Shields in the morning to visit the engineering establishment of Wm. Black, by invitation of Mr. William Dairymple their manager, a gentleman whom I met at the picnic at the Armstrong Park on Saturday August 2nd. On arriving there he placed his services at my disposal and being accompanied by the foreman as we went through their various departments, I got all

THE PRACTICAL INFORMATION I REQUIRED.

I spent about three hours in this place. They have three foundries going all the time their capacity for turning out large work is something enormous. The moulders were busy with cylinders and condensers in dry sand, weighing from 10 to 17 tons. I was invited down again on the following Thursday to see the 27 ton one cast. I will endeavor to be there if my programme will admit of such a thing. I left at one o'clock highly pleased with my morning's walk. I then took the boat and crossed the river to Tynemouth and joined my friends and spent a pleasant afternoon at the seaside arriving home at 9 p.m. I will now conclude with with kindest regards to all inquiring friends.

UPRISING OF RED MEN.

American and Canadian Indians Capture Garden Island in Lake of the Woods

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15. A telegram from Rat Portage to-day says the steamer Thistle, belonging to the Red Fish Company, just arrived from Buffalo Bay, reports that a band of Indians 30 strong, under Chief Pawawassen and Flatmouth, cut the nets, stole the cookstove and forcibly took provisions of the camp. There were only seven whites, three unarmed, and the Indians were fully armed and covered with war paint. The Indians gave the company five days to get out everything or there would be trouble. The company has been in the habit of giving Indians fish offal but stopped and this is the primary cause of the trouble.

Superintendent of Indian Agencies McColl was seen by a reporter concerning the trouble. He said while he was attending to treaty payments in July he had heard no complaints regarding any fishing being done in the Canadian waters of Lake-of-the-Woods, but they claimed that the fisheries at Garden Island and near the mouth of Rainey River in American waters were depleting the lake of sturgeon, whitefish, pickerel and other varieties of food fish. They wanted to know if this fishing couldn't be stopped. Mr. McColl last week visited Hungry Hall on Rainy River, Sabaska, Big Island and Northwest Angle reserves as well as Garden Island in Lake of the Woods. Reid's fishing establishment is at the last named place. McColl found no disturbance nor semblance of such among the Indians over the fisheries or any other matters. They were invariably busily engaged picking blueberries and their whole energies seemed to be devoted to that work.

There were only two or three families of American Indians at Big Island when McColl was there and some of them left the same day as he did, that there cannot be more than half a dozen Americans there altogether.

When the boundary line between the United States and the British North American possessions was being determined it was intended to make it from the Lake of the Woods westward to the Pacific coast conform with the line of 49° north latitude. This line runs through the southwest angle of the Lake of the Woods. In describing the line a clerical error was made, the words "northwest angle" being used instead of "southwest angle." The error was taken advantage of by the United States, and consequently the boundary line puts up into British territory. Garden Island is situated in that portion of the lake within the bend of the boundary line, and is thus the property of the state of Minnesota.

BURGLARS CAPTURED.

Three Robberies Near Beamsville—An Exciting Chase.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 15. The house of Robert Shepherd, lot 9, 3 miles west of Beamsville was broken into Sunday afternoon during the absence of the family and about $6 in cash and two full suits of clothes stolen. The money was the hard earnings of a little girl and the clothes belonged to two of Mr. Shepherd's sons. Soon after the report reached the village, other news came of similar robberies on the lake shore. The house of John Holloway was entered and some $6 in cash taken. Scott Michael Lannan reported his house broken into and $15 and a silver watch gone. By this time suspicion rested on three strangers who had been seen in the vicinity. Constable Rodger started in pursuit in one direction. The thieves were finally boated near the Grand Trunk railway station, and at Clifford Thomas Walker and W. Everett, with Bob Rankin, chased the three fellows across the field and captured them in Mr. Morton's barn. They were searched and found to have on Shepherd's clothes, and in the pockets were the purses with the money. They showed where the watch was. They gave their names as William Adkins, James Mills and Adam Bowman all of Dundas. They were confined in the lockup here awaiting trial.

THE OARSMEN.

Results of the Last Day at Lake Quinsigamond

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 14. The second and last day of the National American Regatta was the occasion of six magnificent races. Muller of the first New York Athletic Association pair oar fainted when in the lead a mile from the finish, and the other crews passed them.

Senior sculls, [illegible] ½ mile straight; [illegible] Lawrence, time 10.18½; 2, E. J. Carney, Newark, N.J., time 10.34; 3, F. S. Hawkins, New York.

Junior singles, first heat 1, A. L. Bennett, Worcester, time 10.29; 2, F. Lehany Albany, time 10.36; 3, A. C. Dowling, Boston. 4, J. Wright, Toronto.

Junior fours, 1, Crescent B. C., Boston, time 9.39; 2, Narragansett B. C., Providence, time 9.39.

Fair oars, 1, Detroit B. C., time 10.18½; 2, New York A. C., time 10.31½; 3, N.W.A.C.C.

Double sculls—1, R. C. Bayside, Toronto; Arthur Cameron and Robert Curran, time 9.15; 2, R. C. Vacuum, Brooklyn, Platt and Frueth, time 9.12½.

Final heat, 8-oared shells, Atlantas, New York, won. Time 8.22. This time beats all previous records on still water. The record was 8.46. The result came somewhat as a surprise to the sports, as the crack Bradford crew started hot favorites. They were beaten 8 seconds.

THE FLOUR MARKET.

An Advance in Prices and Evidences of General Strength

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 14. The Northwestern Miller says: Owing to low water the flour output showed a further decline last week. The aggregate production was 136,75 barrels. Quotations of flour are nearly 30 to 40 cents per barrel higher than a week ago to meet the advance in wheat. While at the top the business done has been light, there was quite free selling of patents for New England at $5.30 to $5.75, and even now those who do not hold quite as high as others report a fair demand. The sales of patent for the week probably equalled or exceeded the manufacture. The foreign trade is restricted by high prices. Bakers' are in moderate request at $4.80 to $4.90, but most of the mills are either sold ahead or are desirous of closing up their books for the year before accepting such business. Generally considered the market is very strong. The direct export shipments for the week were 30,800 bbls.

NOT SATISFIED WITH TWO WIVES.

An Ex-Torontonian's Adventures on Both Sides of the Line.

MONTREAL, Aug. 14.—George B. Stock, who about eight years ago came to Montreal from Toronto, after failing in the oil business there, and got into various business troubles here, skipping out to the States after forging paper to a considerable amount, is a man of varied matrimonial experiences. He lived a double life here, having two wives and families. He was a prominent member of the Methodist Church. Stock went from Montreal to Watertown, N.Y., after failing to get a footing in Toronto and Ogdensburg. At Watertown, whither he had taken his wife, he met a Mr. Wood, a soap manufacturer at Dexter, a small town near there, and persuaded Mr. Wood to enter into partnership with him. Stock took up his residence in Mr. Wood's house, where he became acquainted with Mrs. Wood. A few weeks since Stock persuaded Mr. Wood to go to New York to buy some machinery. He did so, but when he returned it was only to find his wife gone and his house occupied by Mrs. Stock and her two children. His wife had eloped with Stock. Enquiry was set on foot and the couple were traced to Chicago, where they bought tickets for California. Thither Mr. Wood has gone in pursuit of his errant spouse.

Canadian detectives are also on their trail, and an effort will be made to have Stock extradited for the late forgery he committed here, that is if he can be caught.

What has become of the other Stock families is unknown.

CONGRESSIONAL ABSENTEEISM.

The Cause is Attributed in No Small Degree to Poker and Whist.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—The Tribune's special says. One cause of absenteeism in the House of Representatives has thus far been hidden, but the time seems to have come when it should be mentioned. It is not a secret to persons who have carefully examined the record of yeas and nays during the last few days that certain members who were daily seen at the Capitol have been frequently recorded as absent or not voting even when their votes were necessary to make a quorum. It has also been noted that these members have been absent on several occasions on a division of the House or a vote by tellers, which their presence would have created the necessity of a call of the House. There has been a suspicion that the cause of some of the absences could be sought and be found at the restaurants or within a short distance of the Capitol. Investigation in this line to some extent was promised. But to-day came a letter addressed to one and to have been discovered. It contained a note in some of the committee rooms of the House is in session. Poker and whist, the attractions which are said to have become so seductive as to have made grave statesmen forget the duties even in times of emergency. It is not alleged that all of the offenders are Republicans or Democrats, but on the contrary it is asserted that both parties are about equally represented. Perhaps it might be as well to have the games discontinued for a time or at least suspended during the daily sittings of the House.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Aug. 15.—For several years one Sidney Ashurth living on this vicinity has pretended to be the second Christ, and has drawn around him many followers. Among the many was one sweeter and purer than all the rest, and she was declared the only one who should be selected to be the mother. The girl became, age discovered that the coming woman would in a few weeks become a mother, and it was declared that she was still immaculate and that her condition was only a miracle. The citizens of Rockford took a different view of the matter and a delegation waited upon the town north, and informed him in not plain terms, if he did not marry the girl he would be tarred and feathered. A wedding then took place in Heaven as they call Ashurth's settlement and the preaching Christ is now a married man.

[illegible] Niagara Falls, Aug. 15.—William Gilbert, aged [illegible] was drowning bay at Rockaway Beach, [illegible] Sunday. It is thought he was attacked under by a shark. Fishermen have noticed an unusual number of sharks off Rockaway Beach of late.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase as $1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,864,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,628	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,897	10.36
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.38
North American	8,470,630	10.68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.94
Citizens	2 097,898	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5 723,100	20.12
London Life	1,644,285	20.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons is will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

A Chandelier Falls.

Last night while the choir of the Presbyterian church Keene, was practising in church, the chandelier, consisting of six lamps, fell to the floor a distance of about sixteen feet, breaking the lamps and spilling the oil. The oil took fire and the seats and floor were blackened somewhat before the fire was extinguished.

A Havelock Mishap.

Wednesday afternoon, at Havelock, says the Review, a son of Mr. William Mathison fell and broke his right arm at the wrist and his left arm at the wrist and elbow. Dr. Ford was summoned, and together with Dr. Jeffs are doing all they can to relieve the sufferings of the unfortunate young man.

St. Joseph's Hospital.

The formal opening of St. Joseph's Hospital, Ashburnham, will take place on Wednesday, August 20th at 2.30 p.m. It is expected that His Lordship Bishop Dowling, of Hamilton formerly Bishop of Peterborough and Rev. Father McEvay Rector of St. Mary's Cathedral, Hamilton, formerly Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, and Chancellor of the diocese of Peterborough, will be present on the occasion.

Grooming the Golden Lion.

Great improvements are going at the hair of the Golden Lion, Mr. R. Fair's dry goods establishment. For the whole depth of the building about five feet have been added to the width of it by removing the stairs, and owing to the increasing business of the dressmaking establishment the increase of space was absolutely necessary to get more room which has been secured. The whole interior will be brightened, repainted and generally improved. The repairs are in the hands of Mr. James Graham.

Willow and Wicket.

An eleven composed of the Colts and Veterans went up to-day to play Lakefield.

The Belleville Intelligencer thus explains the result of the cricket match on Civic Holiday: The local club, lacking several of their best players—particularly in the bowling department—were compelled to face the strong team from Peterborough with a weak eleven. The result was their defeat by an innings and 97 runs. Belleville's score was 32 and 47. Peterborough made 176.

Perfectly Correct

The Belleville Ontario thus refers to the visitors who went to that city on the combined C. M. B. A. and E. B. A excursion on Civic Holiday: "The Peterborough excursionists to the number of some four hundred arrived in the city by special train yesterday, as was recorded in last night's issue, and spent a pleasant day in the Bay City. There was a good sprinkling of pretty girls, just enough to make one feel that Peterborough must be a good place for a fellow to live. They were so able-appearing, too, and the boys seemed to appreciate their value."

Horticultural Exhibition.

The date of the annual exhibition of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Horticultural Society has been fixed at Wednesday September 4th. The show will be held in the hall of the new market building which will be admirably adapted to the display of the fine exhibits of the society which will, it is confidently expected, be the best yet made under the auspices of the society. Travellers who have visited every part of the Dominion say that Peterborough is the best shaded and most floral town in the Dominion, which being correct, should result in a phenomenally excellent exhibit of the society. It is to be hoped that the citizens generally and those interested in horticulture and floriculture especially, will take an active interest in making the coming exhibition the very best of the series.

Town Finances.

There was a meeting of the Finance Committee of the town council last night, and considerable progress was made in striking the rate. It is pretty certain that the rate will be a mill or two higher this year than last, for which there are very good reasons. The increase in the town rate proper, which will however, be very small, is due to extension of hydrants and electric lights, and the building of a new powder magazine whose cost will draw on this year's taxation. But the bulk of the increase is due to the unusually large demands for funds for school support. High taxation is not a desirable thing on general principles, but the sting is largely taken out of it if we can feel that we have something in the way of increased benefit as a quid pro quo.

Stony Lake Pebbles.

A gentleman who is well acquainted with Stony Lake affairs, he occupying a cottage there, says there are 83 cottages occupied on the several islands in the lake and that every evening some five or six hundred persons are out sailing, paddling, rowing and fishing on the inland dotted waters.

It is stated on the best authority that within the last dozen years, over half a million salmon and white fish fry have been put into the waters of Stony and connected lakes, and up to the present there is no record of any of either variety being caught. In the case of the whitefish their immunity from capture is explained. Whitefish will not take bait and net fishing for them is forbidden by law, so that unless they rise out of the water and give themselves up, there is no means of securing them. Perhaps the fry mentioned, serve as food for maskinonge, thus explaining why none of the artificial fish grow up and why the maskinonge attains such a formidable size in these waters.

Quartette of Pleasure Seekers.

Four Rochester, N.Y., gentlemen arrived in town to day en route to spend a fortnight's holidays on the waters of our northern lakes. They were Messrs. R. Salter, James Fitt, V. Aspenlater and Joseph A. Crane. They were met at the station by Mr. D. Bellegheim, and the quartette being "square," the Masonic brethren in the higher latitudes of the craft, took them in charge and drove them all around the town, and showed the visitors every possible attention. They were very favourably impressed with the beauty and thrift of the town, and expressed themselves as favourable—indeed, anxious for the annexation of the United States to Canada. They are all jolly good fellows, and their experience of the morning in town doubtless gave them the impression that the Peterborough gentlemen they encountered are also good fellows and that they were brothers, all. This afternoon Mr. Bellegheim drove the party to Chemong, where they will spend three or four days. Mr Bellegheim will accompany the party as their guide, counsellor, companion and friend during their further pleasure pursuing peregrinations, which will include a few days at each of the following places:—Bobcaygeon, Buckhorn, Burleigh and Stony Lake. This route will consume the best part of a fortnight, after which they will return to Rochester and life's realities. While in town the Rochester gentlemen met many who will wish them a pleasant fortnight's outing in the pure air of Ontario, and on the brightest and prettiest waters on the continent.

Board of Education.

Special Meeting of the Board Held on Friday Night Routine Business.

A special meeting of the Board of Education was held on Friday evening. There present:—Mrs. J. Stevenson, chairman, Dr. Burnham, Dr. Boucher, Messrs. Hill, Denne, Ferguson, McKee, Hamilton, Headburn, Corkery and Dumble.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

The following communications were received:—From D. Appleton & Co, respecting their Cyclopedias, a copy of which the Board decided to purchase.

From Miss Maggie Macdonald, for a position on the teaching staff of the North Ward School.—Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From Geo. C. Roth, boiler inspector, stating that the Central School boiler needed general repair—a new arch, at the fire box door the top should be cleaned, ill and the plate examined—the safety valve should be free and the water gauge connections put in good order, and other repairs were needed. Property Committee.

From Rev. A. C. Wilson, asking the board to permit his son and daughter to attend the Collegiate Institute on the same terms as town pupils.—Received.

From Morphy & Millar, solicitors, Toronto, claiming, on behalf of Mr. J. H. Long, late principal of the Collegiate Institute, a balance of salary amounting to $55, with interest. In case an immediate (and presumably favourable) reply was not received, suit would be entered. The demand was declined and the secretary instructed to reply.

ACCOUNTS

were received as follows:—

APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Dumble presented the report of the Committee on Appointments, as follows:—

The Committee on Appointments beg leave to submit and recommend to the board the following appointments:—

Miss Broad to take Miss McLeod's place; Miss Lizzie McDonald, Miss Davidson's; Miss Martin, Miss Peters; Miss Lough, Miss McDonald's (South Ward); Miss Faulkner, Miss Martin's; Miss Creba, Miss Rutherford's.

The appointment of Miss McDonald, Miss Faulkner and Miss Creba to be for the ensuing half year, on trial.

Your committee cannot recommend any change in the salaries of Miss Beckett and Miss McLennan until their position is established, when, it is recommended, that they be paid the same salaries as teachers doing the same work in other schools.

As touching the application of Mr. Ketchum, your committee are at present unable to report as they will require to confer with the teachers before they can satisfactorily consider it.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. W. DUMBLE,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

Dr. Tilley called attention to the fact that one of the teaching staff was still without the necessary qualifications and if the board desired that this teacher remain in their service, he would have to apply to the Education Department, for a permit till, at furthest, Christmas.

Dr. Boucher insisted that it was unfair to teachers who spent their time and money to qualify themselves for their work, to suffer competition from those not so qualified, except by favour.

Mr. Dumble said that in this case, the teacher, apart for the technical qualification was exceptionally successful as a teacher and it was on the results of her teaching that the idea of retaining her services was entertained.

On motion, the Inspector was requested to apply to the department for a permit, good till Christmas.

The Board adjourned.

Equal Rights.

The topic of the day and that which we all want is not only Equal Rights in a political sense of the word, but in many others. Here are people throwing away their hard earned money, with no principled house who do not as much a thank them for it. Why should they do it? Why not call on W. J. Morrow, where you are received courteously, your money placed to a good advantage and you are placed on a solid basis in future for buying cheap groceries. dw

Church Chimes.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.—At St. Peter's Cathedral, Roman Catholic, there will be two masses celebrated, the first at 8 a.m., the second at 10.30 a.m. Vespers at 7 p.m.

ST. JOHN'S MISSION.—11th Sunday after Trinity, Aug. 17th 3 p.m., Sunday School; 7 p.m., Evening Service and Sermon. All welcome.

CHARLOTTE ST CHURCH.—Rev. S. J. Shorey, Pastor. Services:—11 a.m., Rev. S. J. Shorey; 7 p.m., Rev. Amand Parent, who was for eight years missionary to the Oka Indians. Sunday School 2.30.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST CHURCH.—Sunday, Aug. 17th. Rev. Jos. H. Locke, Pastor. Service at 11 a.m., Rev. Amand Parent, French Canadian Evangelist, Montreal. Service, 7 p.m., the Pastor. Sunday School at 2.30.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—11th Sunday after Trinity, Aug. 17th. 8.30 a.m., Holy Communion; 11 a.m., Matins, Litany and Sermon; 3 p.m., Sunday School; 7 p.m., Evensong and Sermon. Ushers on duty: Harry Long, R. A. W. Hay, E. B. Loucks and W. H. Roberts. Strangers and others always welcome.

ST. LUKE'S ASHBURNHAM.—Eleventh Sunday after Trinity. Morning Prayer and Holy Communion at 11 a.m.; Sunday school and Bible class at 3 p.m.; evening Prayer and sermon at 7 p.m. Services conducted by the Rev. J. W. McCleary. All seats free and strangers are welcome.

MARK STREET METHODIST CHURCH (Ashburnham).—Services conducted by the pastor, Rev. A. C. Wilson. Eleven a.m. subject, "Jesus consoling the sisters of Lazarus"; seven p.m. subject, "God pleading with the Ten Tribes." Free pews. All welcome. Messrs. W. A. Smith and T. Brady, ushers.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.—Sunday, August 17th. Rev. John Hay, B.D., of Cobourg, will conduct the services and preach both morning and evening, Rev. Mr. Torrance exchanging pulpits with Rev. Mr. Hay.

Lakefield "Chronicles."

Rev. Mr. McKwen arrived home Tuesday night.

Mr. Jas. Elward, of Bombay, N.Y., (formerly of Lakefield), is spending a few days in the village.

Reeve Casement is expected home Saturday evening, pressing municipal and private business necessitating his early return.

On Sunday last Rev. C. B. Kenrick officiated at St. John's Church, Lakefield. Rev. Mr. Warren taking his place at St. John's, Peterborough.

Rev. James McFarlane, of Keene, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist Church Sunday last, Rev. Mr. Johnson officiating at Keene.

Miss Annie Everest, of Uxbridge, has been engaged as teacher in the ward school. She is a graduate of Ladies' Moulton College, Toronto, and comes with high testimonials as regards social and teaching abilities.

A very pleasant lawn social took place at the residence of Mrs. J. L. Madill on Thursday evening last, under the auspices of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church. The grounds were brightly illuminated and tastefully decorated with flowers, &c. Mrs (Dr.) Harrison, of Keene, Mr. Ballantine, Montreal, and W. A. Eastland and Wm. Heneren, contributed to a very interesting and entertaining programme. The proceeds of the evening were very encouraging to the ladies.

Omemee "Heraldry."

Mr. and Mrs. C. Holmes, of Peterborough, were in Omemee on Thursday.

Mr. Jackson, of the Peterborough Organ and Piano Co., was in Omemee on Wednesday

Master William McCaffrey has gone to Peterborough to take a course in the business College.

Mr. and Mrs. M. McGregor, of the "Waverly House," Lindsay, were in Omemee a couple of days this week.

In front of Mr. Thos. Rowan's residence can be seen a mountain ash tree of immense dimensions. It is about 6 inches at the trunk and over the lattice work on which it rests, it spreads ten by forty feet. It is worth calling to see.

Mr. George Lamb, of the Omemee tannery has made large additions to his already munster establishment, and this week he has had placed therein a powerful engine.

What has become of the street lamps? Is there no oil in Omemee? Why waste money on improvements and not use them, they are much needed these nights? If the streets were lit up, there would not be so much rowdyism. The city fathers should attend to this and also to the state of the sidewalks; if they have to pay for broken legs then the sidewalks will be fixed. Wake up and attend to these matters and lots of others that need it. Where was our Chief of Police on Tuesday night, when the wheelbarrow race was on?

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Young men's meeting to-night at 8 p.m. Short addresses by Mr. Wm. Wallbrook and General Secretary. Hearty singing.

News Nuggets.

—There was a fairly large market this morning.

—The supply of water in some of the public wells of Port Hope has given out.

—Local sportsmen can now go out in pursuit of woodcock, the season for which opened yesterday.

—The work of re-cribbing the banks of the Murray canal goes on steadily, but cannot be finished this season.

—The mayor's proclamation, fixing Tuesday afternoon next, August 19th, a half holiday in Port Hope, has been issued.

—The summer resort exodus has changed very largely into an invasion of returning pleasure-seekers.

—As a result of the Dominion Act requiring all spirituous liquors manufactured in Canada to remain two years in bond unduth there are at present eleven million gallons in bond.

—Between ten and eleven million feet of lumber are now piled up in M. M. Boyd & Co.'s yards at Bobcaygeon awaiting shipment, and a large cut will yet be made before the season closes.

—It is announced that the author of "Thoth," and "A Dreamer of Dreams," is Prof. Nicholson, of Edinburgh University. If we are not mistaken Prof. Nicholson was connected with Toronto University some fifteen years ago and returned to Edinburgh.

This a word not very often used in private conversation, but it has a deep meaning whose least use is not to remind the public of the fact that Hawley Bros keep the best teas in the market. Pure in quality exquisite flavour and reasonable in price. No housekeeper having once used their teas or this firm's fine coffees will use any other. dw

Reeve Bottum's Illness.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says that on Wednesday of last week the reeve, E. Bottum, Esq., was taken suddenly ill in Lindsay. Medical assistance being called he was pronounced to be suffering from an attack of congestion of the brain, caused, it is supposed, by sunstroke, as he complained on Monday of symptoms of something of that character. He was brought home on Saturday night, having to be conveyed to and from the boat with the greatest care. He was doing well on Monday, but the noise and racket of drums and bands on Tuesday seriously disturbed him, as the utmost quiet and repose are necessary to his recovery. His condition on Wednesday was critical, but the last report is more favourable, and hopes are entertained of his pulling through safely.

Lines

Written on the Death of Elizabeth Mary, Beloved Wife of Mr. William John Little, who Died June 13th, 1890.

(Published by request.)

Our sister has gone to her rest,
And entered the heavenly fold,
The King in His beauty to see
And to walk the streets of gold.

Yes, she has crossed the dark tide—
The boatman has taken her o'er,
And now with happy spirits bright
She dwells on that blissful shore.

How blessed to know in days of youth
Her heart to Jesus was given,
And now with loved ones gone before,
There she rest secure in heaven.

Sister, thy face no more we'll see
In this word of grief and pain:
In heaven we hope to see thy face,
And there with our Jesus reign.

Sister, thy voice no more we'll hear
Singing praises to thy King,
But in the heavenly choir above
May we with the angels sing.

In that land that has no sorrow,
In that land so free from care,
There our sister's gone before us
To enjoy those mansions fair.

She has heard the Saviour calling
Daughter, now thy work is done,
Come and share my heavenly mansion,
And receive thy starry crown

Dearest sister, thou hast left us,
For a fair and nobler clime,
Where temptation never enter,
Now a happier lot is thine

In the church we greatly miss thee,
At the organ, in the song,
But we hope again to greet thee,
In the bliss of heaven ere long.

In the home thy place is vacant,
Thou art missed by all around,
But thy name in yonder city,
In the Book of Life is found.

Though dear friends here left do sorrow,
O'er the loss they have sustained,
They've the cheering consolation,
She eternal life hath gained.

May her dear children she loved so well
And husband so kind and true,
Meet mother and wife in the better land,
Where our God makes all things new.

Manitoba Harvest Prospects Ontario Appointments A $10,000 Fire.

TORONTO, Aug. 16.—The Monetary Times of yesterday in an article reviewing the crop prospects says: In view of the great and widely spread interest taken in the harvest prospects of Manitoba we have taken some pains to secure from well-informed persons in Winnipeg information to the latest moment concerning the condition of crops and the area actually harvested in that province. A telegram dated Winnipeg, Thursday, Aug. 14, received here at 4 last evening, is of the following tenor: As nearly as can be learned 75 per cent. of the barley acreage, 30 per cent. of the wheat and perhaps 5 per cent. of the oats in this province has been cut to date. Harvesting is general throughout the province. The weather is splendid, and prospects never better. No damage from frost is reported.

In the Police Court yesterday Luther B. Wilks arrested on a charge of bigamy, pleaded not guilty and was remanded till Wednesday.

Bro. Munn, one of the delegates to the I.O.O.F. Grand Lodge, has been attacked with diphtheria.

The police here have been notified of an alleged artist who has been victimizing people at Niagara Falls, N.Y. He claims to have letters from Cardinal Gibbons and from a well-known family in the south.

Scott & Cross planing and sash mill and two or three small tenement houses on Hayter-street were totally destroyed by fire early yesterday morning. Four or five other houses fronting on Hayter-street were badly gutted and several large piles of lumber ruined. The loss, which will be fully $10,000, is partially covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is not known.

The Ontario Gazette to-day contains these notices: C. H. Britton, East Toronto, is appointed associate coroner for the County of York; J. F. Woodworth, Toronto, notary public; Jacob Stevenson, Thessalon, bailiff Third Division Court of Algoma.

Companies incorporated: "The Berlin Piano Company, limited," capital stock $100,000, in $100 shares; promoters: H. F. Janzen, Jacob Kaufman, B. S. Hallman, L. J. Breithaupt, Martin Nelson, Senator S. Merner. "The Hanover Spring Bed and Upholstering Company, limited," capital stock $50,000, in $100 shares, promoters: E. V. Goodeve, Thomas Telford, Robert Pall, Daniel Knechtel, H. H. Miller, Christopher Myers.

FOUR FATAL FALLS.

A Hamilton Woman Jumps from a Roof Slipped from a Scaffold.

HAMILTON, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Adam Ballantyne, aged 45, who was mind because seriously affected by la grippe last winter, jumped from the roof of her house to the ground, a distance of 40 feet, at an early hour yesterday morning and was instantly killed.

Henry Aderholdt, a mason, fell from a scaffold at Crockett & Sons' new tobacco factory yesterday afternoon, a distance of 40 feet to the ground. Death was instantaneous. Aderholdt was 36 years old and leaves a family.

Fred Penfold, a stableman, walked out of a window in the hayloft of the Green House stable Thursday night. His spine was paralyzed, and though he may live a long time he will be as helpless as an infant.

W. A. Sproat, a Barton township farmer, fell from a rafter on the floor of his barn Thursday afternoon. He was injured internally and it is feared will not recover.

Good Form in Dress

Social usage imposes certain rules as to dress which are carefully observed by men of good breeding and good sense.

Dress is not the most important object in life, but due observance of the rules of dress adds much to the comfort and refinement of life, and to a considerable extent, marks the difference between gentlemen and those who are not gentlemen.

Good form of dress is of course a matter of fashion and fashions vary. Should you ever be in doubt as to what is suitable call on us and we will give you safe advice on many controverted points, and on new fashions in attire that usually call for a good deal of consideration and caution. Therefore.—

DON'T go to extremes in your dress. Dress quietly. Overdressed men are always despised as frivolous.

DON'T be slovenly in your dress. Neatness is a duty you owe to society.

DON'T disregard that "good form" in dress which custom has fixed. Conformity to social usage in dress as well as in more essential matters is part of good manners.

DON'T wear a silk hat with a sack coat. It is a social crime.

DON'T above all things order your clothing until you have seen our stock. We show every desirable Fabric, Broadcloths, Cheviots, Doeskins, Tweeds, Fine, Plain and Fancy Worsteds, and as to Patterns—well, we can give you what you want, no matter what it is.

AN OLD MURDER RECALLED BY A RECENT ARREST.

Poor Maria Colville's Fate A Tragedy that in Some Features Resembles the Roswell Mystery Cardinal Smith Charged with the Crime.

SIMCOE, Aug. 16. In December 1881, the decomposed remains of a young woman were found in the Cedar Swamp in the township of Townsend, lying west of the village of Bloomsburg. The affair attracted some attention at the time, as it was made very clear that the unfortunate girl had been murdered.

Her name it was ascertained was Maria Colville, and her home had been in Caledonia. The Government offered a liberal reward for the conviction of her slayer, but no arrest was made, though there was a good deal of idle talk floating around implicating one Cardinal Smith, a notorious character, who had been keeping a disreputable resort in the vicinity of Jarvis, with some complicity in the crime.

The excitement, however, soon died out, and poor Maria Colville was apparently left to be unavenged and forgotten.

It would seem by recent developments, however, that one person had not been discouraged at the difficulty of clearing up the mystery of her death.

Lemuel Kitchen, a farmer, who lives near to where her remains were found, has seen shortly before their discovery Smith and the young woman driving through the swamp, and he at least was certain that Smith knew more than he cared to tell.

From that time until the present he has not ceased his vigilance. Gathering up a thread of evidence here and another there, he now claims to have woven a coil of testimony around Smith that will lead to his conviction. What he may know, of course, is not yet public property, but he has at least satisfied Magistrate Ketchum, who issued a warrant on Thursday last.

Constable Clarke made the arrest near Hagersville, and on Saturday night Smith was a prisoner in Simcoe jail charged with the murder of Maria Colville.

A NEW KIND OF SERPENT.

The Paralyzing Sea Monster seen by Veracious Skipper Knowlton.

HALIFAX, Aug. 16. Capt. Obed Knowlton of the schooner Trader, reports that while on his way from Boston he sighted what he supposed to be the wreck of a vessel. He bore down on it, when to his astonishment he discovered it to be the dead carcass of a gigantic sea monster, unlike anything he had ever seen before. His vessel got within 12 feet of it. It seemed to be about 80 feet long and 30 feet broad, and was covered with shell on its back. The monster tapered off at each end and was striped like a zebra. It had the appearance of being run into by a vessel, as the shell on its back was broken in

Toronto Topics.

TORONTO, Aug. 18. The introduction of an organ at the Jewish synagogue in Richmond street has led to angry discussion and some bitterness of feeling on the part of a small minority of the congregation. At a special meeting held yesterday, at which 40 feet were present, it was voted by 40 to 5 to retain the instrument.

The position of hide inspector, left vacant by the death of ex-Ald. Pegler, has been filled by the appointment of Mr. F. W. Thompson.

Joseph Bullock was arrested last night under the Charlton Act, for the alleged seduction of his 15-year-old step-daughter, Jennie Beatty. Bullock's wife died a year ago last March and Jennie's child was born last week.

An Unknown Man Found Dead.

BRADFORD, Aug. 16. This morning the body of an unknown man was found in the Holland River. He is about 70 years of age, five feet ten inches high, perfectly grey, dressed in dark clothes, the coat and vest being made out of striped duck. The lower portion of the left side of the face is eaten away by cancer, and he is badly ruptured. There is nothing on his person by which he can be identified. He is a perfect stranger to everybody here. Anything are no marks of violence on the body, it is considered that the man committed suicide.

Wanted in Hamilton.

BUFFALO, Aug. 15. Some time ago a boy named Mark Tompkins, aged 9 years, robbed a man in Hamilton, Ont., of $300 and then came to Buffalo. Word was sent to the Buffalo police and yesterday Detectives Speed Lyon located him at the home of his sister. He and Acting Sergeant Kress went there about 9 a.m. and despite the protests of the woman, who insisted that there was nobody in the house, started an entrance and found the youthful criminal in bed. He was taken to Hamilton this morning.

Something for Harrison.

KANSAS county, Idaho, has a sheep that would make a good match for the one described in the Republic on Sept. 21 last. This Idaho wonder is the property of James Johnston of Round Valley and was a year old on May 22. It has but two legs, both on the hinder part of the body, and constantly walks erect much after the manner of a kangaroo. The legs and tail are as smooth as those of a dog, not showing the least trace of wool. The head is woolly and is provided with but one eye, which solitary optic is set in the centre of the head. The shoulders and place where the forelegs should be are as woolly as the head, extending back to where the smooth, dog-like hair begins.—St. Louis Republic.

Suicide of a Millionaire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16. Millionaire Joseph A. Jamieson of Jamieson, Smith & Co., bankers and brokers of this city, committed suicide to-day at the palatial residence of his sister, Mrs. Cutting, in Fifth avenue by hanging. Temporary insanity caused by illness is given as the cause.

Killed at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Aug. 16.—A man named Laurou was killed in the yard at Bonaventure station between 12 and 1 to-day. He was under the train examining axles when a sudden start was made, the wheels passing over him, severing his head and body.

Cleveland Cigarmakers on Strike.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 17.—A general strike of cigarmakers began last night. About 400 men are out. The strike is for an advance of $1 per thousand for making all grades of cigars—all now paid range from $3 to $4 per thousand.

A FRESH COMPLICATION.

THE NEW YORK CENTRAL TROUBLE FURTHER AGGRAVATED.

The Action of the Buffalo Switchmen Brings a New Labor Organization Into the Strike—Pinkerton Men Fire Into the Crowd at Albany.

BUFFALO, Aug. 16.—The strike on the New York Central Road was further complicated this morning. At 3 o'clock the switchmen in the Central yards struck work and those on the West Shore system in this city followed suit. There are upwards of 200 men in the movement and a freight blockade at last Buffalo is imminent. The closing of the West Shore Road for freight is the most serious aspect thus far, as it completely cripples the Central's facilities for forwarding freight.

There was the worst tangle of trains and engines in the Central depot this morning that has been seen since the strike began. A week ago this morning West Shore and Central engines crowded every track from the north to the south side of the depot and for a long distance east. The belt line train, due at 8 o'clock, stopped at Chicago street and the passengers walked in as they did from the same train last Saturday morning. All passenger trains on all roads entering the Central depot were behind time this morning and the big train house presents as confused a spectacle as at any time since the strike began. The Michigan Central through train due to leave here at the east away at 9½, and other trains were even further delayed. No information could be had at the Central offices. Superintendent Burrows and Trainmaster Maloney were out at East Buffalo.

One of the men about the depot was asked what caused the switchmen to go out. "Here's all there is to it," was the reply. "A crew of men were ordered around here from the Erie and refused but might to take the place of strikers in the train house. They came, but did not like the job and sent a delegation to Supt. Burrows, asking him to send them back to the Exchange depot, as they, being union men, objected to being detailed to take the places of brother unionists out on strike. Mr. Burrows was determined that they should act as he desired and they struck. I guess the rest of the men were with them and will stand by them. So don't be surprised if you hear something drop. I don't know anything about the firemen going out. I only know the switchmen are out at Black Rock and East Buffalo on both the Central and West Shore roads."

The action of the switchmen gives a new phase to the Central strike. It has now spread beyond the Knights of Labor. The men who went out this morning are members of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association, an organization extending all over the country. It has a membership of about 800 in this city. Comparatively few switchmen are in the Knights of Labor here.

It was Grand Master Sweeney of the switchmen's organization, who ordered this morning's strike. He arrived here last night. It is said by the men that the strike is likely to extend all over the Vanderbilt system if the trouble here is not speedily settled, and that it certainly will spread should an effort be made to have non-union switchmen handle Central or West Shore trains.

It was also stated that should roads outside the Vanderbilt system consent to take Central freight the switchmen on those outside roads will be called out. In this connection it is reported that the Erie road has refused to handle Central freight, fearing trouble with its switchmen. These facts surrounding the fact that the switchmen's strike is greatly added to the gravity of the situation.

BLOODSHED AT ALBANY.

A Freight Train Stoned The Pinkertons Reply With Bullets.

ALBANY, Aug. 16. Early this evening a [illegible] was [illegible] through the [illegible] part of the city [illegible] Central train. Two of the [illegible] on the [illegible] case, one of the [illegible] ankle of John Mc[illegible] standing near by [illegible] Tyler, James [illegible] three of [illegible]

[illegible] January, [illegible] was taken into [illegible] man named [illegible] walking up the [illegible] a loaded gun [illegible] and pulled. The [illegible] Mc[illegible] ball entered the [illegible] ankle and [illegible] coming out [illegible] when rescued from the anger of the crowd by the police, who were obliged to draw their revolvers to stem the crowding mass of people. One police had his coat torn off him in the fight. Hatton was taken to the station house when after his wounds were dressed by the police surgeon he was locked up on the charge of assault in the second degree. Hatton would surely have suffered death had the police not come to his assistance when they did.

These occurrences aroused the passions of the spectators, mostly roughs and hoodlums, as nothing else has since the strike was declared. Their number increased, and the chief of police fearing further trouble established his headquarters in the station house nearby and placed all the reserves at that point. At interval after, three freight trains came down from West Albany past the crossing on their way to New York. About 5 o'clock one of these trains passed through the city which the Pinkertons say was stoned. The police claim such was not the case. At any event, when the train reached the Broadway viaduct the Pinkertons on top of the freight cars carrying Winchester rifles began a reckless fusilade on the crowd standing in that vicinity. Four or five shots were fired without any provocation and resulted in the injury of an innocent party. Mrs. Thomas Hogan was standing on the stoop of her residence on a near-by corner when a shot struck her in the right thigh. The train went right on and the miscreants escaped. Mrs. Hogan was carried to her room, where the ball was extracted, and physicians say she will recover.

After this incident Robert Pinkerton, who has had charge of his forces here in person, called on Chief Willard. He said his men had been assaulted continually and that the firearms had been put in their possession only yesterday, that they might be used when necessary in self defence and in the work of protecting the company's property, which task had been allotted to him. He declared his readiness to turn over to the police any of his men who had committed a crime and promised to investigate the shooting of Mrs. Hogan. He was sorry innocent parties had suffered, and added that it generally happened that way. Still he would stand by his men against the wanton attacks of the roughs.

Chief Willard expressed the belief that if the Pinkerton men had never been brought here the local police would have been abundantly able to cope with the situation. As it is, he fears there will be further trouble as long as these men stay here, and said in that event the local authorities could not be held responsible as he had repeatedly informed Superintendent Bissell that the company's property would be well guarded by his own men if no outside forces were brought here to inflame the passions of the sympathizers of the strikers.

While the two chiefs were talking a third victim was brought into the station house. He was Frank Park, aged 18, and had been shot in the right arm above the elbow by one of the Pinkerton men on a freight train which passed through at 4 o'clock. This assailant also escaped, the train continuing on its way. This assault was unprovoked. The boy claims to have been sitting on a post near a canal boat lying in the little basin on which he is an employe.

A Pinkerton man who fired into the crowd at the Van Wiert-street crossing was pursued up the tracks to West Albany by Officer Dunn and captured. The officer brought his prisoner back to the city by train on the understanding that the engineer would stop and let them off near the station house. The train was not stopped, however, but continued on over the bridge to East Albany, where a crowd of Pinkerton men rescued the prisoner and handled the officer rather badly.

The Lake Shore Anticipates no Trouble.

DETROIT, Aug. 16.—The officials of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern road say no trouble is anticipated with their employes here.

The Situation in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Trains arrived and left the Grand Central depot to-day on regular time. No freight was started out to-day, but it is announced that freight will be received to-morrow at all the freight yards and regular freight trains started.

THE N. W. STATES WHEAT CROP.

Estimates Now Place the Quantity at 93,000,000 Bushels

ST. PAUL, Aug. 16.—Colonel G. D. Rogers, Editor of The Market Record, having made a survey of the field, to-day estimates the wheat crop of Minnesota and the Dakotas. He has gone over all three States and made county averages. He says:

Reports of threshing in Southern Minnesota, and in central parts, are general and from such measurement, it is found that the crop is yielding from fifteen to twenty bushels an acre in portions that went some two or four bushels more last year. That is particularly true of the timber sections, where the yield was heavy in 1889. Several of the Mississippi River counties as well as many others in the Southern tiers, put into wheat 50 per cent more land than they did last year. The reports rate six to fourteen bushels an acre, and if the state were averaged at that the result would be about 46,000,000 bushels for Minnesota. From general information it does not appear that the average would go more than about thirteen bushels to the acre, or in round numbers 43,000,000 bushels of wheat for this State, against 48,000,000 bushels last year. The yield in South Dakota, so far as known from threshing, is satisfactory in the southern part of the State, and in the north half there is the eastern tier of counties that produce a fair crop, and some along in other places, while the northern central portions do not exceed 50 per cent of a fair yield. The yield does not probably exceed 16 bushels. In North Dakota in most some heavy grain and some light. In the northern portion of the State wheat is expected to yield twenty bushels in large areas, while a little south of there and west are portions very light. In the Red River Valley there is a large amount of good wheat that will probably reach fifteen bushels, while in Ramsay and some other counties it will not probably reach more than seven bushels, but the most widely cultivated regions are where the grain is better, and that State will probably yield 18½ bushels, which would give both Dakotas a production of about 50,000,000 bushels, making for the three States of Minnesota and North and South Dakota 93,000,000 bushels. More extended threshing may call for some revision.

Uncle Sam's Fiscal Policy.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Gen. Nettleton, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, spent some time to-day in consultation with the President upon the fiscal policy of the Government. It had been generally expected some change would be announced to-day in the Government's policy with reference to bond purchase, but after leaving the President Gen. Nettleton said there would be no change for the present. There might be some modification of this policy in the near future, however.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 16.—A meeting of the creditors of George Dunster, lumber merchant and contractor, was held yesterday in the office of Messrs. Knight & Brown. The creditors were about all represented, and included lumbermen from Toronto, Barrie, Woodham, Walkerton, Victoria Harbor, Paris and Hamilton. The liabilities were shown to be about $10,000, while the assets will scarcely reach $3,000. This statement of Dunster's affairs, considering that he has only been in business two years, startled the meeting. The creditors were perplexed and endeavored to obtain from Dunster a more satisfactory statement of his affairs, but without success. It will be remembered that Dunster claimed he was robbed a short time ago of $2300, but the creditors yesterday seemed inclined to doubt this. Last January Dunster gave the bank a statement showing a surplus of $17,000, but the books showed yesterday a shortage of over $7000. The meeting voted to continue Mr. J. H. Brown as assignee and the estate will be wound up. Messrs. D. Peacock, Woodstock, and R. Gillis of Gillis Bros., Paris, were appointed inspectors.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICKS.

POTENTATES HUNGERING FOR A SLICE OF TURKEY

It Is said That the Dominion of the Sultan Will Soon Be Divided Caprivi and De Giers to be Present at the Conference of Their Sovereigns.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—A report prevails in diplomatic quarters that, a dissolution of the Turkish Empire having become inevitable, Emperor William's visit to his imperial relatives and neighbors have been undertaken with a view of securing, if possible, a peaceful division of Turkey among the interested powers, thus settling the Eastern question for many years to come. Concerning this Earl Granville, who was Mr. Gladstone's Foreign Secretary, said to-day:

"If anyone was to collect from day to day the evidence furnished by the telegrams from Turkey as to the condition of the Ottoman administration he would be convinced that nothing short of a miracle keeps the Turkish Empire in existance. Recently, for example, it was reported from Constantinople that the spread of brigandage in Asia Minor is so serious that additional troops must be sent to protect the workmen constructing railroads. The state of Anatolia has been much the same for the last 12 years. The Administration is powerless alike to preserve order and to carry on the ordinary work of government. Only a few days ago attention was called to the complaints of the Sultan's Mussulman subjects in regard to the misgovernment of Asia Minor. This is the most significant sign of the near collapse of Turkey. The Christians may be ill-used freely, but so long as the Mussulmans are loyal the stability of the Sultan's rule, at least in his Asiatic dominions, is not dangerously menaced from within. But as soon as the Turks themselves are ripe for revolt the end must come."

What keeps the fabric still in appearance erect and strong is not its own solidity, but the desire of the great powers that it shall not at present collapse. This will enable the show of government to be carried on so long as the machinery does not fall to pieces from within. But the dry rot within the Empire has spread so rapidly in recent years that the powers may at any time be confronted with a new problem—that of propping up the Sultan against the force of his own Moslem subjects. Whether in view of this necessity the powers will be able to make arrangements to put aside their quarrels is a question not to be settled by speculation. In all probability those powers which foresee the event and are prepared with a policy will best secure their own interests—their own share of the plunder."

The Traveling Emperor.

BERLIN, Aug. 17.—The German ironclad Irene and the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, reached Reval to-day. On their arrival a Russian fleet of 18 vessels fired a salute and Grand Duke Vladimer received Emperor William. The German sentiment at Reval is strong and the Emperor goes there against the Czar's wishes. The German Colony desired to present an address to the Emperor, but any address beyond a dual greeting has been tabooed in defence to Russian jealousy.

At noon the Emperor started for Narva. That city is already decorated. The Czar and the Emperor will meet at the villa of a wealthy citizen. A host of Russian police guarded the approaches to the villa and were assisted by 50 German police. Public traffic on the railway connecting Narva with St. Petersburg has been suspended and the line will be used solely for official business during the coming week. The road has been thoroughly inspected and a watch has been set along the line. A few newspaper men have been granted permits under conditions which will subject their reports to a strict censorship. The military manoeuvres begin at Narva Monday.

The imperial conferences at which Chancellor von Caprivi and M. De Giere will be present are expected to last over three days. If the Emperor fails to persuade the Czar toward a permanent policy of peace, the conditions to be arranged through a revision of the Berlin treaty by another European congress, the official opinion is decided that rapid developments tending toward a European conflict are certain to follow.

The Russian Government appears to be acting in full concert with the French Government.

Leslie Duncan's Flight.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The great sensation of the week has been the flight to Paris of Leslie Fraser Duncan, the proprietor of The Matrimonial News, who is anxious to avoid a $50,000 verdict against him in favor of Miss Knowles. It is believed he has sold all his property, as well as The Matrimonial News.

They Let the Steamer Go.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The Portuguese has released the British African Lakes Company's steamer seized by Lieut. Continento. The crew have also been released.

An Augury of Peace.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 17.—The newspapers here extend friendly welcome to Emperor William. They admit the sincerity of his pacific declarations and declare that Russia is disposed to cooperate with him. At the same time they hold that Emperor William ought to operate in Vienna rather than in St. Petersburg, seeing that Russia will only accept a solution of the Bulgarian question in conformity with the Berlin treaty which has been violated with Austrian complicity. The Journal de St. Petersburg says the meeting of the Russian and German Emperors is certain to strengthen the friendship between them. The Grashdanin attributes great importance to the meeting and hails the German Emperor's visit as an augury of peace. The Czar and Czarina have arrived at Narva. After accepting from the authorities the customary offering of bread and salt they drove to the Polowtzeff villa, the route being lined with enthusiastic crowds.

The Cholera.

CAIRO, Aug. 17.—At Mecca Friday the deaths from cholera numbered 47, and at Jeddah 24.

CAIRO Aug. 17.—The reports that cholera has appeared here are untrue. The health of the city is excellent. Pilgrims arriving from Jeddah are detained in the desert near Abbasi yet under a guard.

CAIRO, Aug. 17.—There have been 18 deaths from cholera among 1000 pilgrims at the Elter quarantine.

MADRID, Aug. 17.—One death from cholera was recorded here to-day.

The court martial which has been trying the persons implicated in the riot in the Armenian church at Koomkapo, has condemned the ring leaders to death, and sentenced the others to terms of imprisonment, ranging from six to fifteen years.

Port Arthur's Progress

PORT ARTHUR, Aug. 16.—Arrangements have been made for the necessary funds to complete the Port Arthur, Duluth & Western Railway to Gunflint Lake, on the Minnesota boundary. Twenty miles are now ironed and 30 more ready for the rails, which have been ordered from England. It is now a certainty that it will be completed by spring and next season will witness some active mining on both sides of Gunflint Lake.

Port Arthur is going to have an electric railway to connect it and the suburbs of East Fort William. The elevators and round houses here are only distant half a mile from its boundary.

Judge Fourgee Sued.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Charles H. Blair has brought suit against Publisher and Author Albion W. Fourgee and his wife, Emma K., to recover $25,000 on a note executed by Fourgee, March 24, 1884, for the benefit of the Our Continent Publishing Company. The note is endorsed by Fourgee's wife. Judge Beach to-day granted an order making the company a party defendant.

PETERBOROUGH CENTRAL EXHIBITION.

It is to be hoped that neither the farmers of the country nor the business men of the town will lose sight of the coming Central Exhibition. It is quite unnecessary to insist on the valuable information, not to speak of the more sordid matter of prize money, which farmers gain by participation in, and attendance at such an exhibition as that of the Peterborough Central; nor is it necessary to point out to the live business men the advantages both present and actual and prospective and probable, which will result to him from the presence in town for several days of thousands of visitors. Therefore it is plainly to the material interest of both to take an active part in the coming exhibition and assist the directors in a practical manner in their efforts to make it a successful one. The Directors are making the most commendable efforts to forward the preparations that will insure success to the Exhibition. Aside from the instructive aspects it is sought to give the people entertainment, such as the farming community, especially richly deserve after the arduous labors of the summer. The exhibition will be formally opened by Rt. Hon. Sir John Macdonald, premier of the Dominion, and the public will have the opportunity, many of them for the first time, of seeing and coming in contact with a politician who has been intimately associated with the conduct of Canadian public affairs for over a quarter of a century. One attractive feature will be the grand exposition of Caledonian games by experts in these, from every part of the province, given under the auspices of the Agricultural Society and under the management of St. Andrew's Society of Peterborough. The indications are that the coming exhibition will be far in excess in the way of magnitude and attractions, of any former given in the present grounds. It is to be hoped that our farmers, our business men and manufacturers in town, and the people of the town and county generally, will unite to make the coming exhibition successful. Loyalty to the good name and credit of Peterborough, town and County, as well as loyalty to the material interests of those concerned, should result in hearty co-operation.

The State of the Country.

The harvest throughout Ontario will be a good average one, and prices are expected to stiffen in the fall. The immediate outlook is therefore satisfactory. The bankers and merchants think a steady business will be done between now and spring, particularly as stocks in the hands of storekeepers are light; but do not look for a boom. The farmers as a body are hard up. A great many farms are passing into the hands of mortgagees owing to the failure of mortgagors to meet payments, and there is a growing disposition on the part of capital to refrain from mixing itself up in the fortunes of an industry which has well nigh ceased to be profitable. The loan companies have been of use to the farmer in providing him with cheap money. In old days nine per cent. was deemed a reasonable rate of interest, but of late 6 per cent. has ruled, and some farmers have obtained advances for five. The loan companies have with it drawn a great deal of surplus capital from Britain, but an English authority says "there is a very distinct abatement in the desire of investors to lend money on the security of foreign farms." This is natural enough. Owing to the decline in the value of farm lands here and in other countries the margin of security for loans is constantly narrowing, while the low prices hinder the punctual payment of interest. Stock raising and dairy farming have yielded a fair return, though the profits are now falling. The unsatisfactory condition of agriculture makes itself felt, of course, in all the channels of trade, as has been said, merchants do not expect to witness any very remarkable improvement in the commercial world yet awhile.

The pinch has manifested itself in almost every line of investment. A while ago, when the Postoffice Savings Bank paid 4 per cent. on deposits, the Tories used to point to the large accumulations there as proof that everybody was prospering. In October last the rate was reduced to 3½, and since then there has been a considerable falling off. At the end of the fiscal year 1888-89 the deposits amounted to $23,000,000. During the past fiscal year the sums deposited reached a total of $6,600,000, while the withdrawals amounted to two millions more. The Government savings banks, which, in the smaller Provinces, perform the functions of the post-office banks, have also been affected, the deposits having declined from $19,900,000 to $18,300,000. The general falling away is due in the main to the reduction in the rate of interest, and, viewed in that light, is not a thing to be deplored by the taxpayer, for the Government is getting money cheaper than that class of lenders. Nevertheless, the hard times have undoubtedly had something to do with it. The immense amount of insurance which has fallen in by the surrender and lapse of policies goes to support this theory. During the past year the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies was unusually large, the total exceeding that of the previous year by no less than $1,700,000. Coming to the business failures, we find further evidence, if more were needed of the intensity of the pressure. Bradstreet's Agency furnishes the following list of failures in Canada since 1881:—

	Number.	Liabilities.
1882	755	8,139,000
1883	1,484	22,155,000
1884	1,553	17,126,000
1885	1,286	9,210,000
1886	1,186	11,240,000
1887	1,315	17,054,080
1888	1,730	15,500,000
1889	1,616	13,148,000
1890 (six months)	869	7,223,600

Then again a good deal of money has been sunk beyond hope of recovery in N.P. enterprises, such as cotton and steel making, which has no legitimate reason for being. In fact, with a few exceptions, the manufacturers have not done a very profitable business since 1886, owing chiefly to the over-production in the limited home market which began to be visible about that time, and to the impossibility of selling goods abroad in competition with the foreigner. We should have been ever so much better off as a community had the capital which had gone to establish and operate exotic, been invested in indigenous, industries possessing free access to the American market. Account must be taken also of the decline in immigration. Mr. Martin, the Attorney-General of Manitoba, said the other day that the number of new settlers from Britain is now quite small, Ontario supplying the bulk of the recent arrivals. In this Province the decline in immigration from abroad is also well marked, while it is to be feared that the exodus of natives to the United States is increasing. This may be merely an accidental and temporary conjunction. It is well for us to bear in mind, however that a policy of heaping up debt, at a time when our competitors in the States are paying off their old war score with great rapidity and reducing the cost of living as well, is bound to produce just such effects. The announcement of a surplus at Ottawa has been promptly followed by demands from all parts of the country for an increased expenditure on public works; but the Government should go slow. Competent observers think that the Dominion has already invested as much borrowed money in enterprises not directly remunerative as she can afford to carry, considering the temptations held out to labor and capital by the improved condition of things across the line. It is simply misleading for the ministerial papers to point to the vastly larger burdens borne by the Australians. In the first place, the Australian debts have been laid out chiefly in railways which yield a good profit on the investment; secondly, Australia is a far richer country than this, the extraction of gold alone yielding an average of $50,000,000 a year; and, last but not least, Australia does not lie alongside the United States.—Globe.

AN INTERESTING CLOCK.

Its Maker is Proud of It, but He Has No Wish to Make Another

In the window of a German jeweler's on Court street, Brooklyn, there stands a brass clock not more than ten inches high. The passer-by who looks through the window sees under the clock, which is supported by four polished columns, a small brass platform, balanced to a nicety on two pivots in the middle, like an ordinary seesaw. A groove cut into the surface of the brass runs zigzag from one end to the other, and on the path so made a brightly polished steel ball, no larger than a bullet, runs unceasingly. When the ball has travelled from one end of the platform to the other, zigzagging from side to side, it strikes a thin steel wire which hangs from above, and in an instant the platform is tilted up at the end and the little ball, impelled by the force of gravity, starts back again. At the other end it comes into contact with another wire, and up goes the platform once more. Sometimes a big crowd stands around the window intent on the little sphere, the mystery of which they find it hard to solve.

F. T. Kraft, who runs the store, has followed the trade for many years. One day six years ago Kraft was walking down Broadway when he saw a clock in a jeweller's window with the same device. He stood for an hour in front of the glass watching it and trying to solve the problem of its construction. The proprietor of the store told him the clock had been made in England twenty-five years before, and was the only one of its kind in existence. Mr. Kraft's request to have a look at the mechanism was met with a refusal, and he went off with the determination to study it out for himself. He worked at it six months during his odd hours and finally triumphed. Then he was surprised to find how simple the idea was after all although he found the greatest delicacy necessary in carrying it out.

Mr. Kraft took the clock from its shelf in the window the other day to explain its mechanism to the reporter. The two mysterious wires which the ball strikes against at the end of each trip are fastened above to a long rod. From the upper side of this rod runs a strip of steel, and one end of it rests on four pins on an escapement wheel in the works. When the ball strikes the wire it depresses this steel strip, and it makes a quarter revolution to the next pin. On the same axis is a large wheel with teeth fit into those of another of half the circumference. The smaller wheel makes a half revolution while the other is making a quarter. To the axis of this wheel is fastened a rod, which is attached at the other end to the platform, which is pulled up or down according to the wire which the ball strikes.

It was in the manufacture of the ball itself that Mr. Kraft had the most difficulty. It had to be a perfect sphere to work properly, and it was turned down bit by bit to the proper size. A little guard rail is placed at each angle of the groove, so that the ball will not jump off. It takes the ball just five seconds to make the trip, a half-second for each section of the groove. The platform acts as a pendulum with a five-second swing. The device is only interesting as a novelty, as it is more susceptible to changes in the weather than the pendulum clock, and has to be regulated frequently.

It is interesting to figure out the distance which the industrious little ball travels from day to day. Every second it runs 4 25-inches, or twenty two feet a minute. This is a quarter of a mile an hour, or six miles a day, or 180 miles a month, or 2,190 miles a year, over 11,000,000 feet. Since the clock was first started, the ball has travelled a distance equal to nearly three-fourths of the way around the globe. In that time it has not been worn to any perceptible degree, although the brass surface on which it runs has been ground off considerably.

"I have lots of offers for this clock," said the old jeweller, as he put it back on its shelf, "but I wouldn't sell it at any price. It was a pleasure to work out the principle of the thing, but you couldn't get me to make another one of them for a good deal.

How Dan'l Drew Did It.

About the time that Daniel Drew began his Wall-street career he was up in the country one time to visit some friends, and two farmers called upon him to decide a case. One had sold the other five bushels of wheat and proposed to measure it in a half bushel and sweep the top of the measure with a stick. The other objected, and uncle Daniel was asked to decide.

"Well, legally speaking, a bushel is only a bushel," he answered.

"And can the measure be swept off?"

"I think it can."

"What with?"

"Well, if I was selling wheat I should probably use half the head for a flour barrel."

"Which edge of it?"

"Gentlemen, that is a point I cannot now decide on," replied the old man. "If I was selling to a widow or a preacher, I am certain that I should sweep the measure with the straight edge, but if I was selling to a man who pastures his cows on the road and has gaps in his neighbor's corn I'm afraid I should use the circular side, and scoop a little to boot."—Wall-street Daily News.

A REGULAR ATTENDANT.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT'S MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC CRITIC.

What the Boys in Blue Do Behind the Scenes, and What They Think of the Modern Drama as They See It.

You have probably seen him from the front row of the orchestra, as he stands in the first entrance with one hand on the curtain wire and with the other resting on his hip. His blue undress uniform of the Fire Department looks somewhat inappropriate in so conspicuous a place, and more especially when there is a Shakespearian revival on, or a comic opera, but his sense of duty is stronger than his respect for the dramatic unities.

He stands just where half of the house can see him all the time, and where the stars trip over him and in the one spot from which the stage manager particularly wishes he would keep away. But he thinks he can best suppress a possible conflagration by posting himself snugly in the prompt entrance, where he can see all that is going on on the stage and in the wings, and up in the flies, and every one on in the scene, from the dudes in the front row to the limelight man in the family circle.

You envy him, no doubt, the excellent point of view, and the way the chorus girls flock around him while they are waiting to go on and the fat ones smile on him as they go off, glancing up the line, or as he gallantly makes way for her to take her encore, and the rest opportunities he possesses of living in that queer, mysterious world behind the scenes of which you get tantalizing glimpses from your place in the box or read about in novels.

If distresses you somewhat that with all these advantages he does not seem to be having a very good time. Look if you watch him carefully you will see that he never smiles. He watches the performance keenly, but with melancholy interest, and the comedian never causes him to laugh, and the most emotional actress only gains a pitying glance of curious surprise from him. He seems to be for always such manner frail and joyless and his suspenders bulky appearance weighs upon his mind he almost as unmoved as the gas-man. He grudgingly made room for an unofficial theatre-goer the other night amid the young men and women were singing one of the winter's favorite songs.

"It's pretty, isn't it," said the visitor.

The fireman was very large and broad shouldered, and his hair was clipped so closely that it stuck up over his head and gave him a strangely pugilistic appearance.

"Yes, it's good," he said, critically, "but wot I want to know is, wot the women on the ends are good for. I ain't see wot's their excuse for livin' unless they ain't got nothin' to do with the piece and they don't do nothin' but just stand round and wear new clothes every act. They ain't in it, see? It makes me tired, that's wot it does, it makes me tired."

The offending couple passed by and made for their dressing rooms, and the fireman looked after them and shook his head mournfully.

"They ain't in it, he said, "an' they make me tired."

"Oh, you're disagreeable enough for the first night of two," he ran on unresolved to the visitor's question "but after you've seen the proceedings three hundred times it's no joke. Why, I might to be in bed now. All the others is. But I've got to stay here till 11 and then make out my report, and by the time I get to bed an alarm comes in and I'm up all night."

"What do you say in your report?" asked the unofficial visitor.

"Oh, just that I was here and that nothin' happened and that I left everything all right when I come away."

"Don't you see anything about the scenes of the house or the performance being good or the number of encores."

"Now, certainly not," said the fireman with disdainful and withering suspicion look at the visitor, but the next minute he assumed and asked what the firemen would do if a fire should happen to break out.

"Well, to tell you the truth," whispered the fireman, "I don't know. It all depends on where the fire broke out. I'd try to put it out myself first, and then if I found I couldn't do that I'd ring the alarm for the engine. Once I was on duty in the old Madison Square Garden when the circus was there, and a tiger got loose. Well, my instructions didn't say nothin' about tigers, and I didn't know wot to do, but I took down a fire axe off on the wall just for luck, and, be gosh, if that beast had come around where I was I'd a split his head."

"I didn't run with the old volunteer department for nothin', sonny, and I'd hev given that darned tiger all the fight he wanted. I'd ha' made him sick. When they was playin' 'The Still Alarm,' that's a fire engine piece, you know, all the boys wanted to go down to see it, and one fresh kid he got so excited like when they rung the alarm and the engine started out that he run right on the stage from the entrance where we're a standin now and grabbed the horses by the head and snapped the harness on 'em, and then jumped up behind the engine and was run off with it behind the scenes.

"Then there was another story they tell about a lad in one of the downtown houses. His wife went to see a show one night with one of her lady friends not knowin' that her husband was stationed at the theatre, and she sees him from her seat in the family circle chasin' around with the chorus girls and coolin' a cloak for one of them dancers who she was on the stage. And when she comes off he puts the cloak about her and she stands there a-chattin'.

"There was not much to it in a way, much to get he wasn't attendin' to his duties, but his wife thought it was dead wrong, and she waited for him at the stage door and raised smoke and fire so that he run away to the station house. She made him beg the Captain never to assign him to no more theatres, and the boys plagued him so that he got transferred to a house up town.

"Then there was another fool lad that instead of attendin' to his duty went on the stage as a super, dressed up in a long cloak and a beard as a brigand. He just did it for fun, you see, but the curtain happened to be in the box that night with a party of visitin' heads of departments from Boston, and the lad didn't recognize the lad, the young feller recognized him and thought he would be brave for sure. He was so careful after that that he wouldn't speak to none of the people back of the scenes, and they called him the Deaf and Dumb Fireman. And there was another lad"—but before the official theatre goer could finish his story the two offending performers who "weren't in it" came tripping on the stage and he gasped and silently shook his head. "Ah, they make me tired," he said under his breath. "They just ain't in it, and they make me tired." And he fixed his eyes upon them and consistently and sank into gloomy silence.—N. Y. Sun

AN ENGINEER'S PRESENTIMENT.

How a Terrible Wreck Was Prevented by a Dying Man.

A number of railroad men sat in the rotunda of the Laclede the other night exchanging reminiscences. The conversation gradually drifted into stories having a supernatural tinge, and among these was the following, related by a well-known conductor:

"Some years ago," he said, "in the Town of Garret, in Northern Indiana, the headquarters of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad's Chicago Division, there lay sick an engineer named Boardman. He was wildly delirious and his ravings took a serious aspect at times. One evening, he was told that Engineer Moses had been called to take out his engine, No. 712, on an extra run, following No. 5. Engine 712 was the pride of the road and of its engineer, then so seriously sick. It had not been sent out before, the foreman of the round-house wishing to gratify the wishes of its engineer, but on this occasion it was necessary, as a special train containing an opera company had to make Washington in twenty hours, a run of 852 miles from Chicago division was equal to the speed demanded by the company.

"Boardman, lying in his bed, was suddenly gifted with a supernatural power, and in his ravings would say:

"'Rockville! Ha! How she spins! Runs up the St. Joe grade like the wind! Twenty-two miles—one stop for water, one stop for railroad crossing, and thirty minutes gone!'

"Then he would be quiet as the grave for a moment.

"'Holgate! Listen at her spin! She's got the creasing. There she goes. Defiance to Holgate was like a stop to her.'

"His watchers looked at one another. Could he have the power of second sight to watch the movements of the train. One of the boys was sent to the dispatcher's office, but a few blocks away. Before he returned Boardman had called out a water station and said:

"'Four minutes last. Why couldn't she do without water? Ah, ah! Watch her pound steel now. Isn't she a beauty?'

"The man had returned from the telegraph office and, in a whisper, told the other keeper at the bedside to await the train coming. A feeling of awe came over the boys. The sick engineer was in a seeming trance. His breath came slower and more laborious. The boys crowded nearer and were about to raise him in the bed, so that he could catch his breath easier, and the family were called while the sad secret, looking wildly about him and cried:

"'Ha! Red light! Stop for orders! My God! Bleeck! Lead on, as usual, as if reading an order: 'From No. 5 second flyer, engine No. 712. Prepare to meet thy God.'

"Again he sank back, and relapsed into the coma. Hours of steel nerves and sympathies, [illegible] sentiment, were shed forth to the despatcher's office and heard by the east-bound train.

"'For God's sake, don't stop second flyer at Republic!'

"Back over the wire the call went and was received, and the [illegible] message, 'Stop second flyer.' There was a wait of breathless minutes, when the news came back: 'Second flyer is stopped.' Conductor wants to know what for.' By this time the story was known in the despatcher's office, and the answer was sent to Republic: 'Tell a terrible presentiment.' Tell conductor to proceed cautiously to Chicago Junction.'

"Hardly had the answer gone when Attica called up and said:

"'Stop second flyer at Republic. First flyer derailed a mile west of here; engine and three cars off. Cow on track. Engineer killed by jumping.'

"And the man who had saved probably five scores of lives lay a corpse at his home, with the sorrowing family surrounding him. Loving fingers made up a purse of [illegible] with the insurance he had [illegible] their own, a family independent for the rest of their lives." St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase as $1,708,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $216,394, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,684,378	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,937	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,630	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Ottawa	2,097,956	29.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,286	20.61

From this table we can see that while each companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Free From the Cares of Office.

During the past year, frequent reference has been made in the EXAMINER to the absence of Dr. Bell from town on official business in connection with his Grand Mastership of the Grand Lodge. Dr. Bell is now free from the cares of office, his mantle having fallen on the shoulders of Grand Master Ormiston, and he will now be able to devote his whole attention to his profession and his patients.

Equal Rights.

The topic of the day and that which we all want is not only Equal Rights in a political sense of the word, but in many others. Here are people throwing away their hard earned money, with unprincipled houses who do not as much as thank them for it. Why should they do it? Why not call on W.J. Morrow, where you are received courteously, your money placed to a good advantage and you are placed on a solid basis in future for buying cheap groceries. dw

Sudden Death.

Last Saturday Mr. Samuel Beavis a farmer of North Monaghan, died very suddenly. He appeared in his usual health at noon. After dinner he went out to shoe one of his horses. He was seized with a severe pain in the head, then followed a fainting fit, from which the unfortunate man never rallied. He died at 5 o'clock. Deceased, who was about 41 years of age, leaves three daughters, about thirteen, fifteen and twenty years of age. He lost his wife by death about eight years ago, and four years ago brother died. The circumstances surrounding his sudden death invest the occasion with peculiar sadness.

A Good Yield.

The Picton Times states that Mr. Wm. T. Shaw, lot 11, con. 4, Hallowell, who last year, 1889 grew from two acres (measured) 8 tons, 1042 pounds, of peas in the pod comes again to the front as the champion pea grower of the Dominion. This year from 3¼ acres he produced 12 tons, 1289 pounds of peas in the pod, realizing therefore the nice sum of $316 11, $90.25 per acre. This year, as well as last, he sold to the Bay of Quinte Canning factory. He challenges anyone to show as good a yield for two years in succession. The variety grown was McLean's "Advancer." For years taken together Mr. Shaw has realized an average of $103 83.

New Dry Goods Firm.

Persons passing along George street, will have noticed that workmen are busy refitting, renovating and beautifying the shop next south of Dolan & Co.'s, and making it one of the nubbiest dry goods houses in town, and properly so, for it is to be the home of a live dry goods business. Messrs. James Dolan and M. Hackett have leased it, and intend opening at this store a thoroughly first class stock of dry goods. They are now at Montreal, purchasing the best stock that money can buy, and will open in their elegant premises about the first of September, and they will make things lively in the dry goods line, with a perfectly new and stylish stock. With Mr. Dolan's capital, and the united experience of both, there is no doubt the new firm will walk right into the good graces of the purchasing public.

The Colts-Veterans Eleven Defeats Lakefield—A Score of Thirty-Eight to Nineteen—Decided in the First Innings.

An eleven composed of representatives of the Colts and Veterans went to Lakefield on Saturday and were victorious. Peterborough's first innings was rather a poor crop, the total score at the fall of the last stump being only 38. The left hand, under-arm bowling of Watson was rather puzzling, Lakefield went to bat, but could do nothing with the bowling of the Peterborough team. The side was retired for the small total of 19, of which only 15 were made off the bat. Attewell's trundling was particularly true-to-line. He performed the rather unusual bowling feat of taking eight wickets for two runs. But the boys "got onto" the crow-eyed bowling in the second go, Stocker and M. Hamilton being responsible for breaking its heart. Stocker put up a score of 40 before he was run out; Miles Hamilton knocked together 55 before Watson caught him napping; Attewell was run out for 21; and W. Hamilton carried out his bat for 27, the four bats being chargeable with 143 runs out of the 170 compiled. When the innings was finished, it was too late for Lakefield to go on with its second, and the match was declared to Peterborough on the first innings. It is not probable that Lakefield, if she had had another chance, would have secured the 100 runs required to lead. The following are the scores:—

Y. M. C. A in Camp.

Their Summer Session on Stony Lake A Permanent Summer Camp Organized.

The Y. M. C. A. camp on Stony Lake was held this year on Juniper Island. The obliging General Secretary contributes the following interesting synopsis of the seasons services:

The opening services were held on Sabbath August 3rd, at 11 a.m. Rev. D. Reddick of Port Hope gave a thoughtful and practical sermon from the Gospel of St. John, I-1-3-14 This service was held in the grove on Juniper Island and was well attended by those from other Islands and camps

At 5 p.m. a camp fire service was held. Rev. B. Caufield Jones, preached an excellent sermon from the words "Behold the Man," St. Johns Gospel xix-5. Owing to the threatening weather, the attendance was limited; those present, however, enjoyed a great treat.

On Monday an informal meeting was held to arrange programme and discuss important matters of interest in connection with our work. After consultation it was resolved to form a permanent organization to carry on Christian work during the summer months at Stony Lake, combining Bible study with recreation and it is to be known as the Young Men's Christian Association Camp at Stony Lake. The following were elected officers for the ensuing year:—

PRESIDENT.—Mr. T. S. Cole, Toronto.

VICE PRESIDENT.—Rev. W. M. Roger, London.

TREASURER.—Mr. G M. Roger, Peterborough.

SECRETARY.—R J. Colville, Peterborough and an executive Committee consisting of Messrs J. W. Bennet, Peterborough; Geo. E. Williams, Kingston, and F. B. Utley, Lindsay, and officers who have the power to arrange all details.

Bible readings were given during the time of camp, by Rev. W. M Roger, T. S. Cole, George E. Williams, and R. J. Colville; also conferences were held on Association work.

On Sabbath, August 10th, Rev. W. M Roger preached an earnest Gospel sermon from St. Paul's Epistle to the Romans, xii 1-2, which was much enjoyed by all present.

In the afternoon Mr. T. S. Cole held a Gospel sermon at the cottage of Mr. Thomas Washburn Brechtik. Owing to the stormy weather the attendance was small. Rain was falling when the time for the evening Camp-fire arrived so it had to be postponed. On Saturday evening, August 9th, Rev G. M. Roger, at the Camp-fire gave a very instructive talk on the Geology of Stony Lake. All present feel much indebted to Mr. Roger for the important information given. On Tuesday evening, August 12th, a musical evening was spent. An excellent programme of vocal music was given by Miss Brandrette, Messrs. Crane and H. Stevens, and Harmony Camp, Peterborough, Mr. Simpson gave a humourous vocal selection and Mr. T. S. Cole, Toronto, gave several taking recitations. All the numbers were well received and rapturously applauded by the audience present on the rocks, and in the canoes, which dotted the lake around the island. The evening's performance was concluded by all singing "God Save the Queen. Afterwards Harmony Camp bade our visitors a vocal farewell in appropriate camp songs, etc. It has cheered us to hear many bearing testimony to the good influence the camp has exerted upon many personally, and to all who are privileged to spend their vacation in that health giving resort, Stony Lake. We propose now to get out an attractive programme for next season and by this means draw many more to that back lakes during the summer months. All of us have felt it was good to be there and return to work with new energy and zeal for our life work. Mr. Cole will continue to hold services each Sabbath during this month, weather permitting on Juniper Island. Our sincere thanks are due to Mr. G. M. Roger and his relatives for many kindnesses shown to all, doing all in their power to make our stay both pleasant and profitable.—Com.

Kinmount.

Mr. Pusey has invited a large number of the leading men of the district to meet him at Irondale on Thursday, with a view to take measures to obtain from the Provincial Government a grant of money to promote the interests of the Irondale Company in the construction of a smelting furnace. I do not think many persons will be present, and I am quite sure that, whilst these present will be favourable to Mr. Mowat, or anyone else, giving a grant of money, they will refuse to do anything in the way of granting a bonus themselves. The proceedings will be interesting—and instructive.

Mr. Geo. Ranney, of Peterborough, is out surveying for the extension of the Irondale line to Pine Lake. It is a distance of about ten miles, and will take some little time in laying out.—Independent.

Father Norman.

His First Circuit, and Last Sermon.

Rev. W. E. Norman died in Trenton last week, aged 97 years. The funeral services were held in King street church, conducted by his grandson in the gospel, Rev. Mr. Williams, who is in possession of the statistics of his life. Mr. Williams mentioned the fact that one of Father Norman's early circuits was the whole county of Prince Edward, and another extending from Belleville to Port Hope, requiring four week's absence from home and having about sixty appointments. Father Norman's style of preaching was pointed and effective, full of Scripture truth and quotations therefrom. He was successful in his ministrations and a good disciplinarian, looking well after the details of the work under his charge. His mental faculties remained wonderfully sound to the last days of his life, nearly a century. Born in 1794, he preached in 1890, on the 96th anniversary of his birth, in Grace Church, Trenton, a sermon, clear, logical, forceful, and full of love to God and man. He was twice married. His second wife survives him.

Police Court.

AUGUST 18th.

At the police court this morning Police Magistrate Dumble presided. Two young men, Robert Jamieson and Joseph Gray, were charged with disorderly conduct and singing obscene songs on George street on Friday evening, 15th. Acting Constable Archie Moore had arrested two of the quartette that night and they were previously disposed of. These two men were arraigned this morning and convicted. A fine of $5 and costs, or ten days in jail, was imposed.

R. N. Roddy was arraigned, charged with selling liquor after legal hours on the night of August 6th, or, rather, on the morning, at 2 a.m. of the 7th. The offence was admitted, and a fine of $20 and costs was imposed.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The young men's meeting was well attended on Saturday evening. Mr. Wm. Wallbrook gave an earnest address and was followed by the general secretary.

The Consecration meeting, Sabbath morning was led by Mr. Albert Hamilton. It was a time of refreshing to all.

The open air service in Central Park was a good meeting, the attendance was large and much interest was manifested in the short gospel talks of Messrs. Hamilton, Smart, Hanna and the general secretary. The singing which was hearty, was led by Mr. John Miller and members of the band. We are satisfied the seed sown will bring forth fruit to God's honor and glory.

Mr. Wm. Wallbrook gave a very thoughtful address at the Gospel and song service last evening. The congregation was much larger than usual, all in attendance felt the presence of the Holy Spirit in our midst.

We thank God for the manifest interest which is going on among our young men. Praise Him for the precious souls that have accepted Christ, and for what is going to follow

Bible class on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m., to which all men are invited.

The Grand Master.

Mr. Ormiston, the recently elected grand master of the I O O F. body in Ontario, is a resident of Gananoque where he holds the position of collector of customs. He was born at Canterbury, Eng., and a well preserved specimen of a courteous, well bred Englishman, and is proud of his nationality. Of prepossessing appearance, cultured address and an indefatigable worker in the order, a more appropriate choice was impossible, a fact apparently recognized by his brethren in the enthusiastic unanimity of his appointment. Mr. Ormiston joined the order in 1886, and by a special dispensation was appointed noble grand of lodge No. 114 Gananoque. The next year he was re-elected, and in 1888 elected as representative to the grand lodge, which distinction he held continuously. In 1888 he was appointed warden of the grand lodge, 1889 was made deputy grand master, and the last appointment confers the highest honor on a worthy member of the influential I.O.O.F. Mr. Ormiston is P.G.S. of A.F. and A.M.; Past Regent of the Royal Arcanum; P. H. C.R. of the Canadian Order of Foresters; P. G.W.C.T. of the Independent Order of Good Templars, etc., etc., and is held in the highest esteem by a wide circle of friends all over the country.

News Nuggets.

—Regular meeting of the town council tonight. Finance Minister Davidson will present the estimates and make his budget speech.

—The priests of the diocese of Peterborough go into retreat at St. Peter's Cathedral to-day.

—The employees of the Lock Works some 150 were photographed to-day en bloc by a travelling cameraonian.

—Mr. W.T. Morrison, carriage maker and blacksmith, of Kinmount, has made an assignment for the benefit of creditors, to Peter Matchett, Lindsay.

—The wife of Mr. D. C. Little, master of the High School at Trenton, gets $60,000 from the estate of the late John Robertson of Vankleek Hill. She was a niece of the deceased gentlemen.

Personal.

Mr. C. Fessenden, headmaster of the Collegiate Institute, has arrived in town and has taken up residence, 602 Rubidge street, corner of Dublin.

Mrs. R. J Nethercutt (Miss Tillie Chrow) has gone to Brandon to join her husband, who has been for some months in that place. They will reside there permanently.

Hon. C. F. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, will arrive in town to-morrow for a few day's fishing on our northern lakes. He will be in charge of his Worship Mayor Stevenson, M.P. Perhaps the honourable gentleman will be able to lure to the hook some of the half million white fish and salmon with which his department has stocked the waters of our back lakes within the past dozen years.

Lady Dufferin's Good Work.

Thirty English doctresses are at work in British India treating the poor in and around Bombay. The Medical College, which cost the home Government £213 000, contains 220 pupils, 200 000 women having received relief last year. Lady Dufferin, who is interested in the work, says in an appeal to the English for aid that millions of mothers and children remain without medical help. The opinion prevails that the movement should be encouraged by support, as only a woman doctor could reach the native patients, who are not allowed to see a male doctor, and at most can only put their arms out of a screened window long enough to have the pulse counted.

Speaking One's Mind.

Many honest persons, without stopping to think, commit the grievous mistake of speaking their mind on all occasions, under all circumstances, and often to the great mortification of their hearers. In many cases it might be a proper thing to do; for instance, any one would be justified almost any time and under almost any circumstances in speaking his or her mind freely in regard to Beecham's Pills, the sure remedy for all nervous and bilious disorders. This wonderful medicine is the most popular panacea in the world for sick headache, weak stomach, impaired digestion, constipation, disordered liver, etc. w34d

TRANSPORTATION IN BOND.

The Privilege to Be Abrogated by the United States Government.

MONTREAL, Aug. 17.—The Dominion Cartridge Company has received from an American transportation company a copy of a letter from the Treasury Department at Washington recommending them not to accept for shipment to Mexico a consignment of cartridges, as at the time the goods will be ready the bonding privileges which Canada enjoys will be abrogated.

The letter was laid before Mr. Bowell, Minister of Customs, who will bring it before a Cabinet meeting to be called at once.

Last spring the cartridge company sent a consignment of 1,000,000 cartridges to Mexico and as a result received an order for 10,000,000 more from the Mexican Government, but before filling it they thought it prudent to take advice of the American road. This the result stated.

This is the first definite statement that has been made of the intentions of the American Government and created considerable surprise here.

The Minister of Customs passed through here to-day, but he thought it not advisable to make any statement of the case, as it would interfere with any action they might take in the matter.

The same company has a large New York order for which they will probably erect a factory in the United States in opposition to the American Cartridge Trust, in which Mr. Blaine and other American politicians are interested.

DOMINION NEWS NOTES.

A BREAK IN THE NEW ANTICOSTI CABLE.

One of the Workmen Caught, Drawn Under and Badly Injured—A Toronto Mother Abducts Her Child from a Hamilton Orphan Asylum.

QUEBEC, Aug. 18. The following was received to-day from F. N. Gisborne, superintendent of the government telegraph service.

GASPE, Aug. 18. Joseph Macdonald, our most experienced cable man, was caught by the cable while paying out from the tank and was drawn under. His chest was crushed and one leg badly broken. Although the brake was instantly applied the cable parted 15 miles from Anticosti. Macdonald was landed here. Dr. Smillie, who is attending him, is hopeful of his recovery. The New-field returned to Anticosti to complete connection.

ABDUCTION AT HAMILTON.

A Toronto Woman's Ruse to Gain Possession of Her Child.

HAMILTON, Aug. 18.—This afternoon a woman went to the orphan asylum in Park-street and asked to see a child. It was taken into a room to her, and while the nurse's back was turned the woman put the child out of the window, jumped out after it and ran away with it. Her name is supposed to be Mrs. Jeffrey, and she is supposed to be the mother of the child, which is two years old. Mrs. Jeffrey lives in Toronto.

Seneca Swayzie was charged at the Police Court this forenoon with kicking his wife's head to a pulp and striking her with a hammer. The woman, who turned out to be a Mrs. Cane and not the prisoner's wife, declared that she received her injuries by falling from a ladder, but Seneca was sent to the Central Prison for three months.

There is a fair prospect that Percy Kerr, who was so badly injured by the breaking of a steamboat tender at Windsor, will recover.

A warrant was filed with the county clerk to-day by Osler, Hoskin, Harrison & McBrayne, asking that no probate be issued in respect of a will of the late Judge Miles O'Reilly, dated in March last, and alleging that the said will was not executed by him or was executed by him under the pressure of undue influence or while he was of unsound mind.

THE ANGLICAN CONFERENCE.

Proposed Basis of Consolidation of the Church in British North America.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 18. The conference of Anglican delegates from the provincial synods and dioceses of the Dominion adopted a report recommending the consolidation of the Church of England in British North America. This is the proposed basis of confederation.

There shall be a general synod consisting of the bishops of the Church of England in the Dominion of Canada and the diocese of Newfoundland, and of the delegates chosen from the clergy and the laity. Delegates shall be chosen by the several diocesan synods according to such rules as they may adopt, or in a diocese which has no synodical organization they may be appointed by the bishop. The synod shall meet for the first time in Toronto on the second Wednesday in September, 1893, and shall be convened by the metropolitan senior bishop by consecration.

The synod shall consist of two houses, bishops constituting the upper and the clergy and laity together the lower house. The two houses shall sit separately, excepting at any time by unanimous consent of both houses. The president of the general synod, who shall be styled the primate, shall be elected by the house of bishops from among the metropolitans. The primate shall hold office for life, or so long as he is bishop of any diocese, but may resign at any time. The general synod shall have power to deal with all matters affecting any of the interests and the well-being of the church within its jurisdiction, provided that no canons or resolutions of a coercive character, including penalties or disabilities, shall be operative in any ecclesiastical province or independent diocese until accepted by the synod of such province or diocese.

The following or such like objects may be suggested as properly coming within the jurisdiction of the general synod: (1) Matters of doctrine, worship and discipline; (2) all agencies employed in the carrying on of church work; (3) missionary and educational work of the church; (4) adjustment of relations between dioceses in respect to widows and orphans of clergy and superannuation funds; (5) regulations of the transference of clergy from one diocese to another; (6) education and training of candidates for holy orders; (7) constitution and powers of an appellate tribunal; (8) erection, division or rearrangement of the provinces. But the erection, division or rearrangement of dioceses and the appointment and consecration of bishops within a province shall be dealt with by the synod of that diocese.

COULDN'T ENJOY HIMSELF.

So Barber Zimmerman of Windsor Took the Laudanum Route.

WINDSOR, Aug. 18. Elijah J. Zimmerman, a barber employed at the Davenport Hotel, committed suicide this morning by taking a 4-ounce dose of laudanum. Dr. Cruickshanks was called but could not save the man's life. He was a single man and has relatives in Springfield, O. On the body was found an insurance policy for $2000 and $75.50 in money. Written on a sheet of paper was the following. "I am tired of life and to enjoy myself seems impossible."

Another Mastodon Found Near Highgate.

CHATHAM, Aug. 16. Another great find has been unearthed in the Mastodon country. The discovery was made by Charles Holman while digging a ditch on the farm of John Wade, Lot 6, concession 7, township of Orford. About 4½ feet below the surface in quicksand he found a tusk larger than that of the mastodon on Mr. Reycraft's place. The tusk is decaying, and has been buried by Mr. Wade to keep it from the action of the air, but a piece which could be got at, and by no means the largest in circumference, was found to stretch the tape line a foot and a half around it. The largest bone as yet unearthed is a shoulder blade. It measures 22x36 inches. The bones as yet found consists of ribs four feet long, scapula, vertebræ, leg bones and tusk found within a radius of three feet. No further excavations have yet been made, but there is scarcely a doubt that all or nearly all of the monstrous skeleton can be got.

PARLIAMENT PROROGUED

THE QUEEN'S SPEECH READ BY THE LORD CHANCELLOR.

African, Behring Sea and Newfoundland Questions Touched Upon—The Late Duke of Manchester's Will A Scandal in High Life—General Cable Notes.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Parliament was prorogued to-day. The Queen's Speech was read by the Lord Chancellor. It says that the relations of Her Majesty's government with the foreign powers continue to be pacific. Friendly attention has been called to the inconveniences which might arise from a possible conflict over territorial claims in Africa, therefore the Queen's Government was negotiating with the powers mainly concerned with the purpose of defining the boundaries within which the action of the respective Governments should be confined. The arrangement with Germany closing the most difficult of the questions was complete, and Her Majesty's Ministers laid before Parliament the history of these negotiations which had resulted in the cession of Heligoland to Germany.

The speech then announces arrangements with France whereby the French-Algerian territory is separated from that of the British Niger Company. The agreement for a British protectorate over Zanzibar and placing Madagascar under the protection of the French is also explained.

With regard to the Behring Sea complications Her Majesty informs Parliament that she offered to submit them to arbitration for settlement.

The speech states that the case of the Newfoundland and French fisheries dispute is one which is occupying the anxious attention of the Government.

A LONDON SCANDAL CASE.

Story of an English Guardsman and His Wicked Wife.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—An extraordinarily sensational case has just been concluded at the Lewes Assizes, in which a fashionable West End costumier named Pickett sued Capt. Lyon of Goring Hall for payment of £1000 for goods supplied to Mrs. Lyon. The latter was stated as having been one of the most beautiful of the London demi-mondaine. Lyon met her in the Burlington Arcade and after a short intimacy married her. Capt. Lyon is a young Guardsman, son of Major Lyon, formerly a Middlesex magistrate and well known as having been chiefly instrumental in closing the Argyle Rooms and Evans' Music Hall.

Mrs Lyon testified that previous to her marriage she had been provided for by Capt. Warner, who gave her $4000 a year. Lyon proved that this intimacy was kept up after his marriage with her but unknown to him. Mrs. Lyon swore that her husband had threatened to make Warner a co-respondent in a suit for divorce unless he disgorged £3000. Lyon denied this and said the truth was his wife wished to keep the marriage from Warner's knowledge and so continue to enjoy the allowance he made her. Though the jury failed to agree, on account of the traditional obstinacy of one of their number, Baron Huddleston gave judgment in favor of Capt. Lyon, saying the charge against him rested solely on the word of an adventuress.

Mandeville's Creditors Can Whistle.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The will of the late Duke of Manchester, which has just been made public, is a hard-and-fast document. Neither his heir nor his widow is allowed much rope at present. The present duke, who is best known in America as Lord Mandeville, is bequeathed a third share for his life so long as he does not go bankrupt again or seek to alienate or anticipate his share. This protects him against creditors and money-lenders for the term of his natural life. The trustees have immense discretionary powers. Should the trusts of the will fail through any act of the present Duke they have power to carry out the intentions of the testator and still to make the Duke his allowance of a third share. This mode of defeating his son's uncertain behavior is termed a contingent determinable discretionary clause.

The present young Duke of Manchester, who was Miss Consuelo Yznaga's most prominent admirer in the Dear Dukes will, of course, son, who is the present Viscount Mandeville, is not referred to by name, but as the possible heir. The dowager Duchess has her share for life only so long as she remains a widow, but in spite of this it is not likely that the lady will forego her marriage with Lord Hartington, which is definitely fixed for next April.

Tributes to Cardinal Newman.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—There were special sermons in all the Catholic Churches yesterday on the late Cardinal Newman. At Hawarden "Lead, Kindly Light" was sung and Mr. Gladstone read the lessons. Cardinal Manning will deliver the funeral oration in the Brompton Oratory Wednesday. The Chronicle says Mgr. Stoner will succeed Cardinal Newman. Rev. Mr. Magie, an American Episcopalian of Paris, declined to make mention of Cardinal Newman's death, saying he could never forgive Newman's cessation.

Blaine's Pitiful Sophistries.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—The News says the Behring Sea blue books show the pitiful sophistries to which Mr. Blaine is reduced in trying to justify a high-handed proceeding. "America's claim is repugnant to common sense and only needs to be stated to defeat itself."

Will Russia Start the Ball?

VIENNA, Aug. 18.—People usually well informed believe that an insurrection in Armenia is close at hand, which will be followed in due time by Russian occupation of Erzeroum. The Russian garrisons in Kars, Batoum and other fortified towns have been increased and the army of the Caucasus is in a full state. Russian statesman seem to be making up their minds that the Armenian question is not one about which the triple alliance will ever concern itself.

Admiral Courbet's Monument.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—A monument to the late Admiral Courbet was unveiled yesterday at Abbeville. M. Etienne, Under Secretary for the Colonies, in a speech declared that when the nation possessed such sailors and warriors as Courbet it was time for her to emerge from her isolation and make her voice heard and her rights respected everywhere.

Proposed Balloon Trip to the North Pole.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—The French Aeronaut Besancon and the Astronomer Hermite propose to make a balloon expedition to the North Pole, starting from Spitzbergen.

THE STRIKE SITUATION.

NO PROGRESS MADE IN THE CENTRAL TROUBLE.

Engineers, Firemen and Other Railway Employes Ready to Go Out at a Moment's Notice—The Correspondence Between Powderly and Webb.

BUFFALO, Aug. 18.—The strike situation continues about the same. The passenger traffic remains practically uninterrupted, while the freight situation is serious. Every siding has its complement of freight cars, mainly loaded with perishable freight, and even the Lake Shore tracks, to a distance of 20 miles out, are packed with standing and abandoned trains. Between East Buffalo and Idlewood a very long "dressed beef" train lies motionless, its contents, to say the least, not improved by the delay. An attempt will be made to move some of the freight at East Buffalo to-day.

"We have got men enough, though they are green," said one of the yardmen this morning, "and will put them to work if the strikers will let them do anything. We have got to move the stuff in the East Buffalo yards. They are full now, and whatever else comes has got to lie outside till we can make room for it in the yards."

There was a general air of expectancy among the men interested in the strike this morning. Everybody was waiting to hear the result of Mr. Powderly's conference with Third Vice-President Webb. If it is adverse to the labor cause, the movement of Central freight by "scab" labor may be interfered with. At least the railroad officials fear interference.

The executive committee of the Knights of Labor has finished its deliberations and presented the result of its consideration of the strike to the New York Central Railroad to Third Vice-President Webb.

A QUIET DAY IN ALBANY.

Men Refuse to Take the Strikers' Places Because to War.

ALBANY, Aug. 18.—There has been no trouble on the Van Woert street crossing. A number of freight trains have passed through the city, but the police say not one of them was stoned nor a shot fired. Charles B. Dill, a Central Railroad passenger conductor, while proceeding down to go out on a train this morning was set upon by three of the striking yardmen from West Albany and severely beaten. Warrants are out for them.

Forty-five railroad men were brought from Chicago to New York on Saturday to work in the Central yards there. When they arrived at New York they were huddled into a car and brought to Albany to go to work in the West Albany yards, but not before all but 24 of them had slipped away from the man who had them in charge. One of the men who is now at East Albany said they were hired by a saloon keeper in Chicago, who told them the strike had ended and they were wanted to take the places of men who would not go back. On learning the true condition of affairs they refused to go to work.

THE CORRESPONDENCE.

Powderly's Letter to Webb and the Vice-President's Reply.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The correspondence between Grand Master Workman Powderly and Vice-President Webb was given to the press to-night.

Powderly wrote, complaining that old and faithful employes of the company had been summarily discharged, because they were members of and active in the K. of L.

Mr. Webb replied, denying that this was the case, alleging the dismissal of these men had been recommended by the various superintendents, and stating that the company could not submit the question of the discharge of any of its employes to arbitration.

Freight Traffic Tied Up.

ALBANY, Aug. 18.—The situation of the strike in this vicinity appears to be the same as on the night it was inaugurated. The strikers claim they intended no interruption of the passenger service on the Central, merely being satisfied in tying up the road's freight traffic. This program so far seems to have been successfully carried out.

A VICTORY FOR BLAINE.

Proposed Sugar Reciprocity Amendment to the McKinley Bill.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Senator Edmunds (Rep., Vt.) to-day offered the following amendment to the tariff bill, which was referred to the Committee on Finance:

"That whenever the President of the United States shall be satisfied that a sugar-producing country, whence sugar is exported into the United States, has abolished its duties or taxes on the importation of the principal agricultural products of the United States, he may by proclamation diminish or wholly remit the duties imposed by law on sugar or any grade of sugar produced in and exported directly from any such country into the United States, so long as such products of the United States are admitted free of duty or tax into such country and no longer."

Mr. Edmunds also gave notice of another amendment which he intended to propose to the tariff bill authorizing the President of the United States, whenever he shall be satisfied that unjust discriminations are made by or under the authority of any foreign country against the importation of any product of the United States, to make proclamation excluding products of that country from importation into the United States. He said this amendment was identical in its terms with one of the sections of the "Mont bill," which had passed the Senate two or three times almost unanimously but had never got any further than the Senate.

TRANSPORTATION IN BOND.

No Change Contemplated in the Present Arrangement.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Regarding the alleged notification to the Montreal Cartridge Company not to ship a consignment of cartridges for Mexico, Acting Secretary of the Treasury Spaulding said this afternoon he was not aware any change is contemplated in the present policy of the department.

An Exodus Threatened.

QUEBEC, Aug. 18.—Le Canadien appeals to the patriotism of the leaders of the Ottawa and Quebec Governments in order to provide work for the population of the counties below Quebec whose crops are a total failure. Le Canadien ascertains that thousands of families are preparing to leave the country, and unless the projected Matane Railway is pushed ahead in order to provide these families with daily bread an emigration will take place which will be ruinous to the Province.

The Choral Festival at Vienna.

VIENNA, Aug. 18.—The first concert of the choral festival yesterday was attended by 20,000 persons. All joined in singing "Des Deutsches Lied" and "Die Wacht am Rhein." A communication followed at which many speeches were made. The mayor emphasized the community of Austrians and Germans. Two hundred thousand persons entered the gardens of the Festhalle yesterday, where there was music, chorus singing and dancing. The behavior of the crowd was admirable. Special fetes were held today in honor of the Emperor's birthday. Archduke Charles Louis, on behalf of the Emperor, and all the Ministers attended the concert yesterday. The Emperor telegraphed his thanks to the vocalists.

Found in Detroit River.

WINDSOR, Aug. 18.—Yesterday Chief Baines and Officer Nash found the remains of a man apparently about 40 years of age floating in the river near the Michigan Central Depot. He was dressed in a dark colored suit of clothes, with green shirt. In his pocket were found his citizenship papers, taken out at Oswego, N.Y., and from them it was ascertained his name was Herman Conrad. The body was taken to an undertaking establishment. It is probable that the drowned man was a sailor.

BRAZIL AND UNCLE SAM.

The Wonderful Trade That is to Result From a Visit by the "Fleet."

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—A letter from Rio Janeiro says: Brazilians of all classes are delighted at the delicate attention of the United States Government in sending the "white fleet" here on an unofficial visit, and take it as a sign of sympathy and friendship on the part of the American people. Of this there is not the slightest doubt, and the great riches of Brazilian trade so long monopolized by monarchical nations are ready to be poured into American enterprises if American business men only know how to profit by the experience of other nations in this regard. Goods should be prepared especially to suit Brazilians' wants and tastes and furnished exactly in the mode practised by Brazilian business men. Ample trade will not her be suitable nor accepted. The English, Germans and French tried it, but in vain, and only built up their large and profitable business with this country by first studying the taste and wants of the people and then sending out their goods in bulk, to be offered for sale. American enterprise will be welcomed here and will receive special favors. The Brazilians look upon the lowering of duties on sugars as a favor extended for Brazil, and should the American Government treat other Brazilian products in the same manner the import duties here on kerosene, breadstuffs and other American products will very soon be fairly regulated by the government.

THE TROUBLE ABOUT MONEY.

That Bothers the Rulers of the Argentine Republic.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—A Buenos Ayres special says Senor Lopez, Minister of Finance, has declared that the government will issue no notes based on the security of land. It is intended to cancel the law for the emission of $100,000,000 in hypothecatory notes. Whatever emission may be decided upon it will be relatively small, and will be supervised by a committee, including leading foreign bankers, who will also supervise the withdrawal of the emission when confidence has been restored. Senor Lopez hopes in four months to see the moral and economical position normal and in a year to have the entire finances on a sound working basis. President Pellegrini confirmed these views. It is reported that the Government is seeking means to compensate the shareholders of the National Bank for the losses incurred by them through the Celman clique and it is trying to place the bank in a sound position without liquidation. Export merchants are not averse to a small duty on exports to help the treasury. The overdue bills of the Cordova bank are said to amount to $11,000,000. Further scandalous revelations are expected.

Cheese Markets.

Buffalo reports: There has been stagnation in cheese here for the past three weeks, and during that period most of the factories have stored or consigned through their products. There was but a limited supply boarded Monday, and of this the only sale was 1000 boxes of Cloverfield at 8c.

Little Falls reports: The cheese market has been unusually active, the home trade showing the most life. There was a little hesitation at first till the positive information was received that the Central road would run the usual cheese train and promised it should promptly reach its destination. Transactions: 22 lots at 7c, 44 lots at 7¼c, 42 lots at 7⅜c, 12 lots at 7½c, 11 lots consigned, total 10,086 boxes. There were also 1275 boxes farm dairy cheese sold at 7¼c to 7⅜c. There were four or five lots sold at 8½c. Sales of 35 packages of creamery butter were made at 19c to 21c and a small number of farm dairy at the same figure.

Utica reports: The market shows an improvement, exhibiting a general advance of ½c. The tone is uncertain and buyers are inclined to be cautious. The strike on the Central Railroad has interfered considerably with shipments and delayed the arrival of cheese in New York, so that the market has been firmer at that point than otherwise would have been the case. The shrinkage in the production of milk is about ⅓. This fact, together with prices, leaves but a small margin for the dairymen. Transactions: 153 lots, 15,342 boxes, ruling price 7⅞c.

William in Russia.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 18.—When the Emperor of Germany arrived at Narva last evening he was attired in the uniform of the Viborg regiment, and wore the decoration of the Russian Order of St. Andrew. The Czar was in the uniform of the Alexander regiment, and on his breast was the decoration of the German order of the Black Eagle. The Czarewich, Gen. Von Schoualoff, Russian ambassador to Germany, and a number of other prominent personages accompanied the Czar, and received his majesty at the railway station. After the members of the Czar's and Emperor's suites had been presented to each other the Czar and the Emperor were driven to the Polowtzoff villa, where the Czarina extended a hearty welcome to the imperial guests. A large crowd lined the route from the station and cheered the Czar and Emperor William and Chancellor Von Caprivi.

Killed by a Train.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—The horribly decomposed body of Oliver S. Ferguson, a book-binder of Toronto, was found in the high weeds along the Rock Island Railway track, four miles east of Ottawa, Ill., by section hands on Saturday afternoon. Ferguson had been in Ottawa the latter part of the previous week, after which time he was not seen until the body was found. As one of his legs was broken it is surmised that he was struck by a train and killed. The deceased was well known here as a private in the Grenadiers and a member of the Central Fife and Drum Band.

Sons of Scotland Excurt to Guelph.

GUELPH, Aug. 18.—The Toronto Sons of Scotland had their eighth annual excursion to-day to this city. They were met at the depot by representatives of the local St. Andrew's Society and Sons of Scotland. Acting Mayor Howard made a brief and cordial speech of welcome. There were about 200 uniformed men in the procession. The afternoon was devoted to games and contests of various kinds and the excursionists left for home at 7½ this evening.

A Patent Office Clerk's Fate.

OTTAWA, Aug. 18.—The body of Elzar Dantetuil, one of the chief clerks of the patent branch, Agriculture Department, was found in the canal to-day. A small sum of money and marks of violence were found on him. He has been missing since Friday.

Natural Gas Booms Kingsville.

WINDSOR, Aug. 18.—Since the Kingsville Gas Company struck gas they have received numerous letters from manufacturers making enquiries as to what inducements Kingsville will give in the way of free gas, building sites, etc. One company offers to establish a smelting works, with a weekly paylist of $1500, if sufficient inducements are held out, and another company will start a glass works with a pay roll of $1000 per week if gas can be had.

A West Virginia Cyclone.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 18.—A cyclone struck the town of Belmont in the centre of the new Eureka oil field yesterday and did several thousand dollars damage. Oil derricks and buildings were levelled in all directions. No lives were lost.

Day Defence.

WELLAND, Aug. 18.—Arthur Day, who is in jail here on the charge of murdering his wife by pushing her over the Niagara precipice, says she fell over as she was picking gooseberries. There are no witnesses anywhere near the spot where the woman went down to her death.

The Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 19, 1890.

THE Trades and Labor Council of Toronto, at their meeting on Friday, passed a resolution favoring the abolition of the tax on merchandise and the substitution of a nominal business tax as a step in the direction of the ultimate concentration of all taxes on land values.

ALL the twaddle that the trade restrictionist organs can publish in defence of the policy of encouraging the iron industry by means of bounties will not explain away the stubborn and unpleasant facts that iron mines which were being worked profitably some years ago are now idle, and that the production of pig iron in Canada is declining.

PROTECTED manufacturers are simply insatiable says the Montreal Witness. After ten or twelve years of protection in Canada our burdens, great as they are, are not at their heaviest, or any way near it, judging from the fate of those in whose path we are being driven. After thirty years of protection the United States keeps on increasing the tariff at the demands of the wealthy monopolists and other manufacturers of the republic, while there as here the farmers are greatly reduced if not actually impoverished.

A PUPIL of the Ontario institution for the blind, Brantford, was successful in matriculating at the Trinity examinations. He entered the institute at ten years of age and had received all his education from the institute's teachers. The fact is strong evidence of the efficiency of the work of the institution under Mr. Dymond. Mr. Dymond protests against the notion that the institute is an asylum. It is not an asylum, but a school for education and industrial training, giving hands and sight to the blind, and fashioning what for so long seemed waste material into useful, self-helpful humanity.

WHILE our railway companies, at a cost of millions, are building bridges over the St. Lawrence, Niagara and Detroit rivers and making a tunnel under St. Clair for the purpose of facilitating trade between Cana a and the United States, the present government of the Dominion, says the Ottawa Free Press is devising new ways and means of obstructing such trade by means of customs duties and regulations, and the McKinleyites at Washington are ably seconding the efforts of our Canadian restrictionists in that direction. After voting a subsidy in aid of the Grand Trunk company' tunnel under the St. Clair river last session, our Dominion ministers proceeded to frame a tariff calculated to make such a tunnel useless when built.

One Year at the Ontario Agricultural College.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—I very frequently receive letters from farmers' sons, asking if they will be allowed to take a special or a partial course at this college. For the information of those who write thus, and of farmers' sons generally, I would like to be permitted to answer these questions through the columns of your paper.

By the term "partial," I mean a course more or less fragmentary in regard to subjects selected and also in regard to the duration of the period of attendance. Such a course may be taken here, but it is neither desirable nor profitable. The individual who adopts this course only gets an imperfect and very probably a confused idea of any subject. By a "special" course is meant one in which the attendance continues for one college year, and during which the student devotes his attention to one or more subjects, as he may desire. By adopting this course a young man may, in one year, take in the two years' lectures on Agriculture and Dairying; but, to enable him to do so, he must board outside the institution. In this, however, there is no real hardship, for the college is but little more than one mile from the city of Guelph.

The entire cost to the outside student would include the tuition fee, books and board. The tuition fee is $20 a year, which is simply a nominal sum. The outlay for books is not of necessity more than that sum; and good board may be had in Guelph for from $3.00 per week and upwards, according to the amount of accommodation required. From the statement thus given it will be easy to estimate the entire cost of the special course, when it is borne in mind that the college year commences Oct 1st, and closes during the last half of June, and that no lectures are given from Christmas until January 22nd, following.

Those who take a special course are not required to do manual labor on the farm, and yet they may take advantage of any instruction that may be given at the stables if they choose to do this.

I would not on any account have it understood that I am recommending this in preference to the complete two years' course. The student should take the full two year's course where at all possible, or what is more preferable the regular three year's course. Perhaps it is not generally understood that a student who passes all the examinations for two years becomes an associate or graduate, and that the degree of B.S.A. is conferred upon those who successfully pass all the examinations for three years.

There may be, however, a large number of young men who cannot leave the farm for two or three years, and yet they could do so for one year. I am satisfied that to them a special course, such as I have described, would be of much value. They could thus get all the lectures on general agriculture and on live stock, and along with these could take the lectures on dairying. Lectures on other branches might also be taken in, as on veterinary or horticulture, at least the principal portion of them on one or the other of these subjects.

A number of students took this special course last winter who were unable to remain two years; but why should we not have at least one hundred students of this class every winter? By the payment of $20 for tuition, the farmer's son is thus enabled to attend while from two to four hundred lectures are being delivered on the subjects of his future life work. This tuition is, therefore, marvellously cheap, or the lectures are marvellously worthless.

Nowhere else in Canada can so much in the line of education be got for so little money; and it is just barely possible that this is one reason why those educational privileges are not more highly prized. It is my firm conviction that a young man from the farm can learn more at this institution in one year regarding the general principles of agriculture, and even regarding details and methods of much importance, than he will gather in a lifetime simply from his own experience in farm work. The same will hold true in regard to a knowledge of the breeds of live stock.

I appeal, therefore, to the young men of the farm and ask them to give the subject of this letter their careful consideration; and I appeal to the fathers on the farm, and urge upon them to allow their sons to avail themselves of the advantages of this institution if the latter are so minded. Men would call that farmer cruel who would starve his colt or calf, but what must they say of him who starves his son intellectually and that for all time?

Some may say that, in thus writing, you are blowing your own trumpet and that of your own department. I care but little what may be said on this score. The time was, and not very long since, when I was a farmer's son on a Canadian farm myself; and I think, therefore, that I have a right to know something of the educational needs of a farmer's son and of the capabilities of this institution to supply those needs. I have no anxiety to conceal the fact that I do desire that the young men who are to remain upon the farm shall have at least half the chance in an educational point of view given to those who turn their attention to the professions.

Yours, etc.,
THOMAS SHAW.

MARRYING MONTANA MINERS.

Men who Now Get the Best that the House Affords.

The next Montana miner who registers at Gore's Hotel will be under surveillance from the time he enters the house until he goes away. Tuesday afternoon two plainly dressed men, with pronounced Western manners, registered as "H. B. Swan and W. Cotton, Butte City, Mont."

They were assigned a good double room, and stated that they would be in the city a month at least.

"We are here on a powerfully important errand," said Mr. Cotton, "and we can't tell just when we can get away."

That afternoon the miner stopped one of the hall maids and asked where a general employment agency could be found. After a few words Mr. Cotton confided his errand in this city to the girl, and in that way described what he meant by a "general" employment agency.

"It's like this," he said. "Henry and I have been in the rough West for nigh onto twenty five years. We got a little money but it don't do us any good so long as we are lonesome. We live alone. See?"

The girl blushed, threw down her broom and told the stranger to go on with his tale of woe.

"You ain't interested yourself, are you?" asked Mr. Cotton. "I reckon not, but you are just hearing me as a part of your work to make the guests feel at home. Oh, this is not the first time I've travelled. Well, to go on. Henry and I have good homes near Butte. We have a few thousand dollars and there is more coming. Now, we made up our minds we would come to Chicago, round up these employment agencies that I heard so much of, and each bring home a wife. If she can't love us at first, perhaps she can cook. There I've told you what I came here for. Now, if you can send us to an employment agency, or, better still, send us to two girls who are willing to try a go at a marriage, why, I'll stake you to a fine dress for Sundays."

"I think I can find two girls," answered the maid, as she stooped to pick up the broom.

"When?" asked the Westerner.

"To-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, in the parlor down stairs."

"Bully!"

The hardy old miners felt chagrined the next morning when they went into the hotel parlor, but they had gone too far to back out. They had been in the room only a few moments when the maid to whom one had talked the previous day and her companion entered. Without using a line of poetry, the maid declared that she and her companion were ready to take a new lease of life. The matches were made, and at 10:30 the girl were in the office asking for their time.

"Where are you going?" asked the housekeeper.

"We are engaged to go out West."

"In a hotel?"

"No; in homes of our own. We are to be married at noon, and it is nearly 11 o'clock now, so good-by."

The licenses were secured, the couples were married, and Thursday night they started for Montana. The affair has literally set the hotel upside down.

"Why," said Manager Langdale in English, "a man from Montana came in, and every girl in the house is trying to wait on him. The next unmarried man from Montana will be a welcome guest to stop here."—Chicago Tribune.

THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

At Forty-six She Begins to Show the Ravages of Time.

I saw the Princess of Wales driving on Piccadilly on her way back to Marlborough House from her visit to the Royal Academy. She was becomingly and tastefully dressed in brown silk and velvet, but truth compels me to say that her beauty is decidedly on the wane. To be sure it is time—she is nearly forty six—but she has preserved her delicate loveliness so long unimpaired that one parts with an illusion on beholding her now. She is "fearfully and wonderfully made" up, though very artistically, and wears quantities of false hair which is lighter, not to say redder, than her own locks used to be in by gone days. Rumor declares that her Royal Highness wears a wig, and she certainly indulges in too great a mass of false tresses to suit either the shape of her head or the delicate outline of her features. In her photographs she is as beautiful as ever, but seen in broad daylight one cannot but be amazed at the amount of artifice employed in preserving even the shadow of her youthful charms. This process of powdering and pencilling and berigging one's self is always the mistake into which royal ladies who have been great beauties invariably fall when they become advanced in life. The Empress Eugenie was a flagrant example of this form of error. Before the downfall of the Empire she was the veriest type of Dickens's "Mrs. Skewton" that could be met with in all Europe. Rouge and pearl powder, red lip salve and false yellow hair, and all the rest of it, made of the once peerless beauty a perfect "guy." She looks a great deal better now with her silvery locks and pale complexion, than she did whilst she was still fighting vainly with time to retain the perfections of her youthful charms.—London Letter.

There is more fun in a sheet of sticky fly paper than in the average negro minstrel. Watch the kitten playing with it on the new carpet; the latter is ruined for ever; the kitten goes into a fit and all the women and children rush out of the house in terror. If you want to rid your house of flies, buy Wilson's Fly Poison Pads, and use as directed. Nothing else will clear them out thoroughly. Sold at 10c. by all druggists. dw

SMALL DOG AND BIG MAN.

How a Poor Little Canine was Mauled with a Policeman's Club.

With all these hydrophobia patients coming to New York to be treated the popular mind has been alarmed and excited over dogs of all sorts and of all conditions of bad temper and irritation. Sc yesterday, when a pet dog at 313 West fifty-ninth street began to foam at the mouth and bark and snap, the two women in the house tied him with a piece of twine to a washtub and yelled out of the window for the police.

Sergeant Chapman, of the Forty-seventh Street Station, happened to be passing at the time, and, undaunted by the conflicting cries of "murder!" and "Mad dog!" ran into the house and up the stairs. He found the two women in two corners, and the dog greatly excited and endeavoring to pull the washtub over in it efforts to get free.

Sergeant Chapman is not only a brave man, according to the Evening Sun, but he is a thoughtful man, and though he could have shot the dog, if the dog would have held still long enough, or clubbed its brains out, he refrained because he did not want to scatter blood and portions of dead dog over the apartment. So he told the frightened owners of the flat to wait, and went out for a bottle of chloroform, which he obtained at the drug store on the corner.

He dosed a sponge with this and approached the dog cautiously with the sponge held out invitingly before him. "Here, doggie; good doggie," he said in a conciliatory tone.

The dog sniffed at the chloroform, and seemed to like it immensely. Then the sergeant shoved it closer, but this angered the dog, who barked louder and more violently than ever, and finally with one superior effort broke the string which held it and dived at the obnoxious sponge with its mouth open to receive it.

The sergeant is a large man, but he can move quickly on occasion, and he moved very quickly yesterday. He reached the sofa with one bound, and drawing his club, prepared to sell his life dearly. If he went to Paris he wanted to see other things there than M. Pasteur's laboratory. The two women jumped upon two chairs and wrapped their skirts around their ankles and screamed while the dog raced around and around the room and yelped and barked in a frenzy of anger and excitement.

It was getting very feverish, indeed, when Sergeant Chapman reached down and hit a clip at the dog's head with his club. The dog stopped and offered battle, and got a blow on the side of the jaw that silenced it and two more on the head that killed it. Then the sergeant washed his club in the tub of water, and the two women came down from their perches and paid a boy 10 cents to bury the dog in a vacant lot.

HIS WATCH HAD STOPPED.

Otherwise the Company Would Have had a Big Suit to Fight.

A big man having a big bundle under either arm, bustled into the Third street depot yesterday, and was rushing for one of the gates when an official asked him where he wanted to go, says the Detroit Free Press.

"To Flint," was the reply.

"Train's gone."

"When."

"Half an hour ago."

"Then I'll sue the company! It lacks a minute now of train time."

"You are off, sir."

"Bet you a million dollars. See here," He pulled out his watch and triumphantly pointed to the hands, which backed his statement. The other took the watch and held it to his ear, and smiled and said:

"No tick here. That watch stopped last night."

"Kick me for an old cow if it didn't!" exclaimed the owner as he held it up. "It is a narrow escape for this railroad, though and I hope you'll receive it as a great moral warning. I'd a peppered you for a cool $50,000 sure.

HOW TO SELL CARPET SWEEPERS.

Ingenious if Tricky Device of an Enterprising Peddler

A man who sells carpet sweepers was asked how it was, that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred he never failed to make a sale, says the Boston Globe.

"Easy enough," he replied. "You see this simple sweeper here. Well, its full of dust. I approach the lady of the house with it, and while she is saying doesn't want anything of the kind I just run over the carpet several times. This done I open the sweeper and show her that, although she may think they have, the servants' brooms have not done their work properly. See!

"You can imagine her surprise when she thinks that her dear Brussels, swept only that morning, still contains bushels of dust. And I do it so gently. A push, no noise, and lo! lots of dust! Who would be without one? Worth their weight in gold, sir!

"But I've got to be lively or get caught. Some women will stop you at the door and attempt to examine the sweeper before you have a chance to run it over the carpet. Don't allow em to. Push in, and while you are praising the machine set it moving briskly.

The Sense of Smell Becoming Blunted.

Smell is the most acute by far of the five human sense. Take an ounce of musk most powerful of scents—and leave it where the atmosphere is still open on a table for a year. At the end of that time, having for full twelve months rendered odorous the whole air in its neighborhood, the most delicate scale can not detect that it has lost a particle in weight. Yet the smell has been infinitely distributed, microscopic portions of the musk floating off and exerting impressions upon the nerve papilles under the delicate lining of the nasal passages; for this is what smell means. The sense has grown almost rudimentary in human beings, through want of necessity for its use under civilized conditions but it is highly probable that the cave men it quite as well developed as the sharpest-nose beasts.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

HINTS ON DROWNING.

Keep Your Breath and Keep Your Nose Are the Main Ones

The New York Times in some "Hints on Drowning" says: "Keep your breath" is of course the best advice to people who won't be advised not to trifle with the liquid which both floats and strangle. The next best advice is: "Keep your head." If in threatening circumstances, think. If you are swimming in the breakers, reflect that the approaching wave, which suddenly looks so high, will certainly lift you to its height before the foamy comber breaks about your ears. And when the passing wave sinks beneath your fallen body, have no fear that you will be swallowed in the watery abyss. Nothing more exhausts an ocean swimmer than useless efforts to climb an approaching mountain of water, or to float downward more slowly than the receding wave.

The water will float very nearly all women and most men in such a position that they can breathe if the limbs are allowed to sink. But the arms can only be thrust higher than the head at the cost of submerging the nose. In exactly the same way, if one edge of a life preserver be depressed its mass will turn as on a pivot and the opposite edge will rise without giving much increase of floating power. Just as nearly the whole body must be submerged to elevate the nose, so a life preserver must be wholly depressed to give its greatest floating power. Therefore a plank or log should be grasped at its middle and not at its end; but, on the other hand, a boat should be seized at the stern instead of the middle, unless the object be to roll its gunwales under and fill it.

Only to Eat Men.

I ran across John S. Wise, of Virginia, yesterday, when he told me that he was going to be a giddy young thing, having reduced his avoirdupois in two months from 206 pounds to 186 pounds. When I asked him how he did it he made the mocking reply that the only man he would tell was a fat man. This is to notify all fat men to apply to the ex-Congressman from a relief from too much flesh.—New York Press.

A True Ghost Story.

A certain young lady, while alone one evening in her room last week, whiled away the hours by reading a thrilling ghost story. Page after page she became interested, and the weird hour of midnight was passing. Needless to say, she was nervous. What young woman is there that, sitting enthralled by an exciting ghost story at midnight and alone, wouldn't condescend to become agitated at the proper moment? Strange coincidence, but at this proper moment an eminently respectable banjo that had long been in the room had one string that couldn't stand the strain longer, so just as the hour hand was midway between the hours 12 and 1 it broke with a sharp report. People living four blocks away, who were awakened by a female shriek that night, are sending in their condolences to the fair young reader of the ghost story.—Kennebec Journal.

Pigeons for Use in War.

More attention than ever is being paid by the military authorities in Germany to the training of pigeons for carrying messages in war time, and 50,000 marks have been voted this year for covering the expenses entailed in consequence, whereas in former years only 35,000 marks was granted. About 8000 pigeons are now available and besides these there are some 30,000 more that belong to private individuals, which could be made use of.—Galignani Messenger.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase $1,709,812 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $219,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$43,664,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,768,327	16.25
Sun Life	11,670,817	10 28
North American	3,470,620	10 68
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17 94
Ottawa	2 087 956	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20 12
London Life	1,644,236	20.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company above under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 20 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Gough Bros. Baby Show.

One of the biggest attractions at the Peterborough Central Exhibition will be the baby show in the clothing department of Gough Bros. the wonderful cheap men, in the main exhibition building. A study of the registrar general's books show that there have been an unusual number of babies produced this year, therefore there will be a big competition—lots of babies and lots of fun—anxious mothers, doting fathers and critical old maids. The sum of $25 will be devoted to prizes—a ten dollar suit of clothes to the father of the winning baby, a ten dollar cashmere dress to the proud mother of the champion cherub and $5 to the champion cherub itself. Don't let this great feature of the great exhibition escape your memory. it will worth all the rest of the show put together. The exhibition baby show of Gough Bros is a permanent feature of the Central Exhibition. There are already a score or more of competitors mentioned, so that the coming baby show will be the greatest of all. Great are the Goughs, and the baby shows is their profit!

News Nuggets.

—The Canton of Patriarchs Militant went to Cobourg this morning.

—The C.P.R. train was an hour late today, having to wait for connections at Detroit.

—The Hastings baseball club went down Cobourg last night to compete in the tournament. The plucky village nine will have some hard rows to hoe before they can gain a victory.

—An East Toronto cricket team plays here to-morrow. The eleven to represent Peterborough has not yet been completed. Any cricketters wishing to play may send in their names to-night to Secretary Sam Ray.

Personal.

Losses Caused by Flames.

MONTREAL, Aug. 18. Pierre Cadoret's grocery store in Ontario street was completely destroyed by fire this morning. Loss $12,000.

LINDSAY, Aug. 18.—Fire in the lumber yard of Killaby & Kennedy yesterday morning did $1200 damage, fully insured in the Queen's.

QUEBEC, Aug. 18.—News has been received from Bic, County Rimouski, stating that a Roman Catholic church there was completely destroyed by fire this morning, caused by a lamp exploding. Nothing was saved. Loss about $40,000, about $8000 insurance.

WYOMING, Aug. 18.—The residence of Thomas Mead, machine agent, was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning. The fire is supposed to have started by the explosion of a lamp which was kept burning all night. Mr. Mead received severe injuries in jumping to the ground. He was forced to leave his pocketbook containing $200 behind. It was found afterwards among the ashes but the contents were a total loss.

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—About 10 o'clock this morning fire started on the lower floor of the apartment house No. 98 and 100 East 32nd street and Nos. 415 and 417 Fourth avenue. The flames shot up through the air shaft with great suddenness, and when the alarm of fire was given the occupants of the building took flight without trying to save their property. Several persons were overcome by smoke and carried out in an unconscious condition. The building was gutted.

Robbed in Broad Daylight.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 18.—George Hadden, a live stock dealer of Torkio, Kan., came here yesterday with a carload of hogs and went to a restaurant, where he engaged two negroes, John Debal and John Fowler, to help him unload the stock. In paying his bill at the restaurant he displayed a large roll of money. Being unfamiliar with the city he was easily led in the wrong direction by the negroes on the pretence of looking for a street car. When opposite South Park Hadden grew suspicious and refused to go further, whereupon one of the negroes knocked him down, and they took from his pocket $400 and his way bills and escaped. Fowler was captured but Debal is still at large. Fowler had $165 tied in a knot in his undershirt. Debal had the balance of the money and the way bills. The affair occurred in the heart of the city at 8 o'clock in the afternoon.

Was the Wrong Man Hanged?

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Much interest has been excited here by the developments in the case of the murder of the man Babbington, a gamekeeper in the employ of Lord Tollemache, and for which a poacher named Blagg was hanged on the ground that his boots fitted into certain footprints made by the assassin. As a man in New Orleans has now confessed that he is the murderer and borrowed the boots worn by Blagg a reporter called on the latter's widow with regard to the circumstances. Mrs Blagg declares that she distinctly remembers a man named James Jones coming to the house on the night of the murder, borrowing her husband's boots and leaving his own clogs in their place. This would seem to indicate that there is some foundation for the story that comes from across the Atlantic. Should the facts be still further authenticated they will be laid before the Home Secretary. He will be asked to pension the widow. She now receives aid from the parish.

MR. DAVIDSON, in introducing a by-law to levy the rate, stated his regret that the rate this year was the highest for the past fifteen years. The council should take no share of the blame, if there were any blame for this rise in the rate. It was due almost altogether to the extraordinary demand for schools, which was responsible for an increase of one mill in the rate. Mr. Davidson hoped the members of the school board would be able to show that this increase was justifiable. There was also an increase in a few other items. For instance, at the Wm. Hamilton fire the hose were injured by bursting and being run over by trains, and replacing this loss involved an expense of $500. Here he would suggest that the Fire Department should be improved so that it would rank in class "A." Brockville, with no better equipment, ranked as "A," owing to having more paid men—five or six. By employing one or two extra men our department would be up to the rank of "A," and the extra men would be of use in assisting the engineer and Terence Smith in keeping the engine, fire apparatus and the premises and stables in better order. The interest account amounted to $1,100, principally owing to the debentures for the town buildings. These debentures were not yet issued, but it was thought wise to provide for interest and sinking fund and not carry over balances to the next year. In law there was an increase, arising from the costs in the case of Croft vs. town of Peterborough. The losses from unpaid taxes and charity was large—$1,200, but this was a matter the council could not control. And then there was $700 extra expenditure—upon a new powder magazine. Then the revenue had fallen off some $1,800; but this, while being a financial loss, was a moral gain and the people should be well satisfied that there was so great a difference in the moral condition of the town as represented by a decrease in the police court revenue of $1,800. Referring to the demand of the Commissioners, which was the same as before, Mr. Davidson said the town was in an enviable position. Of an issue of debentures amounting to $49,000, all would be taken up from resources within the town at its command, without going upon the outside market. For instance, the Nicholls Hospital Trust would take up the issue of $18,000 school debentures and would return $19 000 school debentures now held by the Commissioners. This would enable the Commissioners of the Town Trust to take up the balance of the debentures issued on the town account. The Nicholls hospital demand was some $500 less than last year. The was the last year that such a demand would be required on behalf of the hospital. This institution in the future would be self-sustaining, or if not absolutely so, the demand would be so small as to be insignificant. Mr. Davidson concluded by moving the first reading of a by-law to levy the rate which in accordance with the details of the statement was placed at 15 mills on the dollar. A clause of the by law provides that on all unpaid taxes by the 15th of December, five per cent addition should be made.

Mr. Kendry and Mayor Stevenson spoke before the committee rose, in explanation of the increase in the school demand, due to improvements in school buildings and new buildings and the employment of additional teachers. Mr. Stevenson also referred to the increase in the estimates, covering principally the same ground over which Mr. Davidson had travelled. Incidentally Mr. Stevenson advocated the paying of taxes by the landlord instead of the tenant and adjusting the rent to meet the new conditions of agreement between the landlord and tenant.

Mr. MOORE took a hand in the discussion and suggested that the increase in the schools was due to what he severely denounced the continual increase of the salaries of teachers. There was need of retrenchment, for the school demand was about one-third of the total taxation.

Mr. STEVENSON denied that there had been a teacher's salary increased for the past year, and Mr. Kendry confirmed this statement, adding that there was a resolution on the minutes of the Board declaring that after the first of January there would be no increase.

The bylaw received its third reading and was duly passed.

MOTIONS.

On motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Davidson, the petition of the Trades and Labour Council was granted, and the Mayor requested to declare Monday, Sept. 1st a civic holiday.

On motion of Mr. Davidson, seconded by Mr. Cahill the contract for building of the cribbing on the Little Lake was authorized to be let, the same to be completed as high as high water mark and loaded sufficiently, the balance to be completed next season.

On motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Davidson, the Property Committee was authorized to make arrangements with the caretaker of the town clock, to have the same removed to the new town building.

MR MOORE moved, seconded by Mr. Langford, and resolved, that it having been represented to this council that the village of Ashburnham is willing to be united with and become a part of this town, that Councillors Davidson, E. H. D Hall, Langford, the Mayor and the mover be a committee to ascertain if the council of Ashburnham is ready to take the necessary steps for the union, and to report to this council for action on our part.

Mayor STEVENSON stated that the proposition, though not official, arose from Ashburnham.

The motion was carried.

WATER STREET WHARF

Mr. LANGFORD stated that there was a Government appropriation for a wharf on the river front from the C.P.R road south to Wolfe street, and he moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry.—That Water street be opened from the C.P.R. line to Wolfe street.

Mr. CAHILL urged that Water street should be opened up to Sherbrooke street.

The motion was carried.

A motion of Mr. Cahill, to open up Water street from Sherbrooke to Wolfe, was left as notice of motion.

The council adjourned.

Equal Rights.

The topic of the day and that which we all want is not only Equal Rights in a political sense of the word, but in many others. Here are people throwing away their hard earned money, with unprincipled houses who do not as much as thank them for it. Why should they do it? Why not call on W.J. SCALDED TO DEATH.

FROM 15 TO 20 PEOPLE KILLED ON THE OLD COLONY ROAD.

Twelve Dead Bodies Taken from the Wreck Three More Succumb to their Injuries Dozens Badly Hurt List of the Maimed and Burned Victims.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—A serious accident happened to the Vineyard express on the Old Colony road at Quincy at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The train jumped the track 100 feet on the other side of President's Bridge. The first passenger coach fell on the engine, the latter having toppled over. The engine set fire to the train. The fireman was instantly killed and the engineer fatally injured. As far as learned 8 passengers were killed and about 20 injured. The latter were for the greater part injured by escaping steam, having been frightfully scalded. The Quincy fire department was called to the scene as quickly as possible, and shortly afterwards the fire was extinguished. The dead and injured were removed from the scene, the latter being taken into private houses and to the Quincy Hospital. The scene of the accident is near the scene of the frightful Woodaton disaster of a few years ago. The train was due in Boston at 11 p.m., and consisted of five or six parlor and passenger cars, usually fully loaded. It generally runs at the rate of 40 miles an hour as this point.

William Fennessy, a house builder of Boston, was a passenger in the fourth car of the train. It was in this car, he says, that most of the casualties occurred. The train was running through Quincy at the rate of 30 miles an hour. At Neptune President's Bridge there was a rumbling sound followed by an awful crash. The three forward cars crossed and left the track. The fourth car left the rails and swept right along upon the broken bridge, five which lay in its way, forcing itself right on top of it. The shock was terrific, and all seemed as if the car drove right out into the air. When the car descended on the engine it whirled suddenly over, the occupants being thrown violently about.

The boiling steam came into the car in great crowds from the locomotive beneath, scalding and almost suffocating the people penned inside. Upon the descent of the car the shock was torn in the bottom of it, through which many of the 40 or 50 people were taken out. Mr. Fennelly thinks about seven persons were killed and about 25 lightly injured.

William Fennelly said: "Thirty seconds after the car struck I could have given $1000 for a drink of any kind from whisky to water. I thought I should suffocate. The steam scalding steam entered the car in dense clouds from the locomotive boiler. It filled every crevice and nook and almost suffocated those whom it did not burn to death. It caused all the cuts in my opinion serious injuries would have been the worst to report but for those dreadful scalds. Men and women were gasping for breath as they tried to shriek and shout, and as they became weaker and weaker as the steam filled their lungs, I could see them push their hands or feet through the broken windows, trying in vain to get a breath of fresh air. It seemed as though the car would never be cool. There were lots of passengers in the car, and as several wounded more or less seriously. I saw others crying for help and did what I could. I saw the dead, the injured and women as they came to consciousness. Then, and I heard them groaning in death struggles as the scalding fumes became hotter and denser. The sights I saw and sounds I heard will never, I think, be forgotten by me.

"I think I touched the hole in the bottom of the car and in some way crawled out. All at once I was struck on from. The passengers from the other and then hastily gathered themselves together and were not to be seen. But over a fence bordering the railway track were lots of 20 men, and it seemed to me but watching the ruin and power of fright and astonishment. I scrambled behind my sworn at them but they would not answer. And the more I cursed the more helpless they became. These men I made to call them that saw me rise from the [illegible] at heels of [illegible] with all my might, not one pull help less women from the interior of the steaming cars, saw me caught beneath a falling bar of iron or timber to release myself to aid others refused to aid me. I do not know whether they were cowards or what, but they seemed a second and strong arising from me. I did what of the cars as best I could and do what I was able to in assisting others.

The following twelve dead bodies were taken from the wreck:

Mrs. CECILIA ALLEN, Philadelphia.
Mrs. MARY E. FENNELLY, aged 70, Louisville, Ky.
E. J. JOHNSON, Montpelier, Vt.
JOHN RYAN, South Boston, fireman of train.
Four women.
Two men.
Two children, one a boy of 14.
The following died during the afternoon and evening:
Mrs. A. C. WELLS, Hartford. Conn. a daughter of E. L. Welch of Waterville, Conn.
MRS. FENNELLY.
CATHERINE FENNELLY.
The last named were wife and daughters of Mrs. D. Fennelly, Louisville.
The following are fatally injured:
Mrs. O. FENNELLY, Louisville, wife of the cashier of the Citizens' National Bank of Louisville, scalded over whole body.
C. M. Cope, Cleveland, scalded over whole body, not expected to live till morning.
E. BARRY of Dorchester, formerly proprietor of The Boston Herald, scalded in the head and hands.
[illegible] Young were seriously but not fatally injured.
Miss Martha E. Chase, Santa Rosa, Cal., face and left arm burned.
C. M. Dimmick, Los Angeles, Cal., face and hip scalded.
[illegible] had her face and hands scalded and received a comp und fracture of both bones of the left leg.
George P. Welch of Cleveland, [illegible] station critical.
Henry James Welch, face, arms and back scalded.
W. E. Addison of Cleveland, face and arms burned and thighs bruised.
Mrs. Andrew Fowler, Charlestown, spine bruised and back scalded.
Mrs. Elizabeth Mrs. George M. Snow, face and hands scalded.
Mrs. Mary E. Snow, Charlestown, face and hands scalded and internal injuries.
[illegible] R. Abbott, Louisville, face and hands scalded and compound fracture of left [illegible] condition critical.
[illegible] W. R. Abbott, Louisville, hands scalded.
[illegible] Lawrence, slightly scalded on hands and face.
E. F. Benson, Pullman conductor, right side of face cut and ear nearly torn off.
E. W. Edwards, judge in chancery, Louisville, wrists cut.
[illegible] N. Wales, Boston, finger broken.
Elizabeth Fennelly, aged 6, Louisville, hands, arms and legs burned.
Jessie McAlister, Fort Wayne, face, side and hands burned.
Ruth Blackburn, Lowell, Mass., face, side and hands burned.
Mary McHaire, Fort Wayne, compound fracture of the nose and knee sprained.
Lucy, negro maid of the Fennelly's, badly burned.
Engineer Babcock, wrist broken and head and legs lacerated.

R. T. Needham, Mrs. J. S. Needham and Mrs. J. C. Brown, Lawrence; Mrs. S. F. Stowe of Somerville; Dr. F. B. Warner of Canandaigua, N.Y.; Moses Farnham of Franklin; M. Hirschberg, Boston; Miss Minnie Hubbard and Miss Rose Tucker, Lexington, and Miss Eva Bullard, Nashville, all scalded slightly or hurt.

It is reported that the name of one of the unidentified dead is W. H. Grody and that two others are Mrs. E. P. Johnson and her 15-year-old boy. It is also reported the niece of Mrs. A. C. Wells of Hartford is among the unidentified dead.

When the engine jumped the track it plunged into an embankment 12 feet high and was buried. Upon one side the tender, baggage car, smoker and Pullman passed by the engine and were stretched along for 100 feet beside the track. The foremost passenger coach, No. 256, left the rails and its foremost trucks swerved to the left and plunged diagonally through the car floor. The car fell on its left side on the engine. The lower forward portion was torn to pieces, and of the two setees in the rear car, some 50 in number, many were thrown into the rear corner, from which 11 dead bodies were taken out.

The escaping steam and smoke from the engine instantly filled the car, so that those within could see nothing. The forward cars were forced over upon the outward-bound track, completely blocking traffic, and up to 8½ p.m. no train had passed the wreck. The three rear passenger coaches did not leave the track and the occupants received only a slight shaking up. All the surgeons of Quincy hasted themselves at the wreck. Twenty-five surgeons from Boston also went to Quincy on a special train. All that human skill could accomplish was done to soothe the last hours of the dying and quiet the pain of the injured.

A SMASH-UP ON THE MIDLAND.

The Mail Train Dashes Into a Special Freight Three Persons Injured.

ORILLIA, Aug. 19.—A smash-up occurred yesterday on the Midland Railway, near Mud Lake, six miles from Orillia. There is a steep grade here, and a special freight from Midland was unable to climb the grade and split the train in two, leaving part standing on the track. The mail train from Midland dashed around the curve, the engineer not seeing or not paying attention to the flagman. Seeing collision inevitable the engineer jumped and was severely injured. The fireman stuck to his post and escaped unhurt. The rear car of the freight mounted the locomotive, damaging the smokestack, bell and front of engine. The injured are.

James Deans, Midland, driver, cut on head, breast and arm seriously.

Charles Mallory, Orillia, cut on leg and knee.

Mr. Munns, cut on head and face.

The front truck of the passenger engine was derailed. A wrecking gang from Orillia was sent up and the track was cleared at midnight.

COLLISION AT GRAVENHURST.

A Way Freight Runs Into a Gravel Train—The Hands Escape Injury.

GRAVENHURST, Aug. 19.—As a way freight attached to engine No. 671, driver Arthur Burns, was coming from the north it collided with a gravel train on the main line in the north end of the town. The gravel train was being hauled by engine 662, driver W. Campbell. Four flat cars and a caboose were derailed, the two flats also being thrown off the track and one end of the caboose being smashed. Engine 671 mounted the other one, breaking and damaging the fronts of both, also partly derailing the tender of 662. Nobody was hurt, all the train hands and navvies jumping after having done all they could to prevent the accident.

A MEXICAN MUTINY.

Soldiers Kill Their Commanding Officer and Desert in a Body.

MEXICO, Aug. 19.—One of the most sensational events that has taken place in the military garrison here occurred late last night in the Santiago Zaltbeolo ward, where seventeen soldiers, acting as patrol for the city custom house, deserted in a body after killing their lieutenant. They first struck him on the head with the stock of a gun, and then shot him and stabbed him five times in the face with a bayonet. The emeute was headed by a sergeant, who formed the men into line and marched to the nearest city gate. Under some pretext they got the keeper and guard to allow them to pass. Once outside they fired upon the keeper. The minister of war and the garrison commander went personally to the scene of the murder and ordered a detachment of the Second Cavalry in pursuit, and it is said that three of the deserters have been captured. One soldier was left behind by the deserters, he was not aroused in time to be a witness of the bloody affair, but was the one to communicate the news of the desertion to police headquarters.

He Belongs to Millbrook, Ont.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 19.—Harry Hamilton shot himself through the heart this afternoon and died instantly. He was a hotel porter and worked in the St. James' Hotel, Denver, and had been employed in the Palace Hotel here for a year. He was discharged three weeks ago. He came back looking for work to-day. He had been drinking. Failing to obtain employment he started for Litchfield, a country town near here.

He had two valises, and after visiting several saloons left them temporarily with a storekeeper. Then he stepped into an alley and put a bullet through his heart. He said to a companion a few minutes before that he had consumption, that the girl he had loved had gone back on him and that he did not care to live.

Particulars are not known here, but live in Millbrook, Ont., and the body will be sent

THE WORK OF THE WIND.

DISASTROUS CYCLONE IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Wilkesbarre in Ruins Hundreds of Buildings Wrecked and Many Lives Lost—Other Towns in the Keystone State suffer—The Wires All Down.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 19.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon the most terrible cyclone that was ever experienced in this locality struck this city. It came up the river. From what point it originated is not now known. The suddenness of its coming was one of its most awful features. The heavens were as black as night, the wind blew with most frightful velocity, whole rows of trees were blown down. Following this hundreds of houses were unroofed, partially blown over or completely demolished and, worse than all, the visitation of death was sent upon a number of people. How many were killed is not known at this time. Large districts in several sections of the city are in absolute ruin and the women and children are in the streets crying and wringing their hands in absolute dismay. The damage will reach hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Passenger trains and locomotives at the depot were blown over and every wire in the city, electric light, telephone and telegraph, is down. The devastation is to be compared with nothing in the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Everybody is rejoicing that no fires have as yet followed, for the streets are impassable with trees and fallen buildings and the engines could not be drawn through them.

The total death loss so far as is ascertained is 13. Four men are known to have been killed in the Hazard wire rope works. A house in Scott-street occupied by miners who had just returned from work fell in and three of the inmates were killed. The huge stack of the Kyttle planing mill fell on a man and two horses, and all were killed. A little colored girl was killed by a falling building in South Main-street. Two men suffered death by the falling of a portion of Stegmaier's brewery and a third incurred the same fate through the almost complete demolition of S. L. Brown's handsome brick business block in East Market-street. There are undoubtedly 15 or 16 others killed.

Reports are coming constantly to that effect. It is impossible to give names or particulars. Many poor people have suffered heavy losses and it will be months before all the damage can be repaired. One hundred tin roofers have been telegraphed for, and building mechanics of all kinds can find employment here for weeks to come, as it is already known that fully 300 buildings have been blown down or otherwise damaged.

Many of the structures were large and of great value. In addition to the large buildings hundreds of citizens have suffered losses running from $500 to $5000. The Murray shaft fan house was blown down and the fan stopped. There are 35 men in the mine, but it is hoped they can be got out safely.

Reports come from Sugar Notch, a mining town three miles from here, that the destruction of property is terrible, and that 15 persons were killed.

At Parsons and Millbrook, four miles from here, coal breakers in all directions have been more or less damaged and the number of killed will reach 10.

Mayor Sutton to-night issued a proclamation calling on members of the 9th Regiment to assemble at the armory early to morrow morning to aid in the police supervision of the city. He also requested all workingmen to report to him for cleaning up the debris.

The wires are working so badly that it is impossible to get anything off. The estimated loss at midnight is $500,000, although it may reach higher figures. The suffering is great. A terrible rainstorm set in shortly after the cyclone and drenched the exposed property in the track of the cyclone. At midnight the rain was pouring down in torrents.

IT MAY BE MURDER.

John McDonald of London Beaten by Toughs An Artery Severed.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 19.—Last evening John McDonald of 960 William-street 16 company with two friends while walking homeward in Piccadilly-street were met by a crowd of six men, who assaulted them. McDonald received a severe blow on the nose, which severed one of the arteries besides breaking his nose. His companions carried him home and a doctor was summoned.

The injured man bled profusely all night. The doctor plugged the nostril, but twice the stoppage gave way and the immense flow of blood weakened him so that at 3 this afternoon there was scarcely any hope of his recovery. If a third plugging is found necessary the man's death will certainly occur.

McDonald has made an ante-mortem statement. He knows who the men were and to-morrow it is expected that they will be under arrest.

WON WITH THE PRINCESS' HELP.

Prince Caraman-Chimay Elected to the Belgian Parliament.

DETROIT, Aug. 19.—A despatch received to-day announces that Prince Caraman-Chimay, who married Miss Clara Ward a few months ago, has been elected to parliament from his district by a large majority. The district in which the Prince resides has been represented in Parliament by the Opposition for nearly 30 years. The Princess took an active interest in the campaign and participated to a degree hitherto entirely unknown in the history of Belgian politics. She accompanied her husband throughout the district and was received with great honors everywhere.

KNIFED IN A DRUNKEN ROW.

Walter Gable of Tilbury Township Stabs Frank Dimond.

WINDSOR, Aug. 19.—Sunday night, during a drunken altercation in the Middle-road in Tilbury Township, Walter Gable stabbed Frank Dimond in the right leg, making a serious wound. Constable Lindsay tried to arrest Gable but the latter escaped. Lindsay, however, caught him yesterday and brought him to Windsor. This morning Magistrate Barlett remanded the prisoner for eight days.

The Peninsular Saengerfest.

WATERLOO, Aug. 19.—The town is rapidly filling up with strangers for the 10th Peninsular Saengerfest. The main street is gorgeously decorated, as is also the rink in which all the concerts will take place. It is expected that fully 15,000 people will be present.

GEN. MIDDLETON OFF FOR ROME.

He Talks to a Montreal Reporter—His Future Movements Uncertain.

OTTAWA, Aug. 19.—Gen. Sir Fred Middleton left for England to-day. A local auctioneer created a sensation by demanding payment of a $35 bill; the General, however satisfied him with a check, which was promptly marked good by the local manager of the Bank of Montreal, who was among the crowd of friends at the station to bid the General good bye.

MONTREAL, Aug. 19.—Gen. Middleton sails to-morrow morning on the Allan liner Sardinian for Liverpool. In an interview with a Herald reporter he said:

"Yes, I'm leaving Canada. You don't care a rap for me, nor I for you. The cause of my hasty departure is that I wish to put my son in Sandhurst.

"As to Hayter Reed I don't care to say anything that will damage any man in the eyes of the public, therefore I will withhold my opinion.

"My removal was caused by the Government, and I hold them to blame, although the Opposition pushed them. They could not carry a vote of censure, however. I foresaw the whole trouble at the time the Bremner fur motion was introduced into the House.

"I don't feel prepared to state my future movements."

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

A CASE OF ASIATIC CHOLERA IN LONDON.

The Disease Brought to the Metropolis by a Recent Arrival from Calcutta—The Forthcoming Meeting of the Austrian and German Emperors.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—A sensation has been caused here by a case of Asiatic cholera. Robert Teigh, a coat trimmer aged 46, landed Sunday from the steamer Duke of Argyle, and secured lodgings in a coffee house. To-day he was carried to a hospital where the doctors pronounced his case one of Asiatic cholera.

Edmund Yates' Gossip.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—There is no doubt, so Edmund Yates cables The Tribune, that the forthcoming meeting of the Austrian and German emperors, following closely on the visit of the latter to England and Russia, is of the highest political importance. It is to take place Sept. 17 at Castle Romnstock, in Silesia. Although described as strictly private the discussion of certain weighty political questions will be facilitated by the presence of the King of Saxony, Chancellor Von Caprivi, Count Kalnoky and Count Waldersee.

In spite of all remarks to the contrary Mr. Smith will still be the leader in the House of Commons when parliament meets in November. Mr. Goschen will assist from time to time.

It is a pity that Lord Salisbury cannot give to the public the Errington correspondence in the foreign office. It would throw wonderful light on the crookedness and perversity of the Gladstonian policy. For months Mr. Gladstone's government carried on a series of intrigues with the Vatican, the object of which was to secure the support of the Irish Catholic episcopate for the British Government. While the Pope was not unfriendly to Mr. Gladstone's overtures and the quid pro quo which he wished was the establishment of direct diplomatic relations with the Vatican and the creation of a completely equipped Catholic university in Ireland, before the scheme matured the Irish bishops scented it and made most energetic protests against it. The correspondence unfortunately cannot be given to the world, for it is nearly as damaging to the Pope as to Mr. Gladstone, and the consent of His Holiness is necessary to its publication.

ATTEMPTED UXORICIDE.

Joseph Slater of Georgetown Fires Three Bullets Into His Wife.

GEORGETOWN, Aug. 19.—While intoxicated yesterday afternoon Joseph Slater attempted to murder his wife. He fired three shots at her. The first bullet struck her about the middle of the stomach, below the breast, and glancing aside entered her right breast. The second bullet lodged between the skin and flesh near the abdomen, and the third bullet went through her right arm near the wrist, shattering the bones frightfully.

The wounded woman then grappled with her would-be slayer. In the scuffle the revolver went off again, the bullet this time passing through Slater's arm near the elbow, inflicting an ugly wound. When he was shot himself, he put on his coat ar strolled unconcernedly towards the village. The tidings of the shooting were carried to the paper mills and a telephone message from the paper mills put the constables on the alert. He was quickly arrested, offering no resistance to the constables when they put the darbies on his wrists. The quarrel appears to have originated over a most trifling matter. When Slater came home he commanded his wife to stop sewing on a child's garment to do some needlework for him. She replied that she would do so in a moment, whereupon he flew into a towering rage, grasped the revolver and attempted to murder her.

Mrs. Slater is resting comfortably, the bullets having being extracted, and unless blood poisoning or inflammation sets in she will probably recover. Slater is still in custody.

ISOLATED INDIANS.

The Yava Supai Tribe Discovered in a Colorado Canon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19. Col. Holabird of Los Angeles has returned here from an exploring expedition in the canons of Colorado. He penetrated districts never before explored, and found in an almost inaccessible canon, 100 miles north of Williams and near the Grand Canon of the Colorado, the Yava Supai Tribe of Indians, who had never seen any white man except John D. Lee, the Mormon, who was shot for the Mountain Meadow massacre. Col. Holabird says:

These Indians are of the Apache family, but of ancient origin. The men are magnificent specimens. The valley in which the tribe has lived for many years in seclusion has only two ways of approach. It contains 3000 acres and is enclosed by almost perpendicular walls 400 feet high. We traveled over fifteen miles along a canon, over a lifeless country. Suddenly we came to two boiling springs under cottonwood trees. From these springs a river starts which winds its way through a luxuriant valley. The water in the river is clear as crystal and so strongly impregnated with lime that it petrifies everything it touches. There are three immense cataracts in the canon. These look as if centuries ago a huge cottonwood tree had fallen across the stream and lodged. Mosses, ferns and creepers formed a barrier. All these turned to limestone. The grass caused the deposit to increase until the barricade extends across the canon, making a fall of 250 feet. Along the front of these high cataracts limestone ridges have formed, 20 to 50 feet one above the other. Over all these the water falls like a sheet of grass. Underneath, between the ridges, thousands of plants with flowers in full bloom, are seen, while millions of humming birds dart in and out.

The chief of the strange tribe is an old man of 90, "Captain Tom." The name was given him by John D. Lee. I found these Indians in a starving condition, subsisting upon berries and grass seed. I applied to the government for them, but the Indian Department said it could not help wandering people. Gen. Miles, who says he has heard of these Indians but could never get a guide to their canon, will investigate their condition.

Mower, Mower!

"Do you know," said the city boarder to the farmer landlord, "when that mowing machine of yours woke me up this morning it reminded me of buying and selling clams."

"Gosh! Why?" asked the landlord.

"Because," said his guest, "one is a clam dicker and the other is a ——clicker."—Puck.

A Contented Man.

"It's pretty hard work earning an honest living," said the tramp to the farmer's wife.

"You don't mean to say that you work?"

"Oh, no! My remark is simple the result of my observation along the highways and byways. When I see how hard some people work and how little they get for it, I am encouraged to follow my simple vocation without a murmur."—Puck.

Miseries of Exclusiveness.

WEDNESDAY AUGUST 20, 1890.

Life of a French Canadian.

The Story of a Conversion and Work of Evangelization Among the French Canadians and Indians.

A good-sized audience gathered in the lecture room of the George street church Tuesday evening to listen to the lecture by Rev. Amand Parent, of the French Evangelization Mission. The meeting was opened by Rev. J. H. Locke, who gave out the hymn and offered up prayer. Rev. G. H. Davis, who for a number of years was stationed in Quebec and had a personal acquaintance with the lecturer, occupied the chair. Mr. Davis made a warm appeal on behalf of the French Evangelization Mission, which the lecturer represented.

Rev. Mr. Parent is a short, stout, silver-haired old gentleman, with a French face and accent and a native humor pleasant to the eye and ear. Rev. Mr. Parent gave an outline of his life. Born in Quebec of Roman Catholic parents, he was educated in that faith, and observed all its ordinances until he became a young man. When eighteen years of age he left home to join in the rebellion. Like other French Canadians he had a deep hatred of the English, though of late years he had grown to know and love them. But in those days he looked upon the English as heretics and deserving to be killed, so he went out to fight them. But instead they made him run, and after being chased by by the soldiers he escaped from the battle-field of St. Charles. He had to leave the country, however, and he CROSSED INTO THE UNITED STATES.

On entering Vermont he noticed a vast difference in the people. Every house was comfortably furnished, the people well dressed, intelligent, cultivated and well-to-do. Rev. Mr. Parent accounted for this difference from the fact that in the States they observed the Sabbath and read the Bible. His own countrymen did neither, he said, and their homes were miserable and comfortless. He was determined to find out what caused this difference, so, not being able to read English, he sent to New York for a French Bible and read it carefully. He then compared it to the Roman Catholic Bible, and noted a few of the chief differences. He was convinced that the Protestant Bible was the true book to follow, he knew that Christ had died for him, but the thought of turning Protestant and breaking his mother's heart was agonizing. He went to a prayer meeting, but could not pray, and he went home and entered his room and wept in his distress of mind. But the next time he went to the prayer meeting he received the light. He went home to his mother, who looked upon him as lost. They went to a priest together, and had quite an argument with him, the result of which was that his mother was also converted. This was the beginning of an extensive Protestant movement and a large number of people left the Church of Rome. A Protestant church was established and it has since flourished. Mr. Parent joined in the work, and for a number of years supported himself while laboring in the Master's cause. Then he was taken up by the Methodists and ordained and had been with that church for 31 years. He sustained considerable persecution, but clung tenaciously to the faith. In 1869 he was sent to

THE OKA INDIAN RESERVE,

36 miles from Montreal, where he spent eight years among the outcast and degraded aborigines. The work of himself and his wife was wonderfully blessed in spite of opposition and persecution on the part of the Roman Catholic Church. The speaker recounted the circumstances of the celebrated Oka Indian trouble, which a few years ago agitated Canada. To-day the government was dishonestly trying to buy the Indians off by offering them $5,000 for their tract, which was worth forty millions. Rev. Mr. Parent incidentally touched upon the nunnery and separate schools questions, and in conclusion refuted the charge that the work among the Indians was ephemeral. The effects was still felt and growing. Good homes, education and sobriety had replaced the former degradation which prevailed among the Indians as a result of the introduction of the gospel. The work among the French Canadians was also progressing, but slowly of necessity, as it took time and labor to sweep away the barriers of ignorance and bigotry. Rev. Mr. Parent finally sang "Hold the Fort" in the French tongue.

A silver collection was taken up before the audience dispersed.

Rev. Mr. Parent speaks in the Charlotte street church to-night.

Charged with Rascality.

The Accusations Made About the Scores in the Canadian Military League.

(St. Catherines Star.)

The last match in the Canadian military rifle league series was shot on Saturday, and when the results were telegraphed from the various places where firing had been going on, the alleged score of the Hamilton team caused some surprise. Ten men were shooting in each locality, and Hamilton reported a score of 946 points out of a possible 1,050 for its team or an average of 94.6 points for every man on the team. The score is not an impossible one, but it is highly improbable. There are so many influences in rifle shooting to prevent any such average being made by that number of men that the matter ought to be carefully looked into before the score is accepted. It is very doubtful if Hamilton or any other locality can produce a team of ten men capable of making such an average at 200, 500 and 600 yards, to say nothing of other influences which would intervene to prevent such a score, and with which rifle men are familiar. Referring to this score a Halifax paper says: "The scores reported from Hamilton, Bowmanville and Snerbrooke made the riflemen of those places the laughing stock of the Dominion. Certainly, for the sake of rifle shooting, a sport which has been considered free from rascality, but which is evidently in a worse state than baseball, these scores should be regularly looked into, and the league not allowed to develop into a race on paper." The headline reads: "Rascality—Riflemen reports bogus scores from Ontario and Quebec." If it can be proved that the scores were doctored for effect Hamilton will be forever disgraced in the ranks of honest riflemen.

Trouble at Melita.

Mrs. W. H. Brown, of Melita, Man., states that two of her children and two others belonging to a neighbor, were cured of the worst form of summer complaint by one bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry nature's specific for all summer complaints. 2w32d

Observe Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

ON THE LONDON POLICE.

Long Hours, Small Pay and a Hard Lot for Many of Them.

The total yearly expenditure of the Metropolitan Police is over a million and a half sterling, of which £378,000 is paid by the Government towards the cost of pay and clothing. A local rate of just under 5d. in the pound produces £700,000. Per man, a constable costs £106 per annum, of which £76 15s. is disbursed in pay, £10 in superannuation charge and £5 in clothing equipment. On joining the force the policeman is supplied with two great coats, two tunics, a cape, two pairs of trousers, two pairs of boots, two helmets, a truncheon, armlets, whistle, lantern-guard, belt, etc., which articles are renewed periodically or when worn out. If a policeman's clothes are damaged in the course of duty the damage is made good at the public expense: If they are damaged carelessly or wear out too quickly the constable has to pay. In the city police, which have a reputation for efficiency extending long previous to the Peel days, the pay is somewhat higher, but no member of that force has a legal right to a pension, the pensions being granted at the discretion of the corporation on the recommendation of the Commissioner. The city constable has an allowance for boot money in addition to his pay. The city men are, as a rule, a finer set than the Metropolitans, but the difference will soon cease, as the standard for both forces is now the same. There are differences in uniform, easily noticeable; the helmets differ; the city man has no letter, he has yellow buttons, and his armlet is red and white instead of blue and white. The city force is in charge of the corporation, but like all the police of the kingdom, municipal or county, it is really under the final control of the Home Secretary. It numbers about 900 all told. The Metropolitan police are more directly under the control of the Home Secretary. Taking no account of outposts, the field of work extends for fifteen miles round Charing Cross, exclusive of the City of London, and embraces a mileage of streets and roads of over 5300 miles and an area of over 688 square miles, extending from Colney Heath in the north to Todworth Heath in the south, and from Lark Hall in the east to Staines Moor in the west. To keep the peace in this territory about 12,500 men are available, from which a fourteenth have to be deducted owing to each man having a holiday of a day in every fortnight. And from this balance the men off duty must be taken to discover the small number by which the work is done. From 6 in the morning to 10 at night there are really not five thousand men at work, being rather more that seven men to every square mile. No wonder it is not easy to find a policeman! But the remedy is obvious—either the mileage should be diminished or the men increased. Mr. Monro says that about 60 per cent. of the force is on duty from 10 at night to 6 o'clock next morning; but during the day the ordinary beat duty of the whole of the metropolis devolves upon some 1561 men. In addition to these numbers, however, 529 constables on "fixed points" and 88 at hackney-carriage standings are on duty in the streets from 9 a.m. to 1 a.m. The young constable's duty begins with attending a police court and watching the evidence under the instruction of an older comrade, who directs his attention to the points worth notice. After a schooling in this way in police-court practice, he goes on beat duty, also with a companion. Then he is trusted alone, probably on easy night duty, and as he gains experience he is moved to busier beats. When on day duty, between 6 a.m. and 10 p.m., he has alternations of four hours on duty and four hours off. Of this he has a month, followed by two months of night duty. When on night duty he has to work without relief from 10 to 6. Another month of day duty begins another round. Such are the normal working hours of a London policeman.—Leisure Hour.

POOR GUATEMALA.

Bad Condition of Affairs—Everybody Must Fight or Be Shot.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 18.—A letter from Guatemala says a proclamation has been issued to the effect that all men who are not ready for military duty will be shot. Nearly all the men who first went to the front have been killed in battles with the Salvadorans. If Ezeta marches to the city, the letter says, he will probably sack the town. The Americans are safe, for they receive protection at the legation. Every servant, even those on the coffee plantations, has been drafted into the war and there are not enough left to supply food. Provisions bring enormous prices. Business is at a standstill and the city is under martial law. About 25,000 soldiers have already left the city for the frontier. Men are attracted to public entertainments and are then seized by the police and drafted into the army.

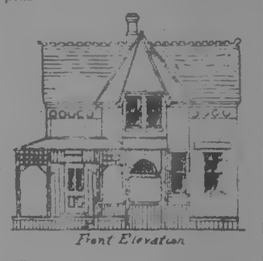
ARCHITECTURAL ADVICE,

PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS FOR A COTTAGE.

Suitable for Mechanics—People studying Economy—A Home of Your Own It Will Only Cost from $650 to $800—A Snug Wooden Edifice specially Designed

The following article specially designed, relating to a small house shortly to be erected near Toronto.

"This cottage may be built on 9 ft. foundation of hard cinder brick or upon cedar posts



Front Elevation

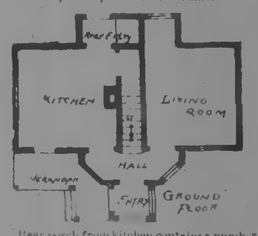
The interior will be of wood. The main portion to be battened and the bay clapboarded. The whole should be artistically painted in such colors as the owners individual taste may suggest.

The roof should be covered with prepared fire proof shingle stain.

The interior can be finished in almost any kind of wood. The ground floor contains the kitchen 12 x 12 with a brick chimney flue 9 x 9 and 9 brick work all round same. Kitchen should be 9 ft. high.

Parlor 12 x 12 with an alcove 4 x 4.

Hallway is in projecting bay from which the front porch opens onto a veranda.



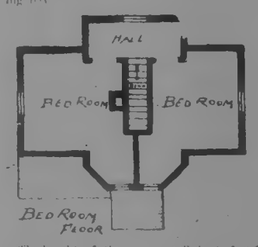
Rear porch from kitchen contains a number of pantry shelves.

Access to cellar is under stairway opening out of kitchen.

Stair way is 2 ft 10 wide. Stairs to have 7 risers and 9in treads.

The height of this story will be 9 feet when finished.

First floor contains two bedrooms 12x12 with an alcove in each are formed by projecting bay.



The height of the story will be 8 feet 6 inches when finished.

The cost of the above will be about $650.00 if built on cedar posts or $800 if supported on brick foundation.

KEEP YOUR MOUTH CLOSED

How the Snorer May Give His (or Her) Friends Relief

The following is suggested to snorers: There are two channels in which the air travels in going to the lungs, namely, the nose and mouth. These two passages unite in a common cavity, and from that point there is but one tube leading to the lungs. There is a bone called the hard palate, which forms the roof of the mouth and floor of the nose, separating these two air channels from each other. At the inner or posterior end of the bone is a little lobe called the soft palate, made of muscle and covered with a delicate skin. This soft palate is attached at one end to the hard palate; the other end hangs loose and moves or taps in the act of breathing, something like a window curtain when acted upon by a current of air. This is its condition while we are asleep or awake; though during sleep it lacks in tonicity, being much more relaxed or flabby than when we are awake. Now, in order to snore, one must keep the mouth open as well as the nose, and in this condition the two currents of air passing in and out together during the act of breathing catch this little curtain between them and throw it into rapid vibration. This vibration, more or less intense and sonorous, is what we call snoring.

It is only with the mouth open that snoring can be accomplished during sleep. Awake it the nose is closed by the thumb and finger, by taking a forcible breath, it is possible to snore, and the same result may be accomplished with the mouth shut and the nose open, but the muscular effort necessary to its accomplishment is more than we can command during sleep, and would wake up the person who might unconsciously make the effort.

If the mouth be closed the natural condition during slumber, but one current of air will pass to and from the lungs. The current pressing about equally on all sides of and downward until it is applied to the tongue, and held it there gently, thus perventing any sonorous vibration. It follows that any device which prevents the lower jaw from dropping down during the relaxation of sleep, and opening the mouth, will shut out the one unnatural current of air and prevent snoring.

An apparatus could be made of a simple cap to fit on the head snugly, a cup of soft material to fit the chin and a piece of elastic webbing, tacked to the chin piece and to the head cap near the ears. The webbing can be made more or less large as may be required to effect the closure of the mouth. The apparatus is so simple that any one can make it. Now, snorers, you can repair the windpipe, and the non-snorers will be left to the quietness of their own slumbers.—Troy Times.

Mrs. Ormiston Chant says that she received with her diamonds of 1,307 autographs while she was in this country, and never once lost her temper.

The Collegiate Education. From Life.

Before.

After.

That Was Different.

There were twelve or fifteen men sitting around in a Buffalo saloon, when a stranger to all entered, stood by the door, and asked in a loud voice:

"Gentlemen is there one among you who will help a poor discouraged man to——"

He appeared to choke up right there, and while clearing his voice it was noticed that two or three men slid out of the back door, several others turned their backs, and one man suddenly went to sleep. Each one assumed an attitude or demeanor calculated to discourage the stranger, but he presently got his voice, and continued:

"Who will help a poor, discouraged man to drink a dollar's worth of beer?"

Had Her Revenge.

A woman carrying a faded carpet-bag stopped a policeman in Chicago, and said: "Which way must I go to the World's Fair?"

"Headquarters of the directors are around on Dearborn street."

"I don't care a snap for the headquarters. I want to know what the Fair is—what they are showing things?"

"There isn't any such place, madam. The Fair won't be open for three years yet."

"What, ain't there no show at all?"

"Not yet."

"Didn't I see in the papers that congress had sent the Fair to this town?"

"You may have read that this place had been selected as the site of a fair to be held three years from now."

"An' that won't be none till then?"

"Not that anybody knows of."

"An' congress has crossed me into comin' all the way from Mis-oury to see that Fair. Look here, this thing is a fraud, an' I believes you had something to do with it. Do you hear me?"

"Yes, I hear you."

"Well what have you got to say for yourself?"

"Nothing."

"Then you acknowledge that you are a fraud, do you?"

"I suppose I am."

"An' you air not sorry for it, nuther, I reckon."

"No, I am not particularly cast down."

"Well, will you do me a favor, jest to sorter make things square?"

"I will try to."

"All right. Then hold this carpet-bag till I step right over yander an' eat a snack."

"Why don't you take it with you?"

"Feered somebody must steal it while I'm eatin'. Will you hold it?"

"Yes, I'll take charge of it for you."

When the woman had been gone half an hour the policeman began to feel uneasy. An hour passed, and still the woman did not return. Late that evening the carpet bag was opened. It contained four dead cats, together with the following note.

"These cats lay in an alley next to my house, on the West Side, for four days. I have time and again notified the auto-cratic, but no notice was taken of my complaint. I have taken this method of disposing of them. You may return them to me when convenient at the World's Fair."—Arkansaw Traveler.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the payment of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,708,613 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a year, when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $312,994, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how much a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$46,694,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,926	5.51
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,966,987	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.39
North American	5,470,989	10.66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,667,966	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20 12
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons is will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Campbellford Excursionists.

An excursion under the auspices of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches of Campbellford, went up to Chemong Park to day. A couple of hundred people staid over at Peterborough. The excursion was accompanied by the Juvenile I.N.L. baseball club of Campbellford, who this afternoon played a game on Riverside Park with the market square nine.

A Severe Cut.

Master Arthur Hammond, a son of the late J. E. Hammond, met with a rather serious accident at Mr. J. E. Belcher's summer residence, "Windermere," Pigeon Lake, Tuesday. The lad was chopping wood with a small axe, and the weapon glanced aside and struck his right leg below the knee, the blade making a deep downward gash in the fleshy part of the limb as far as the ankle. Dr. Boucher was fortunately stopping at his own summer house and speedily arrived to give the necessary surgical attendance. Master Hammond will be laid up for some weeks. He had a narrow escape from losing his leg.

The Children's Outing.

St. Paul's south ward mission school held a picnic Tuesday afternoon. At half past one o'clock the children of the school with a number of elders boarded the Golden Eye, which carried them as far as Hales Bridge, and on returning stopped a couple of hours at Savigny's landing, where lunch was had and a list of sports run off; the successful ones being given suitable prizes. The rain considerably marred the enjoyment of the trip, but the children had a happy half holiday. Mr. W. W. Johnston, superintendent, accompanied the excursion.

Stony Lake Notes.

Mr. J. A. Turner and family went up this morning for a couple of week's holidays at Anchorage Island.

Capt. Sloan, of New York, arrived Tuesday to take possession of his fine new residence at Bonshink.

Mr. Jack McMillan, of Lindsay, and a party of friends, circumnavigated Stony Lake Tuesday in a steam yacht.

The Patriarchs Militant.

Canton Peterborough of Patriarchs Militant took part in the demonstration at Cobourg Tuesday, and barring the rain had a most enjoyable day. Cobourg's tournament comprises horse racing, baseball matches and a military Oddfellows' display. In this there were three Cantons entered—Bowmanville, Bellaville and Peterborough. A competition drill took place, Bowmanville winning first prize, $50. Peterborough second $30, and Belleville third, $20. Peterborough Canton, commanded by Major Moore, was 20 strong, and in point of numbers and efficiency in drill was admittedly superior to the other Cantons, but the Bowmanville Chevaliers being accompanied by the fine band of that town, were given first money. The Peterborough Canton made a fine appearance.

The Mill of Justice.

A Breach of the Fire By-Law—Thistles Must be Cut Down—A Woman's War—Sent to the Insane Asylum.

There was a big grist for the justice mill to grind this morning.

The first case was against Mr. E Phelan, of the Phelan House, who was charged with breaking the fire limit by-law by erecting a frame structure on his premises. Mr. Phelan pleaded, as defence, that the building was used as an ice-house, and, in case of fire, would endanger his own property only. The Magistrate said the law was very strict and he would accept no excuse. A fine of $10 was imposed, and Inspector Pope was instructed to have the building removed. Mr. Weir represented Mr. Edwards, town solicitor.

F. J. McLennan was fined $2 for allowing his cow to run at large.

CUT YOUR THISTLES.

The first thistle case of the season was brought against Mr. Aaron Cox, who was charged with allowing noxious weeds and thistles to grow unbecked upon property controlled by him on Homewood Avenue, contrary to the statute in that behalf. A fine of $5 was imposed. The police intend prosecuting where breaches of this law are made. It is a statutory offence to allow weeds and thistles to thrive on one's property. The seeds are liable to be blown about by the wind and the weeds spread over other people's grounds.

A WOMAN IN THE CASE.

There was a row in the south ward near the school last night between the French and Irish elements. At six o'clock P. C. Stewart was called to quell the disturbance. When he arrived on the scene he found all the neighbors gathered about a couple of women who were pummelling each other in the middle of the road and filling the air with their cries. It seems that a few minutes previously Mrs. Ellen Carol, who had been taking a drop o' the cratur, tried to force her way into the house of some French neighbors, but they locked the door. Mrs. Carel then threw a large stone through the window. A friendly neighbor woman attempted to act as peacemaker and coax Mrs. Carel away, but the latter resented the interference and the two were having a pitched battle when the constable arrived. Mrs. Carel was taken to the police station and this morning tried. She stated on her own defence that one of the French women made an indecent gesture, threw her down and broke her back; then she got up and made things hot for them. A fine of $2 was imposed.

Geo. Wheeler was picked up drunk Tuesday afternoon on the streets, and this morning sent to gaol for ten days.

SENT TO THE ASYLUM.

The lad Northcote, arrested for having placed obstructions on the Lakefield branch of the G.T.R., was committed to the insane asylum. Magistrates Dumbie and Embleton were on the bench in this case. The lad's father and mother were in court, and stated that the boy was subject to spells of derangement as the result of fits in his early youth. They offered no objection to his being sent to the asylum for proper treatment. G.T.R. detective Spence and others gave evidence showing that the boy had confessed the deed, and that he was evidently irresponsible therefor. The papers for committment to the asylum for a term were made out.

Wedding Bells.

Marriage of Mr. James Morris and Miss Letitia Kate Cottingham.

St. John's church was this afternoon the scene of a fashionable event which has been eagerly looked forward to for several week's past in social circles. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion and filled from chancel to door with an interested audience largely composed of ladies

About half past two the bridal party drove up to the entrance. The wedding service being of a choral character, the members of the choir met the bridal party at the door and the procession advanced to the altar to the processional hymn—

"The voice that breathed o'er Eden
That earliest wedding day."

As the ceremony proceeded the choir sang the responses to Tallis' music. The vestibules were admirably tutored by the rector, Rev. J. C. Davidson, who, assisted by Rev. C. B. Kenrick, conducted the marriage service. The Deus Misereatur, Psalm lxvii, was rendered in the first Gregorian tone. After the benediction, Hymn 351 was sung

How welcome was the call
And sweet the festal lay.

At the conclusion of this hymn, Master Bertie Davies on behalf of the choir boys advanced and presented the bride with a beautiful bouquet of flowers. As the bridal party adjourned to the vestry to make the usual signatures, the organ pealed forth grandly, Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and as the bridal party was leaving the vestry, the bridal march from "Lohengrin" was played. The bridesmaid on the occasion was Miss Maggie Roper; both she and the bride were plainly attired in cream China silk, with corresponding bonnets. The bridegroom was supported by his brother, Mr. Murney Morris, of St. Catherines, Mr. Walter Cottingham, a brother giving the bride away. After the wedding ceremony the bridal party and guests drove to Miss Edward's residence "Rocklands." The wedding presents were numerous and very elegant, among them being a church service and hymns from the choir, of which both bride and bridegroom were formerly members. Mr. Morris' bank associates also handsomely remembered him. The bridal couple took the 5.10 train for the west.

Personal.

Prof. Doucet has taken a holiday trip to Colorado for the benefit of his health.

Miss Belle Kelso, of Toronto, has gone north to holiday a short time at Mr. T. Bradburn's lodge, Stony Lake.

Mr. Robt. Orr, of Bobcaygeon, formerly with the Bank of Commerce, Peterborough, has been visiting friends in town and vicinity for a few days.

Mr. John Stirling, headmaster of the South Ward School, is convalescent after having been confined to the house for nine days by illness.

Messrs. Frank Lannin and G. E. Latz, of Rochester, N.Y., are in town visiting friends. They will take in Stony Lake for a few days before returning home.

Mrs. Geo. Perks and family returned home to Brantford this morning after a two mo ths visit with Mr. Robert Johnson, Mrs. Perks' grandfather, Gilmour street.

Last night Hon. C. H. Tupper, Minister of Marine and Fisheries in the Dominion Government, accompanied by General Cameron, arrived in town and registered at the Oriental. During the evening, at an informal levee, several active local politicians of the government stripe had interviews with the visitors. This morning they took the morning train for Lakefield for a fishing excursion on Stony Lake waters. They were accompanied to Lakefield by Mr. Jas. Stevenson, M.P., who returned to town to be present at the opening ceremonies of St. Joseph's Hospital. Mr. Stevenson will rejoin them at Burleigh to-night. The party will return to town to-morrow evening.

ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL.

Description of the Fine New Building.

Its Beautiful Site—A Fine Exterior Appearance—An Interior Complete in Every Requirement—The Sisters of St Joseph Have Charge—The Designer and Builders.

This afternoon the new building of St. Joseph's Hospital was formally opened for its intended use with imposing ecclesiastical ceremonies and in the presence of a large and distinguished company of the priesthood of the diocese of Peterborough and of prominent laymen of Peterborough and vicinity. Therefore, the EXAMINER gives to-day a brief description of the new building, there being no time to report the opening ceremonies, the latter being coincident with the hour for going to press.

The new hospital building, the noble embodiment in a concrete form of the liberality and charity of the Roman Catholic people of Peterborough and vicinity, as well as of many others of a different faith, stands in in the town or neighbourhood—in the north-west angle of the beautiful grounds formerly called "St Leonards." The approach to the new hospital building is by the former gateway, up the old avenue of stately and venerable trees. At the head of this avenue the drive sweeps to the left upon a raised terrace in front of the buildings, which brings the visitor to the front entrance. Here the broad gravel drive faces on one side the floe and imposing front of the new building and on the other the beautiful cedar hedge, the growth of years, which screens the basement portion from the view on the Stewart street aspect.

The building stands upon the ground, with a depth of 62 feet 6 inches, and a front facade of 88 feet. The exterior of the new building is worthy of its splendid situation and surroundings. The whole Gothic facade looking to the west, rises in its broken beauty of outline to the height of (including the basement) four stories, the whole resting upon a dressed limestone basement wall twelve feet in height, three quarters of which appears above the ground. The chief feature of the front is to which one gains access by ascending a flight of ten broad steps to the main entrance hall 10x18 feet in size, forming a vestibule, separated by folding doors filled with stained glass, from the main corridor and facing the main stairway. The facade, which as was said, is of Gothic style, is agreeably broken by projecting central tower and flanking gables. A balcony over the central entrance projects over the gothic doorway. Over the balcony is a large stained glass window, the central panes bearing in monogram the letters "I H S." Above the window there is a cut stone pedestal at the base of a niche for the patron Saint of the hospital, St. Joseph. The lateral gables are terminated upward by foliated finials, dormer gablets on either side relieving the roof line between the lateral gables and the central tower, which is finished superiorly with a terminal cross of iron of conventionalized shape. The southern front has a handsome entrance to the main corridor which stretches the entire length of the structure.

THE SOUTH ENTRANCE

door is reached from a broad verandah, which extends over three fourths of this front, and which has in the middle an octagonal projection, the whole being two stories in height, and presenting a pleasant and spacious promenade for convalescent patients. This south front corresponds in general style with the features and finish of the front. The north entrance is somewhat similar to the south excepting that the verandahs and balconies have no octagonal projections. The eastward entrance is from a spacious rear yard which opens by two entrance gates on the highway. On this side there is one central entrance opposite the principal front entrance, underneath the main stairway; and approached by a wide verandah. There is also a side entrance to basement. Around the whole basement are walled areas with cut stone copings, and throughout the whole building are cut stone sills to the windows. The window groups in the front are enriched by rock-face brickwork and the space over the cut stone arch of the central entrance doorway is filled in with a drapery of tessalated terra cotta work. The exterior is very handsome and striking; the making a distant view a most agreeable one, while the excellence of the material and workmanship make a close inspection very satisfactory. The bricks are of unusually good face and agreeably uniform in colour, and are laid with great care.

The interior of the hospital will also reveal that the new structure in every way bears the closest criticism whether from an architectural standpoint or with reference to the manner in which it fills the requirements for a hospital.

The interior accommodation and arrangements are complete and sufficiently extensive for the accommodation, when used to its capacity, of about one hundred patients. Opposite the main entrance hall, and across the central corridor, which exends, eight feet three inches wide, from end to end of the building, is the main staircase on the ground floor. This stairway is an unusually elegant one, constructed wholly of well seasoned oak. The newels are profusely carved, and there are richly moulded, and carved hand rail and balusters. The stairs, which are five feet, six inches in width, are of two inch oak, oiled. The ceiling of the staircase, as well as that of the main entrance hall, is of oiled pine, boldly ribbed, enriched with dog-tooth mouldings. The space in rear of the staircase is filled in largely with an

on the central panel of which is a well-designed figure of the patron saint of the hospital. This staircase goes to the next above the ground floor. Underneath these stairs, and to the right of the rear entrance, are the main stairs to the basement. The middle corridor, above mentioned as reaching the whole length of the building, opens by wide doors upon the verandahs at either end, and has the wards and other rooms on either side. The rooms, in order in the front suite, are, on the left of the entrance hall and opening upon it, the public parlour and, connecting with that by folding doors, the chapel, which has also a side entrance from the corridor. This chapel is fitted up in the orthodox manner and over the altar stands a beautiful statue representing the sacred heart of Jesus. This is the gift of Miss Moran. On the right of the entrance in order are fitted up with marble wash basins, sinks, etc. Next is a large long room, the clothes room, where the clothing of patients admitted to the hospital is kept till the patients leave. Provision is made on the out door premises for fumigating apartments and a morgue. The last room in this suite is a large apartment to be used as a reception room, it being next the south entrance. To the right of the main stairway is, in the rear, the large well lighted men's ward of the hospital 25x26 feet in size. One feature of a commendable character is the placing of the windows sufficiently above the head of the beds so that a patient is not exposed to direct draught of air. To the left of the men's ward a passage opens to the offices, closets and baths. The Smead-Dowd heating and ventilating shafts take up considerable space between this ward and the middle staircase. To the left of the stairs, separated by the well built heating and ventilating shafts and closets, is a cross corridor 7 feet 3 inches wide terminating in a staircase to the next floor. To the left of this corridor are a sisters' community room and a sisters' refectory. On the next floor above, the centre corridor again extends the whole length of the building, opening on the

THE DISPENSARY AND SURGERY,

BALCONIES AT THE SOUTH AND NORTH.

The room on this floor, corresponding to the main hall on the floor below, is the day room for patients, a most pleasant apartment, opening upon the balcony over the main entrance and affording a magnificent view of town and country. On each side of this middle room are three wards for private patients, six in all. On the opposite side of the corridor at the south end of the building, is the women's ward, corresponding in size and general features with the men's ward directly below. Connected with this are the necessary closets, bath room, etc., etc. This ward, as well as the others, is fitted up with iron bedsteads. The easterly wing in the rear contains a range of bath-rooms and rooms for private patients. The attic floor is also thoroughly finished, and contains three large general wards and six rooms for other uses. This floor also contains the hot and cold water tanks for supplying the rest of the building. (All the floors above the ground floor have stairways at each end of the building, making communication and egress in case of the improbable event of fire, easy and lessening the work of attendance.) This floor, according to present intentions, is to be devoted to the care of the aged infirm and orphans. In the tower-room of top floor is a staircase leading to the tower, from which there is taking in the whole of the town, the surrounding country, Little Lake and the sparkling windings of the river.

A MAGNIFICENT VIEW,

Though left to the last, the basement is, perhaps, the most important part of the building. Continuous with all the floors, the middle corridor, of the same width as that on the floors above, goes the whole length of the building. In the south-east and north west corners are the furnaces for the Smead-Dowd heating and ventilating system. The basement, as well as the building generally, is very well ventilated. There are five exits to it at different points. From this floor begin the heating, ventilating and air ducts. Here are, also, store-rooms and other rooms for the purposes of the hospital. In the first range to the south are, successively, the store-room, the kitchen, fitted up with one of Adam Hall's stoves, pantries and dining-room. Opening on the corridor of this floor are the beginnings of the shutes for soiled clothing, and the dumb waiter, or food elevator, placed sufficiently far from the kitchen to avoid cooking smells. This communicates with every floor above. The soiled clothing shutes ascend and open upon all the wards and corridors, and down which the soiled clothing and bedding of patients are sent to the laundry which is situated in the south-east rear of the basement, and provided with the necessary

STATIONERY TUBS AND OTHER APPLIANCES.

The plumbing throughout the building is exposed to view so that in case of necessary repairs it can be done without any structural disturbances. The Smead-Dowd system of heating, ventilation and depuration obviates the necessity of any sewerage system, otherwise than that necessary to the disposal of the waste water from culinary and laundry operations. All fecal and other matter is destroyed and practically obliterated by the Smead-Dowd system. Besides, this system gives heat to every room and produces the most efficient ventilation it is possible to secure. Thus, in addition to advantages of high, dry, salubrious site, we have arrangements giving the best possible sanitary conditions to the hospital. The ceilings on all the floors are lofty, thirteen feet three inches high in the clear. There seems to have been little forgotten or omitted in order to make this hospital building complete and perfect according to the present developments of sanitary science. The Hospital will be under the management of the sisterhood of St. Joseph directed by

M. M. ANSELM, MOTHER SUPERIOR.

The mother house of the sisters of St. Joseph in the Diocese of Peterborough is at Loretto Convent, Lindsay, over which M.M. Austin is mother superior.

The plans for St. Joseph's Hospital were prepared by Mr. John E Belcher, C. E., who has devoted his best efforts, and very successfully, too, to the production of the best possible structure, and has been painstaking in seeing that his plans in general and in detail have been faithfully carried out.

Those concerned in the various departments of the work are, to begin at the beginning, Mr. Wm. Breckenridge, excavation; Messrs. Long and Heaslip, contractors for supplying the stone; Messrs. Heap and Curtis, the brick; Mr. Michael Hayes did the stonework; Messrs. Sheehy and McDonald, the brickwork; A. Rutherford, the carpentry and joinery; Mr. P. McHugh, the plastering; Mr. Thos. B McGrath, the painting; Mr. Jas. Murty, the tin work; Mr. J. C. Smith, the plumbing. The company, of course, put in the Smead-Dowd heating and ventilating apparatus. The elegant window shades, with which the windows are provided and the fixtures, were purchased at the Peterborough Bookstore.

The opening ceremonies are in progress as this issue of the EXAMINER goes to press.

Two Defeats for East Toronto Cricket Club.

The East Toronto cricket club is making a two days tour this week, and are meeting with hard luck. They were defeated at Campbellford yesterday and are meeting with similar treatment at Peterborough today. At noon the score stood:—East Toronto, first innings, 48 runs; Peterborough 40 runs for 4 wickets. [The innings totalling 79. Toronto's second innings yielded only 31, leaving Peterborough the winner in the first innings.]

At Campbellford, Tuesday, the East Torontos were badly beaten. The visitors won the toss and sent Campbellford to bat. For a few overs the bowling was very effective, but the stand made by E. S. Platt, who scored 52 without giving a chance, and G. M Ferris, 19, broke the bowling, and the innings netted the home team 155 runs. The East Torontos then took the defence, facing the very effective bowling of Hoskins and Sharp, who disposed of the side for 26 runs, the latter taking 4 wickets for 8 runs, and the former 6 wickets for 15 runs. For the visitors E. Smith took 8 wickets for 28 runs and R. Cameron 1 wicket for 36 runs. The game was decided on the first innings, East Torontos' second being about half over when time was called.

A FAR-REACHING STRIKE.

That is the Prospect Ahead of the Vanderbilt Roads.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Up to 4 o'clock this afternoon Messrs. Sweeney and Sargeant had not arrived here and it is supposed they are in Albany in conference with General Manager Toucey of the Central road. If, as is reported, the railroad company has reinstated the railroad men at Buffalo who are members of the United Order of Railway Employes the federation of railroad employes would have no grievance against the Central, and the matter would have to be fought out between the Knights of Labor and the railroad. Mr. Powderly left the St. Cloud Hotel early this morning and has not returned. He is supposed to be in conference with local labor leaders.

Frank Allen of Tarrytown applied for work this morning as a section hand on the road and was sent to the Sixty-fifth-street yard. He was set upon there by strikers and beaten within an inch of his life. He was sent back to Tarrytown.

The following is forwarded by request: "A statement has been sent to Albany and along the line of this road that I expressed indifference this morning as to whether the firemen in our employ went out on a strike or not and that I alleged that I had plenty of men to fill their places. There is not a word of truth in the statement and I would thank you to insert this denial in your news columns.

H. WALTER WEBB, 3d Vice-President.

The threatened tie-up on the New York Central had not occurred up to midnight tonight. During the afternoon the leaders were inactive and could not do anything pending the arrival of Messrs. Sargeant and Sweeney. At 9 o'clock this evening these two gentlemen called secretly on Vice-President Webb and had a conference with him. Webb afterwards said he intimated to them his willingness to pass the matter over. He told Sargeant that his discretion in not precipitating a strike was fully appreciated. Webb refused to say what had been the result of the conference. Sweeney and Sargeant then adjourned to confer with the other delegates over the situation.

The conference of K. of L. leaders and Chiefs Sargeant and Sweeney at the St Cloud Hotel lasted until a late hour this evening. Vice-President Webb and Supt. Voorhis spent the night at the Grand Central depot awaiting developments. The conference ended about 11 p.m. No conclusion was reached and another meeting will be held in the morning. Messrs. Powderly, Hayes, Holland, Wright, Sweeney, Sargeant, Howard and Wilkinson were the conferees.

At midnight the indications are that a strike far reaching in its lines will be inaugurated in the morning upon all the railroads in the great Vanderbilt system.

ALBANY, Aug. 19.—There are no new developments in the situation of the strikers in this vicinity to-night.

BLOOMSBURG'S MYSTERY.

TRACKING THE MURDERER OF MARY COLVILLE.

Corydon Smith Accused of the Crime The Prisoner Committed for Trial Farmer Kitchen's Persistent Search and Its Outcome

Simcoe, Aug. 20.—Three miles north of the small town, which is the capital of the flourishing county of Norfolk, in the township of Townsend, is a cedar swamp. Few persons ever enter it, so dense are the trees, while rank grasses and tangled brambles grow all about. The thicket is known as "Culver's Swamp." On June 5, 1885, a son of the owner, William Culver, and a companion entered the swamp to cut some saplings and in an out-of-the-way corner stumbled upon the dead and terribly decomposed body of a young girl. When they aroused to raise the body the head dropped from the trunk. Coroner Hayes was notified and an inquest held.

MARY E. COLVILLE.

The post-mortem established the fact that the body was all that remained of a sprightly country girl, as gay as the gayest in life, but murdered as foully as any victim of man's ruthless villainy in this world. Lying alongside the unburied and unmonumented bones clay were a comb and a shawl, which had been worn by the victim, and she was well, not to say richly, dressed. By the clothing the remains were recognized as those of Mary Jane Colville, daughter of a respectable resident of Caledonia.

The post mortem revealed further that the woman had been dead some months, and that in three months she would have become a mother. Suspicions of all kinds were rife at the time, but no evidence implicating any person was procurable, and the jury returned an open verdict that the deceased came to her death at the hands of some person or persons unknown. So the matter rested and was apparently forgotten. But fate, the fate that stalks after the taker of human life by day and by night with the motto: "Murder will out"—fate decreed the exposure of the murderer.

Leonard Kitchen, a farmer in the neighborhood, had his own opinion of the guilty party and has never tarried of his search for evidence to bring the murderer within the meshes of that law which moves with slow tread but strikes with an iron hand. About six months after the discovery of the body the magistrates of the county of Norfolk induced the Ontario Government to offer a reward of $500 for the discovery of the murderer, but they did not send upon officer to investigate. Farmer Kitchen, however, never for a moment relinquished his search, and after five weary years has unclaimed, unravelled the whole circle of the crime, and a man is now awaiting his trial in Simcoe jail charged with the commission of an atrocious double murder. His story beginning with the old old chapter of a beautiful girl's frolic and fall—of betrayal in a conscienceless scoundrel—of his unfeeling attempt to cover up the consequences of the selfishness. Commonplace, so far, you say. But where can you find the man who, after administering shooting and finding the dead body of his victim the fatal evidence of fatherhood, goes under the blackness of night, drives back to the house where his victim was born, loads the corpse upon his shoulder, carry it downstairs into the road and, dumping it into his buggy, drives 15 miles with the ghastly burden and deposits it in an unfrequented spot, where through fortuitous Providence it was found, though only a remnant of mangled humanity, six months later? We hear of no case the parallel of this, yet such in part is alleged to be the story of the beautiful girl whose poor, frail body was found by William Culver that 5th of June. Add to that the foolish girlfriend who has all these years concealed the secret of her friend's death and the outline of the tale.

There [illegible] and through the locality. Smith has been conducting a store at Bingwood for late and it was there he was arrested. On being taken into custody he is reported to have remarked that he "did not know anything at all the case." Several hypotheses have been advanced as to the manner in which the girl met her death. One is that the drug administered was too strong and killed her from the effects, and in order to hide his crime Smith carried her to the swamp. Another was that the "drug" was poison. Smith may be able to disprove all these statements at the trial and may be perfectly innocent of crime, but the facts tend to show that leading up to that mangled corpse, hidden away among the Norfolk cedars, is the evidence of a tragedy as boldly carried out as the most fantastic scheme of murder in a French tale.

The murdered girl was 20 years of age. While living with her parents at Caledonia, it is claimed, she became acquainted with a man named Cardinal Smith. The latter was an orphan who had been raised by a farmer near the village of Bloomsburg, 4 miles from the swamp. Whether justly or not, he was given the reputation of being very fast. He was suave and attentive and Miss Colville fell desperately in love with him. She was tempted and she fell. In the course of time her condition became apparent to the neighbors. Society barred the door of its respectability upon the erring, and the virtuous pharisee passed her by with averted eyes and garments drawn aside. Smith finally induced her to leave her home, so her mother says, and shortly her in a house of ill fame near the village of Langton, where she was known to the other inmates under the name of Lizzie Ross.

Among the inmates was a young girl not quite 17 years of age, but now a married woman, and residing in the locality. It was the testimony of this modern Magdalene that led to Smith's arrest. She states that he frequently came to see Miss Colville, and that her companions understood from her, as well as from admissions of Smith, that he was the father of Mary's unborn child. She frequently urged him to marry her and to save her from a life that is worse than death. But Smith had no chords of human sympathy left to touch, and told his victim that if she would not do better he would have to send her away, what now that indicated. One night in the winter of 1884-5, whether the latter part of December or the first week in January the witness could not recollect, but it was the night of the first snowfall, Smith called at the house. He said he only went to the village of Langton and returned with a bottle, which he said contained medicine. He asked Miss Colville to take it, and she demurred, and seating herself on the stairs commenced crying. Smith then, with an oath, rushed over to her and forced it down her throat. He then ordered the remainder of the inmates to go to bed, and they did so. That was the last seen of Mary Colville in life.

Next morning early the witness was looking out of the window, and saw Smith drive in towards the house. The horse looked as if it had been driven a long way and was very tired. She went to Mary's room to inform her, but the girl was missing.

The evidence of Smith's Nemesis served to corroborate the story of the girl. Leonard Kitchen, on a night which corresponds with that mentioned by the girl, saw a man and woman seated in a buggy driving furiously in the direction of the swamp, in order to reach which from Langton Smith would have to drive 18 miles. Kitchen took the man for the accused at the time, hence the firmness of his conviction that he was the guilty party.

At the trial, before Magistrate Kitchen, the evidence as outlined above was given. The warrant charges Cardinal Smith with having, on or before Jan. 4, 1885, feloniously murdered Mary Jane Colville. The prisoner is about 35, short in stature, with sandy hair and mustache, light complexion, and would be taken for a man who led a fast life. His counsel, Mr. E. Tisdale of Tisdale & Reid, Simcoe, cross-examined the principal witness at some length, but failed to shake her evidence in the slightest degree. She identified a picture produced and the clothing and jewelry found on the dead body as those of Mary Colville. The latter's mother also recognized the clothing. On this testimony the accused was committed to jail to the Fall Assizes, which will open before Mr. Justice Rose on Monday, Oct. 20.

The prisoner Smith bears a most unsavory record. Some years ago he was a candy butcher on the Grand Trunk loop line and resided at St. Thomas, where he was accused of conducting a disreputable house and was run out of the city. Subsequently he conducted a similar establishment near Tilsonburg and was fined several times. Afterwards he came to Norfolk and conducted houses of ill-fame in various places, including the one in which Mary Colville is supposed to have met her death. One house became such a nuisance that it was set on fire by indignant neighbors and burned to the ground. Smith was afterwards arrested for criminally assaulting his own daughter and was sentenced to the lash, receiving the punishment in Cayuga jail.

Berne, Aug. 20.—A cyclone swept through the canton of Vaud to-day doing immense damage. The villages of Lavallee and Loux were devastated and whole forests were destroyed. Many persons were injured. The storm lasted three minutes.

Manning Eulogizes Newman.

London, Aug. 20.—A requiem mass for the late Cardinal Newman was celebrated to-day in the Brompton Oratory. Cardinal Manning delivered an address. He said although it was too soon to measure fully the work of Newman it was certain no living man had so changed the religious thought of England. It was the inspiring genius of the tractarian movement that was shaping the Church of England into its present life. But for him rationalism would now reign supreme in the national religion.

Will Abandon His Visit.

Paris, Aug. 20.—The Figaro says the Count of Paris will probably abandon his proposed visit to the United States, owing to the feeling here against the McKinley Bill.

Canadian Cattle.

London, Aug. 21.—In connection with the departmental enquiry by the British Board of Trade and Agriculture in regard to the Atlantic cattle trade, information has been submitted on behalf of Canada showing that the statistics, the trade regulations of the Canadian Department of Agriculture and the inspections enforced render it impossible that anything of the kind alleged in Mr. Plimsoll's pamphlet could have taken place in respect of Canadian cattle.

Sir Charles Tupper has received 150 applications in response to letters inviting British farmers delegates to visit Canada. Nine or eleven will be selected, who will start two or three weeks hence.

PROMOTION OF FIREMEN.

The New Plan that is Being Introduced on the Grand Trunk.

Stratford, Aug. 20.—A new plan of promotion is being introduced amongst engineers, locomotive firemen and cleaners on the entire system of the Grand Trunk Railway throughout Canada, known and termed universal promotion. The first official requisition has already come from Mr. Wallis' office in Montreal, making an appeal for twenty-eight firemen. Those who are seniors in the employ of the road and wish to volunteer for the position of engineer can do so by filing their application with their locomotive foreman on or before Aug. 16, intimating the fact that said applicant is willing to be transferred to any one of the following locomotive stations: London, Hamilton, Toronto, Allandale, Lindsay, Montreal or Richmond. The enthusiasm created at Stratford locomotive station by this plan of universal promotion is very great, owing to the fact that heretofore no prospect at Stratford station offered for men on the left side of the engine. It was almost an established fact that the locomotive firemen employed at Stratford are nearly all senior men and long since eligible for promotion. Now that an equalization is offered about sixteen of the most prominent firemen at this station have filed applications with Mr. Neild, and in all probability applicants will be required to respond by moving to a call which will be issued from the superintendent's office in the course of a few days.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

A Cherry Valley Youth Cuts His Throat With a Razor.

Deseronto, Aug. 20.—This morning a young man named George Cannon, who hails from Cherry Valley, Prince Edward County, created a sensation in town by attempting suicide by cutting his throat with a razor. The youth is 21 years of age and had been employed about town as a laborer. He lodged with B. Jandreau and seemed despondent of late. Upon arising this morning he took a razor and with one slash cut his wind-pipe open. Medical aid was summoned, when it was found that the wound was not necessarily fatal as the arteries had not been touched. Mental derangement is assigned as the cause.

THREE CENTRAL PRISON CONVICTS AT THE WHIPPING POST.

The Men Convicted of Assaulting a Guelph Salvation Lassie Receive Their Second Dose of the Cat—Attempted to Poison Her Grandchildren.

Toronto, Aug. 21.—At the Central Prison yesterday three convicts received ten lashes from the cat. The culprits were William Turnbull, William Leader and Frederick Sheady, and they were convicted of a criminal assault on Elizabeth Richardson, an officer of the Salvation Army at Guelph. They were tried before Judge Drew and sentenced to two years' imprisonment with hard labor and three floggings of ten lashes each. Two of the criminals were married men. Since the conviction there has been a rumor that the character of the woman was not so high as it was first believed to be, and there has been some sympathy shown for the convicts, who it is believed might have had a more lenient sentence had all the facts in the case been elicited. The first to receive the lashes was William Turnbull, aged 27. He had been securely strapped to the whipping post. When last whipped he only laughed as the blows of the cat fell. A medium-sized guard stood by to administer punishment. The prisoner's body quivered, but beyond emitting an occasional "Oh!" he kept his teeth closed and preserved silence, and when released from the post smiled pleasantly and whistled a comic song. William Leader next received his sentence. He is a man of 28, of dissipated appearance. He displayed no emotion. He received the lashes with the greatest calmness, though blood was drawn at the second stroke. When he was unstrapped he walked calmly to his cell without saying a word. Frederick Sheady, aged 25, was the last to receive punishment. He looked weaker than his companions in crime and misfortune, and the few spectators showed sympathy with him. This may have caused the blows of the guard to fall more lightly upon him than the others. In spite of this he shrieked and wept like a child at the first lash.

After four hours' deliberation the coroner's jury which investigated the Brock-avenue fatality returned this verdict at 2½ o'clock this morning: "That the said Patrick Dowling came to his death on Aug. 1, 1890, at Brock-avenue crossing, by being struck by the engine of train No. 10 of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the train being run at a higher rate of speed than allowed by law, and from all the facts of the case we believe that Thomas Tait, general superintendent of the Ontario Atlantic division, who authorized time table No. 5, was the cause of the death of the said Patrick Dowling, and therefore the said Thomas Tait is guilty of manslaughter." Charles Mutart, one of the jurymen, refused to sign the verdict. There were twelve who signed. The jury retired at 10½, and were out 4 hours. Coroner Lynd issued a warrant at an early hour this morning for the arrest of Supt. Tait.

A daring attempt was made by an old woman, Mrs. Steadman by name, to poison her two grandchildren, aged 5 and 8 years, at Little York. The children and father live with the grandmother, as their mother is serving a term in the Mercer Reformatory. Their name is Carruthers. Yesterday Mrs. Steadman is alleged to have spread Paris green over the children's bread under the butter, but the eldest boy was afraid to eat it, having been warned against meddling with the poison, and the woman gave it to the younger one, but the elder would not let him touch it. When their father came home the little ones told him what had occurred, and the woman admitted it and threatened to give him some too. She was arrested and brought before J. W. Renwood, J.P., on a charge of attempted poisoning, and was remanded till Tuesday.

Mr. H. N. Baird, vice-president of the Board of Trade, telegraphed yesterday from Winnipeg to Secretary Wills to the effect that the Manitoba crops had been uninjured by frost and that harvesting was now general, though the farmers were short handed. The only damage done was by the recent hailstorm.

SHOT BY A DAGO.

A Detroit Editor Fatally Wounded by a Peanut Vendor.

Detroit, Aug. 20.—Fred. Crimmins, assistant City Editor of The Evening Sun, was fatally shot by Tony Mauli, a peanut and fruit vendor, this afternoon. Crimmins had just left The Sun office for the day and stopped at the Italian stand to purchase some fruit. As he was examining some plums Mauli drew a 38-calibre pistol from under the stand and emptied one of the chambers into Crimmins' abdomen. He fell where he stood. "I am killed," he muttered, "what will my poor sister do?" Mauli was arrested.

TWENTY DEAD.

Four More Victims of the Accident on the Old Colony Road.

Quincy, Mass., Aug. 20.—Two additional victims are added to the list of dead this morning. Miss Ella Bard, aged 22, who died at Quincy hospital, and Miss Abbie Abbott of Louisville. Mrs. Mattie Francis of Chelsea and a Miss Tilton, victims of the Quincy accident, died at the Boston city hospital this morning. This swells the number of dead to 20.

The Pennsylvania Cyclone.

Reading, Pa., Aug. 20.—Reports from different sections of Berks county to-day show last night's storm wrecked or unroofed a dozen barns and the damage will amount to $20,000. In Spring township the body of William A. Speinart, a farmer, buried underneath his wrecked barn, was recovered at noon. His neck was broken.

At Kutztown James M. Shaeffer's house and barn were demolished. The family escaped.

Buffalo to Get Light and Fuel from Canada.

Buffalo, Aug. 20.—The Provincial Natural Gas Company of Toronto, with large properties in natural gas in Welland county has entered into a contract with the Buffalo Natural Gas Fuel Company and the papers have been signed and approved by the various parties thereto. The Canadian company will pipe the gas to this city under the Niagara River and it will be received here by the local company and served to consumers.

Fresh Trouble at Buenos Ayres.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 20.—The troops in this city were kept under arms throughout last night, the Government fearing a fresh revolution would be attempted owing to the dismissal of officers concerned in the recent rebellion. The Governor of Cordoba has resigned and the Provincial Bank is closed.

ORANGE GRAND LODGE.

Past Grand Master Fitzgerald Watched and Chained—Reports Presented.

St. John, N.B., Aug. 20.—At the session of the Orange Grand Lodge this morning various reports were received and routine business transacted. Past Grand Master W. W. Fitzgerald of Ontario West was presented by Grand Lodge with a gold watch and chain, as customary on the retirement of a grand master. Rev. C. A. Berry, grand chaplain and grand organizer of Ontario West, was appointed a delegate by the Grand Lodge to travel through Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island and deliver lectures on the order.

These officers were elected:

Grand Master—Clarke Wallace, M.P., Woodbridge, Ont.

Deputy Grand Master—E. F. Clarke, Toronto.

Grand Secretary—Robert Birmingham, Toronto.

Grand Lecturer James Kelly, St John.

The Joggins Coal Mines.

Halifax, Aug. 20.—It is reported that the Joggins coal mines have been sold to an English syndicate who will put in new machinery and operate them on a much larger scale. The present output is 5000 tons a month. They also propose to build a branch railway up the River Hebert to connect with the lumber mills on that river.

THE N.Y. CENTRAL STRIKE.

IT WILL BE FOUGHT TO THE BITTER END.

All Efforts at Negotiation Prove Fruitless—Powderly to Issue an Appeal to the K. of L. on all the Vanderbilt Lines—The Company's Stand.

New York, Aug. 20.—Mr. Powderly and Mr. Devlin of the Executive Board of the K. of L. called on Vice-President Webb at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Toucey was with Mr. Webb and the four gentlemen had an interview which lasted 20 minutes. At the conclusion Mr. Powderly told the reporters what had taken place. Mr. Devlin asked Mr. Webb if he would consent to an investigation of the causes surrounding the discharge of the 15 men. Mr. Webb answered that there was nothing to investigate, that the railway company were managing the road and he did not see why their actions should be questioned. Mr. Devlin then asked him if he did not owe the public and the employes of the road any duty regarding its management, in which all were more or less interested.

Mr. Webb did not reply.

Mr. Devlin then said there was no use in further discussing the matter, as the railway company had declared themselves in favor of an independent course.

Mr. Toucey then said that Master Workman Lee was primarily responsible for the strike. Mr. Devlin asked Mr. Toucey if he would waive the question of Mr. Lee's action and consider the discharge of the other men. Messrs. Toucey and Webb refused and that ended the conference.

The situation looks serious to-night and the indications are that a general strike is imminent.

General Master Workman Powderly will to-morrow issue an appeal to all true K. of L. in the employ of the Central-Hudson Railway and upon the Vanderbilt connecting lines. In the document he will state the causes for the strike and the efforts made to obtain a peaceable settlement of the difficulties and notify every member of the intention of the executive board of the K. of L. to prosecute the fight against the Central-Hudson to the bitter end.

Mr. Powderly states that the strike has ceased to be one of a local assembly and has become one of the whole organization, and it will use every means in its power to continue the fight. He intimates that the Federation of Railway Employes will support the movement. The situation is serious.

Grand Master Sargeut, president of the council and chief of the firemen's organization, has ordered a meeting of the supreme council of the federation of railway employes at 9 a.m. Saturday morning at Terre Haute, Ind., for the consideration of the New York Central strike.

Mr. Powderly to-night gave out a statement of the interview this afternoon with Vice-President Webb and Superintendent Toucey. The statement says: This morning Mr. Powderly and Mr. Devlin waited upon Mr. Toucey at his office for the purpose of endeavoring to bring about a settlement of the trouble. Mr. Toucey absolutely refused to entertain any proposition looking toward arbitration or an investigation of the causes of the discharge of the men. During the afternoon the same gentlemen waited upon Mr. Webb in order as stated by the executive board of the K. of L., to give the company every opportunity to bring the strike to an end. In the interview they had with the third vice-president, Messrs. Powderly and Devlin repeated the offer which the K. of L. have made from the beginning, that they would declare the strike off if the company would submit the case of the discharged men to the investigation of disinterested outside parties on the understanding that if it should be shown that there was no cause for the discharge of any men other than their connection with the K. of L., such men should be reinstated in their positions, the representatives of the K. of L. agreeing to bind themselves to abide by the decision or finding of the investigators.

Mr. Webb positively refused to agree to this request in the interest of peace. Mr. Powderly even went so far as to ask Mr. Webb, in view of the conflicting statements of the men and the company's officials if he would consent to meet the discharged men and allow him (Mr. Powderly) to question them in Mr. Webb's presence upon the charges of the company against them. Mr. Webb refused to entertain even this proposition. Mr. Toucey, who came into the room during the interview, reiterated the oft made statement that they would insist upon the right to discharge any of their employes without assigning a reason for doing so, and that they would not admit of any labor organization or committee of such organization to intervene in the matter.

Being asked if they took the position that a railway was property of the company and that neither the employes of the company nor the public had any right to question the management, they hesitated and at last took refuge in a silence which the representatives of the K. of L. determined to break. The latter said that if it was the policy of the company to maintain that they would admit that neither the public nor employes of the road had any right in the premises it was useless to waste time or words on the matter, and shortly after withdrew.

A reporter at 11 p.m. roused Messrs. Webb and Voorhees from their beds at the Grand Central depot. They granted him an interview clad only in their night clothes. When told that a general strike over the whole system would be declared to-night or in the morning and that the strike meant all employes but engineers, Mr. Webb appeared somewhat startled. Neither he nor Mr Voorhees made any comment thereon.

Mr Powderly to-night said that in his appeal to the mechanics and other employes of the Central Hudson system and connecting lines he will call upon them to stop work at once.

In the Grand Central depot are encamped 75 firemen and the same number of switchmen, supposed to be there to provide for any emergency.

Charles Oswald, a young New York Central brakeman, was seen alive sitting on his brake at Spuyten Duyvil this afternoon. When the train rolled into the yard at 75th-street at 5 p.m. he lay dead on his car with a dent, as if made by a brick, behind his ear.

Samuel Campbell, a non-union switchman, was assaulted near his home this evening and hit on the head with a stone.

The Tribune says a formal strike will undoubtedly not be ordered by the Executive Board before Saturday.

Eighty Rebels Beheaded.

Tangier, Aug. 20.—The Sultan of Morocco has vanquished the rebels at Zemmour, beheading 80 of them.

Gen Middleton's Defence.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—General Sir Fred Middleton, before leaving Canada, issued an address to the people of Canada. He says that in the Brenner far matter he acted under a wrong impression of his powers, and of course he regrets the mistake. The general says that he issued orders against plundering on the march. Personally he never received any of the furs. He concludes with a refutation of the charge that he failed to do justice to his companions in-arms by furnishing a list of the decorations and promotions which he recommended.

The City of Windsor which.

Windsor, Aug. 20.—At the next session of the Ontario Assembly Sol. White, M.L.A., will introduce a bill to incorporate the united towns of Windsor and Sandwich as a city. The population of the combination is about 15,000.

A $15,000 Blaze at Montreal.

Montreal, Aug. 20.—Fire in the hardware and stove works of H. R. Ives & Co. at Longueuil at 3 o'clock this morning caused a loss of $15,000, partially insured. A large number of men, boys and girls are thrown out of employment.

CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES.

Mr. J. G. Bourinot, of Ottawa, in the "Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science" for July, deals with the relations and differences between Canada and the United States. Mr. Bourinot who is a close student of history and a close observer, says that that the differences that systems of the two countries are of important he has shown to exist between the political a character as to exercise a very decided influence on the political and social conditions of each. Allied with a great respect for law, which is a distinguishing feature of all communities of the Anglo Saxon race, they form the basis of the present happiness and prosperity of the Dominion and of their future national greatness. It was to be expected, reasons Mr. Bourinot, that two peoples lying alongside each other since the commencement of their history, and developing governmental institutions drawn from the same tap-root of English law and constitutional usages, should exhibit many points of similarity in their respective systems and in their capacity for self-government. But it is noteworthy that their close neighbourhood, their means of rapid communication with one another, the constant social and commercial intercourse that has been going on for years, especially for the past forty years, have not made a deeper impress upon the political institutions and manners of the Canadian people, who, being very much smaller in numbers, wealth, and national importance, might be expected to gravitate in many respects toward a nation whose industrial, social and political development is one of the marvels of the age. Canada, however, has shown a spirit of self reliance, independence of thought and action in all matters affecting her public welfare, which is certainly one of the best evidences of the political steadiness of the people. At the same time she is always ready to copy, whenever necessary or practicable, such institutions of her neighbours as commend themselves to the sound judgment of her statesmen. Twenty-five years ago at Quebec they studied the features of the federal system of the States, and in the nature of things they must continue to refer to the working of their constitution for guidance and instruction. Canada has been steadily working out her own destiny on sound principles, and has in no wise shown an inclination to make the United States her model of imitation in any vital particular. It is quite clear, the writer points out, that Canadians who have achieved a decided success so far in working out their plan of federal union on well defined lines of action, in consolidating the union of the old provinces, in founding new provinces and opening up a vast territory to settlement, in covering every section of their own domain with a network of railways, in showing their ability to put down dissension and rebellion in their midst, are not, Mr. Bourinot thinks, ready, in view of such achievements, to confess failure and absence of a spirit of self-dependence, a want of courage and national ambition, an incapacity for self-government, and to look forward to annexation to the United States as their "manifest destiny." But whatever, continues the writer, may be the destiny of this youthful and energetic community, it is the earnest wish of every Canadian that, while the political fortunes of Canada and the United States may never be united, yet each will endeavour to maintain that free, friendly, social and commercial intercourse which should naturally exist between peoples allied to each other by ties of common neighborhood and a common interest, and that the only rivalry between them will be that which should prevail among countries equally interested in peopling this continent from North to South, from East to West, in extending the blessings of free institutions and in securing respect for law, public morality, electoral purity, free thought, the sanctity of the home, and intellectual culture.

Potato Blight in Ireland.

Mr. G. C. Frankland of Toronto, writes to the Globe respecting the prospects of scarcity in Ireland:

Sir,—Great Britain and Ireland have suffered much from continual rains. Indeed the hay crops were largely rotted in the meadows, and I note in the Globe this morning that there is likely to be a potato famine in Ireland and that famine fever has appeared in the Blasket Islands on the west coast. If this be true, should not immediate steps be taken to avert such a calamity? Ontario has abundance of food and to spare, and the empire is so closely connected by steam and electricity and by blood that it is only necessary to call the attention of our people to the immediate wants of Ireland and contributions would come forth in abundance. Our railways would carry it to the seaboard and our Canadian steamers would carry it across the sea free of charge. Those who are old enough to remember the last potato blight in Ireland and the consequent suffering will realize the necessity of meeting this famine fever with food, wholesome food, and prove to the world that no part of our great empire can suffer without calling into being sympathizing help and assistance—for one touch of nature makes the world kin.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Alleged Queer-Shovers in Quod—The East Hastings Election Case.

TORONTO, Aug. 20.—Minnie Thompson appeared in the Police Court yesterday in answer to a charge of passing counterfeit money. A boy, Joseph Furnace, supposed to be an accomplice, was in the dock with her false coin, a very bad leaden imitation of a 50-cent piece. The case was remanded.

William Murphy and Edward Miller, two members of "C" Company, School of Infantry, were charged with assaulting Police Constable Jarvis Monday night and pleaded guilty. The constable is badly hurt and may have permanent internal injuries. The case was adjourned.

Frederick Groft, a German, appeared in the dock wearing a uniform of the United States army, charged with stealing a watch chain and two gold rings belonging to a waitress at the Royal Hotel. Groft was sent down for 30 days. He said he had been in the United States army for 10 years.

Richard Rowe and Walter Kellar were committed for trial on the charge of highway robbery. They are accused of taking $4 from G. W. McMaster.

Joseph Bullock, charged with seducing his stepdaughter, was remanded for a week.

In the matter of the East Hastings election there was yesterday filed in the office of the Court of Appeal a cross-petition by Charles Hudson, sr., farmer, of Tyendina township, against Nathaniel Vermilyea, the defeated candidate, who has already petitioned against the return of Mr. Hudson, the Conservative member elect. The cross-petition sets forth the usual grounds of bribery, corruption, treating, etc. The original petition against Mr. Hudson was filed on July 26 and served Aug. 2, and omitting the intervening Sundays the cross-petition would seem to be within the required 15 days limited by the statute for the filing of the same.

POTATOES AND PRINCES.

He Knew a Good Thing and Took Advantage of It.

Kings and princes are not of quite as much importance in the world as they once were, says The Youth's Companion, but it is still true that a certain amount of consequence may attach to their slightest action.

Some little time ago, on a winter afternoon, the Prince of Wales, accompanied by another princely personage, paid the Queen a visit during one of her brief sojourns in Buckingham Palace.

The two men left the palace on foot and passed through the streets. It was very cold and the princes felt their hands cold in their thin gloves. Just then they happened to pass the stand of an old man who gained a livelihood by selling hot baked potatoes on the street.

"Here," said the Prince of Wales, laughing, "is a chance to warm our hands."

They stopped, bought four hot potatoes of the old man, thrust them into the side pockets of their overcoats and went on warming their hands upon them.

The potato seller had recognized his patrons, and shortly afterwards the passers-by were astonished and amused to see a large sign erected over his cart bearing the words:

POTATO MERCHANT TO THE PRINCE OF WALES

The novelty of the title attracted a crowd, which increased and grew noisy when a policeman attempted to make the potato seller remove the sign. The "merchant" insisted that as the Prince of Wales had patronized him he had a right to use the appellation.

The dispute threatened to be a long one and was causing some embarrassment to the authorities, when the matter came to the ears of the Prince. He at once sent the potato seller a considerable sum of money as a gift on condition that he would cease to display the sign.

The potato man accepted the money, the sign came down and all was once more quiet about his place of business.

TALK OF THE DAY.

A sad sight in this world is an old hen trying to plume herself to look chic.—New Orleans Picayune.

Kaiser Wilhelm now calls himself "the man of rock and iron." A little sarsaparilla added will make a fine bitters.—San Francisco Alta.

You can't praise a man for having done a good thing without hearing from the little man at his side who "advised him to do it."—Atchison Globe.

Blathers to Slathers, who prepared to bow, and was ignored: "I say, Slathers, isn't Miss Rood like that yacht out there?" Slathers: "How so?" Blathers—"Oh, well, if you don't see it! But it strikes me she's something of a cutter."—West Shore.

Persistent Mrs. Goodenough—"You're the sixteenth tramp that's been around here to-day, and I can't do anything for you."

Mr. Obadiah Toogood—"Sorry, marm; but if you'll lemme sleep in the barn over night I'll be the first tramp to ax for breakfast tomorrer."—Puck.

The Regular course—Miss Hautton—"So, have just graduated from Yalvard, have you, Mr. Strokem?" Inquisitive—"I suppose you've pursued college course?" Mr. Strokem—"I've rowed on the 'varsity eight." "Oh, yes, indeed—on the Thames, at New London!"—Lawrence American.

Not a Serious Loss.—Mr. Peterboy—"You Miss Travis, when your great big dog came out at me so wickedly I completely lost my head, d'ye know." Miss Travis—(with sigh of relief)—"I am so glad it didn't prove to be anything more serious!" Intensely hot-tempered.—Exchange.

RAN DOWN A SUICIDE.

Facts That Discouraged a Chicago Reporter After a "story."

The telephone in the local room of The Between-Seas rang shortly before 1 o'clock last night, says The Chicago Post, and through the transmitter into the listener's ear poured the startling information that there had been a suicide at the Palmer House and that the employes, unmindful of their duty to the public, intended to dispose of the body secretly. Three minutes later a reporter stood before the night clerk.

"I understand there has been a suicide here," he said.

The clerk said he believed something of the kind had occurred.

"I understand, too, that you are intending to secretly dispose of the remains," said the reporter.

This the clerk also admitted. Why? Because the deceased had no relatives, and as it was not pleasant to have the news of a suicide get out the best thing to do was to quietly get rid of the body.

"Where is the body now?" demanded the reporter.

The clerk thought it hadn't been cut down yet, the bag in which it was to be placed not having been brought.

"I should like to see the body," said the reporter.

"Certainly," replied the clerk, and, summoning the porter, directed him to conduct the young man where the corpse was swinging. Through long aisles and up many flights of stairs the pair tramped until the head porter's room, on the corner of Monroe-street and Wabash avenue, was reached.

Pulling open the closet door the porter pointed to the dangling remains of a little dog. "You see the dog was tied to the floor, but he climbed on top of the trunks, and in trying to walk across the branches fell on t'other side and —— —" the porter explained no more for the scribe had gone.

IGNORANT MASSAGE.

A Caution as to the Injurious Effects That May Follow.

Beware of all forms of massage or hand manipulation which rub the nerves, way of the down or hair which covers the body. Rheumatic curative pains may be rubbed upward from the extremities, and produce collapse of the action of the heart and death, yet nothing may be wrong, internally or sufficient to cause death. Burnings effects are often induced through ignorance of the curative indications of the occult powers inherent in our nature, the knowledge of which, so far as they are known, should be represented in our colleges by a Professor's chair, than which there would not be a higher in this world so far as the vital interests of humanity are concerned. Joseph Wallace, in The Herald of Health.

Emin Pasha Relief Expedition

For the relief of Emin Pasha we traveled during 90 days over 600 miles in length; 50 days were passed in the great forest, the rest in grasslands.

The forest of Central Africa is 621 miles long and 345 broad. The trees are from 20 to 240 feet high. The boughs and leaves form a roof impenetrable by the sunlight. On clear days twilight reigns throughout the wood, on rainy days (150 in a year) it is as dark as pitch. The rain pours down in torrents, the storm roars like a hurricane and the thunder makes the noise of a general explosion and collapse.

The trees reminded one of human life, the same struggle for light, for food. Some were old, others still young. That palm took root some time before the Plague of London, under whose wood was a babe when the tower of Babel was being built. What is the office of these old giants? Is it that of guardians of a king?

In a part of the forest we found the pigmy tribes, where they had been located by tradition.

The people had lived there for over 30 centuries. One day we met a couple, the man was four feet high, the woman something less; his weight 85 pounds, their color brownish. The pigmies live near the settlements of a taller people. Though useful to the owners of those plantations, warning them in case of danger, they are regarded by them as parasites.

The pasture land in Central Africa begins at an altitude of 4000 feet, the forest ends at 3500. On those large grasslands other tribes live, some are herdsmen, others farmers, while a third tribe is both agriculturist and herdsman.

What differences in form and in color are noticeable among the Africans? First, we have the pigmies of the big forest, who are of negro race then the well known type of the negro of West and Southwest Africa with his woolly hair; in the third place the Zulus and Kaffirs—negroids; then the Mhuma, looking like the traditional New Englander darkened with charcoal, originally from Abyssinia; and lastly the Semitic Africans, chiefly among the Mahdists.

We conclude that the pigmies and the negroes are the primitive races of the dark continent, that immigrants of the Aryan type produced the composite race.

Interesting was the discovery of the connection between Lake Albert Edward and that of Albert, also the mountains of the Moon and the southwest extension of Lake Victoria.

I hesitate to mention the discovery of the many mountains of the Moon, because, though already known in the classical times of Homer, later cartographers omitted them or placed them on the wrong place. One of those peaks, the Ruwenzori—the Camel Kings—is at least 8,000 feet high, tremendous avalanches roll down its slopes, formidable glaciers move on and give birth to the sacred Nile.

Some people have asked, what is the use of our late expedition? I answer that it has furthered the cause of humanity, that as a Christian people it is a subject of congratulation that a few thousand pounds have rescued 400 men from slavery; that the late governor (Emin) was rescued with his followers. Besides, our geographical knowledge is extended. The forest land, the source of the classic Nile, the mountains of the Moon are all discovered or rediscovered. The most interesting part of Africa has been traversed and thrown open to British and the world's commerce.—H. M. Stanley.

The Left Hand and Health.

In connection with the subject of the duties of the brain, there is one point of great importance about which I can only say a few words. It is that we have a great many motor elements in our brain and our spinal cord, which we neglect absolutely to educate. Such is the case particularly with the elements which serve the movements of the left hand. Perhaps, however, fathers and mothers will be more ready to develop the natural powers of the left hand of their children, giving them thereby two powerful hands, if they accept that, as I believe, the development of the brain and spinal cord would improve if all their motor elements were fully exercised.—Brown-Sequard in August Forum.

SNAKES AS BAGGAGE.

Baggage Smashers Careful of Trunks Labeled as Serpent Cages.

Up near the engine the men were loading trunks into the baggage car, says the Chicago Herald.

"Snake here. Look out, Jim!"

"Snakes be ——!" roared Jim, who was a strapping country-looking baggageman inside the car. "That's a nut. Them 'ar drummer's kaint fool me by paintin' such signs on their sample cases."

But "Jim" handled this trunk sort of gentle like nevertheless.

"I don't jest like this 'er snake biznes,' he said, as he raked beads of water from his forehead with his finger, "but ten ter one that ain't no snakes in thar. W'en I was brakin' on th' Tip-up and W. Pete McAllister wuz th' boss baggage smasher. He's in a lunetick asylum now.

"I used ter hev ter help load baggage, and one day as Peory we was be'ind time an' Pete was mad. Thar wuz a big lot o' baggage ter load. A little thin-faced man wuz watchin' his trunk. It wuz a little trunk an' every time anybody touched it he would holler out: 'Keerful thar, keerful!'

"Old Pete, he sez, ef thet ar feller sez anythin' w'en he got hold o' th' trunk he'd smash it all ter pieces. Them wuz th' good old daze when we got 50 cents apiece for ropin' up broken baggage. W'en Pete tuk hold o' this 'ere little trunk the weazen-faced man he stopped on' he sez sharper 'en ever:

"'Hi thar. Look out how yer handle that ar trunk.'

"Well, mebbe old Pete wuzzent mad. He wuz jest bilin' over. He tuk that ar trunk, raised it up over his head an' smashed it agin th' end of th' car.

"Th' top flew off an' about twenty (mebby more—nobody didn't stop to count 'em) about twenty big snakes rolled out an' chased Pete McAllister out of th' car. Th' man was a natrulsetic feller, an' thet wuz his kolleyflon. Pete went crazy an' wuz sent to th' lunin.

"I know them snake signs is a bluff but I kaint help handlin' them keerful like."

THE WORLD'S POPULATION.

Married Persons Live Longer Than Single Ones.

There are about 1,500,000,000 inhabitants on the globe. Of these 33,333 die every year. There are 3,064 languages, and over one thousand religions professed by the people. The number of males and females is about equal and their average life is about thirty-three years; one fourth of the inhabitants die before they reach their fifteenth year. To 1,000 persons only one reaches the age of 100 years. Of every 100 only six reach the age of 65, and one more than 65 years of age to every eighty-four under 20. Everything goes to make a grand total of 91,324 per day, 3,730 per hr., sixty a minute, or one every time the clock ticks.

Married persons live longer than single ones, and the tall have a better chance for long life than those of short stature. Women have more chances of life in their favor previous to 50 years of age than men have, but fewer afterwards.

The number of marriages is in proportion of 75 to every 1,000 born; the time when the greatest number of marriages takes place is in June and December—about the times of the summer and winter solstices. Dark-haired persons have a better chance in the great struggle for existence than those of the opposite complexion, except in contagious diseases, where blondes are comparatively exempt. A person born in hot weather stands the heat a great deal better than one born in the cold months of winter; of course, the rule works vice versa. Those born in the spring are usually of a more robust constitution than if born at any other time of the year. Births are more frequent by night than by day; also deaths.—St. Louis Republic.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the abatement of life insurances written by purely Canadian companies, and formulated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this handicap of $218,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$45,684,276	3.07
Confederation	17,574,925	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,056,387	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,230	10.66
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17.84
Ottawa	2,067,956	28.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,226	20.61

From this table we can see that while each companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

DEDICATED TO ST. JOSEPH.

The New Hospital Open to Patients of all Creeds.

An Interesting Ceremony at St Joseph's Hospital Addresses by Bishops O'Connor and Dowling and Several Laymen —A List of the Guests Present.

St. Joseph's hospital was formally opened Wednesday afternoon in the presence of several hundred people by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, with all the ceremony fitting to such an important occasion. A number of Peterborough's most prominent citizens were invited to be present, and the populace also availed themselves of the opportunity of attending the ceremony and seeing the magnificent new building, which was thrown open for inspection. An elaborate description of the hospital was published in the EXAMINER of yesterday. The public freely admired and appreciated the manifold beauties of the structure and the Christian charity which prompted its erection.

Speech-making took place on the southern porch, the invited guests being seated upon the platform and the public standing outside. Besides His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, who, attired in his purple robe of office, conducted the ceremony, there were present His Lordship Bishop Dowling, of Hamilton, also in full ecclesiastical attire, and the following clergymen:—Rev. Father McEvay, chancellor, of Hamilton; Rev. Father Connolly, S.J., of Montreal; Very Rev. P. D. Laurent, Lindsay; Very Rev. J. Browne, V. G., Duro; Rev. Fathers M. Lynch, Port Hope; J. Quirk, Hastings; D. O'Connell, Emmsmore; W. J. Kelly, Douro; D. J. Casey, Campbellford; M. Connolly, Emily; J. Sweeney, Burnley; C. S. Brotherton, Victoria Road; L. O'Connell, Peneton Falls; M. O'Brien and C. Dube, Cathedral; E. H. Murray, Cobourg; M. Larkin, Grafton; E. Bloem, North Bay; W. J. McCloskey, Brighton; P. McGuire, Bracebridge; J. Mollo, Lindsay; Rev. Father Campbell, Orillia; Mgr. Farrelly, Belleville.

Among the laymen present were Mayor Stevenson, M. P.; J. R. Stratton, M. P. P.; Councillors Cahill, Kelly, Dawson, Moore and Rutherford; J. E. Belcher, C.E., architect; Doctors Halliday, Goldsmith, Pigeon, Brennan, McGrath and Moher; Messrs. D. W. Dumble, John Corkery, John McKee, H. LeBrun, T. Dolan, J. D. Tully, Jno. Moloney, reeve of Douro; Town Clerk Macdonald, Market Clerk Doherty, A. J. Gough, A. St. A. Smith, T. W. Gibbs, F. Brownscombe and others.

Letters of regret, expressive of inability on account of previous engagements or contemporary duties, were received from the following. Most of these letters was accompanied by handsome donations to the hospital fund:—Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. E. F. Torrance, John Lang, Esq., M.P., Hon. Senator Sullivan, Kingston; Mr. Peter Hamilton, Mr. Macfarlane Wilson, Mr. R. H. Fortye and Mr. Pearse.

The Fire Brigade Band was present and enlivened the proceedings with music.

ECCLESIASTICAL SPEAKERS.

His Lordship Bishop O'Connor called the large assemblage to order and was the first speaker. He spoke as follows:—

MY LORD, REV. FATHERS AND FRIENDS:—It is with feelings of the utmost cordiality that I welcome you to the inauguration of St. Joseph's Hospital. Nearly two years ago the foundations were laid and the corner stone blessed by my Right Rev. confrere, His Lordship Bishop Dowling, who has honored us by his presence to-day. Now that this grand and majestic building has been completed, it is a great gratification to see so large an assemblage present to testify their delight that so noble a work of charity exists in our midst. This will be an institution where the sick and those whose infirmities and sufferings require aid and remedy, will receive that care, nursing and treatment which greatly tends to the relief and cure of suffering humanity. Its doors will be open to the sick of every denomination, the Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant. Our church teaches us to practise the charity taught us by Christ, if we desire to be His true followers. Now we know that the charity of Christ is unlimited, and extends to all mankind without any distinction of nationality, of belief, of race or of colour. This is what the Catholic church teaches and practices. Hence we need only to look around the world, and on all sides we behold the numerous institutions that are erects for the widow and orphan, for the poor and destitute, for the hungry and naked, for the sick and infirm, and our church not only builds these grand monuments of Christian charity, but she also sends her religious orders of men and women, who consecrate themselves to the glory of God and the service of their neighbor, to relieve and comfort the inmates of these institutions. Christ has proclaimed that in feeding the hungry, clothing the naked and attending the sick, we are doing such noble acts of Charity to Himself. This explains why so many men and women in the Catholic church abandon the pleasures and comforts of the world and devote their lives to the service of the poor, the orphan and the sick, with no hope of pecuniary reward. Their great delight is to serve their Divine Master, in the person of our suffering fellow-creatures. We are all children of the same heavenly Father, we are all brethren in Christ, who died to save all and consequently our charity, which is founded on the love of God and our neighbour, should have no limit or distinction of persons in its exercise. No person will be refused admission into this hospital, because of his religious belief. Sickness and injury will be the key that will open wide its doors for those who desire to seek relief within its walls. The sisters of St. Joseph, who are well known as careful and trained nurses, will have charge of this institution. Though their will be a regular staff of physicians to attend the patients in proper rotation, yet every physician of the town or country will be gladly welcomed at all times to attend the sick who would specially require their services. Also ministers of every denomination will be free to visit those who would ask their spiritual assistance. This basis is sufficiently broad to satisfy even the most fastidious. I may also inform you that this building has been erected by the charitable donations of the public, and it will depend on the charity of the public for its maintenance. Though yet heavily in debt, I have great confidence that in due time this debt will be wiped out by the generosity of charitable friends. We appeal to all to exercise charity according to their means and good will, knowing that in doing so they will be acting in a truly Christian spirit. As all classes and conditions of our sick brethren will be received into this hospital, we will expect contributions and support from all classes and denominations in town and country. I now declare this hospital dedicated to St. Joseph, open for the reception of patients, praying that Almighty God may bless both spiritually and temporally all who may at any time contribute to its support.

His Lordship Bishop DOWLING, of Hamilton, was the next speaker. He said it gave him great pleasure to be present on this occasion, as it recalled the time when he laid the corner stone. His Lordship's address was a charming effort, in which graceful personal allusions were made in a happy way and reference made to the fact that this building was a manifestation of the divine doctrine of charity practised by the church. He was pleased to recall the sympathy and co-operation he had received while here from the people of the diocese, without distinction of nationality or creed, and he looked for a continuance of the same for his successor. He prayed for the Lord's blessing upon the institution and all connected with it, and, as an evidence of his interest in it, deposited a cheque for $100 on the table, with the promise of another $100 next year.

LAY SPEECHES.

Mayor STEVENSON, M.P.P., expressed his pleasure at again meeting His Lordship Bishop Dowling, of Hamilton, who had, however, been followed here by one who had proved a most able successor. Bishop Dowling had shown his enterprise in starting this movement, and his sagacity in choosing such an admirable site; and Bishop O'Connor had shown his excellent business ability in completing this building. Mr. Stevenson felt confident he would continue to be a most careful and successful administrator of the affairs of this diocese. He thought the broad principles laid down by Bishop O'Connor in connection with this hospital were sure to meet with the hearty approval of the people of Peterborough, irrespective of religion or nationality. Mr. Stevenson had foregone another engagement to come here and show his approval of this grand enterprise, which, he felt sure, would bear fruit. The people of this diocese were to be commended for having so nobly supported this work of practical charity, and he hoped they would continue to see the necessity of giving it the sympathy and support which His Lordship had asked of them.

Mr. J. R. STRATTON, M.P.P., said it afforded him no small pleasure to be present on this occasion. A little over a year ago he had the pleasure of attending the ceremony of laying the corner stone, and it was then wondered where the money was coming from to complete the noble structure. But money did come, and it was to the credit of the Roman Catholic church and her people that they had finished it. It would be pleasant to any citizen of Peterborough to look over from George street and see this grand monument of charity in the distance. Mr. Stratton said that as the representative for this ridiug he would do his best to secure government support for this most worthy institution, in which he felt that he would be upheld by the people of the county.

Mr. D. W. DUMBLE said that as an old citizen of Peterborough it gave him peculiar pleasure to see one of the most beautiful hills crowned by a most beautiful structure. He admired the building and the generosity of its conception, but he hoped the beds so liberally provided would not be called into use. But he was told this was not only a hospital but a House of Providence, where the poor and needy as well as the rich would be cared for. As yet there were no homes provided for the homeless; those who were poor and needy, and whose only crime was poverty, were sent to gaol to be cared for within its cold walls. He characterized this as a burning shame. Mr. Dumble particularly admired the liberal, Christ-like principle which were the foundation of this institution. He felt sure the hospital would be appreciated. With the other hospital, from which much good was expected, this one would be an additional means of relieving suffering humanity. He hoped it would prosper.

DR. HALLIDAY admired the building and its outlines and the broad foundations upon which it was laid. Medical men could better appreciate such an institution and so far reaching influences than the general public. He disagreed with previous speakers who hoped that the beds might not be occupied. While not wishing for an increase in sickness, he wished the sick would more often avail themselves of the excellent opportunities here afforded, which were far superior to what could be obtained at home. He wished the institution every success.

Councillor T. CAHILL was pleased to see His Lordship Bishop Dowling again present. He felt that everyone would be pleased to hear the hospital was opened upon such a generous basis, and he was sure the supper which His Lordship anticipated would be forthcoming. He knew the good and charitable feelings of his Protestant fellow-citizens, and he felt that they as well as those of his own religion would not neglect it in future.

Other speakers followed in a similar strain, all commending the generosity which had characterized the promoters in its construction and principles of operation, and promising it their support. Among those who made brief addresses were Dr. Goldsmith, Dr. McGrath, Councillor Moore, Dr. Brennan, Reeve Moloney, Dr. Moher, J. E. Belcher, C.E., architect, and Mr. A. Rutherford, contractor.

Mr. BELCHER, architect of the hospital, referred more particularly to the perfect harmony which had existed amongst all concerned in the construction of the building. From the Bishop down to the labourer the happiest feelings had prevailed. All had worked together without the semblance of discord, and the result was a noble structure, of which everyone should and, doubtless, would feel proud.

Rev. Father MCEVAY, in conclusion, was called upon. He said he was delighted to once more meet his old Peterborough friends and the clergy of the diocese. He had had some hand in the commencement of this building and he was glad to see it completed. He congratulated the people of Peterborough on having such an institution in their midst. It could no longer be said that one-third of the population of Peterborough was excluded from the hospital privileges of the town.

His Lordship Bishop O'CONNOR stated that a number of gentlemen who had been invited had sent letters of regret, in many instances accompanied by handsome cheques. He desired to thank them, as well as the gentlemen present, who had made donations.

This closed the proceedings, and after subscriptions were taken up the gathering dispersed.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Willow and Wicket.

East Toronto Badly Beaten by Peterborough.

The East Toronto cricketters were easy prey for the Peterborough eleven. The visitors were defeated by an innings and 12 runs. They could not withstand the destructive bowling of Attewell and Stratton, and the sharp fielding of the home team. For Peterborough Attewell, Stratton, Ray, Brennan and Stocker did the principal scoring, the former getting his 29 by good cricket. A couple of fine catches by Stratton are deserving of special mention.

The match was a very pleasant one, and the East Torontos are to be congratulated on the pluck they show in making so long a tour every year. Their captain, the veteran Mr. Chandler, is an enthusiast, and his club plays more matches every season than any other club in Toronto; and the Peterboroughs look forward with pleasure to the return match in Toronto during the Toronto Fair.

The EXAMINER, with a justifiable pride, would call attention to the remarkable performance of Charlie Attewell with the ball this season. His analysis sums up thus:—

Overs	Maidens	Runs	Wickets
365	121	276	103

A wonderful performance, being an average of 2⅔ runs for a wicket, an average of 1,1-23 run for each over, and every second over a maiden. It is also worthy of note that neither he nor Stratton, who have done the most of the bowling, has bowled a wide during the season.

NO GAME TO-MORROW.

Secretary Ray has received notice that the Toronto cricket club cannot come down to-morrow. A strong local eleven had been got together to meet the city team, and their withdrawal is very disappointing. Toronto has so often failed to keep its engagements that the Peterborough cricketers have about decided to make no more dates with them.

Juvenile Ball Playing.

The Market Nine easily defeated the Campbellford IXL's on Riverside Park Wednesday afternoon. The boys play a good game and feel able to tackle any junior club in Canada, whose members are between the age of 9 and 12. It is probable they will have a game before the season is over with some Toronto junior team. Following is the score of Wednesday's game:—

THE CHECKERS VICTORIOUS.

BEAVERTON, Aug. 20.—A large assemblage gathered on the Lake View grounds here today to witness the first match of the season for the Eastern District championship between the Riversides, of Peterborough, and the Checkers, of Beaverton. It resulted by five games to one in favor of the Checkers, who took the first, third, fourth, fifth and sixth games in ten, fourteen, eleven, ten and seven minutes respectively. The Riversides scored the second game in 21 minutes.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Peterborough baseball club expect to play at Campbellford Saturday.

The Riverside lacrosse club were to have played at Orillia to-day, but it is probable the rain prevented the game.

Police Magistrate Edmison Called Upon to Adjudicate in a Couple of Complaints.

Police Magistrate Edmison held court at the Court House Wednesday.

An assault case, Trotter vs. Blodgett, was first disposed of. Blodgett worked with Mr. Geo. Harvey, Smith, but when the latter employed Trotter he was discharged. Blodgett appeared to think that Trotter was in some way responsible for his discharge, and on the 7th of August, while Trotter was cultivating a field, Blodgett and his brother began a quarrel. Trotter says that he drove on and Bodgett threw stones at him and struck him. Blodgett says he was 500 yards away from Trotter and it was impossible for him to throw that far. The Magistrate adjourned the case for a week to get other evidence.

An Otonabee farmer was charged with burning a neighbor's fence. The complainant had a fence built across what was an original road allowance, but he had been permitted by the township council to use the timber thereon until such a time as the council desired to open up the road. He fenced the piece of ground in. This summer the fence has been torn down and burned several times, and a neigabor was suspected. A watch was instituted, and on the night of July 10 h, it was sworn by the wife and daughter of the plaintiff that they saw the defendant and a companion take the fence apart, pile the rails up, whittle some shavings, pour oil on them, set a match to it and run. The watchers shouted after them that they need not run as they were known. The two women say they were within fifteen feet of the men and positively identified the defendant. No action was taken, as it was thought no further attempts would be made; but last week the fence was again burned. A police court case resulted, and, though the defendant strenuously denied all knowledge or complicity in the affair, he was fined $5 and costs. The defendant is well known and generally respected in Otonabee. For his relatives' sake no names are mentioned.

THE BULLETIN OF THE BUREAU OF INDUSTRIES.

Progress of Harvesting Operations, Condition of the Crops and Estimated Yields of the Cereals Based upon Reports of Nearly 800 Correspondents.

TORONTO, Aug. 22.—The Agriculture Department issued yesterday the 24th bulletin of the Bureau of Industries, prepared by Secretary A. Blue from the reports of 763 correspondents to Aug. 12, showing the progress of harvesting operations, condition of the crops and estimated yields of cereals.

This table gives the acreage of, crops this year computed from returns made to the bureau by farmers and estimates of yield based on the reports of correspondents, together with comparative statistics of 1889:

Crops	Acres	Bushels	Yield per Acre
Wheat	1890	38,101	14,852,390	39.6

Fall wheat throughout almost the whole of western Ontario is of good quality and in every respect an unusually fine crop. In the foregoing Hay, Lake Huron and West Midland counties some loss by winter killing and spring frost was experienced, especially on low lying and new land, but in these counties the crops as almost universally reported good. In the counties east of Kingston and upon the Ottawa River, where but little fall wheat is grown, the report is better than usual as to quality and yield per acre, but as usual, 40 to 50 per cent of the ground sown in these was winter killed. The majority of observers report mildew whatever from rust or insects, but there are indications of slight injury from weevil, midge and rust in some few fields of nearly every county. Roosters of the drought of last fall the grain appears to have been generally sown late, especially on heavy clay, many fields of which were plowed during the winter. With the excessive rain of spring followed by great heat came such a rush of plants that much rust and shrinkage were expected, but the damage is slight and will not materially affect the samples. The berry is generally reported plump, the straw bright and the crop the best for years. Cutting began from July 10 to 15 in the most advanced counties, from July 15 to 20 throughout most of Western Ontario and from July 25 to Aug. 1 in the district east and north of Kingston. Harvesting weather was very favorable and the crop has been secured in excellent condition.

From the records regarding spring wheat I would not be safe at this date to assert that the crop was any better than an average one. Still there is much reason to expect that it will turn out better than fair. Harvesting had not been completed at the date of the report, except in a very few of the most advanced townships, while in the counties where most spring wheat is grown a large proportion of the grain was at least a week from maturity, and much would depend upon the weather intervening between then and the end of harvest. A majority of observers declare the crop to be fair or promising, and generally good on high land, but there is an almost unanimous complaint of much injury to hawking wheat from the wet cold and late spring. In some localities a blight that reddened the leaves is somewhat complained of, and in the midland counties midge and weevil are credited with effecting considerable damage, but the majority of reports agree that the crop has suffered little from these causes. Few observers in the [illegible] rate of the wood but none [illegible] is, where the misery from spring rains was particularly great, the average is occasionally estimated at from 10 to 12 bushels per acre. The hooded varieties, especially Colorado, are most praised throughout the province, and White Russian, Early Ruggonal and Wild Goose are rather more commended than the Fyfe seed wheats, whether of Scotch or Manitoba growth. In those few districts where the crop has been harvested the report is fair, and this will probably be the final verdict on the crops as a whole. The area sown is much larger than last year.

Barley is somewhat light in yield and uncertain in color, so that taking into account the decreased area under cultivation the crop is likely to be 1,000,000 bushels less than the average, and probably not a great deal will rank first class. The wet, cool spring, followed by thirty hot weather at maturing time, did a considerable amount of damage to this cereal, and unfortunately, as the harvesting weather has been somewhat unfavorable in many localities, the grain has been discolored by rain both before and after cutting. The early varieties escaped this misfortune to a large extent, but otherwise the crop has suffered very generally to a greater or less degree. But a large proportion of the crop is still to be cut at the time of reporting, and it is difficult to state definitely the condition in this respect. It was largely the case in the northern and eastern counties of the province, and it is not expected that the harvest has been secured in a satisfactory condition. Reports respecting the imported two-rowed barley with its small samples were sown by many farmers are perhaps almost equally divided for and against. It has been ascertained that this variety is from a week to ten days later in maturing than the ordinary six-rowed barley, but as it had been cut in hardly a single instance it was difficult to express a definite or reliable opinion upon it, and the reports are very guarded in this respect. So far however, the evidence does not warrant the belief that it is in any marked degree superior to the ordinary varieties, in spite of the fact that it has been favored by a season of unusually long and slow growth.

A Fashion Note.

The youth who intends to devote his attentions exclusively to one girl this summer will ask, if he thinks, what's what, "Shall we hammock for the season?"

And she will answer sweetly, "My inclinations twine that way."

THE TORONTO BUDGET.

A SMASH-UP ON THE GRAND TRUNK NEAR COBOURG.

The Steamer Nipissing Ashore Near Gravenhurst—A Warrant Issued for the Arrest of Superintendent Tait of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

TORONTO, Aug. 22.—The Montreal express on the Grand Trunk due at 10¼ last night, was three hours late. The cause of the delay was a smash-up near Cobourg in the afternoon. A wildcat engine was running west, trying to make its way on the time of the regular trains. There is a curve at the point where the accident took place, and in rounding it the wildcat plunged head on into a loaded freight train going east. None of the trainmen were injured, all jumping in time to escape unscathed. A tramp who gave his name as Joseph Woodcock of Montreal was riding on the bumpers of one of the cars and got his foot jammed in the wreck. In order to save his life and prevent his bleeding to death a medical man from Cobourg amputated the injured limb, which was left in the wreck. Woodcock was removed to Cobourg hospital. It is said some $5000 worth of damage was done.

The steamer Nipissing, belonging to the Muskoka Navigation Company, and plying between Gravenhurst and Colborne, went ashore yesterday afternoon on a small island nine miles from Gravenhurst, while on its return trip from Port Colborne. There were some 15 Toronto people on board, who had struck camp in Muskoka and were on their way back to recommence business after the holiday recess. The greatest excitement prevailed on board for a short time, but as the lake was calm the fears of the passengers were soon quieted. The boat lies high and dry on the island and it will be some time before she is released.

The warrant for the arrest of Superintendent Tait was issued by Coroner Lynd at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and is now in the hands of Inspector Stark. Mr. Tait was in Montreal yesterday, but will be here again this morning. At 9 o'clock he will proceed to Osgoode Hall where the warrant will be executed and where he will at once give bail, himself in $2000 and two friends in $1000 each. Hon. R. M. Wells, Q.C., says that the company will at once proceed to attack the validity of the verdict.

The charge of passing counterfeit money against Minnie Thompson, Roland Roberts and Joseph Furness came up in the Police Court again yesterday morning. The two male prisoners, both young boys, were discharged at the opening of the case. The counterfeit coin was a very bad leaden imitation of a 50 cent piece. The woman pleaded not guilty, but admitted giving the coins to the boys. The boys sold them for 10 cents each. The case was enlarged.

Nathaniel Wormworth came down from Mountain Grove to draw $700 fire insurance money. He got the money and went drinking and was arrested. He then said he had lost money and notified the police, who arrested Pat. O'Leary, with whom Wormworth had been drinking. O'Leary pleaded not guilty and was remanded. The money was afterwards found by the police in Wormworth's hat. It is thought he invented the story to defraud his creditors.

John Stratton and John Wallace were charged with stealing a watch from a man named Langdon at the Russell House. Wallace was discharged, but Stratton was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, there being five prior convictions against him.

THE WORLD'S FAIR IN DANGER.

Reports in Chicago That the Funds Are Not Forthcoming.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21. The Chicago Mail, whose principal editor is a South Park Commissioner and intimately acquainted with World's Fair matters, in an article this afternoon says: "The financial affairs of the World's Columbian Exposition Company have assumed an exciting phase during the last two weeks. For the reason it is said by persons who know, more than for any other, it have the many recent changes been made in the [illegible] directors in regard to a site. To this cause also is largely due the uneasiness that prevails at present. The rumors are daily becoming more common, and to such a pass have World's Fair matters come that a few men of good judgment are speculating on the total collapse of the exposition scheme.

"The fact is, said a man well informed in World's Fair matters, that the popular subscription is not the glorious success predicted. There was subscribed about $5,000,000 by upward of 28,000 persons. The subscriptions were made while the residents of Chicago were worked up to a high pitch of enthusiasm. Now the people have cooled off and it is difficult to collect. All the causes of dissatisfaction taken together have caused at least 50 per cent. of the shareholders to neglect to pay their assessments. Now what effect will all the juggling with sites and the knowledge of the true condition of the finances have on the people when they come to vote on the constitutional amendment, which enables Chicago to raise the additional $5,000,000? It is easy to forecast it. The people will be disgusted by November next, and already many of the directors are beginning to tremble lest the proposed amendment should not receive the required number of votes."

Toronto Musicians Going to Brantford.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 21.—Mr. G. H. Fairclough of the Toronto College of Music and organist of All Saints' Church has been appointed director of music in the Presbyterian Ladies' College here. He will also be organist and choirmaster of Zion Presbyterian Church (Dr. Cochrane's). Miss Alice Waltz of Toronto has also been engaged as teacher of vocal music and voice culture.

The Stranded Dania.

FIRE ISLAND, Aug. 21.—The passengers of the stranded steamer Dania were transferred to the steamer Augusta Victoria of the same line and the latter took them to New York. She had started for Europe this morning. The captain of the Dania expects to get her off at the next tide. The Dania carried 263 steerage passengers.

A FIGHT FOR EXISTENCE.

POWDERLY SAYS THE KNIGHTS' BATTLE IS FOR LIFE.

The Grand Master Workman Comes Out "Flatfooted" for the Strike—An Appeal to the People—The Case of the Men Presented—The Situation.

NEW YORK, Aug 21.—Mr. Powderly made this statement to-day in reference to a report that the grand jury was considering the advisability of indicting the leaders of the strike: "The grand jury has nothing to do with the case. We have violated no law, either state or national, since we came to this city. The men have been orderly and peaceful, they have acted like gentlemen since the strike began. Whether this strike has been ordered wisely or not, has nothing to do with the matter now, so far as it affects the grand jury. The men have a right to quit work, and the grand jury has no right to decide that they must return to work.

"The railway officials have got men following us. This morning about 2 o'clock a card was sent up to my room. On it was written: 'The New York Herald offers its support, and I am authorized to represent it.' The man came to my room and began to ask questions as to what we intended to do without saying anything of the attitude of The Herald. I thought the man acted suspiciously and upon watching him after he left us we discovered he went to the New York Central depot instead of The Herald office. He was not a newspaper man and appeared very much flurried and excited while he was in the room. If the New York Central people hope to shape the action of the grand jury by such means as this they cannot expect success."

To-night Mr. Powderly issued an appeal to the people. The appeal reviews the causes of the strike and relates the unavailing efforts made to secure a peaceable settlement of the difficulty—referring to Holland's interview with Webb and Powderly and Devlin's interview with Toucey and Webb, accounts of which have already been published.

The appeal then continues: The public may have formed erroneous impressions of the position of the Knights in the controversy. We don't pretend to dictate to the company that it shall not discharge employes, but in all fairness the discharged men should be told why they are dismissed.

I have no doubt that it is the determination of the management to destroy the organization of Labor along the line of the New York Central unless that organization subserviently bends its knee to the will of the Vanderbilts. During the controversy Messrs. Toucey and Webb stated and repeated the statement that the men were not discharged because they were Knights of Labor, and they expect the public to believe them simply because they say so. Both of these gentlemen deny certain things in relation to their conversation with me, which both Mr. Devlin and myself are prepared to make affidavit to. I am, therefore, to be excused if I am not prepared to accept as true beyond question any denial by them of statements made by men whose words should be of equal value with theirs. Everything that could in honor be done to terminate the strike on an honorable basis for the men was done and the alternative of unconditional and absolute surrender on the part of the men or a protest against the tyranny of officials of the New York Central Railway was presented to us. Under the circumstances it would be unmanly, it would be cowardly—and unworthy of the sons of men whom two hemispheres struggled and died for the rights of humanity. We did not see the quarrel. The General Executive Board knew nothing of it until it was thrust upon them, and now that we have to face it we ask the entire order of the Knights of Labor to come to our assistance with the means to win the strike. We are not craving for sympathy: we are not in need of moral support. We have the fight in our power which owes its lofty bearing to the wealth it has piled up from the labor of its employes; untold millions are at its command, and we want money to carry on the struggle. We ask all members of organized labor to come to our aid. We not only ask labor organizations but we ask of the great public beyond our organizations of labor to come to our relief.

It is not because a few cents more a day or some paltry concession to the men was required that this strike was precipitated. The real animus lies in the fact that our order has been struggling with the questions which concern the control of trusts, corporate and syndicates by the government of the people. The allied forces of the K. of L. and the Farmers' Alliance are marching on to Washington to secure legislation favorable to the whole people and to secure the repeal of certain unjust laws. It is in the hope of turning our attention away from these matters that the warfare is made on the part of the allied forces.

In conclusion Mr. Powderly says. The Knights of Labor hold themselves in readiness now, and will continue to hold themselves ready to yield to the will of the public in this matter. The company, on the other hand, holds itself above and superior to public opinion. I would here ask the men still in the employ of the N. Y. C. R. R. whether it be not to their interest to stand by and support those who are striking to vindicate the common right to organize. The General Executive Board will conduct the contest with all of their ability within the law and without violence. To do this we require funds and that at once. Public spirited citizens who believe in fair play are asked to contribute to the liberty fund in aid of the striking employes of the N. Y. C. and H. R. R. Send all contributions to John W. Hayes, No 814 North Broad street, Philadelphia, Pa. T. V. POWDERLY, Think Other Roads Will Escape.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—John Hall, a member of the Executive Board of the Federation of Railway Employes, said to-day in reference to the strike on the Vanderbilt roads that he did not believe the Brotherhood men west of Buffalo would be involved, as he thought the action to be taken at Terre Haute Saturday would be only as to the New York Central Railway. The leading officials of the Vanderbilt lines in Chicago say they are not making preparations for a strike and do not expect one.

Joined the Strikers.

BUFFALO, Aug. 21.—There is no change in the strike at this point. The men imported from the west have joined the strikers and will be sent home. They claim they came to work on a new branch of the Central and were told the strike was over.

SUDDEN TAKING OFF.

Hamilton Farrell of Huron Township Dies Under Peculiar Circumstances.

KINCARDINE, Aug. 21.—On Thursday week Hamilton Farrell of Huron township died somewhat suddenly, and his taking off was much after the manner of his brother Ben's, which occurred about a year ago. Dr. Secord, the family physician, was anxious that an inquest should be held, and took the necessary steps. Dr. McCrimmon of Underwood was the coroner, the body was exhumed and viewed by the jurymen. The evidence did not go to show that there was foul play nor is that idea entertained. The stomach, kidneys, etc., have been sent to Prof. Croft of Toronto for analysis.

FATHER AND TWO SONS.

A Triple Drowning Accident at Cobourg Yesterday Afternoon.

COBOURG, Aug. 21.—Dennis Lyons and his two sons, aged 10 and 12 respectively, were drowned at the mouth of Factory Creek at 4 o'clock this afternoon. They had been fishing, and in entering in their boat, when it capsized. The bodies have not been recovered. Two boys who were bathing near the creek witnessed the accident and gave the [illegible]

YACHTS CAUGHT IN A STORM.

Flyers Come to Grief at the Kingston Regatta—The Winners.

KINGSTON, Aug. 21.—The regatta to-day was the liveliest and most disastrous ever experienced here. The weather was about as erratic as it possibly could be. The morning broke cloudy but calm. It was thought the races might not occur, but when the hour of starting arrived a nice wind from the southeast was blowing.

The special and forty footers got off in good form, but they were only well away when a squall from the south followed by a dash of rain made matters anything but pleasant. In the midst of the storm the 35 and the 30 footers made away. For several hours afterwards a good breeze was enjoyed.

But between 12 and 1 o'clock a howling gale arose and it created disaster and the wind whistled at a 60-mile grit. Thousands gathered on the wharf to await developments. It soon came, the Volante of Hamilton standing on the rocks at Point Frederick. The crew were raved, a sailor wading ashore and carrying a line with him. Many of the yachts ran for shelter. The Norah, Yama, Merle, Samoa and Gerda stood out the gale and came in victorious.

The yacht Victoria of Kingston, moored between two wharves, broke her stern lines and drifted outward. She knocked a hole in her side, filled and sank in ten feet of water. She is owned by G. Offord.

A yacht owned by Lindsay Russell was saved from going ashore at Murney Tower by a tug picking her up. The Gracie started for her moorings and manfully weathered the gale. She drifted much in the trough of the sea, but was finally able to get to her wharf. Her nose was at one time on the reef in which the Volante stranded. The Volante is lying on her side on Point Frederick. She pounded very hard during the afternoon.

The yachts will not start for Oswego to-night.

Special class:

	Start.	Finish.
Vreda	10	1.22.05
Norah	10	1.25.50
Ariadne	10	Did not finish
Condor	10	Did not finish
White Wings	10	Did not finish

The Norah was well to the front when a topsail was carried away and a boom split, and the Vreda won first place. The Vreda ran into Cataraqui Bay, tried to cast anchor but it was dragged and she pounded Cataraqui bridge. She was kept off the stone piers by soldiers and was finally towed to safe anchorage. The Ariadne, Condor and White Wings retired, though the Ariadne did not do so until after colliding with Gunn's wharf, damaging her rail and carrying away sail and rigging.

Forty foot class:

Yama	10	1.41.30
Merle	10	2.11.00
Verve	10	Did not finish

The Verve of Toronto in making port smashed her stern on the G.T.R. wharf. The Yama proved a good sailer. The yachtsmen wanted to see her in a heavy sea and their wishes were gratified. She carried much canvas and came home well in hand with her larger friends. The Merle proved very seaworthy.

Thirty-five foot class:

Gerda	10.15	2.35.00
Gracie	10.15	Did not finish.

There were only two entries in the 35-foot class, and the gale proved too much for the Gracie, the Gerda alone finishing.

Thirty-foot class:

Samoa	10.15	1.50 08
Amelia	10.15	Did not finish
Pelgie	10.15	" "
Maud B	10.15	" "
Nadia	10.15	" "
Nancy	10.15	" "
Norma	10.15	" "
Volante	10.15	Stranded

There were no less than eight starters in the 30-foot class, the Hamilton boat Samoa was the only one to withstand the storm and took the prize.

THE SAENGERFEST.

Waterloo's Musical Festival a Great Success—The Program For To-day.

WATERLOO, Aug. 21.—The second day of the great tenth Peninsular Saengerfest was a great success in every respect. The concert this afternoon was not so well attended as expected, but to-night the hall was filled to overflowing. Mrs. Caldwell and Mr. Schuch of Toronto and Prof. Yunck of Detroit (violinist) were heartily encored.

The Rochester, Buffalo and Hamilton singing societies arrived in town yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock by special train, and at 3½ six Detroit societies and the Ann Arbor, Jackson, Bay City and Saginaw societies also arrived by special train.

To-morrow at 10½ the parade will take place, consisting of all the singing societies, fraternal societies, cadets, commercial travelers from Toronto, London and intermediate points. The Maccabees of Port Huron have arranged for an excursion and are expected to reach here in time for the procession. In the afternoon a picnic will take place in the new park. In the evening a ball will close the saengerfest.

WAS IT SUICIDE?

Moses Asino of Brockville Killed by a Dynamite Blast.

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 21.—Moses Asino was fatally injured by the explosion of a dynamite blast in a sewer at Abbott and Maple streets yesterday afternoon. Asino made the connection with the blast and gave the signal. It was supposed he had gone to a place of safety, but his mangled body was found after the explosion lying at the bottom of the hole. He lived about three hours. The fact that the victim's boots were found clear off his feet in the hole and the fact also that his domestic relations were not of the most pleasant nature give rise to the belief that Asino made no effort to escape.

The Sarnia-Port Huron Big Bore.

SARNIA, Aug. 21.—Less than 100 feet of the tunnel remain to be finished, and it is expected that this distance will be completed within a week. Saturday a hole large enough for a workman to creep through will be bored from heading to heading so as to make certain of the adjustment of the shields, that they may come together with mathematical exactness.

A scene was created in Port Huron the other day by a report that the tunnel had caved in, and that seventeen men had been crushed to death. When investigated, the catastrophe dwindled down to the death of one mule and that was caused purely from carelessness.

Mysterious Death at Georgetown.

GEORGETOWN, Aug. 21.—Thomas Watkins came here Saturday and put up at the Biggar House. Sunday morning he was found on the floor of his room dead. He had a pillow under his head, and his hands were clasped over his chest. It was observed that he must have experienced intense suffering before his death. Watkins was about 75 years of age and had been, for the past 30 years, living near the Boyne, in Trafalgar. He had no relatives in Canada. He had been employed with a Mr. McCartney, and had been receiving aid from friends in the Old Country.

A Close Call.

QUEBEC, Aug. 21.—While an unknown woman was crossing the Quebec, Montmorenci and Charlevoix Railway bridge at Chateau Richer she got caught between the ties and was unable to extricate herself. Just then a train approached, and before the engineer noticed the woman he was almost upon her. By a great effort he, however, succeeded in reversing the engine and putting on the brakes, and brought his train to a standstill within a few inches of the almost insensible prisoner.

The Daily Examiner

FRIDAY, AUGUST 22, 1890.

OBJECTION is taken to the proposal to substitute a business tax for the tax on merchandise, on the ground that it will be unfair to other persons who are assessed on personalty. The St. Thomas Journal says:—"There is probably not one merchant on Talbot street in this city who does not pay in taxes more than seven and a half per cent of the amount of his rent. Reduce his taxes and the rest of the city will have to make up the amount of the reduction. The tax on personalty is objectionable owing to the fact that it bears heavier on the conscientious than on the dishonest; but so long as we recognize wealth as the basis of taxation, why should the man with a $5,000 stock bear the same share of the municipal burden as his neighbour who has $20,000 in goods or plant?" It seems to us says the Globe, that this argument tells not so much against the business tax as in favour of the proposal to abolish the tax upon manufacturers' goods and plant. On the whole, however, taking municipal and Federal taxation together, the manufacturer receives better treatment than the merchant. The whole weight of the Federal taxes falls in the first place, though not ultimately, upon the importer. On the other hand, many of these taxes are levied at the special request of certain of the manufacturers and with the intention of benefiting them. Again, municipalities have often granted manufacturers not only immunity from municipal taxation, but bonuses as well. We are not aware that any town or village has ever bonused a merchant or even exempted him from taxation.

AT last we have an explanation from Sir John Macdonald as to why he dropped the woman suffrage clause of his Franchise Act. Speaking at Summerside, P.E. Island, a few days ago, the premier said he thought woman who possessed property and paid taxes should be allowed to vote, but he had to drop the clause of the Franchise Act making such a provision because "the tyrant men in Parliament thought that if the ladies became electors they might take it into their heads to become the elected, and to sit in Parliament, and they might get control of the timber limits and divide them among themselves." Sir John's memory, remarks the Ottawa Free Press, is evidently failing, or he would not have forgotten that though the ladies can neither vote nor sit in Parliament, they are not debarred from the benefits of speculation in government timber limits. Was is not Mrs. Nannie Maria Rykert that got the boodle out of the Sands-Adams deal? Sir John might have referred to this as an instance wherein the power and genius of woman overcame the obstacles erected by "tyrant men."

THE Liverpool Courier of the 9th instant contains the following editorial paragraph with reference to a letter from Mr. John Dyke, Dominion Immigration Agent, which appears in the same issue:—

"From the letter of Mr. John Dyke, Canadian agent at this port, printed elsewhere, it will be seen that the Dominion Government are repeating an experiment made ten or eleven years ago. In 1879 they invited a number of delegates, representing tenant farmers in the United Kingdom, to visit the Dominion, examine its resources, and report on its suitability as a field for British settlement. The great progress since made by Manitoba and the North West Territories is tolerably well known, but with a view to afford English agriculturists and others an opportunity of investigating the development of the past decade the Canadian Minister of Agriculture has decided to invite six practical agriculturists to visit the great North West this autumn, under the conditions mentioned in Mr. Dyke's letter. The reports of these gentlemen will be awaited with much interest by many English people who have friends settled in the territories, and by capitalists and others concerned in the welfare of this nearest of British colonies."

Mortuary Statistics.

The terrible effect of the hot weather on young children is shown by the mortuary statistics for July. Quebec and Hull have abnormally high death rates, being respectively 4.70 and 4.59. Montreal is also very high, viz., 3.77, and in striking contrast to the death rate in the commercial metropolis, is Toronto's splendid record, 1.38. The deaths in Montreal during July numbered 761, of which 579 were children 5 years of age. The deaths in Toronto numbered 262 of which 126 were children under 5. The leading Ontario cities and towns have also excellent records, London, St. Thomas, Woodstock, Chatham and Galt, with figures respectfully of .62, .85, .65, .68 and .54, contrasting favorably with Sherbrooke, Three Rivers and St. Hyacinthe, whose ratio per thousand is 3.93, 3.89 and 3.87 respectively. Hamilton's ratio is 1.74; Ottawa, 2.81; Kingston, 1.31; Brantford, 1.47; Guelph, 1.13; Belleville, 1.61; Windsor, 1.42; Peterborough, 1.07; Brockville, 1.19.

A New Journal.

The EXAMINER has received a copy of the first issue of The Office and Home, a monthly journal devoted to finance, commerce, insurance, office work, and advertising insurance and home literature. It is published by D. J. Bannel Sawyer, of the Ottawa Business College and Geo. L. Blatch. The journal is neatly printed on toned paper, with cover, and contains a considerable amount of clear information. Subscription price $1 per year.

THE BURCHELL CASE

Array of Legal Talent—The Defence Confident of Acquittal.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 20.—As the time approaches for the trial of J. Rex Burchell for the murder of Frederick C. Benwell the interest in the case grows keener. There can be no doubt that, great as was the place in the public attention gained by this affair on the first publication of the circumstances and the preliminary trial, it was nothing compared with what it will be before the trial is over.

The Crown is represented in the working up of the case by County Crown Attorney Ball, who will appear also at the trial as the regular Crown counsel at the assizes. Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., whose reputation as a criminal lawyer is unequalled, will be senior counsel. The Attorney-General, who is officially the representative of the Crown in the assizes, will be specially represented by his deputy, Mr. John R. Cartwright. The working up the details of the case is intrusted to Provincial Detective John Murray, a man of first-class ability and long experience.

On the other side the case was entrusted in the first place to Mr. Hellmuth, of Messrs. Hellmuth & Ivey, of London. The defence is now represented on the ground by Messrs. Finkle, McKay & McMullen, of Woodstock, and the senior counsel at the trial will be Mr. George T. Blackstock, of Toronto, one of the strongest men at the bar. The collection of evidence in the interest of the defence has been undertaken by Detective Bluett, of Toronto, whose name in connection with detective work is well-known throughout the Province.

The line of defence is a subject of general speculation. Those who favor Burchell's side seem to feel confident of the result of the trial, basing their confidence apparently upon the tone of the people engaged in the defence. Detective Bluett says he is confident there can be no adverse verdict, but what the line of the defence is to be he naturally does not announce. One thing is pretty clear, however—there will be no attempt to prove an alibi and the case will go upon the merits of the evidence collected by the two sides. Mr. McKay, one of the prisoner's solicitors, complains of difficulties thrown in his way by the people on the Crown side. On Monday after a long-continued effort, he says, he was allowed to examine the clothes taken from the murdered man. He declares that they have not been properly handled, that if the case depended upon proving the condition of the clothes, and no witnesses were at hand to establish the case it would be impossible to learn much from the crossed and ill-kept lines of fabric now in possession of the Crown. It is understood, however, that whatever points to be made out of the condition and appearance of the clothes will be established by the mouths of the witnesses who viewed them daily before any disturbance.

The Minister of the Interior Talks

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—Hon. E. Dewdney returned to the city today from a trip, partly for business and partly for pleasure, to Manitoba, the Northwest and British Columbia, having gone as far as the Pacific coast. Speaking of the crop prospects, Mr. Dewdney says that everywhere he went in Manitoba and the Northwest the crops were excellent. The harvest was general when he left, and there was an entire absence of frost. It was estimated by good judges that there were 900,000 acres in wheat this year in Manitoba and the Northwest. The general impression was that it would yield 25 bushels to the acre, or about 22,500,000 bushels in all. Of oats, barley and peas there was also a large yield.

To Move the Crops.

MONTREAL, Aug. 20.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has given out contracts for a thousand box cars to be ready the first week in October for the purpose of adequately moving the season's crops. The contract has been divided among all the car works in Canada to ensure prompt delivery. The amount involved is considerably over $500,000.

Knocked Out By Whisky.

DETROIT, Aug. 20.—George Wright, an evangelist, came to this city about two weeks ago from Maidstone Cross. Mr. Wright was a man who once in a while took a glass of whisky, not for the sake of getting intoxicated, but for his health. After taking a few drinks Wright wandered about the street and was run over by an omnibus in front of G. and R. McMillan's grocery. He was picked up and taken to Harper's hospital, where his wounds were treated, and a few days afterwar d was discharged.

Sunday he fell down in an epileptic fit and was again taken to the hospital, but after working on his case the doctors pronounced it hopeless, and he died yesterday. The remains were taken to Blaize's morgue and were taken in charge by a friend of Wright's, who conveyed them to his home in Canada. Wright was a single man and was to have preached at Essex Centre last Sunday. He has wealthy relatives in Scotland.

PRETTY TOWN OF TRURO.

THE CHARMING LITTLE NOVA SCOTIA CITY DESCRIBED.

It is Beautifully Situated for Business—The Centre of the Railway and Transportation System—Headquarters of the Mining Regions—Capital Only Wanted.

A correspondent of the New York World in a recent article describes one of the prettiest of Canadian towns. Truro, Nova Scotia. He says: I am writing to-day from one of the most important and progressive towns in the province of Nova Scotia. This interesting little place has about 6,000 inhabitants and is beautifully located on the gently rising banks of the Salmon River, which, in conjunction with the North River, empties into the Cobequid Bay, about two miles from town at the very head of the wonderful tidal waters of the Bay of Fundy.

There cannot be found in the maritime provinces a place of more promise as a manufacturing and industrial point than Truro. It is the railway centre of Nova Scotia. Over a dozen express trains arrive and depart daily besides a large number of freight and merchandise trains. The Intercolonial Railway carries you north to all points of Canada or westerly in twenty-one hours to Boston, or in twenty-seven hours to New York. This same road after two hours' ride lands you in Halifax, the capital of Nova Scotia, the great naval station of the British fleet in the North Atlantic and the Winter port of the Dominion of Canada, which here is direct connection by the best of steamers to England. This same great Intercolonial line of railway takes you to Pictou, the place of departure for Prince Edward Island, or, after a pleasant and short ride to Port Mulgrave, the eastern limit of Nova Scotia, only a few mile from Terminal City, which is only a four days' voyage from England.

There are other lines which seem to carry you everywhere. A new line is projected, to run from Truro to Windsor, N. S., which will open up a new and undeveloped country, the richest in the province. Still another line is projected to Brule Harbor, on the northern shore. The distance is only thirty-five miles and this link will of communication between Charlottetown on Prince Edward Island, and Halifax and the city of Boston. Thus by its powerful railroad facilities Nova Scotia is brought within a stone's throw of the largest Northern and Western cities of the continent. When Eastern capitalists have fully realized, as they must within a short time, what wonderful resources are here within easy reach and to be had almost on their own terms, they will make this country the great industrial centre of Canada and Truro a manufacturing city of no mean importance.

Already on account of its geographical position and the railway facilities just mentioned it is the best distributing centre in the maritime provinces and business men from the other provinces have flocked here and established depots for goods manufactured at other places. Many of the large companies manufacturing agricultural machines and implements in Ontario and Quebec have established their distributing branches here and send their wares to all points in the maritime provinces from the enterprising little town of Truro. These warehouses are large and the business is most extensive. On account of its central position Truro is the seat of large wholesale and retail dry-goods establishments, and big hardware and grocery concerns. I have received many kindnesses and courtesies from Mr. O. C. Cummings, one of the partners in the house of Wm. Cummings & Sons, the largest wholesale and retail dry goods firm in the town.

There are also many factories of all kinds here, including in their products iron-works and gold mining machinery, hats, furniture, tubs and pegs, aerated waters, flour mills, condensed milk, carriages, knit goods, soap and others. All of these are being a profitable business as they have exceptional advantages on account of the close proximity of Truro to deposits of iron and coal. The timber trade of Truro is vast. While Halifax is the place of export, the head centre of the lumber interest is here, owing to this city's neighborhood to large areas of almost unbroken forest and to its central location and easy communication with all the ports.

FORTY MILLION FEET OF TIMBER

are shipped annually to the English market from here, and yet this industry may truthfully be said to be in its infancy. What a rare opportunity for some of our American capitalists to make a profitable investment by establishing wood-working manufactories. Truro is the headquarters and home of many of the largest gold mine owners in the province of Nova Scotia, including the proprietors of the celebrated Dufferin mine, for [illegible] the story of a Micmac Indian once appeared as plaintiff in a cause celebre before the Privy Council of the British Empire. This mine has been but slightly developed yet it has paid its owners $400,000 in dividends besides returning a mint of money spent in expensive litigation. Truro is the home of those largely interested in the gold mining areas at Radwon, Killag, Wineharbor, Caribou, Moluga, a particularly valuable property. Mount Uniacke and other good properties.

How fortunate the owners of the celebrated Rawdon antimony mine, and this is the headquarters of the Truro Coal Mining Company. The largest stockholders reside here, of a property that now gives promise of being one of the most valuable coal areas in this coal-yielding province, these are the newly discovered Salt Spring seams. These valuable properties as yet are but in the infancy of their development, and all they require to render them almost untold value is the investment of more capital. Since men of but limited means have made them valuable a liberal expenditure of capital would make them properties of enormous profit. Also of all these properties can be obtained or stock bought in the companies working them, for fairly reasonable figures. Here in these gold and coal properties, chiefly owned in Truro is a rare chance for the investment of the surplus capital of every where to be found in the business centres of the United States.

Twenty-five miles from Truro is situated the lately discovered Gays River gold conglomerate region. Experts have already pronounced this the richest deposit of the kind in the world. Truro citizens are interested in this rich area and capital form the United States is pouring in to develop it.

The town of Truro has begun to appreciate its right beside her can be had the raw material for her manufactures enough to make a Lowell. The town is one of the best in the province. A stock company has been formed to erect a handsome opera house, due to the taste of this cultured community. A lively Board of Trade compiled the best business men in an institution. Truro may be well proud of Mr. George Cish is the President and Mr. Hall the Secretary. There is no [illegible] the provinces of Nova Scotia so well adapted as a location for homes. In the town and in the outskirts are many pretty residences with more or less land attached. Any one of them, perfect gems of country residence can be purchased with their charming surroundings and surroundings. One [illegible] Truro has experienced is the lack of capital to put up dwellings of moderate expense for the ever-increasing population that comes to the town. A rush of moving could make a fortune by erecting houses and that can be obtained at reasonable figures and exciting that would rent from $100 to $300 a year. One citizen told me there are over twenty families now seeking rooms in Truro, but who could not obtain ceiling-less on account of the lack of such within the town's limits. The hotels are not large, but are well kept, and their rates are exceedingly low. The principal are the Prince of Wales, the Victoria, Learmont House, Parker House and Railway Hotel.

Truro has all the modern improvements. The city, the public squares and the picturesque and unrivalled Victoria Park near by are beautifully lighted with electric lights. In no city can be found more culture and refinement. There are good churches and the best educational facilities, and in every way Truro is a model city. Here have been born many distinguished people, the Hon. S. G. W. Archibald, Baron Archibald and Sir Edward Archibald, who was British Consul-General for twenty-five years, and so well known and beloved in New York. The present distinguished member of the House of Commons for Colchester County, Sir Adam Archibald, an ex-Governor of his native province, who was recently knighted, lives here in his lovely old English home, "The Cottage."

My thanks are due to Mr. W. D. Dimock, for much of the data contained in this sketch, and for many kind attentions. He is one of the most energetic and enterprising citizens of Truro.

Country House Visiting for Pleasure—A Hint to Youthful Guests.

There are degrees in visiting, from very smart country house parties to parties not so smart, and parties that are not at all smart, in which the guests are additions to the family circle, if not acquisitions, and visits that are paid to host and hostess in the truest sense of the word, in which the one visitor is asked for a long visit, and not for a three or four days, but for a ten days' one. Thus numerous are the visits paid.

Visitors are asked that they may enjoy the beauty of the country and the company of their friends and all the amusements that the country offers in the way of tennis, cricket, boating, bazars, flower shows, picnics, and an occasional dance. These visits are perhaps the pleasantest of any "stress" is not at all important, but in reality of very little importance, the ladies do not dress "at" each other. There is little time for donning tea gowns, and the dress put on in the morning is pretty enough and good enough to be worn until dinner, when it is exchanged for something equally simple which does not resemble a ball gown in the very least. To live in the open air all day is the great secret of enjoyment, and to spend as little time in the house as possible. To have ten out of doors, to read, to work, to play tennis, to row on the river, are all pleasant ways of passing the time.

Young ladies are frequently asked on a visit of two or three weeks without their parents. When there are daughters in the house the mistress never finds the presence of her visitor a tax; but it is often otherwise when a young lady allows her hostess to feel that she is dependent upon her for amusement during the whole of the day, and has not tact enough to relieve her of her presence during the calls of her most intimate friends.

One Way to Propitiate.

At a hotel a waiter came out of the coffee room and informed the manager that a man was causing a disturbance because he could not have his accustomed seat at the table.

"Go on again," said the manager, "and propitiate him in some way."

Back went the waiter and said: "If you don't like the way they do it [illegible] here you can get out, or I'll [illegible]."—Life's Work.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase $1,704,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $818,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how much a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,684,376	3.07
Confederation	17,574,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,460	10.29
Federal	10,058,897	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,470,220	10.63
Temperance and General	2,964,972	17.94
Citizens	2,067,266	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	20.12
London Life	1,644,285	39.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Distinguished Fishermen

Hon. C. H. Tupper, General Cameron, Mayor Stevenson and party returned this morning from their two days fishing expedition. The others in the party were Messrs. R. A. Morrow, R. B. Rogers, T. Fitzgerald the veteran fisherman, and Messrs. Arthur and Rufus Stevenson. The first night was spent at Burleigh and the next at Buckhorn, the steamer bringing the party down to Chemong this morning. About forty-five bass were captured by the Minister of Fisheries and his associates by still fishing. This forenoon the visitors were chaperoned about town by Mayor Stevenson. They left at noon for Ottawa.

Dan Whetung's Excursion.

Mr. Dan Whetung makes a change of programme this year. He has dropped his annual picnic and regetta, and will hold instead an excursion, including a concert, to Burleigh and return on Thursday. The concert will consist of vocal and instrumental music by the Chrowe family's string band and vocalists, and also selections by the Chemong band. The steamer Maple Leaf Loaf and palace scow, Chemong, will leave Chemong station at 7:30 a. m., calling at Davis Point at 8, Indian Village wharf at 8:30, (Parties coming to Spencer's will be ferried to Indian wharf) and Buckhorn at 9:30. Fare for round trip 50c., from Buckhorn 30c. 1d2w

Won by Hard Work.

Mr. T. C. Mr. Doidge worked over seventy hours to accomplish the task. He sails by the "Parisian", September 3rd, and will be abroad three months. The publishers of The Queen will soon announce another "Free Trip to Europe" word contest, with $200 for expenses.

More Thistle Cases.

Several thistle cases were disposed of at the police court this morning. The police appear to be making a determined effort to carry out the law regarding noxious weeds and thistles, and it is understood a number of other cases will soon be on the docket. Parties owning pieces of ground in town should take the hint intended to be conveyed by these prosecutions and cut down all the weeds and thistles on their property. If they fail in this they will probably find themselves in the same predicament as did Mrs. G. Allen, Wescott street, and Messrs. John White and Thos. Stothart, McDonel street, this morning. They all pleaded guilty to the charge of allowing the thistles to grow on their premises but pleaded ignorance of the law. They were let off on paying the costs incurred by the prosecution.

The National Game.

The lacrosse club returned home last night without having played at Orillia, rain preventing the game. The boys are not discouraged by their defeat, at Beaverton but will put into practice the old maxim of "try again."

The Riversides feel disappointed over the lack of interest manifested by the public in the national game. They had to leave town to play a championship game without a field captain; and it was with difficulty that a team could be got together at all. This state of affairs is not complimentary to the people of Peterborough, and particularly those who profess an interest in athletics. The boys did the best they could, but on a small, roped-in-field, with a partial umpire, and no field captain, the odds were too heavy to contend against.

Dr. Davies' Organ Recital.

There was a fair attendance, at Dr. Davies' organ recital last night, though not so large as usual, owing to bad weather. Those present, however, enjoyed a musical treat of high character and rich in its resources of enjoyment. No less a matter of admiration, than Dr. Davies artistic and finished execution and sympathetic interpretation of the great themes he deals with, is the great extent of his repertoire. He has given at St. John's, this summer, some five or six recitals, each programme consisting of nine numbers, without once repeating himself, and without any one of his selections showing any indications of lack of grasp or weakness in execution on the part of the performer. Last night's programme included such numbers as Rheinberger's Sonata in B flat, Bach's stirring Fugue in D major, Mozart's beautiful and graceful Lake Minuet, and Hayden's overture to "Orlando Palandrino," the march composed by Meyerbeer, for the Schiller festival. Those who wish to enjoy a decided musical treat of elevated and elevating music should attend the next recital given by Dr. Davies in St. John. Below is the night's programme:—

Marche Solennelle (composed for the Ecumenical Council at Rome) ..... Benvenuto Pisani
Andante (First movement) ..... Beethoven
Le Bonheur d'Amie ..... Wely
Sonata in B flat (Allegro, Moderato Andante, Grazioso, Finale) ..... Rheinberger
Fugue in D Major ..... Bach
Offertoire in A ..... Batty
Minuetto (Le Lac) ..... Mozart
Overture, "Orlando Palandrino" ..... Haydn
Schiller March ..... Meyerbeer

Open to the Province.

Peterborough's Central Exhibition of 1890—Bright Prospects for an Unusually Successful Show.

The sixth grand Central Exhibition will be held at the agricultural grounds, Peterborough, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Sept. 24th, 25th and 26th. Strenuous efforts are being made to score an unusually brilliant success this season, and, with fine weather, there is no doubt this will be accomplished. A more complete and comprehensive prize list than ever has been made out, and the prize fund increased to $3 000. The directors are taking a great responsibility in thus increasing the expenses, but they confidently look for a practical appreciation of their laudable enterprise on the part of the farming community and townspeople. The posters are out and the prize-list and programme will be issued in a few days. All interested parties and every resident of the Midland district ought to feel interested—should get a copy of the latter and make every effort to exhibit or attend the exhibition.

Sir John Macdonald, premier of Canada, is expected to be present on the second day and formally open the Exhibition. Then the great show will be in full swing, and the thousands of visitors will have an opportunity of inspecting the admirable displays which will be made in every department and enjoy the numerous special attractions provided. Among these latter will be the customary horse speeding, in which there are five events, from a platform and music will be provided for fancy step dancing, suitable prizes being given for the successful competitors. On this day the chief feature will be the Caledonian games under the management of St. Andrew's Society. These sports will be unusually interesting.

On the third day there will be a exhibition of fancy drill by a squad of the 57th Battalion under Sergt.-Major Rundle, Gough Rice's baby show (always attractive and amusing,) and horse speeding. It is probable also a baseball match will take place between two first class amateur sides.

An attraction not down on the posters, which was procured after the bills were in the printer's hands, is the exhibit of Manitoba and Northwest products. This alone, will be to farmers well worth coming miles to see.

The live stock department and inside shows promise to be superior to former years. All entries should be made by Saturday, Sept. 20, with Secretary Collins, who may be found at W. J. Green's clothing store, Hunter street. After that date 10c extra will be charged for entries. The books will be finally closed on Monday, 22nd.

Special reduced rates have been secured on all the railway and steamboat lines. The usual prices of admission will be charged.

Copies of the prize list can be had from the Secretary. President Rutherford or any of the Directors will also cheerfully give all information in their power to enquirers.

Let the county and townspeople unite in making the exhibition of 1890 an unparalleled success.

Labor Day is Civic Holiday.

Monday September 1st to be Celebrated by the Workingmen—Lakefield's Civic Holiday

Monday, the first day of September, is Labor Day all over this continent. On that day the workingmen of two nations will take a holiday, and celebrate the triumph and progress of their cause. Organized labor has a firm footing in Peterborough, and the members of the different societies will join their fellow labourers elsewhere in a proper commemoration of Labor Day. The town council has proclaimed the day a civic holiday, so that all classes of citizens may participate in the recreation. An energetic committee has the arrangements for a mammoth excursion to Campbellford in charge, and doubtless the picnic will be one of the largest that ever left Peterborough. The picnic takes place on the exhibition grounds, Campbellford. Sports will be held to make the day interesting. Cheap fares have been procured. There is no reason why labor day and civic holiday may not be made one of general enjoyment.

LAKEFIELD'S BLOW-OUT.

Our northern suburb is preparing for a grand splurge on Wednesday, Sept. 3rd, which has been appointed civic holiday in the village. A demonstration is to be held, and a varied and interesting programme offered for the popular amusement, comprising cricket, baseball and football matches in the forenoon, horse races, athletic sports and a regatta in the afternoon, and a general civic illumination and canoe parade in the evening. The committee of management are determined to make the day a memorable one in the history of Lakefield. Cheap railway and steamboat rates have been secured. No doubt the demonstration will attract large crowds from all parts of the district.

A Grand Operatic Treat

In Store for the Citizens of Peterborough.

One feature of the drawbacks of living in a rural town is the lack of opportunity of hearing first-class musical artists, concerts and operas, which a city presents. Frequent complaint is heard here that "Peterborough is never favored with anything first class" in these lines. Now that arrangements are being made to furnish a strictly first-class concert and opera entertainment, a chance will be afforded to see how deep is the feeling that inspires such a complaint. Mr Thomas Dunn, whose interest in music has often been practically demonstrated to the benefit of almost every church and social organization in town, has arranged for the appearance in Peterborough for one night, of the celebrated Clara Louise Kellog Concert and Opera Company, on Wednesday October 8th. This is a thoroughly high class organization, which visits only the largest cities, appearing this season in Canada, only in Toronto and Montreal. There being, however, a night between the company's dates in those places, by great good fortune, it has been secured for an engagement in Peterborough. The expense of bringing a full company that comprises four operatic stars like Clara Louise Kellogg, soprano; Madame Carrie Morse-Lee, contralto; W. H. Lee, baritone, Signor Carlo Spigarolo, first tenor, and an efficient chorus and support is, of course, great, but not greater than will warrant the engagement of the company in Peterborough, if the public will show their appreciation of a genuinely first-class entertainment by a liberal patronage. The large amount of the guarantee necessitates the price of $1 to all parts of the opera house and 50 cents for the gallery. A guarantee list is being circulated, and the readiness with which the merit of the coming entertainment is recognized, is very encouraging. And it is to be hoped that our music-loving citizens, who do not hesitate to pay railway fare, hotel bills and double the price of tickets for the Kellogg company in Peterborough, to visit the cities to hear operas of the same high class as the one in question, now that they have a similar opportunity brought to their very doors, will take advantage of it. Persons signing the guarantee list will be offered the first chance for seats. Lists for signature will be found at the Peterborough Bookstore and at W. R. Greatrex's drug store. Our townspeople are advised to sign early, as special railway rates will be given from Lindsay, Belleville, Port Hope, etc., on the date of the concert, which, as announced above, is October 8th.

Opera House Dates.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn, manager of the Opera House, has displayed commendable energy and enterprise in securing engagements from a number of the leading theatrical and operatic troupes on this continent. A glance over the subjoined list will reveal the names of some American "stars" whose fame is world-wide. The list will be further augmented as the season advances, and the prospects are that theatregoers will this winter, have the opportunity to revel in their favorite pastime. The following list of dates already booked will give an idea of the entertainment in store for the public:

Sept. 11—Little Coquette Co.
Oct. 2—Schwartz & Froom's "Running Wild" Co.
Oct. 8—Clara Louise Kellogg Opera Co.
Oct. 13—Grey's Minstrels.
Oct. 22—B. Mendelsom's "Rip Van Winkle" Co.
Nov. 10—Dan McCarthy's "Dear Irish Boy."
Nov. 18 Mme. Janauschek.
Dec. 5—Lilian Clay Gaiety Co.
Dec. 15—Lewis Morrison's "Faust" Co.
Dec. 27—McGibney Family.
Jan. 5—Adelaide Moore Dramatic Co.
Jan. 22—Gardiner's "Zozo, the Magic Queen."
Feb. 4 and 5—Prof. Bristol's Equestrian Circus.
Feb 28—Tavernier Bro.'s "Among the Pines" Co.

In addition to these, Mr. Bradburn is negotiating with the Boston Symphony Co. for Friday, Nov. 7th; the manager for Miss Margaret Mather has written for a date between Sept. 15th and 27th; and the Belmoral Choir wish to come here about Nov. 21st.

Norwood Notes.

(From the Register.)

The twenty-second annual exhibition of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society will be held in Norwood on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 14th and 15th. Over $1,000 will be offered in premiums.

The machinery in the chair factory has all been placed in position and the manufacture of all kinds of chairs will be commenced next week. The proprietor, Mr. R. J. Stewart, says the prospects for establishing a large trade are good.

The Messrs. Cumming commenced work Tuesday morning on a large addition to the hub, spoke and wheel factory of Messrs. John Finlay & Son. A lot of new machinery will be placed in the structure, and, of course, the staff considerably increased. The industry is steadily growing and in the very near future will furnish employment for nearly one hundred men.

The completion of the tower on the eastern corner of the new Methodist church finishes the stonework of that magnificent edifice. The work still remaining to be done will fully occupy the interval between now and the 1st of December—by which time the contractor is bound to have the building completed.

Mr. William Morrow, of Norwood, met with a serious accident about 7.30 o'clock Saturday morning. He has the contract of shingling the Brennan House and was carrying a bunch of shingles to the roof when a board in the scaffold broke, precipitating him to the roof of the kitchen, some twelve or fifteen feet below, his head striking the chimney and inflicting a serious scalp wound. He was at once conveyed home and under the skillful treatment of Dr. Ford is doing as well as could be expected.

The other day Mr. John Brick narrowly escaped death by poisoning. A goblet containing a nickel-plating mixture, resembling water somewhat, stood on a stand in the vicinity of a pail containing drinking water and Mr. Brick, supposing the contents of the glass to be water, drank a portion of the decoction before discovering his mistake. Dr. Ford was at once summoned and the necessary medical assistance rendered in time to save the young man's life. The Dr. says that had the mixture been fresh it would have killed him in a few minutes.

Personal.

Miss Mamie O'Donchue, of Rochester, N. Y., is visiting friends in town.

Miss Alice Waltz, the well-known soprano, has been appointed as teacher of vocal music and voice culture in the Presbyterian College at Brantford.

The Lindsay Post says:—The Misses Lizzie and Helen O'Brien of Peterborough are at present visiting friends in Lindsay. . . . The Misses Lottie and Grace Courtney of Peterborough are in town, the guests of Mr. A. A. J. Soanes. . . . Miss Croft of Peterborough is at present the guest of Mrs. A. Putnam in Lindsay and at Sandy Point.

Mr. W. Paakenham, of Ashburnham, has been appointed teacher of modern languages in the St. Thomas Collegiate Institute at a salary of $1,000 per year. Mr. Paakenham's friends will cordially congratulate him upon the appointment and wish him the success he is sure to achieve.

Omemee.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The heaviest fall of rain Thursday known for some years; but farmers have their harvest well saved and considered excellent.

There was nearly a drowning accident on our river, caused by the upsetting of a canoe and the occupants becoming entangled in the weeds. This is a rare occurrence on our waters and should be a warning to others to be more careful.

Mr. Walter Redpath, manager of the Omemee foundry and agricultural shops, is kept going night and day repairing threshing machines and other implements, and has an agency for the best lines of machinery.

The excursion under the auspices of the Presbyterian church, Bobcaygeon, on Tuesday, Sept. 2nd, promises to be largely patronized.

Pupils are reminded that classes in the Collegiate resume on Monday, Aug 25th. Pupils in all the forms are requested to be present in good time on the opening day.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The Pall Mall Gazette says that at a conference of British shipowners representing a capital of £20,000,000 it was decided to unite in a fight against the labor unions.

The Australian Strike.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 21.—A meeting of 400 employers to-day resolved to support the shipowners against the strikers. Employers in the capitals of the other Australian colonies are about to make similar declarations. In consequence of the strike prices of coal, sugar and provisions are rapidly advancing.

Mons Miners on Strike.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 21.—Advices from Mons state 9000 miners in the Borinagne district have struck. Socialist leaders are fomenting discontent among the men.

Unsubdued Rebels.

TANGIER, Aug. 21.—The French military mission helped the Sultan to work the artillery in the trouble with the rebels at Zemmour. The rebels are still uncowed.

Fears for a British Bark.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The British bark Assaye, Capt. McRitchie, which left London Feb. 26 for Wellington, N.Z., is supposed to have foundered. She was spoken March 16 on the Equator, but has not since been heard of. She carried a crew of 25 men.

Addresses Presented to the Kaiser.

NARVA, Aug. 21.—Emperor William today received delegates who presented addresses from the German residents at Reval, Moscow and St. Petersburg.

150 Lives Lost.

GENEVA, Aug. 21.—It is reported 150 lives were lost in the cyclone in the canton of Vaud yesterday.

NO LIVES LOST.

But the Big Summer Hotel at Thousand Island Park Is In Ashes.

WATERTOWN, N.Y., Aug. 21.—The big summer hotel at Thousand Island Park, St. Lawrence River, was burned at 3 o'clock this morning, together with the adjoining cottages and a large store owned by the Park Association. There were 400 guests in the hotel but all escaped although many with only their night clothes. Two women servants were injured. The loss is about $150,000, partly covered by insurance.

Fire at Bowmanville.

BOWMANVILLE, Aug. 21. Two tenement houses in Ontario-street, owned by S. Washington and occupied, one by Mrs. Barrett, dressmaker, the other by Harry Hooper, were burned last night. Washington is insured in the British American for $1000 and Hooper for $300 in the London & Lancashire. Mrs. Barrett has no insurance.

A Blaze at Copenhagen.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 21.—Fire in a custom warehouse here to-day caused a loss of 2,000,000 kroners.

The Minneapolis Flour Report.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 21.—The Northwestern Miller says: The flour output last week was 156,450 barrels. The demand for patent flour during the past seven days has been very good. Some of the heavier firms sold quite freely, New England taking the most, New York and Chicago also buying a good deal. Some mills, however, have nearly caught up on their orders. Prices are about 35 to 50 cents per barrel higher than a week ago, on account of the advance in wheat. Bakers' are still in good request for export, and some sales have been made at a slight advance. The direct export shipments last week were 43,500 barrels. For eleven months of the crop year the flour output this season has been 6,184,365 barrels, against 5,237,885 a year ago. The direct exports of flour are 538,800 barrels ahead of last year.

The Roof Fell In.

ROCHESTER, Aug. 21.—At noon the roof of St. Stanislaus Church in process of construction fell in and killed Andrew Harter and John Baner, carpenter, and wounding seriously three others.

Not Satisfied with Their Wages.

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—Forty delegates representing Illinois Central brakemen and trainmen arrived to-day for the purpose of holding a conference with the road officials to demand a general increase of wages.

A "Solid Comfort" Cottage Robbed.

PORT COLBORNE, Aug. 21.—A sneak thief entered one of the "Solid Comfort" cottages to-day while the people were at dinner and stole jewelry valued at $400 which belonged to Miss Block.

Railway Notes.

The new station at Lindsay will be ready for occupation in about a month.

Mr. Stevens, chief of the train despatchers at Peterborough, visited Lindsay last Tuesday. the Post says, on business connected with the approaching transfer of the force to that point.

The Midland railway employees' annual picnic will take place Saturday, Sept. 20th, on the lake shore at Beaverton. That is a most delightful place for a picnic, and a capital time may be expected.

On Wednesday morning, says the Warder, an accident occurred on the northern boundary of the town, happily without any of the hands being injured, but resulting in the complete smashup of fourteen cars and one engine badly damaged. A timber train drawn by engine No. 613, Mr. Wilkinson driver, with fireman Swanton, under charge of Conductor Lithgow, left Lorneville under orders to Lindsay all; went well until they arrived at the Junction, where they ran into a part of a special, under Conductor Botts which had left the yard here a short time before and was picking up cars at the Junction when the accident occurred. Botts' special was drawn by engine 636, Pratt driver, with McCulla fireman. It was fortunate that the special was standing on the Y at the time of the accident, for had both trains been going at full speed there is no doubt that loss of life would have occurred, as heavy sticks of square timber with which the down train was loaded, was hurled a distance of two or three rods. The track was cleared for traffic in a few hours.

South Harvey.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Nobody has any idea of the magnitude of the steamboat business in the lower lakes, mainly to Lindsay and Lakefield. Every winter immense quantities of wood, ties, telegraph poles, logs, etc., are taken out by the settlers and which is brought mainly by the Lindsay dealers for shipment to that place. There are now employed moving this stuff 6 steamboats and 30 barges. There are also several passenger and excursion steamers plying in these lakes, which, taken altogether, make things look lively, and furnishes the settlers with ready sale and good prices for their winter harvest.

Hens are doing well in this township this season. Mrs. J. Edmisten got an egg on Sunday 2¼ inches in length, and 6¼ inches in circumference. Who can find anything to beat this.

Gold in Chandos.

The Colborne Express says:—Our townsman, Mr. P. C. Cameron, is about to astonish the doubting ones as to the world of wealth in his gold mine in Chandos. It has taken time—years—to reach the present stage, and we have his word and the proofs for it that active operations begin immediately—$100 to the ton even on the surface of the vein. Great and valuable discoveries are not made in a day—are usually ridiculed for a time by novices. In the instance in question there need no longer be any doubt—at least the evidence, to all appearance, is conclusive. If Mr. C. should, in a few weeks from this time, realize his great expectations, all, we are sure, will rejoice in his good fortune.

ARBITRATION DECLINED.

FOWDERLY'S WILLING BUT WEBB FLATLY REFUSES.

Another Offer Made by the State Board. The Replies of the Labor Leader and the Vice-President. The Latter Says He Fears no Trouble Except Violence.

NEW YORK, Aug 23.—State Commissioner Donovan yesterday afternoon sent this letter to Vice President Webb.

"In view of the fact that the knowledge of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration that another strike is seriously threatened on the lines of your company, I am instructed by the board to again communicate with you and invite a joint conference in the offices of your company between you and representatives of your employees with a view of deciding some means either by arbitration or such other method as may be mutually agreed upon whereby the threatened strike may be averted and abrupt interruption of travel and transportation of freight be prevented.

A similar letter was sent to Mr. Powderly, who sent a reply to Mr. Donovan, in which he says

"Our board is willing to comply with your request and hold itself in readiness to respond at a moment's notice. We hold ourselves in readiness to do any honorable thing to terminate the strike or avert another one and sincerely hope that either arbitration or such other methods as may be agreed upon will have the desired effect. Recognizing in you an officer of the state and assuring you that we have from the beginning been willing and anxious to submit the matter to you for adjustment, I am very sincerely yours."

In his reply to Mr. Donovan, Webb expresses the belief that the efforts to extend the strike will fail and says: "The operating force of the company is full, the passenger service is regularly performed, and there is no obstruction to its freight service except lawless interference and the apprehension thereof. He states that he is not aware of any differences or grievances existing between the company and its employes. He assumes the conference suggested is one between the officers of the company and the officials of the Knights of Labor. These officials, he says, represent "not our employes but persons who have left our service and have not asked to be re-employed. The letter concludes as follows: "Of course we deprecate any interruption or delay in the transportation of freight upon the lines of the company. I shall take every means in my power to prevent such an occurrence, and if the constituted authorities prevent lawless interference with our employes I do not anticipate any interruption of passenger or freight traffic. For the above reason it seems to me inappropriate and unnecessary to have the conference suggested by you."

APPLYING THE BOYCOTT.

The D & H Asked Not to Take Freight from the Central.

ALBANY, Aug 23.—The report current yesterday that 20 yardmen on the Green Island yards of the D & H who are Knights of Labor had gone out on strike because the D & H road persisted in receiving Central freight was more than a trifle exaggerated. A deputation called upon Superintendent Hammond and requested him to refuse freight from the Central and Superintendent Hammond said he would let them know to-day what the road would do. One of the officials of the road in speaking on this question said it was difficult to see what right the men had to make such a demand, the effect of which if granted would be practically to uplift D & H almost as much as the Central. A large part of the road's own freight traffic is handled upon its connection with the Central. At the West Albany and the Rensselaer yards yesterday great progress was made in cleaning up these yards. Over 250 men are now at work there and no more from the east and other points west are expected to-night.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon as James Gray, a pointsman was making his way over the railway crossing at the East Albany end of the upper level, Wahl and B. & A. Q conductor, who was on a freight train at that end of the bridge, fired three shots at him from a revolver without any provocation. None of the shots took effect except to [illegible] strikers who were [illegible] the track viewing the operations of the green hands. When they heard the shots they made a rush for the conductor, who jumped from the train and ran over the foot path on the bridge to the Albany side where he was taken in charge by an Albany police and held for a night in the [illegible].

About 250 men went to work in the West Albany shops yesterday. A few Knights of Labor who went out first have returned to work. Those men attend to the daily repairs required by the road. The usual number of men daily employed in these shops is 1500.

A MAMMOTH LOCK-OUT.

All the Building Trades Will Be Out of Work Next Monday.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—On Monday morning New York will see an extraordinary lock-out of bricklayers, carpenters, painters, plasterers and every trade and business connected with building, and thousands of men will be idle. After to-day not a brick will be laid in the city, and consequently as far as building is concerned there will be nothing to do after that day.

The lock-out arises from the fact that in contract yards non-union men were employed, and the Knights of Labor wished to change that state of affairs. The firms were McConnell & Vaughn, Avery & Mackey, Cross Travis and King & Lynch. They would not accede to the demands of the Knights, and consequently the latter ordered a strike on their yards.

Then the brickmakers all around determined to stick by their fellows and crush the labor organizations. The result is that no manufacturer will supply bricks to New York till the boycott on the four firms named shall have been raised.

A general gloom, the shadow of the approaching event, prevailed to-day in the building exchanges, and the members talked in a most desultory way of the outlook for next week. All laid the blame entirely on the wasp-like delegates who ordered the boycott.

They Side With the Company.

ALBANY, N.Y., Aug 23.—A large number of manufacturers of this city have signed a letter which has been sent to the acting president of the Central Hudson Railroad congratulating him on the manly stand he has taken against the strikers. The manufacturers say they trust that he will not recede from his position and they protest that he will come off victorious if he remains firm.

The Vice-President's Case.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Mr. Webb last night gave out a statement declaring that the company has not discharged any men because they belonged to a labor organization. The discharge of the 50 or 60 men mentioned in Mr. Powderly's appeal was due to drunkenness, incapacity, breach of duty and insubordination on the part of the men and to lack of sufficient work to employ them. The officials of the company do not intend to transfer their duties, including the employment and discharge of employees to anyone except their duly appointed successors. The remark is made that it would probably be criminal neglect of duty not to discharge a switch tower man for drunkenness when the safety of many passengers depend on the man's sobriety. No business could be carried on, says Mr. Webb, when men are allowed to be absent without leave, and no employer could tolerate insolence and insubordination based upon the belief that the offender will be supported therein by a secret organization by the agency of which the employer's business can be damaged or stopped. Mr Webb considers it a monstrous absurdity for Powderly and his associates to ask that anybody except the railway authorities should be satisfied that causes existed for discharging the men.

Nothing is doing in strike matters on the surface and no new developments are expected.

TRANSATLANTIC ADVICES.

The Trade of Australia Paralyzed by the Shipping Strike.

MELBOURNE, Aug 23.—The shipping strike has caused a general paralysis of business. It is reported the Victoria and New South Wales iron works and factories will close down owing to the lack of coal. Nine Woollongong colleries have stopped work owing to the cessation of the steamship demand and lack of means of transportation. A joint conference of Melbourne and Sydney shipowners has been arranged. The great labor employers have renewed their pledge to stand fast against the strikers' demands.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 23. The strike in the Borinage district is spreading. Yesterday 2500 miners quit work, making a total of 11,500 on strike.

The Duke of Clarence Ill.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—It is stated the Duke of Clarence is suddenly ill. He has never been well since his return from India and has lately been confined to the house. Unless a change for the better takes place soon his physicians will recommend a long sea voyage.

THREE NEW EMPRESSES.

To Steam at Sixteen Knots and a Half Between Canada and Japan.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The three new steamers of the C.P.R.—the Empress of India, Empress of China, and Empress of Japan—are approaching completion at the yards of the Naval Construction and Armament Company, Barrow-in-Furness. The Empress of India will be launched Aug. 30. The other two vessels are to follow at intervals of two months. No expense has been spared and all the work is of the best character. The vessels are twin-screw steamers of 10,000 horse power, gross tonnage of 5700, and are contracted to do 18 knots on the measured mile and 16½ knots on a 400 mile sea trial. The dimensions are: Length, between perpendiculars, 485 feet; breadth, moulded, 51 5-12, and depth, moulded, 37 feet. Each vessel will be lightly rigged with pole masts aft fore and aft canvas, and the fore, both under and above water, is of such symmetry and finish as to ensure propulsion at the high speed required. The greatest possible attention has been paid to precautions for the safety of the vessels.

The accommodation for passengers is extensive and luxurious. Each vessel will carry 130 first class, 40 second, and 300 steerage, as well as nearly 4000 tons of cargo. On the upper deck an extra promenade is provided for the use of passengers, while a good many special staterooms are also to be found on this deck. On the lower deck, which is 300 feet long, there is a covered promenade for [illegible] and fresh air may be sought on wet weather, while the dining saloon, library, and other parts of the saloon accommodation are richly upholstered.

The total cost of the three vessels will be between £600,000 and £700,000 sterling.

The Anglo-Portuguese Agreement.

LISBON, Aug 23. According to the Portuguese version of the Anglo Portuguese agreement, England recognizes as Portuguese territory the Hinterland of Angola from 11° degrees south latitude to the northern boundry of the German sphere. Great Britain having free way between her northern and southern territories. All the country westward from Lake Nyanza will be British territory. The agreement also provides that any further boundary disputes shall be referred to arbitration. The transit dues in Portuguese territory are not to exceed three per cent. ad valorem. The comments of the Lisbon press are generally favorable to the treaty.

CANADA AND THE BAHAMAS.

Governor Shea Trying to Obtain Steam Communication With Canada.

HALIFAX, Aug. 23.—Sir Ambrose Shea is here endeavoring to obtain steam communication between Canada and the Bahamas. He tells a glowing story of the purchasing power of the colonists and their increasing efforts. Their whole trade is now practically with the United States and their sole communication is with New York. Sir Ambrose thinks Canada could supply the Bahamas with nearly everything they require, while the Dominion would obtain its supply of fibre there. Sir Ambrose will go to Ottawa to urge this upon the Government.

A Large Manitoba Seizure.

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—The Customs Department has now under consideration one of the largest seizures that has ever taken place in the city of Winnipeg. It is the seizure of an electric light plant of the Northwest Thomson & Houston Electric Light Company of Portage la Prairie. The reason given is that of undervaluation. The invoices on which the goods were shipped, it is alleged, only showed the cost price and not the actual commercial value. On behalf of the shippers an affidavit has been made that it was through error that the plant was shipped on the invoices which accompanied it. In the meantime the plant is held to permit the department making a thorough investigation. The plant is worth many thousands of dollars.

WENT DOWN TO DEATH

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT ON A GRAVITY RAILWAY AT READING.

A Car Runs Away and Carries Its Living Load Down the Mountain at 80 Miles an Hour. Four Persons Killed Instantly and Many Injured, Several Fatally.

READING, Pa., Aug. 23.—A horrible accident occurred yesterday afternoon shortly before 11 o'clock on the Mount Penn Gravity Railway, a mountain route encircling Mount Penn 800 feet above the city of Reading. The road was opened five months ago and has been doing good business ever since. The cars were taken from a point on the outskirts of the city to the top of the mountain, a distance of five miles. On returning the cars were allowed to go down the mountain by gravity, by way of another route, to the point of starting. This forenoon at 10½ a car containing about 18 passengers was taken from the station to the top of the mountain. This consumed about 30 minutes. On the top of the mountain there is a high stone tower where the passengers were allowed to alight and enjoy the scenery for 30 miles around.

There are different stories as to the cause of the accident, but it appears that when the tower was reached, the point where the gravity portion of the road commences, the engine was detached and the car ran away while the passengers were still on board. The distance to the point of starting is five miles, and it is estimated that this was covered by the runaway car in three minutes, the car attaining a fearful speed estimated at 80 miles an hour. It remained on the track to the foot of the plane going around all the curves, while the passengers shrieked in their fright and several jumped off.

When the car reached the station at the foot of the plane it jumped off the track and rolled down a 50-foot embankment, where it landed upside-down with the passengers imprisoned inside. The greatest excitement prevailed and soon a large crowd gathered. Doctors and the ambulance were sent for and the dead and injured removed. Four were taken out dead. They included Charles Rettow, conductor of the car, and E. M. Lavan, a lawyer of this city.

Norman B. Wisher of this city, who was standing at the foot of the plane when the car came crashing down the mountain, says he first heard a distant roar as of thunder, and looking up saw the car coming down the mountain—but sticking to the track—at the rate of about a mile in 45 seconds. He had barely time to recover himself when the car like a lightning flash dashed past the station and down the embankment 50 feet below. Mr. Wisher was the first on the ground. He says he found the car turned upside down, the passengers all thrown into a confused mass, and that with the assistance of others who arrived he helped to carry out the dead and injured. There were about a dozen of the latter with broken limbs and battered heads, their clothing being covered with blood. Mr. Wisher said as the car fell the united shrieks of twenty voices added terror to the scene. In addition to Edgar M. Lavan and Charles Rettow the two others killed were Miss Rosa Pfeiffer, a young lady of this city, and Miss Harriet Hinckle of Philadelphia. The following will die: Mrs. Hiram Schittler and Mrs. W. A. H. Schmel. Among the injured are Sallie Bye and Mary Guthrie of Wilmington, both badly hurt, and Willie Schmel of this city, both legs broken.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

Sam Beavis, an Old Hamiltonian, Granted a Pension by the U.S. Government.

HAMILTON, Aug. 23.—In 1862 Edward Beavis, known among his friends as "Ted," who lived with his parents in King William-street, near Ferguson-avenue, crossed the border, and going to New York, enlisted in a regiment of New Jersey cavalry. A number of letters were received from him by his relatives after his departure until a battle in which he participated, when communication ceased. His friends heard, however, from those who had seen him that he was lying dangerously wounded in a southern hospital. About 18 months ago his aged mother, who resides at present in London, Ont., consulted with ex-U.S. Consul Roberts and steps were taken towards securing a pension. U.S. Consul Monaghan of this city also interested himself in the matter, and the result was that after accumulating a quantity of evidence, a few days ago Mrs. Beavis received about $30 pension money from the date of the application and will continue to receive $12 per month during her life.

John D. Dent, whose hack was cut to pieces by some malicious person the other night, has offered a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the guilty party.

Inoculation for Consumption.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Dr. Grancher, the most cherished of M. Pasteur's pupils, read before the Academy of Sciences a report on experiments which, in conjunction with M. H. Martin, he has been making with a view of discovering a remedy for the foil disease which has hitherto completely baffled medical science—viz., tuberculosis. In an interview he said:

"Yes; we have reached in our experiments such a stage as justifies the hope that we shall sooner or later have at our disposal the means for effectively combating consumption," said Dr. Grancher modestly. "As yet, however, we are far from our ultimate goal; so much so, in fact, that we should not have made our experiments had it not been for Professor Koch's communication to the Berlin Medical Congress.

"The German professor, it will be remembered, read a paper stating that he had found a chemical which rendered guinea pigs impervious to tuberculosis. Coming from an unknown physician this announcement would have probably passed unnoticed, but made by Professor Koch it was of capital importance. Mr. Koch stated he had been experimenting for a year past. We began our experiments five years ago, though that does not, of course, prove that we are any further advanced than he.

"Exactly what we have succeeded in doing is this: We have inoculated rabbits with bacilli tuberculosis in quantity sufficient to make a fatal result, certainly. Then with our treatment—which of course we must keep secret until we are assured of its value—we have kept those rabbits alive from two hundred to three hundred days. On examining them after death we have found the spleen and liver healthy, without any trace of small tubercular bacilli. Rabbits which we have inoculated with an exactly similar quantity of microbes and which we have not treated have died within a few days of the inoculation with all the symptoms of injected disease.

"Two hundred days in the life of a rabbit would represent several years in the existence of a man, as you suggest, but we are not content with analogies; we want facts scientifically demonstrated beyond all possibility of controversion. On that account we have taken the precaution of injecting the maximum amount of bacilli, injecting it, furthermore, into the veins of the ear, whence it is certain to at once enter into the whole system.

"I lay particular stress upon this fact, each of our inoculations in this series of experiments was sufficient to kill—not one, but half a dozen animals. Having succeeded in keeping those rabbits which we treated after inoculation, alive for periods ranging from 126 to 350 days, while rabbits not treated died 28 days after inoculation, we have proved the value of our treatment in so far as rabbits are concerned. We shall shortly experiment with monkeys, and if those tests succeed then we shall feel justified in experimenting on human beings.

"Our experiments have had yet another object—that of determining whether vaccination can be used as a preventive against tuberculosis; in other words, if by vaccination we can render a subject refractory to the disease. That this can be done we have also proved, always in respect to rabbits. Thus you see we have at least advanced a stage toward both the prevention and cure of tuberculosis."

THE PULSE OF TRADE.

BRADSTREET'S AND DUN-WIMAN ON THE SITUATION.

Autumn Business Begins With Fair Demand—The Stock Markets Affected by the Industrial Disturbance—The Advance in Wheat and Corn.

NEW YORK, Aug 23.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's show that general trade incident to autumn has begun with a fairly good demand. Grained leather is generally scarce and in active request with prices higher. Boots and shoes have advanced 10 to 15 cents per pair at first hands. Cattle are lower for common, but hogs are 5 cents up on increased demand. After a sharp depression due to the stringency of money, stock prices show a tendency to rally on the expectation of increased supplies of funds from the tender of 4½ per cent. bonds to the treasury. The threatened extension of the New York Central strike is also an element in the market.

Net earnings of 58 railroads for June aggregate $12,710,278, a gain over June, 1889 of 10.2 per cent.; for six months of 1890 of 13.4 per cent.

Copper tends upwards at home and abroad, notwithstanding the recent prices. Iron and steel remain steady as to price.

Renewed short crop reports as to wheat at home and a decided preponderance and bullish sentiment served to push wheat up 2½ this week, despite the natural bearish tendencies of the northwest exclusive of producers. Indian corn, too, advanced 3c and oats 1c.

Business failures reported to Bradstreet's number 190 in the United States this week against 148 last week and 218 this week last year. Canada had 20 this week against 29 last week. The total number of failures in the United States. Jan. 1 to date, is 6663 against 7427 in a like portion of 1889.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Dun, Wiman & Co's Weekly Review of Trade will say: The signs of monetary disturbance which were noticed in previous reviews were not misleading. Money loaned on Thursday at half a cent per day premium or about 190 per cent. yearly, and most of the loans were at a quarter premium. Money for commercial loans is scarce and rates nominal. Though the Bank of England lowered its rate from 5 to 4 per cent. and European markets were easier, there was no relief for the immediate demand here. In general the condition of legitimate business is encouraging, unless monetary pressure of labor controversies interfere. The threat of a great strike on all Vanderbilt railways has helped to depress stocks and to disturb shipments.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Charged With Assaulting a Constable—A Surprise for Wormworth.

TORONTO, Aug. 23.—Nathaniel Wormworth, who tried to make out he had been robbed of $30, was yesterday charged with carrying a revolver. He was remanded until Monday, the same day as O'Leary, the man falsely charged with robbing him.

Paul Gates, charged with assaulting Constable Dewhurst, was remanded till Tuesday, when his alleged accomplice, Francis Houck, will be in the city. Houck was working on a farm near Paris and was arrested there on information received by the detectives. Dewhurst was stabbed by these men in the arm, it is alleged, on Aug. 8. Dewhurst was in court with his arm in a sling.

The Mayor has received a letter from the Governor-General, promising to endeavor to attend the exhibition but he could not promise sure.

Superintendent Tait, according to arrangement, surrendered himself at Osgoode Hall yesterday morning in answer to the Coroner's warrant charging him with manslaughter. J. P.'s Baxter and Fleming were in attendance to accept the bail bonds which were offered by E. B. Osler and H. C. Hammond.

Edward Hancock, the tramp who was so badly injured in the collision near Cobourg Thursday afternoon that his leg had to be amputated on the spot, was brought to the Toronto Hospital early yesterday morning. Last night he was reported to be in a serious condition.

BOOMER COOLICAN IN JAIL.

The Well-Known Speculator Gets Into Serious Trouble at Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 23.—Yesterday the police arrested the famous Canadian real estate speculator and boomer, James F. Coolican, the man who made Winnipeg well-known in Chicago. He came here on Sunday from Chicago with a 16-year-old girl, Hattie Stevens, and registered her as his niece at the Quincy House. The proprietor had him arrested for abduction and adultery. The prisoner is now at headquarters awaiting bail.

HER LOVER USED AN AX.

William Taylor Cleaves Down His Successful Rival.

GOSHEN, Ind., Aug. 23.—A tragedy was enacted at Lakeside Park, a summer resort about 18 miles south of here, last evening. William Barber and William Taylor had been courting the same girl, a Miss Aggie Miller. Taylor was her first lover, but when Barber, a rich Chicago business man, appeared on the field the star of Taylor quickly set. He took the latter very much to heart, became moody and made threats. Last night while Barber and his sweetheart were strolling along the bank of the lake Taylor followed them with an ax. When he had the ax raised to strike his rival, Barber heard him and started to run. Taylor followed, and soon catching up with the fleeing lover, dealt him a blow in the head which [illegible] to the ground. This was followed by another and another, until Barber lay dead at Taylor's feet. Taylor ran away but was soon captured, and is in the Kosciusko county jail. He is a good-looking young fellow, but has always borne a bad reputation around Warsaw by reason of his bad habits.

BROKE THE BANK.

Toronto Turfites' Big Winnings on Bledsoe in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Aug. 23.—A party of "dead game" turfites from Toronto put up a lot of money in the pool rooms here Thursday on Bledsoe. The odds were six to one against the Canadian horse, and when his victory was announced the West Engle-street place closed its doors. The "bank was busted." Two other places lost $2500 each, but paid up and looked pleasant. This is the second time that Canucks have "broken the bank" within a few months. The first occasion was when Echo pulled off a big steeplechase at Brighton.

Cardinal Smith's Woodstock Experience.

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 23.—Cardinal Smith, the man now lying in Simcoe jail charged with the murder of Maria Colville in 1884, says The Standard, four years ago, in company with a woman he called his wife, opened a house of ill-fame at Woodstock. When he came here he made no secret of his intentions. He went to Chief of Police Smith, and taking him into his confidence asked for protection in opening out a high-class establishment. The chief allowed him to go on, and when the house was opened he arrested the whole crew. They were brought before P.M. Field and he sentenced Smith to the Central Prison for six months, and his wife, who went by the name of Rena, to the Mercer Reformatory for 18 months. They did not serve out their terms, however, as through the efforts of a Woodstock solicitor and affidavits of certain parties alleging that Smith and his wife were committed to jail before conviction although such was not the case, they were released after a confinement of only a couple of months. Smith, as remembered here, was a cold-blooded scoundrel.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 23 1890.

A WISE CORONER'S JURY.

The coroner's Jury has vindicated itself. The charge that the ways of juries are past finde out, is dismissed so far as the coroner's jury is concerned, which was intrusted with the duty of inquiry into the death of Patrick Dowling killed in Toronto at a level railway crossing, unprotected by gates. The following verdict was rendered after a patient inquiry:

That the said Patrick Dowling came to his death on August 1, 1890 at the Brock avenue crossing, by train being run at a higher rate of speed than allowed by law, by being struck by the engine of train No. 10 C.P.R., and from all the facts of the case we believe that Thomas Tait, general superintendent of the Ontario and Atlantic division was authorized time table No. 5, was the cause of the death of the said Patrick Dowling, and therefore that the said Thomas Tait is guilty of manslaughter.

Mr. Tait has been arrested on the charge of manslaughter and affairs are advanced another stage on the way of actually fixing the responsibility where it will stick on something. For it appears that there is a question of Mr. Tait being the responsible guilty party. According to the Railway Act, the responsibility rests upon the Railway Committee of the Privy Council. Section 187 says:

"Whenever any portion of a railway is constructed across a public highway at rail level, the company, within such time as the railway committee directs, shall submit a plan for the approval of the railway committee, and the railway committee may from time to time require the company within such time as the railway committee directs to protect such highway by gates or watchmen."

The railway committee has not seen fit to enforce this section, and consequently an unfortunate man, as many others had done at the same point, lost his life. This matter has a local significance, which should not be lost sight of by the town authorities. We have several dangerous level crossings, and the fact that no person has been killed at these crossings, is no reason for deferring action till some loss of life actually occurs. We believe the railway companies are not altogether averse to placing in conjunction with the town, gates at these crossings, but they are not apt to move without considerable pressure. During his last visit to town, Sir Joseph Hickson made a reasonably fair proposition to the town authorities, which has not yet been acted upon. Will our town fathers think seriously over the matter and see that action is taken at once? Railway gates put up at (the least) the Brock street and Charlotte street crossings of the G.T.R and the George street crossing of the C.P.R might any day prevent the destruction of human life. The level railway crossing in populous quarters is a continual menace to the lives of the public.

The McKinley Tariff.

Barley buyers are making haste to get their purchases across the line before the new tariff bill passes at Washington. It is now generally believed that the duty on barley will be placed at 25 cents. It will be remembered that in the original draft Mr. McKinley put it at 30, that it was subsequently reduced to 15, and then run up to 25 by the Senate Finance Committee. For the information of farmers and others it may be well to give the rest of the agricultural schedule:—

Barley malt, 45c.	Potatoes, 25c. per bu.
Buckwheat, 15c.	Straw, $2 per ton.
Corn, 15c.	Hay, $4 per ton.
Oats, 15c.	Butter, 6c per lb.
Rye, 10c.	Cheese, 6c per lb.
Wheat, 25c.	Milk 5c per gal.
Beans and Peas, 40c.	Eggs, 5c per d z.
Cabbage, 3c each.	Apples, 25c per bu.
Live poultry 3c per lb.	Dead poultry 5c per lb.
Hogs, $1 50 per head.	Sheep $1 50 per head.
Hogs, 15c per lb.	Oc. 20c, 40c per bu.
Honey, 20c per gal.	Flaxseed, 50c per bu.

Horses, $30 per head; those valued at $150 and over, 30 per cent ad val. Cattle, over one year old, $10 per head; under a year, $2.

It seems probable from the speeches made by Republicans in Congress that the Treasury Department at Washington will issue orders to the customs officers to be more particular in guarding against undervaluation. One of the speakers dwelt upon the fact that in preparing its trade and navigation returns the Dominion Government makes an allowance for the undervaluation of exports to the States. As has been said before, the agricultural schedule is designed to please the farmers in the northern tier of States, whose votes will be greatly needed by the Republican party this fall. The artisans will certainly resent the potato duty. There is a poor crop of potatoes in the States this year and large purchases will have to be made abroad. A great deal of barley has been grown in the North-western States, and it is said to be of a good colour. The egg duty is reported to be extremely popular among the negroes in the South, who keep hens on their small patches of land; but the cities and towns are not enthusiastic over it, nor over the new duty of half a cent per pound on fresh saltwater fish. The St. Paul Pioneer Press and other Western Republican journals favourable to tariff reduction, declare that the farmers out there would much rather see the duties on manufactured goods reduced than the duties on agricultural products augmented; and in the end this view of the matter will doubtless force itself upon the entire community.—Globe.

[There seems to be, however, no immediate cause of apprehension. The McKinley bill is making very slow progress at Washington. The bill covers 181 pages, and so far only 37 pages have been gone over. And the previous rate of progress may not be maintained, for the Senate is much too taken up with other matters to give undivided attention to the tariff bill.

ENGLISH papers announce that Lord Lonsdale is rebuilding his castle, and that he purposes enlarging Lowther park by the inclusion of several thousand of acres of what has hitherto been farm land. This means simply that a large number of peasants are to be turned off the soil which they and their forefathers have been tilling for ages, and driven away from the homes they love, in order that "his lordship's" hunting preserves may be enlarged. The evil which is so oppressive in the British Isles is taking root on this continent. All over the United States immense tracts are in the hands, or passing into the hands, of monopolists, and our own paternal government at Ottawa, with a pig-headedness and disregard of the obvious teaching of facts, strongly suggestive of George the Third and the American colonies, is, by its land company policy, paving the way for the trouble to a coming generation which is such an overwhelming evil in older lands. Monopolies in any sort of form are a curse, but, especially, that form that permits of the multiplication of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village."

THE tomato is having a great run in London, England, as a medicinal agent, especially for biliousness. One correspondent assures a leading journal that he found in the tomato a specific for a chronic throat trouble, and if there is any virtue in the vegetable as a hair renewer and corn cure the extensive experimentation now going on will surely bring it out.

WRITING FOR NEWSPAPERS.

Here's a Sensible Suggestion for the Literary Aspirant.

I am very frequently asked whether the newspaper is the best starting point for young authors, and in this question lies, in nine cases out of ten, a grave misconception. Many young writers believe that work rejected by the monthly magazine will find a market with the daily newspaper. It seems to be taken for granted that the same degree of care is unnecessary for newspaper work as for magazine writing. "The newspaper dies with the day, the magazine lives for a month," is the general feeling, and hence the impression that ephemeral work will find a ready market with the newspaper.

It has been my pleasure to write for the newspaper press of America for six or seven years, and I give young writers a leaf from my experience when I say to them—Do not allow yourself to believe that minor work will find favor with the modern American newspaper. There is just as much demanded of a writer in the newspaper editorial office as in that of the monthly magazine. A writer commits the greatest mistake of her life when she looks upon the newspaper as a graduating school to the magazine. The same standard of grammar and expression set by the magazine holds good with newspapers.

Where the newspaper offers to the young writer an advantage over the magazine is in its wider field and its larger capacity. Publishing thirty times against the single issue of a magazine, the newspaper naturally absorbs more material, and a writer's chances are correspondingly better. Then, too, subjects which are out of the range of the magazine fall directly within the scope of the newspaper. This is specially true of timely articles. The magazines of to-day, with their large circulations and the necessary slower process of printing, are prepared so far in advance as to make it impossible for them to get close enough to timely happenings to make their discussion of them fresh and interesting. With newspapers this is, of course, different, and it is precisely in its ability to treat of what is latest and freshest where lies its strength, and in these respects the field is necessarily broadened to the writer.

But bear in mind, this advantage is only one of greater capacity, not of less requirement. Disappointment can be no more certain than when a manuscript is sent to a newspaper editor with the belief that he is less critical or that his constituency is less exacting than in the case of the monthly magazine.—Edward W. Bok.

A Dry Niagara.

It seems almost incredible that at one time in its history the greatest and most wonderful waterfall in the world actually ran dry. Nevertheless, it is an established fact that this occurred on March 29, 1848, and for a few hours scarcely any water passed over Niagara Falls.

To thoroughly appreciate this astonishing phenomenon, it should be remembered that the estimated average amount of water passing over these falls is 592,500 tons per minute.

The winter of that year had been an exceptionally severe one, and ice of unusual thickness had formed on Lake Erie. The warm spring rains loosened this congealed mass and on the day in question a brisk east wind drove the ice far up into the lake. About sunset the wind suddenly veered around and blew a heavy gale from the west. This naturally turned the ice in its course and, bringing it down to the mouth of the Niagara river, piled it up in a solid, impenetrable wall.

Suddenly was it packed and so great was its force that in a short time the outlet to the lake was completely choked up, and little or no water could possibly escape. In a very short space of time the water below this frozen barrier passed over the falls, and the next morning the people residing in the neighborhood were treated to a most extraordinary spectacle.

The roaring, tumbling rapids above the falls were almost obliterated and nothing but the cold black rocks were visible in all directions. The news quickly spread, and crowds of spectators flocked to view the scene, the banks on each side of the river being lined with people during the whole day. At last there came a break in the ice; it was released from its restraint, the pent-up wall of waters rushed downward, and Niagara was itself again.—Golden Days.

To Vote on the Tariff About Sept. 5.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The committee appointed at the Republican Senatorial Conference to arrange an order of business to take the place of the Quay resolution met and reached a conclusion upon the order of business, but some details remain to be settled. The Tariff Bill, after a date to be fixed, is to be considered under the 5-minute rule until a vote is taken. The date of this has not been decided and will be subject to arrangement with the Democrats. It is expected that the vote will be reached about Sept. 5. After the Tariff Bill is out of the way other measures named in Quay's resolution are to be taken up and disposed of. The election bill will come up the first thing after the reassembling of Congress in December, but the time at which a vote shall be taken is reserved for further consideration.

A Lament.

In the dreary, distant northland
Lo! a mighty oak did grow
For a hundred peaceful summers
Through it did the soft winds blow;
For a hundred doughty winters
On it fell, the cold, white snow,
'Neath it roved the doughty chieftain
While his dusky love he woo'd.
Proud and stately grew the oak tree
In the northern solitude.

Lo! the mighty oak has fallen,
Fallen from its high estate.
On the pavement of the city
Has the oak tree banged of late.
Through the air in graceful motion
Does it circle and gyrate
For the oak has been made into Canes that are used by the dudes
Fallen is the mighty monarch
Of the northern solitude.

New York Herald

DR. KEENE'S STORY.

Frank Howard was one of my most intimate friends. I met him one summer in the Catskills, whither I had betaken myself for a week's change and rest. Howard, I found, had a pretty home in Howard, Howard, of course, I was to await the arrival of some friends who were unfortunately to sprain his ankle. It was nothing serious, but it compelled him to remain quiet for a few days. His friends, having provided for their way, leaving him in my care.

Frank, who is cheery, happy young fellow of 30, and took his mishap with uncommonly good grace. I read to him from my store of books and papers, and we had long and interesting talks. Frank was full of enthusiasm of youth, and I, eight or ten years his senior, was my steady going contentment might have said, monotony, I could be). Those few days made us better acquainted than we would have become in a year of intercourse otherwise. When I came was able to return to friends my time was spent I returned to town, regretting the necessity that compelled me to part with the pleasant young fellow.

He did not forget his promise to keep me up when he returned to the city, and from that time on we were the best of friends. I had, I am sure, more of his confidence than did any one else and I talked to him in a way that my medical brethren would have pronounced wild and unprofessional, but he took it in the earnest spirit in which it was given. Believing in my theories just because I aired them.

My friend was a good looking young fellow tall, well made as to figure, easy and graceful. He had blue gray eyes, a well shaped brow and crowded on dark hair which, however, was not thin, giving promise of early baldness. His nose, perhaps a trifle too long and an upper lip a trifle too short. His front teeth, though white, were not well shaped. He was very sorrow he could not cause a mustache, try hard as he might, and he had tried very hard, indeed, smearing many a night on nostrums warranted to produce hair on the smoothest face.

Frank was always on the improvement. A mustache would be one fad he'd hanker after whenever a mustache was all the want of for the time, and were false ones upon several occasions when they were put in private the arrivals. He was quite clever and played very well for an amateur, but often spoiled a part I were clever, more for the opportunity I gave him to wear a mustache than for any other reason.

He was very well situated financially. His parents were dead. His father had left him a good business which, however, had so far demanded attention as to make the fact that had also left him a partner, a shrewd, steady bachelor, without near kin, who was decided to the young man. Considerable property outside of the business added a good deal to his income. Like myself he had few relatives, but they he had hosts of friends and was a great favorite in society. There were plenty of nice girls who would have become Mrs. Howard one at a time, of course—had he asked them, mustache or no mustache. No one thought of his lack of one as he did, and none but I knew how he felt about it.

We had been discussing various experiments over evening when he had dropped in as he often did, on his way to a reception. After a silence of some moments, evidently spent in deep thought, for he had not seemed to hear one or two of my remarks, Frank broke out:

"See here, doctor, can transplant a lot of some ones p up and make a mustache that will grow or tell me something once on such an experiment or else I have been wanting to speak about it. I'd gladly spare some of my on scalp if the hair on it wasn't so awfully thin. I'll give you a thousand dollars if you can manage it and prevail expenses. Think it over and see if there isn't some way I must be off. Good night."

I laughed at the but after he had gone I could not help thinking about it. A thousand dollars certainly tempting. My practice did not increase so rapidly as I could have wished, and of course, I had married a nice girl when scarcely able to keep myself comfortably, and the tiny olive branches had a dreadful way, sweet as they are, of appearing all too frequently for a poor man. I'm not saying, mind you, that I've ever regretted my marriage or been willing to spare one of the boys and girls now growing up so fast around me, but money was very scarce in those days, and a thousand dollars seemed too much to let go without some effort to earn it.

I did a lot of hard thinking for a few days and spent all my spare time over some old books in a musty out of the way library down town. I finally told Frank that I would see what could be done if he would give a test, the rest if I succeeded in the undertaking. He agreed at once, so I put a cautious word at "Want" in The Herald, offering $100 for a lot of scalp from the head of a healthy person, a young woman preferred, and naming an hour for applicants to call at my office.

Well, I had a good many answers, in person and by letter. The letters I paid no attention to, and those who called did not suit, until I began to think I would have a good deal of trouble to find the right person, when a small boy of all worked usher in a very lady. I knew that she was young, though she was heavily veiled, for her slight, graceful figure and low, sweet, tremulous voice. Her dress was neat and plain and fitted to a nicety. Her gloves and boots were not new, but they were the gloves and boots of a lady. Wavy dark brown hair was worn in a heavy coil beneath a little round hat, and I thought "Here's the very girl at last."

I questioned her closely, and explained to her more fully than to the others just what I wanted. She was nervous, as was quite natural, but had evidently made up her mind to win the $100 if possible. She was perfectly healthy, she said, and so far as she knew came of healthy parents. Her father was dead. Her mother was usually quite well enough not very strong. She was just recovering from injuries received in a fall on the cars.

Doctor says the young lady would do, my mother will soon be as well as ever. I was need in my very badly at present. On account of my mother's illness I lost my position in—that is, I amount of employment, and as I am the breadwinner for our family, I am willing to do anything honorable that will not injure my health to earn money. I must stipulate that my face shall remain covered, and that no effort will be made by any one to discover my identity."

"Can you endure the operation without the aid of an anæsthetic?" I asked. "You must know that your confidence is sacred."

But, no. She insisted that her nerves were strong enough to endure the ordeal, so I appointed an hour next day for the operation, and bowed her out. I then rushed off to inform Frank of my success. He was charmed with my description of the girl and delighted with her pluck.

"Give her $500," he said, "whether the operation is successful or not. She is a brave girl to do such a thing for her family. Great, hulking boys, no doubt, some of them. Now I haven't much family, but I am sure I wouldn't part with any of my scalp for all of my relatives in a heap."

The young lady was promptness itself. I had just shown her into an inner room when Frank arrived. After the operation I sent him away first, and then put her into a cab, taking care to withdraw before she gave the driver his orders.

No. I'm not going to tell you how I transplanted two bits of scalp from the back of the girl's head to the lip of the young man. I have never told any one how it was done, but it was a success.

The young couple were as brave as possible. There was not even a groan from either. The girl lay face down upon a lounge, her luxuriant, wavy hair streaming around her. I could not but admire the dainty shape of her head and the pretty neck, with tiny ringlets of hair curling down upon it. Just below one small ear a small star shaped spot showed white upon the now rosy skin. It would probably not be noticeable usually. The young lady came to my office for some days until the wounds were quite healed. As she was young and healthy it did not take long, but I never got a glimpse of her face, nor did I try to do so, having too much respect for the courageous young creature. When I handed her $500 instead of the $100 she had expected she was quite overcome with joy. Her voice was full of happy tears as she clasped my hand in both of hers and faltered:

"Oh, doctor, I do not know how to thank you; you cannot realize what a help this money will be to us. It was perfect godsend, and I don't one bit mind the pain, which, I'll confess now, was rather hard, to bear."

My own needs embarrassed me to quite understand her feelings fully, but I soon freed me from many a pecuniary worry, and before I was glad I had performed quite a paying practice.

Lattened Howard in sixteen apartments. When he was sufficiently recovered he went abroad for awhile. He returned after some months pleased with his trip, and delighted with his handsome brown mustache, which certainly added much to his good looks. He was busy with social arrangements and I saw very little of him. The fault was chiefly mine, however, for Frank seemed to think more of me than ever, and I often found his card upon my return from a professional call. One evening he came and found me at home.

Fatal Collision Under Water.

On Sunday, June 15, Jason Blackburn and several friends went out to a line sink on the Beaver Dam Creek, about twelve miles above Sylvania, to take a bath. One of the young men jumped in, diving down into the water, and before he came to the surface Mr. Blackburn dived in also, striking his head against the head of his friend, causing such a shock to both as to render him unconscious. He was rescued from the watch by the young men, and taken to a neighbouring house near by, where soon regained consciousness and recognized the accident, but his injuries were such a character as to cause his death next day. He left a wife and two small children. Sylvania Telephone.

Hackeray and Charlotte Bronte.

There is after his meeting with Miss Bronte in London wrote, I remember the engaging little frame, and little hand, the great eyes. An unflinching honesty could be read in the countenance. She gave me the impression of being a very pure and high minded person. A quiet and holy reserve and right and ruth seemed to be with her always."

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,709,619 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,964,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,828	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,068,837	10.35
Sun Life	11,670,817	10.36
North American	8,479,690	10 66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17.84
Citizens	2,067,966	28.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,722,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,286	30.61

From this table we can see that while such companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 30 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

How it Tells.

By buying a few pounds of Morrow's celebrated coffee, and his pure sugars, and using them properly, you will come to the conclusion they are extra value. You have a grand cup of coffee owing to the purity of both. Do likewise when buying tea, as his tea cannot be surpassed. 340 George street. dw

Labor Day.

The steamer Golden Eye will run a cheap excursion, Monday, September 1st, Labor Day, to Jubilee Point and Idyl Wild. Valuable prizes given away. For particulars see posters. CLARE CALCUTT, d45tl Master.

A Dumb Imposter.

A young man who claims to have lost his speech and shows a doctor's certificate is soliciting alms through the country. It is said he is an imposter. He was overheard the other day in a grocery store asking for paper money in exchange for $5 worth of small change.

The Ward Opened.

The first patient for the Oddfellows' ward in the Nicholls Hospital was taken in Friday. Mr. Fred. Parke, a member of Otonabee lodge, is suffering from an attack of pleurisy, and was taken to the hospital for treatment. It is to be hoped Mr. Parke will soon recover under the skilful care he will receive.

The Lists are Out.

The prize lights for the Horticultural Society's exhibition are out and may be procured at Mayor Stevenson's office. The public should show their interest in the show by calling for a list and making arrangements to exhibit. The show is to be held in the new market building a week from next Thursday. The directors hope to see general interest manifested in this year's exhibition.

Bridgenorth Lawn Social.

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist church intend holding their annual lawn social on the beautiful grounds at Mr. W. B Kelly's residence, on Thursday evening Aug. 28th, 1890. The Fire Brigade band of Peterborough will be present to discourse sweet music. This will be the best open-air concert of the season. Chemong's cool breezes in endless profusion. Music by above band, and delicious refreshments will be given for the small sum of 20 cents. Everybody is invited. 2d43

A Cold Night at the Park.

Overcoats and ear muffs were in demand among the hundreds of visitors to the Court House Park last night, and "all promenade" was the order of the evening. There were but few seats occupied. The band rendered a most delightful selection, and the large crowd enjoyed the evening in spite of the unpleasant coldness of the atmosphere. Unless the weather soon improves the weekly band concerts will be dropped. The attendance last night was about as large as any night during the summer.

Peterborough Public Buildings.

At last the Custom House is to be begun if any reliance is to be replaced upon the Ottawa correspondent of the Empire, which to-day says:—

"Ald Ashwith, of Ottawa, will commence the erection of the Custom House and post-office at Peterborough next week. It will be remembered that he was given the contract some two years ago, and was then hindered by a dispute arising as to the site."

Too Cold For a Lawn Social.

The success of the lawn social under the auspices of the "Y" at Mr. A. Rutherford's residence, Reid street, Friday night was marred by the chilly weather. There was a small number present but they enjoyed themselves in spite of the cold. The grounds were nicely illuminated. Refreshments were sold and the Y.M.C.A. band dispensed good music. About half past nine the party adjourned the house for the remainder of the evening.

Police Court Pencillings.

At the police court this morning Mr. R. E. Wood was charged by Mr. A. Cox with allowing thistles to grow unchecked upon his property. It was shown that Mr. Wood did not own the property in question and the charge was dismissed.

Jas. May, now living in Bobcaygeon, pleaded guilty to having been in the bar-room of Roddy's hotel during prohibited hours on the 7th of August, and was fined $2 and costs.

An Eel Story.

Many of the residents of Stony Lake while waiting at the store one day last week for their daily mail, the Lakefield Chronicle says, were witnesses of an amusing incident. A fair young lady from Peterborough was engaged in trying to entice some of the far-famed bass of Stony Lake from their cool retreat. The pull announced a bite and with a vigorous pull and rise of the rod she landed a fair sized eel into the boat. One glance was sufficient, and with a scream "a snake," jumped overboard and scrambled to the shore, never looking behind until she had regained the group of amazed spectators.

Ontario Good Enough for Him.

The attached letter needs but little comment. It proves that Ontario is not so bad after all. Far away fields look green, but when they are reached, the recollections of the fertile soil and pleasant climate of the banner province are vivid and attractive enough to make the emigrant yearn once more for his native place. The letter also shows the value of the EXAMINER as an advertising medium. Here is the message from the Pacific slope:—

ALBERNI, B.C., 11th August, 1890.

T. Hurley, Esq., Peterborough, Ont.:

DEAR SIR.—Having seen your advertisement in the EXAMINER, I write you to ask you to send me your price list of good farms in your neighborhood or elsewhere in Ontario. I may state that I lived in Ontario for 20 years and here 6 years, and I am now trying to sell out to go back there.

yours truly,
J. C. M———.

Father Sweeney's Harwood Picnic.

Rev. Father Sweeney is making arrangements to have his annual picnic at Harwood this season a magnificent success. In emulation of the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, an immense artificial forest is being placed on Mr. Boyle's lawn at Harwood. This picnic is noted for its invariable success and the great enjoyment it yields, and this year promises to be the best of all. In order to give Peterborough people a chance of the enjoyment, the steamer Golden Eye will, on the day of the picnic, leave the Peterborough wharf at 8 o'clock a.m. well equipped with music and palace stow attached. Professor Crowe and his famous Indian string band will be in attendance on the grounds, where a grand pavilion is erected for dancing. Other boats will run excursions from other points. The Harwood mill shuts down for the day giving the boys a chance to gain a gala day. The large posters will be issued immediately and are full of attractions. dtf

Caught in the Act.

A clever capture of a house burglar was made at Mr. G. M. Roger's residence last night. Mr. Roger's place has been shut up for some weeks, the occupants being all out of town. Last night Miss Roger returned from Muskoka, and Mr. Roger from Stony Lake. They were met at the station by Mr. A. Blade and driven home. Mr. Roger left them at the gate for a few minutes and the others drove on through the grounds. On approaching the house Miss Roger caught a glimpse of a light in one of the windows, and, on entering, she had Mr. Blade make a thorough search. In one of the rooms he noticed a man's legs protruding from under a bed. Mr. Blade brought him out, and Mr. Roger, on entering, telephoned for the police. The prisoner is a young man of about nine teen years, named William Sharp. In his pockets were found a silk handkerchief, pencil case and other articles, which he had picked up in different rooms. This morning Sharp was arraigned before the police magistrate. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded till four o'clock this afternoon. Last summer Mr. Roger's house was burglarized while the family was all away. It was by merest accident that the thief was captured this time.

Revolting and Ghoulish Act of Idiot Youths—The Agonized Mother Finds Them Gloating, Blood-Stained, Over Their Horrible Work.

(Special to the Examiner.)

OTTAWA, ONT., Aug. 23.—A few days ago Mrs. Cole, who lives with her husband in a small settlement on the Du Lievre River, went berry picking, foolishly leaving her one year old boy in the charge of the two deaf mute sons of a neighbor, Elisha Newton. The boys are of unsound mind, but were regarded as comparatively harmless, although occasionally they had shown signs of a vicious disposition. When the mother returned, a fearful sight met her gaze. The babe was frightfully torn, its cheeks had been literally eaten to the bone, and the flesh devoured from one side of the neck. The gory faces of the idiots, who were still gloating over their prey, showed all too plainly that they had literally eaten the child alive, for it died a few moments later in the agonized mother's arms.

Midland Millers Meet

and Discuss the Question of Freight Rates and Other Matters of Interest.

A meeting of the Midland District Miller's Association was held at the Council Chamber, Peterborough, Friday afternoon. There were present, President John Hall, Lakefield, in the chair; Mr. W. F. Meldrum, Secretary, Peterborough; Messrs. Dobson, Beaverton; Flaveile, Lindsay; Fowlds, Hastings; McLean, Lakefield; Rathbun, Deseronto; VanStone, Bowmanville; Smith, Campbellford; Peplow and Muibern, Peterborough. Mr. D. Plewes, of Brantford, Secretary of the Dominion Millers' Association, was also in attendance, and gave reports of different millers' meetings which he had attended in Ontario during the past few weeks.

A number of district meetings are being held throughout the Province prior to the meeting of the Dominion Association. The object is to get the opinion of all the Ontario millers regarding several important matters, so that the Dominion Association can act intelligently and wisely. The object of these meetings is to ascertain what would be the best course for the millers to take with regard to grading Canadian wheat, and whether they would continue the use of the tester; but more especially for the purpose of getting a consensus of opinion regarding freight rates. The crops of Ontario and Manitoba are large, and more than half the wheat ground in the Dominion will this year go for export; and the millers want to get a grinding-in-transit rate, whereby they will have the same privileges as grain dealers, and so that the wheat may be ground in Canada and employment given to our own people, besides leaving all the offals in the country for the benefit of the farmers. There are sufficient mills in Ontario and Manitoba to grind all the wheat grown, providing the railways will give such privileges as will enable them to do so.

The local meetings by giving their decisions will enable the Dominion Association to comprehend the feelings of the millers throughout the country and place their unanimous opinion before the railways.

The Peterborough meeting decided, with the meetings held elsewhere, to continue using the tester as formerly. The millers consider that the farmer who cleans his wheat is entitled to the difference in price which the tester gives him.

The wheat question was also discussed. The duty is now settled for good, and, in consequence, it is expected that Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick will require a large amount of our surplus wheat in grain. These markets are now open to the millers of Ontario and the west and it is expected the farmers will get the benefit in an increased price for wheat; although the prices of wheat this year will be controlled altogether by an export basis. The export price to-day is 90c.

The election of officers afterwards took place, resulting as follows:—

PRESIDENT—E Peplow, Peterborough.
VICE-PRESIDENT—C. Smith, Campbellford.
SECRETARY—J. McLean, Lakefield.

The Science of Clothes-washing

The Persian Laundry one of Peterborough's Thriving Industries—The Only Steam Laundry Between Toronto and Belleville.

The introduction of steam has revolutionized the laundry business. The old days of rubbing, and wringing and waiting for a bright day to dry the clothes, have passed away—at least to those who entrust their work to the professional laundryman who has made a study of the business. By the steam process clothes can be washed, dried and ironed in quicker time and with better results than ever could be attained in the old way. The successful modern laundry is the one operated by steam. Peterborough is fortunate in possessing a first-rate laundry of this class—it is the only one between Toronto and Belleville.

Since Graham & Co. have taken hold of the Persian Laundry the business has been enlarged and improved until now it can be classed

AMONGST THE TOWN'S INDUSTRIES

With the introduction of steam and the latest and most improved machinery, the Persian laundry has become the best of its kind in the Midland district. A large staff of employees are kept constantly on hand. To give an idea of the extent of the business, it may be stated that an average of 300 shirts and twelve or fifteen hundred collars are done every week, besides a corresponding quantity of ordinary wearing apparel and household clothing.

The fine new premises on Simcoe street have been thoroughly fitted up and the latest machinery for doing the work. After passing through the office the workshops are entered. It would be interesting to follow a parcel of soiled clothing through the various processes by which it is cleaned. From the delivery cart the "laundry" goes into the sorting and marking room. Here all the pieces are marked and the woollens, linens and fine goods separated. In the next room is the hydraulic washer, operated by a powerful engine with a boiler of 12 horse power. This washer is manufactured by the Troy Laundry Machine Co., and is the most complete implement of the kind made. The washer has a capacity of 100 shirts. The clothing is placed in a large revolving perforated cylinder, through which the steam and water play freely, two hours sufficing to clean the dirtiest goods. From this the "washie" is transferred to the drying machine, the Cairn's Extractor, which, like all the other machinery, is operated by steam power. The extractor dries as effectively as if hung half a day in the open air. It is also cylindrical in shape and makes 1,500 revolutions a minute, the rapid rotary motion drives the moisture from the clothing in short order. In this department also, is a vat specially designed for washing silk shirts and fine wool underclothing. It will thus be seen that clothes washing has been brought down to a science.

Upstairs the goods go next. Linens, requiring starching, are treated at the dip-wheel, and then wiped off in the starching room, thence being taken to the metallic lined drying room, in which a high heat is always maintained. The linen is brought back to the ironing machine, which has a capacity for 300 dozen collars and cuffs a day. The linen is run through a couple of hollow steel cylinders heated by internal gas fixtures, the machine thus taking the place of hot smoothing irons. Then the shaper is brought into use, and the collars and cuffs given the necessary circular form.

Shirts are, of course, treated differently. The Tyler shirt polisher is the latest improved machine in this line. A girl operates it with ease. Another polisher is used for collars and cuffs.

Flannels and other clothing not requiring starching or ironing have fewer processes to go through. After passing through the washing and drying process, ordinary goods are finished in what is called the mangle. But there is a large proportion of the work which CANNOT BE DONE BY MACHINERY.

White vests, the bodies of shirts and other goods must be ironed by hand, and this gives employment to several women.

After being finished upstairs the clothing is taken down to the sorting room, done up in parcels and put away in pigeon holes awaiting delivery in the hobby road cart which the managers have for the purpose.

All the new machinery, complicated processes and increased staff involve a large expenditure of money; but the managers are determined to do only first-class work, and have facilities not equalled between Toronto and Belleville. Family washing is made a specialty, and reduced rates are allowed for such. The public of Peterborough should not fail to show their appreciation of the splendid laundry privileges they enjoy. They should patronize home industry and encourage home enterprises.

Mr. Jas. Graham, one of the proprietors, is manager of the business and is pushing it successfully. Mrs. Hogg, for eleven years proprietress of the Chatham laundry, has charge of the ironing room. She is thoroughly competent for the position and understands the work completely.

The Persian Laundry of course does the bulk of the local trade, but the managers are extending the business to other towns and have several outside agencies. Next week a road cart similar to the one in use here will be sent to Port Hope to assist the agency there. These and other evidences of enterprise on the part of the manager of the Persian Laundry, are but the beginning of a most successful business venture. The large premises on Simcoe street, complete and thoroughly fitted up as they are, will doubtless soon have to be enlarged.

Mount Pleasant.

A Noteworthy Operation.

LISTOWEL, Aug. 23.—Twelve years ago James Fulcher of St. Marys helped at a threshing at Hern's farm, Downie. At periods since that time he has suffered intense agony in the head and has been partially deaf in one ear. The other afternoon Dr. Gunn operated on his left ear and extracted an oat grain therefrom. This, no doubt, was the cause of the trouble, as his hearing is restored and his head is devoid of pain.

A Fatal Sham Battle.

BINGHAMTON, Aug. 23.—A Waverly despatch reports a shocking accident at Athens, Pa., during a sham battle at that place. Suicide at Oakville.

OAKVILLE, Aug. 23.—Edward Gordon, who for some time past had conducted a real estate business in Toronto, died at his home here Wednesday afternoon under circumstances which lead to the belief that he committed suicide. The deceased was a bachelor and resided with his sister. During the latter's absence the domestic hearing what she took to be a pistol shot ran to Gordon's room and found him unconscious. Dr. Urquhart was summoned and the discovery of a bullet hole over the the heart explained the sudden death. Deceased had been in poor health since recovering from an attack of grip and had been unable to attend to business. In consequence, it is said, he sustained heavy losses and recently made an assignment. He had been despondent ever since.

LABOR MEN IN CONCLAVE.

WHAT THE SUPREME COUNCIL IS DOING AT TERRA HAUTE.

Many Hours Spent in Deliberation Without Arriving at a Conclusion—May be Several Days Before the Matter is Decided At Other Points

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 25.—Frank Sargent, president of the Council of the United Order of Railway Employes, and Eugene Debs, secretary of the order, were busily at work in their offices at 9 o'clock this morning. They were getting things in shape for the meeting of the council, which was set for 10 o'clock this morning. At the same hour the other 10 members of the council, Hanrahan, Howard, Lovejoy, Wilkinson, Sheehan, Morrisey, Sweeney, Downey and Hall were to be sitting themselves for the day's work by occupying hearty breakfast at the Hotel.

Interviews with Messrs Hanrahan, Morrisey and Sweeney show very clearly that the end of the 10 recognizes that the issue of the conference rests on them. They and their associates are to decide as soon as possible whether or not the greatest strike the United States has ever seen will be inaugurated. Each expressed the wish that nothing should be done hastily, that every phase of the situation should be discussed by them with the utmost deliberation.

Mr. Sargent and Mr. Debs are anxious that the people should understand thoroughly just what the power of this council is and how the moment the question of a general strike on the Vanderbilt lines will be brought before it and settled. To put it clearly, nothing is better than to read verbatim the sections of the constitution of the Supreme Council bearing directly on the subject:

"All grievances for the consideration of the supreme council shall be presented in writing and signed by the chief executive who shall cause a publication to the name of the railway company and the number of men involved, and such other information as may be pertinent to the subject.

"Any grievance presented under the provisions of the foregoing section shall be read by the secretary, whereupon the council shall proceed to discuss the same, making such enquiry and investigation as may be required to develop a thorough statement of all the facts in the case. The decision shall be adopted by the majority of the members present, and the chief executive shall cause the same to be communicated to the agent of the railway company involved, and if two or more of said railways shall vote in favor of disapproval or refusal, the voice of the organization and it shall be cast accordingly by the chief executive. When all the grievances are prepared for ballot the council shall be convened and the secretary shall call the roll of the grievances each of which shall be voted upon in order predicated upon a majority or two-thirds vote, and the vote of each railway shall be cast by the chief executive and certified upon the minutes by the secretary. The secretary shall then announce the result of the ballot and it shall be the duty of all the organizations involved, in case of approval such action of the supreme council, to take a vote of the members of the organization on the question presented."

This it will be seen that the president of the council has only advisory powers and his veto is not supreme. It can readily be seen, however, that his influence is great.

The opinion is made that there will be a great deal of talk but this is only an opinion and nothing positive can be learned until the deliberations of the council come to an end. When the conclusion will be reached, is problematical. It may be a day or three days before the matter is decided.

Deliberating as to Whether or Not a Strike Shall be Ordered.

TERRE HAUTE, Aug. 25.—Behind closed doors, with J. J. Hanahan of Chicago as inside guard, the members of the supreme council of the United Order of Railway Employes has sat almost the entire day to reach a conclusion as to whether or not the Vanderbilt lines employes shall go out. The council met together in spacious rooms at the Terre Haute House. The gentlemen composing the council were Frank R. Sargent, president and chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen; J. J. Hanahan, grand master of the same order; Eugene Debs, grand secretary and treasurer of the same; George W. Howard, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; P. M. Arthur, grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; T. E. Wilkinson, grand master of Railway Trainmen, with Wm. Sheehan, his grand secretary and treasurer, and P. H. Morrissey, the vice grand master of the trainmen. The other members of the council are Frank Sweeney, grand master; John Downey, vice grand, and John Hall, grand organizer, all of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association, and J. J. Nelson, Lovejoy and Nelson are the absence of the two grand officers of the Switchmen's Association, who, coming from Los Angeles, Cal., were delayed. Mr. Howard selected Nelson and Lovejoy as substitutes.

After a brief session and called the council to order and the first routine business had been attended to, it was unanimously decided that the matter of giving news to the press should be placed entirely in the hands of Mr. Sargent. It was also deemed best not to give out any of the deliberations until the council can have a final adjournment.

At 10 o'clock to-night the Supreme Council of the Federation of Railway Employes adjourned sine die. This terminates the session which began on Monday last and Mr. Sargent authorizes the following message has been received from Mr. Hendricks at New York city:

"Have been in session all day. No decision has yet been reached. We are awaiting important advices. The committee knows your position and the position of the road and may be assured that your interests are receiving due consideration. You will be promptly advised of further developments as soon as they occur."

At 10 o'clock Aug. 24 After a session of over 36 hours the Supreme Council adjourned until 9 a.m. The report of the committee has not been completed, but the council decided that it would consider it to-night. It is send out circulars announced that the meeting of the Supreme Council will be made public to-morrow morning.

Sunday at Albany

ALBANY, Aug. 24.—No trouble of any nature was experienced all day on account of the strike.

Chief Hammond posted a notice to-night saying all the men struck who did not return to work in the morning would be considered as having left the employ of the company and their places would be filled by new men. He also telephoned Chief Willard to-night him the road would start moving freight to-morrow morning and asked for police protection.

The Executive Board of District Assembly 246 held a three hours' secret session to-night. It was decided that if the D. & H. road persisted in handling any transfer freight from the Central a general strike would be ordered, and that the same action would be taken in reference to the Boston and Albany and Fitchburg roads in case they continued handling this freight freight.

No Reply to the Compromise.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—The strike of the firemen and engineers of the Union Stock Yards Switching Association is still on. Yesterday the strikers decided to submit as a compromise a demand for 18 cents per hour for firemen and 20 cents per hour for engineers, the latter also to be paid for Sunday work in caring for their engines. This was somewhat less than their previous demand. The officers of the roads have made no reply.

Sympathy From 5000 English Dock Laborers

LONDON, Aug. 24.—A meeting of 5000 dock laborers was held to-day. Burns, the labor agitator, presided. The meeting passed resolutions of sympathy with the American knights in their strike on the N. Y. C. The resolutions expressed hope for the success of the knights.

Labor Troubles in Europe.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—At a meeting of the Lancashire Miners' Federation to-day, Mr. Wood, the president, who was in the chair, stated that two messengers who came direct from the Emperor of Germany had waited upon him and solicited information as to the condition of British miners. They stated that since the resignation of Prince Bismarck the Emperor had become democratic, and desired to place the labor laws of Germany on an equality with those of England. The meeting unanimously recommended that the question of an eight-hour day be submitted to a vote of the British miners before an international strike is entered upon.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 24.—The strikers at Mons and in the vicinity now number 12,625. The miners have appointed four delegates to confer with the provincial council and to urge the establishment of an industrial council and the withdrawal of the rules recently issued by the Societe des Produits.

The State Arbitrators Can do Nothing.

ALBANY, Aug. 24.—At a meeting of the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration yesterday, Commissioner Donovan made report of the requested, but futile, efforts to bring about a settlement of the strike on the Central road. The question of an investigation of the cause of the controversy was considered, but in view of the circumstances and the unavoidable absence of Commissioner Robertson, it was deemed best to postpone its determination until Thursday next, to which time an adjournment was taken.

Perhaps a Big Building Trades' Strike.

CHICAGO, Aug. 24.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the Master Builders' and Carpenters' Association yesterday the overture by the Journeymen Carpenters' Council for the amicable settlement of the differences existing was answered by a refusal to take such action As the new bosses' association has also refused to arbitrate there is apparently no recourse for the carpenters except surrender or a new general strike. Should the 7000 members of the union quit it is estimated that within two weeks 30,000 other workmen in the building trades of Chicago will be brought to a standstill.

HIS ALLEGED CRIME.

Why the Dashing Real Estate Man Was Locked Up in Boston.

BOSTON, Aug. 25. The crime for which James F. Coolican, the well known Canadian auctioneer, was arrested was alleged abduction. Mattie Stevens, a pretty 16-year-old girl, was also held. The two appeared at a leading hotel, the girl being introduced as his niece Mattie. An elderly female complained to the hotel proprietor of alleged endearments practised by Mr Coolican, of 45 years, and Mattie's [illegible] detectives were summoned, with the result of the arrest of Coolican and the maiden Coolican takes his arrest calmly. He says he brought Mattie here from Chicago for her health. Mattie supports this statement. The police authorities feel that they are in a quandary and frankly admit that they wish Coolican and his companion were in Chicago or elsewhere. The pair arrived at the Quincy House on Sunday, and he hired connecting rooms there, introducing the girl as his daughter. To a lady at the hotel who knew him he introduced the girl as his niece. She believed that everything was not as it should be and communicated her fears to Mr. Mann, the hotel proprietor.

SEARCHING NEW YORK HOSPITALS.

A Toronto Woman Undertakes a Journey in Search of Her Husband.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A good-looking young woman, carrying a baby in her arms, called at police headquarters. She said her name was Martha Usher and she was looking for her husband Edward, who disappeared from his home in Toronto seven weeks ago She thinks he is either in New York or in St. Louis. If she cannot find him she will think he has wilfully deserted her. Her husband is a carriage maker. The young woman left the central office saying she intended to visit all the hospitals in searching for her missing husband.

Stole Heaven's Livery to Serve the Devil In.

SARNIA, Aug. 24.—The residence of the Rev. T. R. Davis was broken into recently and a quantity of jewelry and other articles were taken. The family were away from home and the burglary was not discovered until their return. The description of the articles stolen tallied with some goods found on a tramp by the name of Ellis whom Chief Windred had arrested and who had been taken over the river by the Port Huron authorities, where he was also wanted for housebreaking. He went over the river, and upon re-examining the articles found in Ellis' possession identified a number of articles taken from Mr. Davis'. Portions of the stolen goods were also found on two other prisoners in custody there named Verner and Sullivan.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 25.—Advices from the New Hebrides state that the natives of Amba Island massacred the crew of a German labor vessel. A French warship subsequently shelled the villagers on the island.

Advices from Samoa state that the consuls at Apia have issued a proclamation warning the natives against entering into any intrigues to replace King Matafa.

AN OUTLAW IN GLENGARY

THE MEGANTIC BRAVADO FINDS A COUNTERPART IN ONTARIO.

Wanted at Auburn for Murdering a Prison Guard—Hounded Around the Country by Four Detectives, But They Can't Get Onto Him—His Gunsmen See That He Does Not Starve.

CORNWALL, Aug. 24.—The pursuit of a murderer is at all times exciting, but the circumstances connected with one now going on in the county of Glengarry are of more than ordinary interest. A convict defying arrest, baffled detectives and a sympathizing community combine to make a case rivaling in interest that of Donald Morrison, the Megantic outlaw.

Some years ago Peter McClellan, the son of a respectable Scotch farmer in the township of Roxborough, and related to many of the leading families in the county, left home to work in the lumber shanties of Michigan. Leaving the shanties he fell into bad company and, after wandering over the States for a while, was arrested and condemned to Auburn (N.Y.) penitentiary for burglary. About three months ago he succeeded in escaping from the penitentiary after a desperate struggle in which one of the turnkeys was killed. The reason of his desperation was that he had heard that, immediately on the expiration of his term, he would be arrested for a murder which had been mysteriously committed some time before, but the particulars of which only recently came to light.

McClellan made at once for his home in Glengarry, followed by two United States detectives and two officers from Montreal, one of whom is Detective Carpenter who shot and captured Donald Morrison. To complete the parallel with the Megantic case, the clans soon got the idea that the man was being hounded and naturally manifested their sympathy. If they do not actually assist in concealing him they at any rate refuse to give any information as to his whereabouts. Most of the farmers send milk to the cheese factories there and are in the habit of leaving the cans at the road side over night for collection in the morning. Wherever McClellan happens to be, he is almost sure to run across some of these cans, and if he takes enough to last for several days no one ever complains. Again, as in most country places, the cellars have outside entrances, the doors of which are never locked. McClellan has been heard several times helping himself to cold meats, pies, bread, etc., but the householder quietly ignores the noise. He has been seen at the house of his married sister and also on the farm of one McGillivray, in the 18th concession of Lochiel, but has declared that he will never be captured alive. As he stands over 6 feet 2 inches in his stockings and is of gigantic strength, it can easily be imagined that the police will be somewhat cautious about attempting a capture unless in full force and this of course will prolong the chase. In fact it has become a saying in the county that if McClellan is in one concession, Donald the blacksmith, a local constable, is sure to be in the other.

Detective Carpenter is said to march along the road with a gun on his shoulder, but so far has not had a sight of the convict, although it is well-known that on one occasion he was within half a mile of his bird. However, the sympathy of the inhabitants for the hunted man makes it a difficult matter to learn anything of his movements.

One thing is certain, that if the posse ever does come upon him a bloody fight will ensue.

THE PRINCE HAVING A GOOD TIME

Halifax in a Gay Whirl Over the Presence of George of Wales.

HALIFAX, Aug. 24.—Society folks in Halifax are having a constant round of festivities just now in which Prince George, Gen. Sir John Ross and Admiral Watson take a conspicuous part. Last night Sir John gave a supper party at Maplewood, on the banks of the Northwest arm, when a procession of illuminated boats, carrying many of the guests, passed up the arm and landed their gay occupants at the grounds.

To-morrow evening the Prince and some of his brother naval officers give a small dance at the dockyard.

On Tuesday evening Sir John Ross gives a large ball at Bellevue.

Enjoys Her Allowance of Tobacco.

WELLAND, Aug. 24.—The prisoner Day, who languishes in jail here with a charge of murder hanging over him, maintains the same quiet demeanor as at first. Daily papers are withheld from him, although he frequently asks for them. His appetite is good and he has the appearance of a man who sleeps well. Rev. Mr. McCraig has visited him several times, taking books and old papers, from which the prisoner reads a great deal. A few days ago he sent word to his mother at Rochester to dispose of some of his chattels, in order to raise some money for a lawyer. Mrs. Quigley is becoming a little more reconciled to her confinement, and enjoys her allowance of tobacco with a new clay pipe. She was furnished with reading matter last week, which seemed to please her greatly.

A Woman Breaks Jail.

SARNIA, Aug. 24.—About noon Wednesday a woman named Chisold, sent to jail Monday, to serve a six months term for being a loose and disorderly person, performed an unprecedented act in the history of Sarnia jail, viz: that of being the first woman to make her escape from that institution. While alone in the yard she climbed a water pipe running down the north wall of the jail, reached the roof of an outhouse adjoining, and from there made her way to a window leading into the grand jury room, through which she entered. Once in there it was an easy matter to descend to the street.

Deaf Mutes Who Are Cannibals.

BUCKINGHAM, Que., Aug. 25.—Mrs. Cote went berry picking, leaving her child in charge of two boys, deaf mutes of unsound mind, named Newton. One of them, aged 28, attacked the child in the most cannibalistic manner, and inflicted such injuries with his teeth that the little one died shortly afterwards. It took four men to get the body away from the infuriated demon.

The Peach Crop Killed Once More.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23.—Competent persons set the amount of money kept from the pockets of the growers in the peninsula by the failure this year of the peach crop at nearly $3,000,000. This, taken with the small crop for 1889, makes the loss to the growers for the two seasons about $5,000,000. On the peninsula the latest yield will not be much over 600 baskets.

Probably Fatally Shot.

QUEBEC, Aug. 23.—During a quarrel among sailors this afternoon an Italian named Ribeira shot Paddy Lynch, an Australian, three times. Lynch will probably die.

Shot by Her Debtor.

CORNWALL, Aug. 24.—Mrs. Annie McKinnon went to the house of Robert Graham, C.P.R. tankman at Alexandria Bay, to claim money for work done. Graham said he did not have the money. After some talk Graham put his hand into a pocket behind him, and said, "How would you like to have your brains blown out?" The first thing she knew her hat flew off and she fell to the ground. The prisoner then said, "If there was another one in it you would have it." She then fell insensible. The shot struck her in the right cheek. Graham was arrested and committed to jail at Cornwall to stand his trial at the October court. The woman McKinnon is in a critical condition, but the probability is she will recover.

BIG SHOUTS FOR DILLON

30,000 MEN AT LIMERICK CHEER THE HOME RULER.

He and William O'Brien Tendered a Banquet on the Eve of their Departure for America—The Government to Investigate the Potato Famine in Ireland.

LIMERICK, Aug. 24.—30,000 persons took part to-day in a demonstration held here to protest against Bishop O'Dwyer's attack upon John Dillon. Dillon, O'Brien and ten other Parnellite members of Parliament made speeches. Most of the leading citizens held aloof from the demonstration out of respect for the bishop. A banquet followed at which 150 guests were present. A number of speeches were made.

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The Government has initiated an official enquiry into the reported failure of the potato crop in Ireland.

The Pope has written to Cardinal Manning expressing sympathy over the loss of Cardinal Newman. The Pope says: "I am deeply grieved at the departure of a man who by his learning, his writings and his singular piety gave great splendor to the Sacred College. I do not doubt that he has already received the reward of his virtues. Nevertheless I will continue to pray for the repose of his blessed soul."

The Princess of Wales started for Balmoral last night. The axles of the saloon carriage in which she traveled became heated, and when the train reached Berwick it was decided that it would be dangerous to run the carriage any further. The Princess was therefore obliged to arise and continue her journey in another carriage.

American Salted Meats in France.

PARIS, Aug. 24.—A meeting of the cabinet was held at Fontainebleau to-day. The ministers discussed the measures which the American Government proposes to adopt to ensure the wholesome condition of salted meats at the time of export, and held a further debate on the draft of a new general tariff bill.

Saying Farewell to the Czar.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 24.—A farewell banquet was given last night at the Peterhof Palace. The Czar, Emperor William, Chancellor von Caprivi, DeGiers and a number of leading officials were present. After the banquet the Czar and the Emperor viewed the gardens of the palace, which were brilliantly lighted. At 10 o'clock the Emperor departed. He was accompanied to the quay by the Czar, the officers of the Viborg regiment, of which the Emperor is honorary colonel, forming a guard of honor. On the landing stage the Emperor shook hands with each of the officers and bade the Czar a cordial farewell. As the steamer left the quay the Czar called out "A bon voyage au revoir." The Emperor boarded the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, which put to sea at dawn, escorted by the German ironclad Irene.

General von Schellendorf, commander of the First German Army Corps, who is attached to the suite of Emperor William, while on his way to the Peterhof yesterday was thrown from his horse and severely injured.

The Czar has conferred the decoration of the Order of St. Andrew upon Chancellor von Caprivi. It is stated that the Czar and Czarina have promised Emperor William that they will visit Berlin in October.

A Raging Forest Fire.

ATHENS, Aug. 24.—The forest on Mount Pontilus has been on fire since Friday. The royal summer residence is threatened and the King and his son are directing the troops in their efforts to prevent the spread of the flames. The excavations of the American School of Archaeology at Dionysius have already been destroyed.

A Steamship on Fire.

PLYMOUTH, Aug. 24.—The British steamer Montmore, which left London for Boston Thursday with a large general cargo, arrived here this evening with a fire in her forehold, where jute rags, tallow and oil were stored. The crew fought the fire all day, but it gained steadily and a dozen streams were poured on the fire here and it was extinguished. Captain Waite was nearly blinded by smoke. The only passengers were eight cattle drovers. It is believed the damage is confined to the cargo.

TORONTO TOPICS.

An Infant's Sad and Peculiar Death—Other Drowning Accidents.

TORONTO, Aug. 25.—The infant son of Benjamin Norwich, a butcher, while seated in its carriage which was standing on the Brock-street wharf yesterday, met with a peculiarly sad death. The nurse let go the carriage for a minute when the carriage rolled down into the bay and the child was drowned. Annie Wolfe, the nurse, made a gallant effort to rescue the child, and in doing so nearly lost her own life The aldermen are to blame in this matter for not properly protecting the wharf.

Ernest Seymour, aged 18, while yachting Saturday afternoon with four other young men was capsized and drowned.

The body of a middle-aged man, well dressed, was found floating in the lake on Saturday. He remains at the morgue unidentified.

The four children of the Earl of Aberdeen arrived in town Saturday. The Earl and Countess are expected to-morrow. The Earl has promised to open the Toronto Exhibition on Sept. 9

Attorney-General Langley of Nova Scotia will arrive to-morrow. He will be the guest of Prof. Goldwin Smith.

Archbishop Walsh yesterday laid the corner-stone of the new $35,000 addition to the orphanage at Cabbyside with imposing ceremonies.

HOMING PIGEONS AT OTTAWA.

Homing Pigeons Cover the Distance, 120 Miles, in 2 Hours 15 Minutes.

OTTAWA, Aug. 23.—Satisfactory experiments were made to-day to illustrate the practical uses of homing pigeons in time of war. The idea, so far as Canada is concerned, originated with Major-Gen. Cameron, commandant of the Royal Military College, Kingston. He recently arranged that the birds should be tested in a flight from here to Kingston, a distance of over 120 miles. At 10½ a.m. Sir Hector Langevin, Adjt.-Gen. Powell, Col. Bacon and Col. Tilton assembled in front of the western departmental block, and 15 minutes later 10 pigeons were set free. The birds, after hovering in the air at a great altitude, got their bearings and darted off towards Kingston. A despatch from Gen. Cameron states that six of the pigeons arrived there at 1 o'clock, covering the distance in about 2 hours 15 minutes. Two other birds reached their destination 15 minutes later and two birds did not put in an appearance. The experiment is regarded as in every way satisfactory.

Wants the American Whaler Shut Out.

OTTAWA, Ont. Aug. 24.—A protest has been received by the Government from New Westminster, B.C., against the granting of permission to Captain Whitlaw, an American fisherman, to hunt whales in the Gulf of Georgia. The cause of the protest arises from the fact that Captain Cooper of New Westminster is just finishing a steam vessel which has been built especially for whaling in the gulf, and he and his backers and friends think the privilege should not be handed over to an American.

International Greetings in the Tunnel.

SARNIA, Aug. 24.—At noon to-day (Sunday) connection was successfully made between the two ends of the Grand Trunk Railway tunnel under the St. Clair River. A large auger bored out ten feet, the remaining distance. This enabled the men working on the Canada side to talk to their fellow-workmen on the American end. By noon to-morrow the men will be able to walk through the tunnel its entire distance from Sarnia to Port Huron.

Security for the Bonus.

The Brooks Manufacturing Co. Give Security for the Satisfactory Fulfilment of the Bonus By Law.

A special meeting of the town council was held Saturday evening for the purpose of dealing with the Brooks Manufacturing Co.'s bonus, which required that the company must give satisfactory security before the money is paid over.

There were present Mayor Stevenson, Messrs. Cahill, Davidson, Winch, Kelly, A. Hall, Dawson, Moore, Rutherford, Langford, Kendry. Messrs. Thos. Brooks and J. W. Taylor, of the Brooks Manufacturing Co., were also in attendance.

Mr. Moore brought the matter before the council. He said that the Brooks Manufacturing Co. proposed giving the town council as security for the performance of the terms and conditions of the by-law granting them a bonus, a mortgage of $6,000 upon their property and furnish bonus from six shareholders of the company in $500 each as personal bonds and collateral to the mortgage. Mr. Moore read the mortgage and bond, and presented them for the acceptance of the council. The instruments had not yet been inspected by the town solicitor, he said, but it was intended before they were finally adopted to submit them to him for approval. Mr. Moore introduced this resolution :—

In re bylaw No. 603 for $6,000 to the Brooks Manufacturing Co., moved by Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that having heard read the securities presented to this council by the Brooks Manufacturing Co., consisting of a mortgage on lots 9 and 10, south of Wolfe street, and lots 9 and 10 north of Townsend street, and west of George street, in the town of Peterborough ; and the bond of Arthur Stevenson, Thos. Brooke, John Braden, George Stevenson and John W. Taylor, and the said last named parties having undertaken to furnish a guarantee that Geo. A. Cox will within two months execute a like bond : and that the other evidence required by this council as to incorporation of the Company, insurance sufficiency of the Company, of bylaws, etc., will be furnished, this council declares that the security given is satisfactory, and this council doth hereby direct that on completion of the said security the sum of $5000, part of the said sum of $6000, shall be paid to the said Company under the provisions of bylaw No. 603 ; and that so soon as the said debentures can be sold the balance of proceeds of said debentures shall also be handed over to the said Company.

Mr. Lesslord urged that the matter be deferred for further consideration. It was an important matter and he did not think it should be rushed through. The meeting was only called to-day and he did not think the council had sufficiently considered it.

The motion was carried.

HANDING OVER THE MARKET BUILDING.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Hall,—That the new market buildings, in so far as this council has control of the same, be handed over to the Town Commissioners, and that this council requests them to take control of said buildings.—Carried.

The council then adjourned.

A Run Through Manitoba,

Thirty Days Investigation of the Prairie Province.

Mr. Fred. Davidson, son of Mr. Hugh Davidson, Smith, entertaining the idea of trying his fortune in Manitoba or some other portion of the Northwest, took the wise precaution of looking before he leaped and made a visit of investigation. He left Peterborough the 24th of July and arrived at Winnipeg on the 27th, and spent a few days in doing the city and gathering information respecting the rest of Manitoba and especially southern Manitoba. While here he visited a race meeting at Prairie Park. Thence he went south on Southwestern branch to Boissevain, a village of about 750 inhabitants, where he remained three or four days. The place is well built, there being ten some buildings The country in its vicinity is well settled, the farmers seem to be prospering and to have good crops. The next trip was thirty five miles to Deloraine, about 200 miles from Winnipeg. From Deloraine to Melita where he met Mr. W. Ferguson formerly of North Monaghan and Mr. Forsythe formerly of Peterborough. They have between them 240 acres in wheat and oats. After spending three or four days in Melita, in whose vicinity the crops appeared very promising, Mr. Davidson took a short trip to Dakota. Returning he started for Brandon accompanied by Mr. Ferguson, passing on the way the hamlets of Westhall, Shepherdsville, Hessip and Langrali. At Shepherdsville he met Mr. Adam Hall, brother of Mr. R. R. Hall, town, who is conducting operations on a farm. He has a fine crop of 100 acres. Mr. Hall has a very high opinion of Manitoba. He has a good farm in a good locality. A short distance from Mr. Halls, Mr. Davidson met a Mr. Wadsworth who was at one time engaged on the farm of Mrs. James Dixon, town. In crossing the Souris River great trouble was had on account of the height of the banks. Along the Souris (French for mouse) river there grows in great abundance a berry called the Saskatoon berry, greatly resembling the Ontario huckleberry. Crossing the Brandon hills, the town of Brandon is reached. However, before reaching Brandon, Mr. Davidson remained over night with Mr. Robert Johnston, formerly of Peterborough. Near him lives Mr. James Duff, who removed to Manitoba from Selwyn. Leaving Brandon Mr. Davidson took the trail to Plum Creek, where he stayed with a man named Carpenter, who disgraced the calling his name implied by having no shingles on his house, and therefore, it having rained, Mr. Davidson took a severe cold from the wetting he received. When asked why he refrained from shingling his house he treated his guest to the venerable reply that when it rained he couldn't put on the shingles and when it didn't rain he hadn't time to do it. Plum Creek boasts of some 500 or 600 inhabitants and a post office, and expecting in a short time to have a railway running with a service of one train a day. At that place Mr. Davidson met Mr. King formerly a soda water manufacturer in Peterborough, and near Westhall he met Mr. El. Galvin, of the J. G. Galvin, Lake field. During his accidental outing, Mr. Davidson drove over four hundred miles, nearly one hundred miles a week for the five weeks of his absence from Ontario. His observation and experience of Manitoba impressed him very favorably with its value as a farming country.

MR. TOMPKINS'S QUIET SUNDAY.

How He Fled from the Noise and Bustle of Town to Dodge a Bull.

To escape the sweltering heat of town Mr. Tompkins recently gathered up the savings of several weeks and started for the quiet of the mountains. In order to be totally free from noise or excitement of any kind, he repaired to the house of a friend, which was situated in a valley near a spur of the Catskills, and although he had but one day and that Sunday, in which to enjoy perfect rest and escape the bustle and turmoil of the town, he commenced a little over four hours on Saturday afternoon getting to his retreat.

After a hot and tiring railway journey, Mr. Tompkins reached his friend's house, hungry and dusty, and nearly choked with coal dust.

"Isn't it glorious!" said he to himself, as he gazed through his window at sunrise next morning over the green expanse of woodland and meadow. The gleaming silver of Esopus Creek glinted through the green that fringed its banks. Fields of grain were already turned to a rich gold color.

The Catskills rose in a purplish blue background. Hastily dressing, Mr. Tompkins wandered forth on a tour of discovery.

His footsteps led him to a brook that ran through a meadow thick with tall, daisy grass. As he pursued his course along the banks of the stream several trout darted under stones and roots after the bashful manner of trout. Mr. Tompkins had been trying to convince himself that it was not a very great sin to fish on Sunday and had nearly succeeded, when a terrific roar made him jump two feet into the air. This was quickly followed by another and another.

Mr. Tompkins thought some menagerie must have got an animal. The noise continued. It came from a clump of trees. At a loss what to do, the young man did nothing but wait. And then with an astonishing gamut of roars, bellows and snorts, out came a bull on a dead run, with tail stiffened and pointing toward the blue empyrean.

Down the hill he came, roaring and snorting at every bound. The only certain way to get clear away was straight up the hill side, and that way was held by the bull. A brisk run across the low land to another clump of trees offered a temporary refuge.

Mr. Tompkins made the best time on record and reached the trees not a moment too soon, for the beast was at his heels. Then the bull dodged the young man around the trunk of a big hickory tree and kept up this pleasing divers on for fully half an hour.

A heap of stones several hundred yards distant, looked more promising to the young man who had come to the country for a quiet day. The bull was getting angrier every moment, and in his blind rage stumbled and fell over a rock. A dash for the stones and then the young man thought himself safe.

The bull was getting up, and wasn't many seconds behind. But the heap of stones was reached in safety. The bull could not ascend it, and slipped and fell on the stones, although it was only a cow after all.

There ended Mr. Tompkins's connection with cattle and horses as a specialty. But they didn't have a corner on all the signs of his began to appear around the farm house on the hillside, and when the farm hands came to look for the cows.

The young man took a mean advantage of the bull. He could run, although the bull couldn't talk. This was hardly square, but the young man did not obey the prompting of his noblest nature. He just sang out for help as loudly as he could, and it came, with a snarl and a bound, in the person of a bull terrier.

Now, this bull knew that bull terrier, and the instant he saw the dog, he changed his tactics and started on a run for the barn. But the dog was too quick for him, and with one bound, seized his bull, and held on till they reached the barn, about 500 yards away.

The bull bellowed with pain and anger as he ran, but he couldn't get rid of that dog or get him loose his grip on his tail. When the young man reached the house of his friends, he wondered whether there wasn't a little bustle and hurry in the country, at times.—N. Y. Sun.

A NOVEL BATHING COSTUME.

It Comes from the Other Side and Ought to Be Popular.

The latest device in bathing costumes comes from the other side, where it was made for an English woman who has already worn one similar to it during a season at that watering-place seaside resort, Trouville. It is made of black satin—the heavy glossy quality—but comes with a linen back. The bodice is laid over a tight-fitting lining of jean which commands support to the figure to enable the wearer to dispense with the stiff corset which many bathers consider indispensable. It is high up about the throat and buttoned securely with cut jet balls. The satin is gathered back and front, and the fulness is "gigot" from the bust line down to a few inches below the waist, where a full skirt reaching nearly to the knees is set on with a "flutter-up shirring." There are no sleeves. In each armsize is set a crescent-shaped piece, which lies across several times at the shoulder and is tied with a black silk cord. Black stockings, with small satin trunks and shoes of the same, felt that are very pointed at the toes, somewhat like the "shoon" of the period of Richard III., complete this outfit. The fair owner says that satin holds its own against the onslaught of the soft sea water better than any known fabric. It does not cling too closely and wetting rather improves its lustre.

Attributed to an Accident.

MONTREAL, Aug. 23.—Oscar Maloy, a young detective in the employ of the Secret Service Bureau, yesterday shot and probably fatally injured Policeman Muckle. The affair occurred in the corridor of the Central Station and is thought to be accidental, though there were no witnesses of the deed.

To Meet at Hamilton Next Year.

DR. KEENE'S STORY.

"So glad to find you in, doctor," he said. "I've come to be congratulated. I am going to marry the dearest girl in the world, and want you, my best friend, to wish me joy."

I did congratulate him heartily and asked if I knew the lady.

"No. I think not. Let me tell you. She is Miss Mildred Faye, a member of the company at ——— theatre. Don't look surprised. Not a nicer girl lives. A breath of slander has never touched her name. Her father died when she was about 15, just out of school. He was thought to be very well off—the family had always lived in good style—but at his death his wife and two daughters found themselves almost penniless. Not even their home belonged to them. Mrs. Faye, a delicate little body, unused to work of any kind, had no idea as to how they were to earn a living. So Mildred had to take the lead. Kate, three or four years younger than she, must be kept in school, and the three must be provided, somehow, with food, clothing and shelter. Mildred had been fairly educated, but not thoroughly enough to at tempt teaching. She determined to go upon the stage. She had had a good deal of amateur experience in concert and theatricals, and had been warmly praised for her acting. I had heard of Miss Faye's talent, but never happened to see her. Good critics had said she would make a success if she would go on the stage. Well, when she announced her determination her friends were much shocked and her mother quite overcome, but no one had anything better to suggest, so she had her own way. She knew she was inexperienced and must be content with a small salary and a small part to begin with. She wished very much to get into a home in order that she might be economical, so she accepted a minor part at a very good salary upon the road.

So one week found Mildred in a cheap stock company she had to endure. Tenderly cared for all her life, with plenty of money for recreation needs, she now had to practice the strictest economy. She stopped at cheap boarding houses, walked whenever it was possible to do so, all to save every cent she could for the loved ones at home. She was unsteady to the leading lady, who was neither young nor pretty, but who possessed what Mildred most lacked, experience. She also possessed a temper, and one night, not long before the closing of the curtain, refused to go on. The young suffering manager appealed to Mildred. She was letter perfect, and in spite of her detestable natural nervousness made a great hit. The delighted manager gave her the part for the rest of the season, but tried to keep her salary unchanged. The she would not agree to, so they finally compromised on a fair sum, which enabled Mildred to take better care of herself and to send more money to her mother. The part suited her, and everywhere she was warmly praised for her acting. Everything looked bright and promising when a telegram called her to her mother's side. It was at a good time, she could be spared, and she left at once. It was midwinter night. They were near New York and she left, expecting to rejoin the company in time for the performances Monday evening.

She found that her mother had slipped upon the stairs and dislocated her arm. The fall seemed, and, the doctor said, would soon be well; but she was nervous and sicken, and would not hear of Mildred's leaving her, and kept the poor girl until her place in the company had long been filled. When Mrs. Faye, slowly recovering, came to her senses, the season was nearly closed and an engagement was not to be had. Their money was about gone, and times, I fancy, were pretty hard, when some good friend must have helped them out a bit. At the beginning of this season Mildred got her present position. A very good one, if she was going to remain on the stage, which she is not. Kate is now. She is going to marry one of two wooers—to-day. I want you and Mrs. Keene to come to the wedding. Once the family, a very good lady friend of Mildred's and my dear old partner will be there. The latter is not to speak to have any one else. We go away at once. Mrs. Faye and Kate will take possession of our house, which I am busy furnishing. You know I've never had much of a home, and feel awfully happy over the prospect of having such a nice mother and sister and the sweetest wife in the world. And now good-by. Don't forget the day."

And now good-by. Don't forget the day." and the happy fellow went away as if walking on air.

The appointed hour found myself and wife kneeling at the door of Mrs Faye's cozy little flat. Frank presented us to his future mother and the minister, Mr. Haines, Frank's partner, we knew already and then stepped to the door of the next room and hurried out the bride, who was followed by [illegible]. The bride wore a simple white [illegible] veiling over her face. Miss Duncan, a pretty blonde, was in blue, Kate Faye, a slip of a girl, dark brown and dark eyed, wore pink. The minister soon made the happy pair one, and after the brides mother and the young ladies had kissed and cried over her a little while my wife and I stepped forward to be presented and offer our congratulations.

The new Mrs. Howard was all that her lover found fancy had painted her. A graceful girl of medium height, with soft brown eyes, a lovely complexion, a sweet mouth about which played pretty dimples, and wavy brown hair worn in a heavy coil at the back of a shapely head, and falling in tiny rings upon a low, white brow. When my name was mentioned she looked up with a deep blush, which quickly receding left her very pale. In a low musical voice, whose tones were strangely familiar to my ear, she thanked us for our good wishes.

After some simple refreshments the bride went away to put on her travelling dress, and as they were about to depart I stood beside her for a moment. She turned to speak to her husband, and I saw what answered my question. Where had I heard that voice? Just below the left ear was a tiny, star-shaped spot, showing white through the rosy blush called up by her husband's tone and glance.

They went away a happy couple and returned more in a love if possible, with each other than before. I have been settled, as positions, at this place for a number of years. I don't see Frank Howard very often nowadays, but our friendship has suffered no change. I do not know, though whether he and his wife, devoted as they are to each other, have exchanged confidences on the mustache question or no. They are made no sign. Neither have I. Mr. Lorette M. Babbitt in Gotham Monthly.

Awful Consequences of Impetuosity.

"Ernestina, my daughter," inquired the stately matron, "why did Mr. Brodwegh leave so early last evening? Have you and he quarrelled?"

"Mamma," replied Miss Howjames, "Mr. Brodwegh kissed me last evening with such unseemly vehemence that he disarranged my spectacles. I have dismissed him forever."

And the proud Boston girl, pale but sternly resolute, turned again to her volume of Aristotle, and a deep, decorous, classically Bostonian stillness pervaded the apartments.—Chicago Tribune.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria

He Was Stumped.

He stood on the corner, gazed into the air, set his chin, and pulled his whiskers. Then he fumbled in his vest pocket, scratched his head and blew his nose with a manner more deliberate than the collection of a bad debt. Anon he opened his mouth, tugged at his lower lip, muttered to himself, and fixed his eyes on the chimney tops in a vacant stony stare that soon collected a crowd that blockaded the sidewalk. He was a married man, trying to think what it was his wife had charged him to be sure to get.—The Ram's Horn.

Life Insurance Policy Holders

SHOULD READ THIS!

THE PERCENTAGE OF LAPSES.

The large increase in the amount of life insurance written by purely Canadian companies, and terminated by surrender or lapse, during the past year, has naturally attracted the attention of insurance men. So unexpected and unwelcome an increase—$1,703,612 in the amount of lapsed policies credited to Canadian companies during a period when American companies doing business in this country showed a decrease under this heading of $318,304, could not fail to excite comment; so that the figures have been eagerly scanned to discover how such a condition of affairs was brought about.

Perhaps this is most easily shown in tabular form by giving the net amount of insurance in force on the books of each of our principal Canadian companies and the percentage of lapsed and surrendered policies they are responsible for. In this case they rank as follows:—

Company.	Net amount in force.	Percentage of Surrender and Lapse.
Canada Life	$48,694,376	3.07
Confederation	17,674,628	5.31
Ontario Mutual	13,071,400	10.29
Federal	10,058,857	10.25
Sun Life	11,670,617	10.36
North American	5,470,620	10 66
Temperance and General	2,984,972	17 84
Citizens	2,067,956	20.15
Manufacturers' Life	5,723,100	30 12
London Life	1,644,295	30.61

From this table we can see that while each companies as the Canada Life and Confederation have actually decreased the amount of their lapses, some of the weaker companies have largely increased theirs, so that, although one company shows under four per cent., one under six, and four under eleven, the average percentage of lapses for the whole ten companies is 15.78 per cent.

The only moral we can draw from these figures is that the stronger and more widely known a company is, and the more of its patrons it will retain permanently on its books, while the weaker companies must, perforce, witness the defection of a certain proportion of their customers to their more powerful rivals. That so large a proportion as 20 per cent. of policy holders should entirely abandon the advantages of insurance in one year is hardly probable in these days of popular education. We can therefore only fall back on the hypothesis that the bulk of the lapses of the weaker companies must arise from their policy holders transferring their allegiance elsewhere. It is in fact a case of the wealthier and more widely known (even if not more progressive) companies absorbing the cream of the permanent business, and leaving only the transitory, and therefore less desirable risks, to their humbler competitors. By the aid of clever management and attractive methods, a weak company may be able to absorb a fair share of new business; but it is evident from these figures that the superior prestige of their older established rivals is certain to attract a proportion of their customers in the long run, and that thus their percentage of lapses will always be heavier.

Leaving for a New Charge.

Rev. Mr. Huff, for four years pastor of the Fourth line Baptist (the Gilmour Memorial) church, leaves to-day with his family to assume his duties in connection with his new pastoral charge, that of the Baptist church, Westport, Leeds county. Mr. Huff leaves behind a record for faithful work, and the love and respect of all with whom he was placed in contact, either in a personal or pastoral relation.

Barley Growing.

Mr. John G. Renwick, of Harvey, sends a sample of the "Competition" barley issued by the Stock Journal, Toronto, and imported for experimentation by the Dominion Government. The sample received, which is fair, was sown on the 25th April and harvested on Aug. 14th. Mr. Renwick further writes that the area of the plot and the weight will be given in about a fortnight. The straw was excellent, stiff and strong, the heavy storms having no effect upon it; also neither rue nor smut. The sample was grown by John G. Renwick, aged 12 years, son of Mr. Renwick, so I think by the sample that it can be profitably grown in Canada.

The Indentity of a Suicide

On Wednesday a despatch from Springfield, Ill., was published in the daily papers of the Province, announcing the suicide of Harry Hamilton, a young man whose relatives were supposed to live in Millbrook, Ont., whither the body was to be sent. It is now learnt that the Harry Hamilton in question is a brother of Mr. Robert Hamilton, broom maker, Ashburnham, who left home several years ago and has not been heard from in two years. Mr. Robt. Hamilton went down to Millbrook to-day to see the remains and if possible identify the body. Harry Hamilton was a painter by trade and was well-known in town.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

A Heavy Job.

Mr. James Bogue on Saturday completed a job which has occupied his time in the Queen City for several weeks. The roof of Shaftesbury Hall is being raised and a dome built. A part of the work was the stringing of a couple of iron girders manufactured at the Central Iron Bridge Works, Peterborough. Mr. Bogue was overseer of the job and accomplished what many people thought was an impossibility. The girders weighed ten tons each and were 68 feet in length. They had to be raised seventy feet, and bets were freely made among the hundreds of interested spectators that the large masses of iron would never reach their resting places. Mr. Bogue, however, was equal to the task. He was complimented by the architect of the works upon having succeeded in such a difficult undertaking.

A Stick on the Track.

The Port Hope Guide has the following concerning an accident on the Midland Railway Friday afternoon:—A gravel train was running north, followed by Conductor Britton's Lindsay mail train, and when it got within a couple of miles of Millbrook the engineer discovered, to his consternation, a team stuck upon the track only a few rods ahead, and, being down grade, it was impossible to stop in time to escape the obstruction. It appears that a well-known colored gentleman, who is, we believe, an ex-councillor for the classic burgh to the north of us, and a warm personal friend of the Millbrook Reporter man, was engaged in drawing timber and had to cross the railway track. One team had successfully crossed the rubicon, but unfortunately for Mr. Huffman, his team got stuck, the stick of timber resting heavily on the track his horses could not budge it, and just then our colored gentleman was startled by the 1.01, took of an engine whistle. This unexpected intimation of approaching danger so startled Mr. Huffman that he actually turned pale and the kink came out of his hair. He succeeded however, in unhooking one horse and then commenced to frantically wave his hat to shoo the iron horse. This did not halt, however, but struck the stick of timber fair in the centre and turned it over end for end, upsetting the horses quicker than you could say Jack Robinson and smashing the wagon into kindling wood. The engine was also disabled.

Not Guilty of Burglary.

Wm. Sharp Discharged by the Police Magistrate An Address to the Prisoner.

The young man, Wm. Sharp, who was caught in Mr. G. M. Roger's house Friday night, was tried on a charge of house-breaking and burglary, and discharged. The trial took place Saturday afternoon, County Crown Attorney Wood conducting the prosecution and Mr. A. Stevenson defending the prisoner. Evidence was taken corroborating the particulars of the case, as published in the EXAMINER, and the prisoner remanded till Monday. Several witnesses testified to the general good character and industrious habits of the prisoner. Mr. Roger asked the court to be as lenient as possible in dealing with the prisoner, as he had no wish to prosecute.

THE MAGISTRATE'S CHARGE

This morning Mr. Dumble delivered judgment, as follows:—

"The charge in this case is one of burglary —that you did feloniously break into and enter the residence of Mr. G. M. Roger with intent to commit felony. This charge of burglary requires that that there should be the breaking into and entering into the house at night—that is between the hours of nine in the evening and six in the morning. In this case it is shown that you were found in the house after nine o'clock, but there is no evidence that you entered after nine o'clock. So far as the evidence goes you may have entered in the daytime. There is no evidence that you broke into the house which was sufficient to make it burglary. There is no evidence that you broke into the house at all. There is evidence that you entered by a window, but Mr. Roger says he opened the window and may have left it open. Since the premises were not found broken open, that you are not technically guilty of the charge of burglary follows, and though you were caught in the house with articles in your possession, belonging to Mr. Roger, the County Crown Attorney and the court, taking into consideration your record and character, do not feel disposed to prefer against you a charge of larceny, which charge would be sustained by the evidence.

"The court therefore on the evidence finds you not guilty of burglary, and in the absence of any other charge you are discharged. In discharging you the court hopes that, there being no record of your being criminal or vicious, your future life will show you are no criminal at heart, and that this great mistake may be your first and last. The court may err in its leniency, but its desire is not to stamp you as a criminal by imposing a term of imprisonment which might rob you of society and self respect; but by giving you back to society we hope you will have sufficient strength of character and will to walk uprightly and win back any position you may have lost by this indiscretion. The court would advise you to go back to work, mingle with your fellowmen; say nothing, do nothing, but act the honest man and win back the respect of your fellowmen. Now you are discharged.

Wm. Sharpe in a few words thanked the court for the lenient judgment, and promised to go to work and never be seen in a police court again.

On the Diamond.

Peterborough Defeats Campbellford The Painters and Stitchers Play for a Keg of Ale.

Saturday afternoon a team of the Peterborough baseball club journeyed to Campbellford and defeated the club of that town —for the second time this year. Both nines batted hard, but few being struck out, and the score was consequently pretty large, though the game was played in less than two hours. The Peterboroughs shut out their opponents five times, but in two or three innings, by loose play, allowed the home team to pull up. The battery work on both sides was fair, but the Peterboroughs excelled in the field and at the bat. The feature of the game was Turnbull's magnificent hit for a home run in the eighth innings, when the bags were full, bringing in four runs. Somers and Brennan played well on second and first bags respectively. Turnbull's throwing to second was also good. McCabe did not pitch his best game, but he threw the ball well enough to win from Campbellford.

Mr. Bell, an American, umpired the game satisfactorily, and Mr. J. H. Howard, of Hastings, did the scoring, as follows:—

THE STITCHERS VICTORIOUS.

The tailors and painters of the town played a friendly game of ball on the Riverside Park Saturday afternoon, the stakes being a keg of ale. The stitchers were victorious by a score of 49 to 19. They won the game through their inferior battery work, none of the painters having the courage to stand up behind the bat to receive the ball. The painters batted harder than their opponents, and several times knocked the ball over the "grand stand" into the river. But the right fielder boldly plunged into the water and rescued the sphere in time to prevent the runner from getting beyond second base. The battery for the victors were Messrs. M. and R. Hickey; for the painters, Geo. Duncan and W. Watson. The game afforded lots of fun for the onlookers and the players themselves. The stitcher's nine are now waiting for the keg of ale.

Burned to Death.

A Native of Peterborough and Another Man Burned in an Hotel.

Chief Rossel to-day received the following telegram:—

SUNDRIDGE, Ont., Aug. 25 — Thomas Powers burned to death in hotel here this morning. Said to have a brother and sister in or near Peterborough. If known, wire.

W. M. BRIBBIN, Reeve.

There are no relatives of the deceased in town as far as can be learned. There are persons bearing the name of Powers in Otonabee and Emily townships, and a man named Thos. Powers who kept a boarding house at Bobcaygeon moved to the vicinity of Sandridge a couple of years ago. Nothing more definite is yet known concerning the identity of the deceased.

A PRESS DESPATCH.

SUNDRIDGE, Ont., Aug. 25.—The Queen's hotel here was burned to the ground this morning with all of its contents. About three o'clock flames were discovered at the rear of the building, and in an incredibly short time they had spread so that the guests, of whom there were a large number, had great difficulty in escaping. Two men, Thos. Powers and Herbert Taylor, the latter, it is said, belonging to Ottawa, were burned to death, and two others badly burned. There is said to be an insurance of four thousand dollars on the building.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The young men's meeting Saturday evening was well attended. Mr. Albert Hamilton gave an earnest talk on the turning point in the life of "Joseph."

The consecration meeting Sabbath morning was led by Mr. Robert Russell. All present realized the presence and power of the Holy Spirit.

Open air service in Central Park yesterday afternoon was attended by a large number. Mr. James Sutherland gave short, pointed Gospel addresses from John xiv, 1 3, and was listened to with much attention and, we trust, profit. The Y.M.C.A. band led the singing efficiently. It is gratifying to see now these services are growing in popular favour. We are trusting in Isa iv, 11.

The Gospel and song service last evening was very acceptably addressed by Rev. J. H. Locke, who gave an impressive and thoughtful address, which, we are positive, will bear fruit in the lives of the large congregation present.

Bible class on Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. Devotional committee will meet Tuesday evening.

Personal.

The Brockville Recorder of Saturday says: "We have been informed that Mr. W. H. Dingle, organist and choirmaster of Wall street church, has accepted a similar position in Knox church, Winnipeg, and leaves for his new post shortly. We understand that his salary is fixed for the first year at $800. Mr. Dingle while in Brockville has won a splendid reputation as a musician and a gentlemen, and his departure will be sincerely regretted by the adherents of the Wall street church, and by a large circle of friends outside that congregation."

Church Chimes.

Rev. T. B. Angell, formerly curate of St. John's, now of Pennsylvania, is in town on a visit. He preached the sermon at St. John's on Sunday evening.

News Nuggets.

—On Saturday, Turner, the Tenter, made a big shipment of awning covers, to Port Arthur. The goods sell themselves.

—There is a meeting of the Ashburnham village council to-night to strike the rate and discuss the budget.

The Royal Bulgarian Museum, which is in the Nuremburg Gothic fault, it is claimed, nearly 1,000 years ago by the Emperor Conrad II., is to be sold at auction. One of the most remarkable, as well as one of the smallest curios in the collection, is Hepner's famous cherrystone, on which are engraved, 113 various and distinct heads.

A schoolboy recently scalded his leg from knee to toe. As there were no signs of healing the attending surgeon chloroformed a greyhound puppy to death, shaved its body, skinned it, and grafted the skin on the boy's leg. The healing was rapid and the color of the grafted skin was uniform and very similar to that of the normal skin.

The most striking and beautiful feature of the celestial panorama in May, next to the moon, will be the planet Venus. Before the close of evening twilight, high above the western horizon and a little south of the exact westerly point, Venus will be seen. It will be in view an hour and a half later than the sun, and forty or fifty minutes of this time will be a rarely charming object.

This is a noble world. When Victor Hugo died thousands upon thousands of crowns were thrown upon his burial place. A subscription for a monument was started, which reached $2,000, and there it stopped. Victor Hugo's works are no longer in demand, and the monument, which it is supposed will cost $40,000, waits the turn of popular admiration for the great poet to reach completion.

The largest sailing ship in the world is said to be in the possession of France. Her name is the Flandre. She is a vessel with five masts, and has of solidly square sail is carried. The length is 331 feet, with a beam of 49 feet. The cargo which the Flandre could carry is no less than 6,000 tons. The ship is built of steel, her masts and yards being of the same material. She is at present trading between France and the Pacific.

Judge Wm. Sweet, in the District Court of Mount Idaho, Idaho, has decided that China-men have no right whatever on mining lands in the United States, and that a lease of mining ground to them is invalid, and amounts to an encouragement of a class of persons who are not desirable. If an appeal is not successful all Chinese miners in the territory will be driven off peaceably, and will lead to the abandonment of much ground by the Chinese.

A Mr. Kolb, who has just removed into Inchigeel house at Moultrie Point, Kingston, was in the act of making a fire the other morning, he heard a strange noise, that sounded as if rats were in the stove. He immediately got his fox and cat and proceeded to investigate. Raising up one of the lids in the stove, he was surprised when a large owl jumped out upon him. It had got into the chimney, which is twenty-five feet high, and went down through a five-foot stovepipe into the stove, where it was discovered by Mr. Kolb.

Totems are defined by J. G. Frazer as "a class of material objects which a savage regards with superstitious respect believing that there exists between him and every member of the class an intimate and altogether special relation." They are tribal emblems, family symbols, signals of nationality, expressions of religion, bonds of union, and regulators of marriage laws and of the social institutions. The system of totems exists among most primitive peoples and in similar forms with the North American Indians, Australians, South Africans, Arabs, hill tribes of India, Polynesians and many other peoples.

FIXING THE TARIFF BILL.

No Date for a Final Vote Has Yet Been Fixed One of the Rumors

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—Senator Gorman, chairman of the Democratic caucus, says that no agreement has yet been reached respecting the date when a vote shall be taken on the Tariff bill.

The general impression, however, is that the date for the voting on the bill will be fixed at about Sept. 5. The official announcement of an agreement will be made, it is understood, by Senator Aldrich, in charge of the bill, who will move at the proper time that the debate cease upon the agreed date and this motion will be agreed to unanimously. Whether or not the five-minute rule will be applied to the discussion at an earlier date, Senator Gorman could not say, although he admitted that it was probable.

In the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—The order of business for the remainder of the session arranged by the Republican committee of the Senate provides that the consideration of the tariff bill shall be completed without interruption except by appropriation bills and conference reports. Senator Aldrich, who has charge of the tariff bill, will, before the Senate meets to-morrow, endeavor to reach an agreement with the Democratic senators as to the date on which voting shall begin on the bill and amendments. If successful he will then ask unanimous consent to have the voting begin on the date agreed upon. He will also ask that debate during the last three days shall be conducted under the 5-minute rule.

YELLOW FEVER IN CANADA.

One of Her Majesty's Vessels Puts Into Halifax

HALIFAX, Aug. 24.—The British war ship Buzzard arrived here to-day from Jamaica with yellow fever on board, having been ordered to Halifax on account of the fever breaking out among the crew. She left here some weeks ago to relieve the Pylades, which had been ashore, and went to Bermuda for repairs. On the outbreak of the fever the Buzzard was sent to Halifax because the climate here is favorable to the rapid suppression of the disease.

There were nineteen cases on board at one time and one of the victims died at Port Royal and was buried there. All the others have recovered except five, and these cases are not very serious, all being expected to recover.

Cholera On Three Continents.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 23.—The Acting Deputy Minister of Agriculture, speaking today of the rumored danger of Asiatic cholera coming to Canada from Japan by way of British Columbia, said the quarantine regulations were as strict at Vancouver as at Grosse Isle, and at the latter place they were all that human ingenuity could devise. There was every danger, however, that the plague would visit this country next summer. It might come through immigrants, who having the disease in its latest stage, it could not be detected at quarantine.

MADRID, Aug. 23.—Cholera is spreading steadily along the Mediterranean north of Valencia, where there are ten to twelve new cases daily. The disease has appeared in several villages in the Province of Toledo, and suspicious cases have been discovered in Madrid.

MADRID, Aug. 24.—Cholera is reported to be spreading rapidly in the Province of Toledo.

CAIRO, Aug. 23.—From Tuesday to Thursday there were twenty-eight deaths from cholera and forty-eight fresh cases of the disease at Eltor.

Leprosy in Cape Breton.

HALIFAX, Aug. 23.—Several cases of leprosy have been discovered at Englishtown, Victoria county, C.B. The victims have been constantly associating with their neighbors and it is feared the disease has been communicated to a great many people. A call has been made upon the Government to investigate the fact and take charge of the lepers.

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Jowitt & Co.'s window blind factory was totally destroyed by fire early this morning. Loss $3,000. Insurance, $500 on building, $300 on contents. Incendiarism suspected.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Simon Schwenkin's former loft, No. 680 Broadway, was damaged $800 by fire early this morning.

GRAFTON, N.D., Aug. 23.—Two-thirds of the business portion of the west side of the town was burned yesterday. Loss $80,000.

A LITTLE GIRL'S VICTORY.

Only Eight Years Old, but She Conquered a Full-Grown Brute.

A coal cart was delivering an order in Clinton place the other day, and the horse made two or three great efforts to back the heavy loaded cart to the spot desired, and then became obstinate, says the New York Sun. The driver began to beat the animal, this quickly collected a crowd. He was a big fellow, with a fierce look in his eye, and the onlookers were chary about interfering, knowing what would follow. "I pity the horse, but I don't want to get into a row," remarked one.

"I am satisfied that I could do him up with the gloves on, but he wouldn't fight that way," added a second.

"I'm not in the least afraid to tackle him," put in a young man with a long neck, "but about the time I got him down along would come a policeman and arrest us both."

The driver was beating the horse and nothing was being done about it, when a little girl about eight years old approached and said:

"Please mister."

"Well, what yer want?"

"If you'll only stop, I'll get all the children around here and we'll carry every bit of the coal to the manhole and let you rest while we're doing it."

The man stood up and looked around in a defiant way, but, meeting with only pleasant looks, he began to give in and after a moment he smiled and said:

"Mebby he didn't deserve it, but I'm out sorts to-day. There goes the whip, and perhaps a lift on the wheels will help him."

The crowd swarmed around the cart, a hundred hands helped to push and the old horse had the cart to the spot with one effort.

WORDS BUT NO MONEY.

THE KNIGHTS MUST FIGHT IT OUT ALONE.

The Federation Council Sympathise with Powderly and Roundly Abuse Webb but Offer No Further Aid The Albany Meeting Wright Talks.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Aug. 25.—The K. of L. asked for bread from their brethren of the United Order of Railway Employes, better known as the Federation, and it has responded with a stone. It is true that the morsel is concealed in a jar of honey, but it will be none the more digestible to the Knights on that account. It is a common remark here to-night that the final decision of the conference could not have been more to Mr. Webb's taste had the third vice-president of the Central Railway manipulated the wires that controlled the twelve men who composed the supreme body. The unfortunate Knights are left to their own resources. They are not even offered the balm of pecuniary support and their general master workman is referred by the chief of the federation to press despatches for the official reply to his appeal. The outcome may prove a death-blow to the Knights.

At 6 o'clock this evening this message was sent out by the Council of Railway Employes:

T. V. POWDERLY, General Master Workman K. of L., Standwix Hall, Albany: The Supreme Council adjourned this afternoon after carefully considering the strike in all its details. You will note the report of our deliberation in to-night's dispatches which, it is hoped, will meet with your approval. The council was unanimous in endorsing your position and the position of the Grand Executive Board, and most earnestly hope that the right which you are championing in the great conflict on the New York Central may finally and powerfully prevail.

W. R. SARGENT, President.
W. A. SHARMAN, Secretary.

The following is the manifesto of the Federation:

To all to whom Organizations:

MEN AND BROTHERS.—On the night of Aug. 8 a strike began on the N.Y.C. & H.R.R. involving about 8000 in the employ of the said road. Were members of a great labor organization known as the K. of L. The reasons set forth by Mr. T. V. Powderly, chief executive of the order, may be summarized as follows. The peremptory discharge of between 50 and 60 employes of the road and members of D. K. of L., because they were K. of L. without giving them any reasons whatever for the discharges. Prior to the strike the men involved sought through the representatives of the order to have their grievances adjusted, but their appeal being disregarded a strike was inaugurated. At this juncture T. V. Powderly, master workman of the K. of L., entered upon the task of adjusting the difference and of making such arrangements as would result in an honorable peace between the employes and officials of the road, but his efforts were unavailing. Mr. Powderly, comprehending the purpose of H. Walter Webb, third vice president of the company, to make war upon the K. of L. and ultimately upon all the labor organizations represented on his road, sought a conference with the Supreme Council of the United Order of Railway Employes. The request of Mr. Powderly was granted to the extent that four members of the council, the chief executive of the Federation met him in the city of Buffalo.

The members of the Supreme Council became satisfied that the officials of this road by every consideration of fair and honorable treatment of labor organizations should meet Mr. Powderly and adopt some just plan for the adjustment of the grievances of the striking employes. This conclusion having been reached the members of the Supreme Council, in response to the request of Mr. Powderly, extended their journey to the city of New York to afford such aid as was in their power to bring about a settlement between Webb and Powderly. The failure of the negotiations is then verbosely set forth and the summoning of the Supreme Council which sat at Terre Haute from Saturday until Monday noon.

The council arrived at these conclusions:

1. The position of the Knights of Labor meets with unqualified approval.

2. Webb's course evinces a purpose to destroy labor organizations on the Central.

3. Webb's policy is despotic.

4. Webb is a criminal because he employed Pinkertons.

5. No. 2 elaborated.

6. Webb's actions say: "The public be damned."

Webb claims his road is private property, whereas it is a corporation chartered by the state.

In view of these conclusions the strike is approved and Webb denounced, but as the K. of L. is not a member of the Federation the council cannot do more than express their sympathy. Its inability to participate otherwise in the strike is now known and appreciated by Mr. Powderly.

THE ALBANY CONFERENCE.

Discharged Men Examined by Powderly—Alleged Onslaught on Knights.

ALBANY, Aug. 25.—At the afternoon conference of the General Executive Board and D.A. 246 twenty of the men who were discharged were admitted and closely questioned by Mr. Powderly relative to the causes which they thought led to their dismissal. Close questioning failed to disclose, except in a single instance, that any of the causes set forth by the officials of the Central road could have been the grounds for the discharge of the men. On the contrary, it is claimed many facts were brought out which tended to show that those wholesale discharges were the results of a preconcerted plan to drop all the prominent leaders in the circle of the Knights. Among those discharged were some who admitted that when they were dropped reasons such as set in Mr. Webb's statement were given, but entirely different ones. Several of the men said they were charged with insubordination at the time of their dismissal and added that the only act of theirs which the officials of the road could construe as one of insubordination was where they had served on committees which had waited upon the officials of the road and presented grievances at different times. Other men when they asked for the reasons of their discharge were met with the answer that they were working against the interest of the company. One man who had been given this answer said he had been threatened with dismissal on two separate occasions for being a Knight the last time being in February. Another discharged man said he was asked to go on piece-work, which would reduce his salary one-third. He refused. Shortly after he said he was discharged.

Mr. Powderly said it had been charged that the Knights of Labor was a foreign organization and that this strike was the result of their machinations. He asked all the delegates present who were born under the American flag to stand up. Sixty-seven delegates arose, and when those born abroad were asked to rise 10 men responded. The men where asked what sort of persons were filling their places on the Central road so far as they knew personally. The general tenor of their remarks was that their places were mostly filled by former employes who had been discharged for incompetency, intoxication and dishonesty. A preamble and resolution was adopted calling upon the State Board of Arbitration to order a prompt investigation of the existing difficulties, saying that the strikers were ready and anxious for one. Mr. Devlin was instructed to inform the Board of Arbitration of the above action, and he departed to perform the duty.

Before the meeting adjourned Messrs. Powderly and Devlin addressed the delegates, outlining the course which would be pursued in case the Federation did not order a general strike. They also dwelt upon the means at the command of the order to support this strike and said the major part of the money would be furnished willingly by the Knights all over the country. The conference then adjourned sine die.

A. W. Wright Talks.

ALBANY, Aug. 25.—The monster mass meeting held in the rink to-night drew a larger crowd to that place than has ever before entered the building at one time. No one could get in the hall after the meeting was called to order. At 8.12 p.m. at least 4000 men were present. Mr. A. W. Wright was the first speaker. He spoke emphatically and to the point. He referred to the lawful and orderly manner in which the strike was carried on and the broad and vital principles for the perpetuation of which it was found necessary to order this strike. He announced the endorsement of the Central strike by the Federation at Terre Haute, reading a telegram from Chief Sargent to that effect. He said this strike had not been inaugurated without due deliberation. He denounced Chief Arthur and his organization unless the latter repudiated the position now taken by their chief in this strike. He said the position taken by the Central road would, if successful, not only destroy the Knights' organization, but was the beginning of a system of attacks on organized labor all over the United States. "There will be but one side to this strike. The Central Railway will shortly fall before the power of public opinion." He asserted that it would be but a few months after the strike was settled in case the Central should win when the engineers on the road would be confronted with a reduction in their wages when they would like to resist but could not do so successfully without the assistance of the K. of L.

The Strikers Paid Off.

ALBANY, Aug. 25. The pay car on the Central road arrived here to-day and all the strikers who were employed outside of the shops were paid off. The latter will receive the money to-morrow. This money is badly needed by some of the men who never learned to lay away anything to sustain their families during a siege like the present.

The Grand Trunk's Schedule Affected.

HAMILTON, Aug. 25. The strike on the Vanderbilt system is affecting the Grand Trunk trains. Nearly all the through trains were late yesterday, the 4 p.m. trains not arriving until nearly 8 o'clock.

EDDIE BURKE GOES TO PITTSBURG

Alleghanians Think Him a Poor Exchange for Billy Sunday.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 25.—The Philadelphia and Pittsburg League Clubs Saturday effected a trade, Harry Wright giving Centre Fielder Burke and Pitcher Day for Fielder William A. Sunday.

A more startling exchange than the above could not come to the National League patrons in Pittsburg. Burke, while being a timely batter a splendid fielder and fleet base runner, is far from being Billy Sunday. The new fielder was bought from the Torontos last winter for $300. He has been playing ball since, leaving caught for the Lewistown, Danville and Scranton clubs during that year. In 1889 he covered left field for Scranton.

William Day, the pitcher, is not much of a catch. The Quakers got him from Cape May last season and up to date put him to very little use. Sunday was secured by the Philadelphias as much to make him an assistant to Manager Harry Wright as for anything else.

Tenny Beaten by Time.

BRIGHTON BEACH, Aug. 25.—A great crowd came here to-day to witness Tenny's attempt to break Ten Broecks' record for a mile which he failed to do. The track looked fast but was a trifle dead. It was the fifth race, being the record prize of $500. Tenny (110) to beat Ten Broeck's mile record of 1.39¾, $500 extra if he succeeded. Hamilton rode Tenny. The betting was 6 to 5 Tenny, 3 to 5 Time. He ran like a scared deer to the quarter and kept his gait to the half where he was joined by Punster, jr. This made Tenny balk, and going around the upper turn he was hardly galloping. On entering the stretch he improved his pace, and with Hamilton using whip and spur dashed past the post in 1.40¼, or one second behind Ten Broeck's time.

The Manchester Chess Tourney.

LONDON, Aug. 25.—The bi-annual master's tournament under the auspices of the British Chess Association commenced yesterday at Manchester.

There are 20 competitors, who will have to play 19 rounds. Ten games were played in the first round. Lorock beat Thorold, MacKenzie beat Alapin, Bird beat Gunsberg, Lee beat Tinsley. The other games were adjourned.

L. A. W. Meet at the Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Aug. 26.—The eleventh annual convention of the League of American Wheelmen was held here yesterday, at which several minor amendments were made. The first race takes place to-day. All the officers are present, including Gassler, Campbell, Lums ten and Windle.

THE ST. CLAIR TUNNEL.

ENGINEER HOBSON THE FIRST MAN THROUGH.

Completion of the Drift Early Monday Morning—Sarnia and Port Huron Have a Noisy Celebration—The History of the Work.

SARNIA, Aug. 25.—This morning at 10 o'clock the two shields of the St. Clair River tunnel were only 30 feet apart. For purposes of observation, a drift eight feet in diameter was cut from one to the other, and Messrs. Joseph Hobson, the chief engineer of the tunnel; Charles Mackenzie, M.L.A., one of the directors of the company, and Dr. T. G. Johnston, the company's medical adviser at this point, started from the American entrance and walked the entire distance through the tunnel, Mr. Hobson being the first man to pass through the opening. The British flag was hoisted, and he was received with three rousing cheers from the hundreds of men engaged in the work, accompanied by the screeching of boat whistles and the clanging of bells, which announced to the citizens the interesting fact.

Before the expiration of the present week the entire main portion of the tunnel will be completed, and the accuracy with which those shields were guided has been marvelous, as it was found that they were directly in line, not varying the slightest. The obstacles that have been met with and overcome were such that the public has no conception of them, but the zeal and energy displayed by every one in connection with this great undertaking overcame every hindrance. This is exemplified by the fact that from the day the shields were lowered into their position to commence the work twelve months will not have elapsed until Sept. 7, at which time this great international undertaking will be completed.

The contract for the approaches and masonry has been let to Messrs. Nihlin, Elliott & Phin of Brantford, Ont., who have commenced the work, and it is confidently expected that before the expiration of the present year the Grand Trunk Railway Company will be running their passenger and freight trains across the frontier by this underground passage. Sir Henry Tyler, the president of the Grand Trunk Company, and Sir Joseph Hickson, the general manager, will arrive from New York to-morrow to inspect the work, of which they, in conjunction with the very efficient and competent staff on the work, have every reason to feel justly proud. The success of this great work is due to the engineering skill and ability of Mr. Joseph Hobson, chief engineer of the Great Western Division G.T.R., who conceived, planned and executed it, and who under the greatest difficulties has had the most perfect confidence in the possibility of the work.

The tunnel is 6000 feet long, 2250 of which are under water. The whole is lined with cast iron from end to end, the tunnel being 20 feet in diameter. The successful completion of this tunnel settles the Detroit bridge question for all time. No permit will be granted to build a bridge which would so greatly interfere with navigation now that the practicability of a tunnel has been demonstrated.

BLACK BART'S BRAINS.

The Lone Highwayman's Attempts to Lose Them on the Prison Walls.

MARQUETTE, Mich., Aug. 26.—Holzhay, the lone Gogebic highwayman and murderer, made another attempt yesterday morning at self-destruction and he was almost successful. Having lost the use of his right hand in an effort to escape by overpowering the guards and his attempt at starvation having been thwarted by the injection of food, the unruly convict tried a more efficacious means. Yesterday morning when the guards took Holzhay's breakfast to his cell he found the prisoner semi-unconscious on the floor bleeding freely from the right wrist and his hair matted with blood. A hasty examination showed that his wrist had been cut open above the radial artery and his scalp on the crown of his head crushed in a pulp. The wounds were promptly dressed, Holzhay recovering his senses during the process. In his pocket was found a blood-stained sliver of tin which had been broken from a galvanized iron bucket used in taking water to the cell. When this attempt to sever his artery had been made Holzhay had then tried to smash his brains out by butting his head against the brick wall of the cell, but the length of the room was insufficient to permit proper momentum. Holzhay is now in a straight jacket and for the present is incapable of inflicting further injuries upon himself.

IT WILL BE A NOVEL FEATURE.

Scenes in the Day Tragedy Photographed for Use at the Trial.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 26.—Chief of Ontario Police Thomas Young had Mrs. Quigley brought here yesterday morning and taken to the spot where she was with her brother, Arthur Day, on July 27, when he told her he had pushed his wife Desziah over the cliff. Mrs. Quigley was placed on the rock where she testified she had sat down to rest and two substitutes for Day and his wife were placed in the same position as Day and his wife had stood when Mrs. Day was last seen by Mrs. Quigley and the scene was photographed. The distance between where Mrs. Quigley and where Day and his wife stood was measured and found to be 357 feet. The substitute placed by Mrs. Quigley for Day's wife was standing about a foot from the edge of the cliff. The scene was then photographed after Mrs. Day had been pushed over the cliff. Day beckoning with his handkerchief for his sister, Mrs. Quigley, to come to him. Afterwards Mrs. Quigley was taken back to Welland jail. The authorities photographed these scenes to be used at the trial in October.

Beet Sugar at Guelph.

GUELPH, Aug. 26.—Mr. Skaife of Montreal who is largely interested in the beet sugar factory in the County of Berthier, Que., R. H. Lander of Toronto, who is also interesting himself in the beet root industry for the production of sugar along with Mr. Innes, M.P., and Mr. Storey, foreman at the Ontario Experimental Farm, visited a number of farmers in Guelph township on Friday for the purpose of ascertaining the probability of farmers in this section going into the culture of the sugar beet. A meeting of farmers will be held Aug. 30.

Detective, Doctor, Damages.

HAMILTON, Aug. 26.—Detective Littlehales has sued Dr. McGillivray for $10,000 damages for assault, false imprisonment and malicious prosecution. The case arises out of the recent trouble between McGillivray and his wife, in which the detective acted for Mrs. McGillivray in getting possession of her child.

Going, Going, Gone!

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—James F. Coolican, the Canadian auctioneer charged with the abduction of Mamie Stevens, pleaded not guilty in the municipal court, waived examination and was held in $800 bail for appearance before the grand jury in September. The girl was held in $200. Mr. Coolican furnished bail and both are free.

THE CASE OF DR. BURTZELL.

Who is at Variance With the Church of Rome—His Position.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Rev. Dr. Richard Lalor Burtzell, late pastor of the Church of the Epiphany, who was removed from his charge on account of his expressed sympathy with the excommunicated priest, Dr. McGlynn, has been temporarily suspended from the exercise of his functions as a Roman Catholic priest in the diocese of New York. The decision of the propaganda in his case, which has not heretofore been made public, was in effect that the doctor shall be removed from his pastorate at the Church of the Epiphany and make an apology or retraction for his action to the archbishop. He was allowed a certain time in which to do so, with the warning that if he failed to give evidence of his repentance within the allotted time the sentence of temporary suspension should be passed. It is not true that Dr. Burtzell was offered the parish of Rondout. He was simply removed from the Church of the Epiphany and Dr. Pendergast of Rondout, appointed in his place. Dr. Burtzell will never again take charge of any church within the diocese of Archbishop Corrigan. Should he comply with the requirements demanded of him by Rome he will be rehabilitated and sent to another diocese, in accordance with the general custom of the church in regard to priests who have been suspended. Official news relative to Dr. Burtzell's sentence has only just reached New York and is for the first time given to the public now that he has refused to comply with the mandate of the propaganda. There are points in common between his position as regards the church and that of Dr. McGlynn. Both their cases are now entirely out of the hands of Archbishop Corrigan and the only tribunal with which either of them can deal in the future is the propaganda. In the future the archbishop will have no more to do with either case than he would have with the affairs of any priest outside his diocese.

GUELPHITES GULLED.

Mexican Charlie Makes a Big Stake With His $1 Gold Watches.

GUELPH, Aug. 26.—Mexican Charlie, who three years ago made a big haul here by giving away a "gold" watch with each $1 of medicine sold, struck the town again last week. The fakir had another big crowd as he told the virtues of his corn cure. The first purchasers were returned their money with a quarter to buy drinks. The 50 cent packages had 50c or $1 returned to buy the cigars. Then came the watch scheme. The covetous desire of the fools had been cleverly raised, and the $1 bills came in as fast as the fakir could stow them away, in spite of the warnings of those who knew the dodge. The fakir enclosed the watch in a package and each purchaser was to hold it up in the air, so that the fakir could know who were to receive another great gift (a brass pen) he had for the $1 purchasers. This prevented the dupes looking at what they had until the fakir had got in all that he could, and then they found that for their good money they had received a brass box with a watch face, a brass pen and some sawdust, or stuff equally valuable. The fakir was pelted with potatoes and stones as he drove off, but he kept guying the crowd, which followed him clear across the square and around to his hotel. Had it not been for the help of the police it would have gone hard with him.

DOLLAR WHEAT.

Manitobans Confident of an Unusual Harvest—Mr. Kelso's Farm.

EMERSON, Man., Aug. 26.—A fine sample of No. 1 hard wheat threshed this year on the Kelso farm, situated 20 miles south of Emerson in Hallock, Minn., and owned by Mr. C. C. L. Kelso of Toronto, shows the capabilities of the Southern Manitoba district. The farm has an area of over 4000 acres with about 2700 in corn this year. Mr. Kelso anticipates an average of 25 bushels to the acre and is assured of $1 wheat.

No considerable damage has yet been sustained from frost. This will be a phenomenal year in the Northwest. A conservative estimate places the wheat which will soon be ready for the export market at 22,000,000 bushels, which at 90 cents will realize $19,800,000. Other products will probably reach $4,000,000.

King Frost Came Too Late.

TORONTO, Aug. 26.—Mr. T. C. Irving, the Toronto superintendent of Bradstreet's, received last evening this despatch from Bradstreet's Winnipeg office in reference to the crops in Manitoba and the Northwest.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25. Estimated over 75 per cent. of wheat was safely harvested previous to frost, and large proportion of standing grain practically unharmed. Slight damage done to some late grain at a few points. Anticipated yield will not be materially affected. J. A. GREEN, Supt.

A HOLOCAUST AT SUNDRIDGE.

Two Men Burnt to Death in the Ruins of the Queen's Hotel.

SUNDRIDGE, Aug. 26.—The Queen's Hotel here, with contents, was burned to the ground yesterday morning. About 3 o'clock a fire was discovered at the rear of the building, supposed to have started from the outside, and in an incredibly short time the flames had spread so that the people had great difficulty in escaping. There were a large number of guests in the house, some escaping in their night clothes, others only with what they could lay their hands on. Arthur Bowyer was cut in the hands and side and slightly burned in escaping from the upper window. J. McGuire, news agent, was badly burned about the hands and face. Two men named Thomas Powers and Robert Layton were burned to death. The charred remains have been found, but the where-abouts of their friends are not known. The proprietor, Mr. John Jackson, and wife were from home. There is said to be $4000 insurance.

Wants to Know What's Said.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—A concern on Third avenue whose business is to furnish clippings from the newspapers upon any subject to those who may desire them, received a letter from the private secretary of Prince George of Wales yesterday. The letter was dated aboard the Thrush at Halifax and instructed the firm to furnish His Highness with such clippings as had appeared in the New York newspapers concerning the Thrush or her royal commander.

A G. T. R. Brakeman Crushed.

WIARTON, Aug. 26.—James Greenlaw, a G.T.R. brakeman, was caught between two cars while coupling at Hepworth, Saturday, and seriously crushed. He will probably die.

Archbishop Cleary's Loan.

KINGSTON, Aug. 26.—The Archbishop of Kingston has borrowed $200,000 from the Standard Life Assurance Company at 4½ per cent. The loan is for 20 years. The lives of 40 young men will be insured for $5000 each.

Agreed to Support Her.

BRANTFORD, Aug. 26. Henry Farrow, who was brought here from Toronto on a charge of neglecting to support his wife, agreed to take his wife with him and the magistrate dismissed the case.

A Victim of Apoplexy.

GUELPH, Aug. 26.—Henry Hillman of Guelph township, was stricken with apoplexy while wrestling a romper and died in four hours.

FURTHER WARNING.

THE Dominion Government has been warned by the quarantine officer at Grosse Isle that Asiatic cholera has appeared within a few days in London, Paris, Cairo and Yokohama. Under the circumstances extra precautions to prevent its introduction into Canada seem to be necessary, and not only that, but the people all over the country should make the most perfect preparations to meet the cholera in case it should reach this continent, as it is feared it will do before the present visitation ceases. The routes between Canada and the places where the cholera has now become epidemic are so direct, and the communication so rapid, that the dreadful scourge has the best of chances to enter the country and the strictest quarantine may not avail to keep the enemy out. The cholera is in Japan. A few days and the and the cholera might travel the wide stretch of the Pacific and reach Vancouver, and, with rail and steam the distance from there to the uttermost parts of the Dominion is only a matter of a day or two. Thus it seems to be hopeless to think of escaping a visit of the cholera, but we can be prepared to give the unwelcome guest so cool a reception that his visit will be brief and his attentions less cordial than if we were not so prepared. The most intimate and serviceable friend the cholera has is filth, and the most dreaded and fatal enemy, cleanliness. Not the filth that is always apparent on the surface, but the filth that lurks unseen in the secret places of our dwellings and streets. Cleanliness of person and place, temperate habits in eating and drinking—moderation in work and play, drink and food—the avoidance of stimulants, and an even tenour of life, will go far to make one's system an unwelcome place for cholera to tarry in. Death is a terror to all—the natural enemy of man—yet it has no terrors for the good man who has made his peace with his Maker and due preparation for the great change. So the man who has his home "swept and garnished," in the full sanitary meaning of these words, can meet an invasion of the cholera with, so far as fear for personal consequences are concerned, comparative equanimity.

IN this age one is not without examples of men making their religion a matter of profit—trading on their professions of sanctity and making money out of the operation. But one of the oddest uses of the Nicene Creed is that which, according to the Churchman, it is applied to by the women of ancient Nicea, where the Creed was in great part originally formulated. They recite it after putting eggs in a pot to boil as a measure of the time needed to cook them. It is said that they do this without any idea of irreverence.

ONTARIO Tory organs are urging the farmers to make haste and thresh their barley so that it may be exported to the United States before the McKinley bill is passed by Congress. This is strange advice to come from such a quarter. Have the farmers not been time and again assured, asks the Ottawa Free Press, that if the American market is closed against their barley they will make more money by sending it to England or feeding it to hogs? If the restrictionists organs believed in their own assertions, they would advise the farmers to hold their barley, instead of urging them to send it to the United States before the McKinley bill is passed.

THE number of pensioners in the United States last year was 489,725, and there have already been nearly 320,000 pension applications under the new disability law. It may be assumed that one-half of them at least will be granted, in which case the total number of pensioners will be increased to 650,000, that is to say, over one-hundreth of the whole population of the country will be in receipt of pecuniary assistance from the Government. Over $1,500,000,000 of public funds has been expended in this way since the beginning of the war, and the New York Times says that the future cost of the pension roll may safely be set at $150,000,000 a year. The cost of the war is only beginning to be felt.

IT is mentioned by the New York Sun that the United States are now second among civilized countries with respect to population, according to the following figures:—Russian Empire, 113,351,619; United States, 64,000,000; Germany, 46,852,450; Austria-Hungary, 40,484,808; France, 38,218,903; Great Britain and Ireland, 35,246,633; Italy, 28,460,000; Spain, 17,550,216. It must be borne in mind, however, that while the census of the United States has just been taken, the population of the other countries is given according to much less recent remunerations, some as old as 1881. Preparations are now being made for a new census of the British Islands.

THE Dominion Oddfellow thus concludes an article on the last issue on the work of the Grand Lodge meeting:—The Order starts out on the year 1890-91 with bright prospects. Its growth during the past few years has been greater than ever, and during 1890 it is gratifying to know that more members joined the Order, and fewer dropped out, than in any year during the last decade. It is in excellent working condition to-day. Its new Grand Master, Brother Ormiston, is an enthusiastic Oddfellow, of long experience and of marked ability. He only needs to be energetically aided by his district deputies and by the representative members of the Order to make Oddfellowship in Ontario, during his administration, more prosperous than it has ever been before.

IT turns out that the prolonged strike of the coal miners at Spring Hill, Nova Scotia, was finally ended through the intervention of the Hon. W. S. Fielding, the Liberal premier of the province. The Tory leaders take no interest in the grievances of the workingmen, except about election times, and so they allowed the poor miners to starve through fear of offending the bosses. But Mr. Fielding exerted his influence to procure for the workingmen the concessions they demanded, and they have gone back to work. So in Ontario, the Mowat Government has placed act after act on the statute book, in the interest of the working class while the Tory managers of the Dominion Government content themselves by bringing in bills every session and regularly strangling them before the session is over; or a commission is appointed which gives some Tory heelers fat jobs, and all the practical result is drawing cheques in favour of the favoured commissioners and pigeon holing their report, to be paraded at election times but not to form the basis of a single act of practical legislation.

A Contrast With His New York Brother From a London Point of View.

At present London is crowded with Americans. Many of them know London; many of them do not. Those who do not, may or may not have heard of the song which advises those who happen to be in doubt to ask a policeman. The average American—man or woman—who comes to London remember the policeman who flourishes on the other side of the Atlantic. Naturally any policeman recalls the home article. The recollection of him is not pleasant. He is stalwart of frame, loud of voice, coarse of manner, overbearing of demeanor, and ignorant of all he should know. He is well paid for performing his duty, but no sooner has he donned a uniform and been armed with a club than he concludes, as a rule, that the uniform gives him rights which none but those in authority over him have any right to dispute, and that his club is intended, not as a weapon of defence, but as something with which he should convince unoffending and inoffensive persons that a policeman is an ornament with which it is dangerous to interfere.

FOR CONTRAST.

Between this bluecoated brute and the London policeman there is so much contrast that it is difficult to give an adequate idea of the difference between them. To Americans, the London policeman, in comparison with the policeman of New York or of Paris or of any other city in the world, is an angel of the first water. Not only is he polite and thoughtful, but he is possessed of a fund of information that seems marvellous. Take him in a crowded thoroughfare, at Charing Cross, at the junction of Oxford and Regent streets or at any point where the traffic is congested. He stands like a statue of stone or bronze, except that he is very much alive to the interests of the thousands who want to pass a given point without being maimed for life or even without being even put to the inconvenience of losing a single arm or leg. Two hundred vehicles are rushing from four points of the compass toward him. At the same time five hundred pedestrians are making for the same point. He stands erect, and while not moving a muscle, apparently takes in the whole situation. He throws out his hands in a certain direction. Immediately one stream of traffic becomes dammed. He motions with his hands and the other stream pass on their way. The eyes of five hundred pedestrians are on him. He looks towards them and motions them to cross the whirlpool. Without a moments hesitation most of them do so. There may be a few timid or nervous women in the throng. They see the waiting line of carriages, of hansoms, of carts, and are afraid. He approaches and takes charge of the timid ones, at the same time telling them there is nothing to fear. It is of no consequence to him whether the timid ones are old or young, rich or poor; he treats them all alike, courteously.

A RARA AVIS.

He is a rara avis, the London policeman. He is an example to the policeman of all cities and of all countries. There is nothing that he can do that he will not do. He must have a temper, for no human being who displays so much thought for the feelings of others can be constructed without a temper. But he does not show it. He must often be tempted sorely, but by some means which ordinary men do not possess, or have forgotten how to make use of, he pushes temper into the background and remembers his uniform only, that he may be of assistance to those who do not wear it.

Yet his work is more trying than that of any policeman in the world. The better his record is the more dangerous is his work, and he has the poor consolation of knowing that if he be possessed of unusual intelligence and more than ordinary nerve his post will be in a quarter which will shatter his nerve, if it do not destroy his other good qualities, in, at the utmost a few years.

Still, in spite of the disadvantages under which he labors, perhaps particularly, at this time, he performs his duty in a manner against which his worst enemies cannot cavil, and he performs it with a smile on his face. He deserves all that he asks for, does the London policeman.—London Edition of the Herald.

Suddenly Prostrated.

GENTLEMEN,—I was suddenly prostrated while at work by a severe attack of cholera morbus. We sent at once for a doctor, but he seemed unable to help. An evacuation about every forty minutes was fast wearing me out, when we sent for a bottle of Wild Strawberry, which saved my life. Mrs. J. N. VAN NATTER, Mount Brydges, Ont. 2w351

Miss Helen B. Sinclair.

of Ninette, Man., writes that he has used Burdock Blood Bitters for loss of appetite and headache with the greatest benefit and heartily recommends it. Her experience is is shared by thousands. B.B.B. is a specific for headache. 2w351

A Daughter's Influence.

I had a very severe attack of bloody diarrhœa and was persuaded by my daughter to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, which I did with great success, as less than two bottles cured me. It is worth its weight in gold. Mrs. MARGARET WILLS, Pembroke, Ont. 2w351

There is more fun in a sheet of sticky fly paper than in the average negro minstrel. Watch the kitten playing with it on the new carpet: the latter is ruined for ever; the kitten goes into a fit and all the women and children rush out of the house in terror. If you want to rid your house of flies, buy Wilson's Fly Poison Pads, and use as directed. Nothing else will clear them out thoroughly. Sold at 10c. by all druggists. dw

Origin of Swearing.

The brother of the fairy Pari Banou was only thirty-two inches high. His beard was thirty-two feet long and extended horizontally in front of him as he walked. He invented swearing to express his feelings when poor biscuits were set on his table. His wife could always make biscuits to please him by using Imperial Cream Tartar Baking Powder. t h s-w

391 GEORGE STREET.

At Nantasket Beach.

Hand in hand they walked along
Beside the sunlit sea;
They heard the wavelet's summer song—
A wondrous melody.

"Oh! how I love you, love," he said,
"How dear you are to me!"
The maiden drooped her pretty head,
But not a word said she.

"Wilt thou be mine, my love?" said he,
While grasping her soft hand:
"Oh! don't make love just now," said she,
"My shoes are full of sand."

A COMPOSITE ROMANCE.

I

THE LETTER CARRIER'S STORY.

There is one family on my route that gives me more trouble than all of the others put together. Not that they ever complain of me or compel me to walk to the top of a five story building, but I can't make 'em out. I don't usually bother my head about the people for whom I deliver mail, there is something so singular about this one family, however, that I can't help taking particular notice of them.

They live in an elegant stone house on Kenyon avenue, and consist of a middle-aged gentleman, John Godfrey by name, his maiden sister and his daughter, a girl of seventeen.

Mr. Godfrey, who is a wealthy railroad man, has a hard, stern look, and his sister doesn't appear to be any too amiable, but the daughter has fairly won my old heart. She is as handsome as a picture and she always had a smile for me when she came to the door (the maiden aunt answers my ring now), and how her face would light up when I handed her a letter addressed in a round, manly hand to Miss Nena Godfrey, and postmarked C——.

At first, when she and the servants stopped coming to the door, I couldn't understand it, but I have arrived at the conclusion that the maiden aunt always takes the mail in order to prevent Miss Nena from getting her letters. During the time Miss Nena came herself I thought her a letter postmarked C—— nearly every day. Since then I have delivered only two for her, and the maiden aunt's face has worn such a satisfied look as she took them, that I am sure the letters are from some one man Miss Nena is in love with, and her father and aunt are trying to break off the match.

I met her on the street one day a short distance from the house, and she stopped as though to speak to me. She changed her mind, however, and passed on with a pleasant "Good morning," but I noticed that her lips quivered as she spoke. I think she wanted to ask me something about her letters. Poor girl! I wonder how it will end?

II.

THE MESSENGER BOY'S STORY.

Last night about o'clock I had to take a message up on Kenyon avenue. It was for Miss Nena Godfrey, an when I rung the bell a young lady came to the door. I axed her if there was an answer an she told me to come in so she would see. She then went into the parlor and tore open the message, an when she read it she turned as white as a sheet, an I thought she was goin to faint. Jes' then the lovesome inter the room an' he said to her, in a hi stern

"What is the matter? Who's the telegram from?"

She didn't answer an' he said, "Let me see it," but she turned quicker'n a flash an' threw it out of the grate where a fire was burnin', an it blazed up in a second.

He old gent started for her, lookin' awful mad. Jes' then he seed me an' he axed what was I waitin' for. I told him th answer. He said ther' wasn't no an' he'd see to it. I didn't wait for him to tell me twice. I'll bet, though, he talked mighty sharp to his daughter after I'd gone.

I see a good many funny things, carryin' round messages, but I never seed anything like that before.

III.

THE TELEGRAPH OPERATOR'S STORY.

Something rather out of the common happened at our office last evening. The following message was sent from C——:

Miss Nena Godfrey, 176 Kenyon Avenue:

Come at once if possible. Will be very low. DR. OTIS SUMNER.

The message was delivered to Miss Godfrey, and about o'clock the lady's father came into the office. The clerk having stepped out for a moment, I got up to wait on him.

Mr. Godfrey wanted to know if we had a copy of the telegram that came for his daughter that evening. I told him that I was acquainted with the contents. He then wanted to know if I would tell him what was in it. He said that he was not at home when the message came, that his daughter had gone out and had left the message for him, but that the servants had mislaid it.

As Mr. Godfrey is a well-known citizen I complied with his request. The contents of the telegram had an entirely different effect upon him from what I expected. Instead of being surprised or shocked, it seemed to make him very angry. He recovered himself quickly, however, and with a curt "Much obliged" he walked out. I wonder who Will is?

IV.

THE CONDUCTOR'S STORY.

There was one incident connected with the accident on my train last night that I did not give to the reporters.
